New Tax Rates: Homes $10.72 Business $24.02

Presidents City Motel and the Winfield Gift

Emporium, said that continued high C.I.P.P. classification will be

"disaster to small business. Jobs will be lost and we will lose the competitive edge. I've been living a nightmare for two years." Strout said he has had to layoff 20% of his employees.

Councillor-at-Large Tim Cahill, the only councillor to oppose the tax hike, echoed the sentiments of the business owners at the public hearing.

"You are not pro business if you want to raise taxes. It's as simple as that," Cahill said.

"Businesses are leaving Quincy because they can't pay their taxes. It's embarrassing for them. These are hard working people. "The council, the past three years, has said it wants to help business and improve the downtown, but it has raised taxes," Cahill said.

Cahill also said it is unfair to provide tax incentives to lure new business to Quincy but not to give the same incentives to established businesses.

Sheets, who has made the revitalization of downtown Quincy a priority during his first term, said the C.I.P.P. classification will not deter businesses from locating in Quincy.

He noted major developments such as Presidents Place and Crown Colony.

"Even though the tax classification has been high, businesses still see Quincy as a place to locate," Sheets said. "We will continue to promote business in the downtown."

Chretien reminded business owners that the city spent $1 million on downtown improvements last year.

"We are investing in the kinds of things which will attract people to shop downtown," Chretien said. "You have to look at the long term." Maureen Rogers, of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, told the council that other nearby towns have a better tax rate and that Quincy won't be able to compete for new development, particularly when the "Big Dig" Central Artery Project begins.

"With the downtown struggling to stay afloat the city is throwing business a stone life preserver," Rogers said.

Mark Bertman of Rogers Jewelry said higher taxes will ultimately result in higher prices.

"We can't attract business by raising prices," Bertman said.

"We recently watched the Bank of Boston close its downtown office and Bay Banks will be closing its downtown branch soon and other businesses are leaving. Bay Banks is not closing branches in other towns," Bertman said.

"It may appear politically safe to shift the burden to C.I.P.P. but there will be a backlash," Bertman told the council.

Another downtown business, Eileen's Special Sizes, also closed last week.

"I wonder if the council really understands the costs small businesses face. It's a real burden on us," said Bob Curry, owner of Curry Hardware in West Quincy.

"The emphasis should be not on the tax rate but on the tax bills," Chretien said. "Last year amounted to a tax cut for many businesses...but I don't remember anyone calling us (the council) pro business then."

Fantucchio said anyone with questions about their tax bills should contact the Assessors office at City Hall.

Applications for exemptions are due July 1 but should be filed as soon as possible, Fantucchio said.

Applications for abatements due to over-valuation are due by May 1.

Underground Cable Causes Power Outage

A failed underground cable caused a small power outage in Quincy Square

Monday afternoon with 112 Massachusetts Electric Company customers losing service.

According to Mass Electric Spokesperson Mary Ellen Ham, the underground cable failure occurred at 4:20 p.m. Monday under Hancock St. Customers in several buildings in Quincy Square, including the Adams, Burgin and Platner and the old Quincy Savings Bank buildings, were affected.

The cause of the failed cable was not known. Ham said it could have been caused by moisture.

"It's a pretty routine cause for an outage if there is an outage," she said.

The outage lasted nearly two hours for most of the customers.

Power was restored for 23 customers at 5:01 p.m. and service for another 23 customers was restored at 5:55 p.m., Ham said. Power was restored for the remaining 66 customers at 6:18 p.m., she said.

New Education Group To Meet March 25

The Quincy Foundation for Educational Excellence, a newly-formed non-profit citizens group, will meet Monday, March 25 at 7:30 p.m. in the community room of Stop and Shop, Newport Ave.

All interested citizens are welcome to attend.

The group's purpose is to enhance the quality of public education in Quincy.

For Outstanding Community Service

Gerald Gherardi Honored As Sun 'Citizen Of The Year'

Gerald (Jerry) Gherardi, 78, of Quincy, a long-time humanitarian who has contributed to innumerable charities and service organizations for more than a half century, was honored Sunday as the 1990 Quincy Sun "Citizen of the Year."

The sixth annual award was presented at the Quincy Sons of Italy Social Center. The reception was attended by nearly 100 persons, including family members, city officials and friends.

Established in 1985, the Sun

Citizen of the Year Award honors an individual for outstanding community service or for a special achievement.

Senator Paul Harold was emcee. Speakers were Mayor James Sheets who brought greetings from the city and Sun Publisher Henry Bosworth.

Bosworth presented Gherardi, who remains active in several local human services since retiring as a Quincy school guidance counselor in 1982, with a clock plaque for his outstanding community service.

"He has given freely to humanitarian causes for over a half century," Bosworth said, reading the inscription on the plaque.

Bosworth also told Gherardi the clock symbolizes the time he has given to the community.

A companion presentation, a framed copy of a special Quincy Sun Page One detailing Gherardi's selection as Citizen of the Year was made to him by Sun Editor Robert Bosworth. Extra copies were distributed to Council May Vote April 1 Firefighters Union Opposes Quint Truck

By STEVE KAVANAGH

To buy or not to buy.

The proposed -- and controversial Quint fire truck is part of a $605,000 bond issue which will likely be voted on at the City Council Finance Committee and regular meeting April 1.

The cost of the Quint is $385,000. Mayor James Sheets, Fire Chief Thomas Gorman and some members of the City Council, including Ward 1 Councilor Peter Kolson, are pushing for the Quint.

The Firefighters union, Local 792, and other city councilors, including Councilor at - large Michael Cheney, a Ward 1 resident, are taking a stand against the purchase of the multi-purpose truck.

The council's Public Safety Committee discussed the truck last week and got an opportunity to see a Quint Monday. A Pennsylvania manufacturer stopped in Quincy during a promotional tour giving city officials and firefighters a chance to inspect the truck.

Gorman wants the Quint, a 35-foot, multi-purpose truck which combines the features of an engine and ladder truck, for the Houghs Neck station.

Gorman said the Quints' smaller size and better maneuverability make it ideal for the many narrow streets in Houghs Neck, Germantown and parts of Merrymount.

Because Gorman's staff has been reduced by budget cuts he said the Quint would allow him more flexibility with the manpower he has and provide better fire protection to residents.

Kolson said if the Quint is purchased he would like to see the engine presently at Houghs Neck moved to the Germantown Station to replace an older truck there.

Firefighter union officials expressed concern Monday that the purchase of additional Quint trucks in the future would eliminate jobs.

"Equipment doesn't fight fires, firefighters do," said Bill Arienti, vice president of Local 792.

"The Quint can only run as one unit (a ladder or an engine - not both) with the manpower proposed to be assigned to it. If it is not

Downtown Redevelopment Plan Due In April

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Mayor James Sheets' blueprint to redevelop Downtown Quincy should become clearer after his "Quincy Plan" is released in the next three to four weeks.

On Tuesday, Sheets said his administration has a "framework" for the plan. After meeting with more business, financial and union leaders the next two weeks, the mayor said details of the plan, along with several recommendations for the revitalization, will be released.

"We have a framework. The key now is to get the business community enthusiastic. Their destiny will be in their own hands

297 Listed On State Unclaimed Money List

Some 297 individuals and businesses in The Quincy Sun circulation area are listed on the state Department of the Treasury's Unclaimed Money List.

35,000 people and businesses are due more than $50 million from abandoned accounts.

Under the state's Unclaimed Money Law, bank accounts, insurance proceeds, payroll checks, stock certificates and the like which have been inactive for at least five years are deemed to be abandoned. All such accounts must be reported to the treasury, which then attempts to notify the rightful owners or their legal heirs.

Treasurer Joseph Malone noted that under the law, all funds are kept in the state's general fund where they are invested for the benefit of all residents and taxpayers in Massachusetts.

Firefighters Union Opposes Quint Truck

manned with six men it's defeating its own purpose," said Local 792 president Bob Perry. Gorman has said the Quint would be staffed with an officer and three men.

"It ends up that half as many guys are doing twice the work," said union secretary Bill LaRaia. "This could lead to situations where firefighters lives could be more easily endangered," he said.

Local 792 treasurer Bob Pettinelli questioned whether the Quint was as valuable as standard engine and ladder trucks.

Sheets has been consistent in his position that the trucks will not be used to replace manpower.

"The Quint would not lead to a reduction in staff. It will allow us, in difficult fiscal times such as these, to keep fire stations open and attain a higher level of fire service.

"It has nothing to do with the reduction in manpower, now or two years from now. This mayor has no intention of using a new piece of equipment as a mechanism to reduce the number of firefighters," Sheets said.

Gorman said last week that his staff is currently at "bare bones" levels.

"We are now at the point (with manpower) that we can't go any lower without endangering citizen's lives and the lives of firefighters," Gorman said.

Sheets said he sees the Quint as a way to boost the department's capabilities at a time when more firefighters cannot be hired because of budget restraints.

Unlike equipment, personnel cannot be bonded.

The mayor said that if the budget situation improves, one of his priorities will be to add more police and firefighters.

"If, at some point, additional monies come in, one of my objectives would be to bring fire and police personnel back. Of course, there would be other demands on that money and I can't make promises, but it is a priority to bring back as many police officers and firefighters as we can," Sheets said.

Kolson is a big booster of the truck. He said he thinks it is ideal for Ward 1.

"The Quint is the best equipment for my ward. If we wait before buying it, it may cost more. The market is good right now, we should strike while the iron is hot," Kolson said.

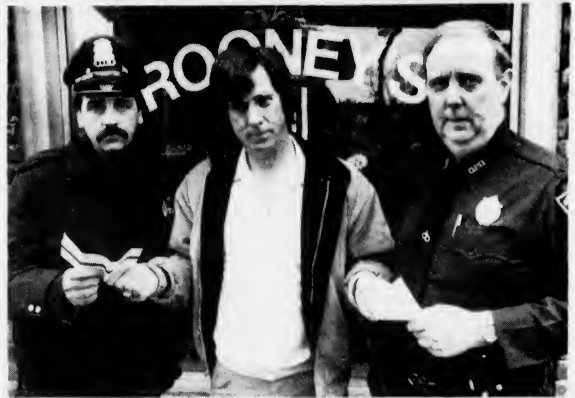

Kolson donned firefighting gear and climbed to the top of the 75-foot ladder. Kolson said he enjoyed the experience, "But I'm sure it's a helluva lot different when there is a fire on the other end (of the ladder)," he said.

"The Quint is used in other parts of the country in peninsula areas. I think it is the best application for the area (Ward 1)," Kolson said.

Cheney said he is concerned that other firefighters will ultimately be laid off to pay for the new truck.

"It's a nice piece of equipment, but we don't need it. We need manpower," Cheney said.

"People should realize the fire department is seriously understaffed and this purchase would put the city further in debt," he added.

Yakoo A Symbol Of Pride, Excellence

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

It seems to me that all the controversy over Mr. Yakoo is much ado about nothing.

Had the issue of prejudice or discrimination been raised by, say, a group of native American students at North Quincy High, then we would be dealing with a different situation. However, it seems that a select few from outside the school, for whatever their reasons, has manufactured this problem.

The students of North are fine young men and women who take great pride in their school. Those students in leadership positions have shown admirable sensitivity with regard to this issue. Rather than being discriminatory, Mr. Yakoo is a symbol of pride and excellence; a symbol that means so much to the kids of North Quincy High.

Kids need to take pride in their school and, more importantly, in themselves. With so many problems out there that need to be addressed, and so many demands being put upon our schools, it seems to me that the controversy over Mr. Yakoo is a sign, not of prejudice, but that some have nothing better to do.

IS EXERCISE THE ANSWER?

Although regular exercise may decrease the likelihood of acquiring coronary disease, by helping with weight loss or relieving stress, it is not a panacea. Many athletes have too many risk factors to overcome or they develop irreversible atherosclerosis long before beginning an ambitious conditioning program. Worse yet, some individuals feel invincible and ignore warning signs - chest pain, dizziness, shortness of breath, palpitations, etc. Before beginning a new exercise program, athletes of all ages should see their doctor. Most young persons require only an examination. The incidence of heart disease capable of causing sudden death in person under 30 is so low (0.1 percent) that further diagnostic studies are not considered routine. Individuals at risk because of symptoms, age (over 30-35) and family history are candidates for additional testing.

P.S. Exercise should be pleasant and not overly strenuous.

Preventive health care should consist of an exercise regimen you can maintain with comfort and without undue strain as a regular part of your daily life. Sleep well, eat well, and try to eliminate as much stress as you can, and be sure to have regular check-ups. For more information, call COMPREHENSIVE CARDIAC CARE at 472-2550. A GOP Sparkplug

The Quincy Republican City Committee has a new chairman: Susan Gallagher.

And, if enthusiasm still means anything, Quincy Republicans may have found themselves a sparkplug to give them some needed political get-up-and-go.

Gallagher is undaunted by the fact that Quincy is real Democratic country with the GOP low man on the political totem pole.

At the last official count, Quincy had 28,083 Democrats to just 6,995 Republicans and 14,408 Independents. So, Democrats outnumber Independents and Republicans combined.

But that doesn't discourage Gallagher.

She has a few goals:

Increase Republican enrollment and committee membership by encouraging the young to join and to convert Democrats and Independents.

Actually that has already been happening.

"Most of the active Republican members now are former Democrats or young people from Democratic families," she says.

The GOP City Committee has about 120 members - about 40 of them consistently active attending meetings and other party events.

Gallagher is encouraged by the enthusiasm of the Young Republicans Club among them, Brian Glennon, III, former president and Wayne Weikel, an 11th grader at North Quincy High and present president.

She expects to see Glennon, now in college, a candidate in a year or two.

"He has a lot to offer," she says.

And believe it or not, the Young Republicans are trying to get young Democrats to organize their own group.

"They feel," says Gallagher, "that young people should be more politically active regardless of party affiliation."

Gallagher has a prediction.

"We are going to see a number of well prepared Republican candidates in the near future. And with money for their campaigns."

That's another of her goals: to prepare young candidates to run, rather than having them just pop into an election without help or guidance.

The GOP Committee, she says, will conduct fund raisers to help finance those campaigns.

"I want to make the Quincy Committee the best in the state," she says. "There are a lot of people who want to be active and we will give them the chance to be."

"The Republican party has a lot of promise. We need to have two parties to keep the elective process alive and to have a balance of power."

But she would like to see Republicans active not only politically but in community and neighborhood organizations.

"We should be actively involved in the community," she says.

Will Gallagher, who made respectable runs for city council at-large and for state representative in 1990 run again in the near future?

"I'm not sure," she says. "I will have to wait and see." She has some bad memories of her campaign for state representative.

Like the night of her, and her husband Bill's sixth wedding anniversary a rock came crashing through their living room window.

And the night lighting was stripped from the side of the house.

And the night one of her political signs was shoved through a window.

And the night that a pumpkin was thrown through the window of her neighbor's car parked in front of the Gallagher home.

"Somebody apparently thought it was my car," Gallagher says.

"This is America," she says, "and everyone should have the right to run for elective office without fear of being harmed."

She may be a candidate again.

But right now her main interest is to make the Quincy Republican City Committee "the best in the state."

LOOKS LIKE THERE will be a fresh new face on this year's city political scene.

Linda Stice of Phillips St., Wollaston says she is "very seriously considering" a run for School Committee.

"I am passionate about public education," she says. "I have great respect for it and tremendous admiration for teachers."

And if she runs - as she apparently will - it would not be to use the School Committee as a political stepping stone.

"I'm not interested in the city council or state representative," she stresses.

Mother of two young children, she is active in the community: treasurer of the Wollaston School PTO, a member of the Board of Directors of the Quincy Teen Mothers Program and Cerebral Palsy South Shore Area, and a member of the Recycling Committee and Hazardous Waste Committee.

FORMER BETHANY CHURCH minister Rev. J. William Arnold sends a note to say he misses Quincy and Bethany but is thoroughly enjoying his retirement in Gloucester. He and his wife Joan have purchased a house about three blocks from the harbor and the "Fisherman" statue.

He is "puttering around" the house, reading books on the Civil War and doing occasional weekend ministry.

He says he may soon fill in as a part-time interim minister in a nearby church while members search for a permanent pastor.

And he couldn't resist: "You have probably seen the coffee mugs which say: 'Old Ministers never die, they just go out to pastor.'" and that's the way it should be," the mayor said.

Sheets said a model of the plan has been made. The main aspect of the plan will be two partnerships. One partnership will work on planning and administration and the other will focus on finances.

According to the mayor, the planning and administration partnership would be responsible for planning downtown projects, recommending the rehabilitation of existing retail parcels and promoting the area.

The P and A partnership would also review recommendations made by the Sheets administration.

As an example, Sheets said the partnership might recommend the construction of a civic center or a hotel. "They would look at the downtown and based on our recommendations from us, they might put together a master plan."

About 30 to 40 business people would serve on the planning and administration partnership. That organization would be non-profit, Sheets said.

The financial partnership would take the role of a for profit corporation, the mayor noted. The corporation would issue stock created by a legislative act.

The organization would provide funding for projects recommended by the planning and administration partnership. Sheets said mostly major banks and financial institutions would be part of the corporation but added Quincy residents could buy stock and invest in Quincy Square.

It is not clear whether stockholders would receive dividends.

The financial partnership would allow banks and other financial institutions to capitalize a project by buying stock. The project would then pay back principle and interest and in turn, money would be recirculated, the mayor explained.

By recirculating the revenue, Sheets said money would be made available for additional projects, such as the construction of new buildings or the start up of new businesses.

Sheets estimated the partnership would need an initial $1 million to get the redevelopment ball rolling. Asked whether the money would be raised, the mayor said, "I think it's doable."

He added the partnerships are in the "conceptual" stage and changes could be made before the actual plan is released.

"We have to talk to the people who would be involved and out of that we might make some changes."

Whatever the makeup, the mayor said the business community will be the driving force of the redevelopment effort.

Quincy's Yesterdays

Bonus System Blamed For Accidents At Yard

J.W. Brown, president of a shipbuilding union, blamed a series of accidents aboard the $21 million cruiser USS Quincy on the bonus system of payment to workers used at the Fore River Shipyard.

He told S.W. Wakeman, vice president of the Bethlehem Steel Co. in a letter that the use of the bonus system as an incentive resulted in indifferent work due to the rush for production.

Brown suggested that Fore River abolish the company union and the bonus system and recognize the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers and set decent hourly wage scales at the yard.

He hinted that the Navy might not accept the USS Quincy due to shoddy work.

NEW POLICE CHIEF SOUGHT

Mayor Thomas S. Burgin announced he would pick a successor to resigned Police Chief Ernest H. Bishop from among the top three captains and lieutenants on the Civil Service list.

"I will not feel obliged to take the top man on the list but will give each of the three eligible top men the same chance to get the appointment," he said.

Burgin said he will ask Civil Service to set up an exam as soon as the City Council accepts Bishop's resignation by authorizing the city to pay him a half-pay pension of $1,800.

LADIES' NIGHT FOR WRESTLERS

Guy Faiella, the new matchmaker at the Quincy arena, said he was making plans to hold a series of Ladies' Nights at his wrestling shows when women with escorts will be admitted free.

"The feminine sex are great wrestling fans and I honestly believe a wrestling show without them is rather dull," said Faiella, who formerly was matchmaker at arenas in Boston and Malden.

"To those who have never witnessed a wrestling show, let me say this: There is nothing objectionable at our show. Even the most refined and sensitive person will enjoy an evening of wrestling."

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

D. Scott Deware

Easter, with its promise of life everlasting, dawn on Sunday and the Christian world needs that promise today perhaps more than it has ever needed it.

We need so much the love God gave. We need it in our homes, our communities in our nation and throughout the world.

Of all the festivals in the Christian calendar, none has a deeper meaning than Easter. Here we learn the true meaning of that faith, that life is eternal; that from a seemingly dead winter slumber, life is renewed. We are aware that this is a new season, one revived from the drabness of winter. Nature herself is the example we are given. The sun shines more, plants begin to peek through the brown of the earth. Trees, which stood starkly bare for months, begin to live again.

This is Easter. This is the sun which comes after the most sorrowing hours of death. This is our hope. In our daily lives, Christianity and its promises are the strengths which hold us in time of sadness; which we recognize as gifts during joy and which sustain us in every effort.

For the Christian, Easter comes as a continuation of God's great promise ...

Our Home Equity Line of Credit is more about saving than spending.

Save on monthly loan payments.

With a Bank of New England Home Equity Line of Credit, you can pay off current auto loan, department store and credit card balances now, and save. Because you'll reduce your monthly credit obligations to a single payment, and could cut your finance charges almost in half.

Save on taxes.

Federal tax laws have completely eliminated deductions on credit card, auto loan and other unsecured loan interest. The Home Equity Line of Credit, however, is the exception to the rule—with interest still 100% deductible in most cases.

Save on major expenses.

The low interest and tax savings that make our

Home Equity Line of Credit a cost-effective way to pay off your debts also make it a smart way to borrow for such expenses as college tuition and home improvement.

Save on closing costs.

At other banks, you'd probably pay closing costs on a new Home Equity Line of Credit. At Bank of New England, we'll save you at least $200 by waiving those costs if you apply by June 30, 1991.

Stop by any Bank of New England office, or call toll-free for more information or an application for a Home Equity Line of Credit today. And start saving.

Gerald Gherardi Honored As Q

Quincy Sun 'Citizen Of The Year'

those in attendance.

Gherardi also received words of praise from Sheets. As a school guidance counselor, the mayor said Gherardi "made a tremendous contribution to the educational system in the city of Quincy."

"In these very difficult fiscal times when we have to cut budgets and diminish programs, one of the reasons the Quincy Public School System in my opinion will remain sound is because it was built on a very solid foundation and Jerry is one of those people who help build that foundation."

Among those attending the reception were three previous winners: Tony Siciliano, deputy director of Quincy Civil Defense, the first recipient in 1985; Martin Finnegan (1988), Quincy school athletic director and coordinator of Project Impact, a program designed to help youngsters deal with drug, alcohol and other problems; and Clara Yeomans (1989) a longtime environmentalist and charter member of the Quincy Conservation Commission.

Ruth Wainwright, the 1986 Quincy Sun Citizen of the Year, and Thomas Koch, representing his father, the late Richard J. Koch who received the award posthumously in 1987, were unable to attend.

Gherardi was selected from 41 nominations submitted by Quincy Sun readers. The final selection was made by a panel of nine judges.

They are: Eugene Creedon, assistant superintendent of programs and instructions for Quincy public schools; John DeCarli, past president of the Quincy Sons of Italy Lodge; Fr. William McCarthy, pastor of St. John the Baptist Church; Phyllis Rudnick, president of the Quincy and South Shore Board of Realtors; Charles Ryder, president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association; Charles Simpson, president of Quincy Savings Bank; Clara Yeomans, environmentalist and immediate past recipient of the award; and Ellen Zane, director of Quincy Hospital.

In accepting the award, Gherardi thanked The Quincy Sun for "this great honor."

"It is very exciting and I appreciate the committee for its vote," he said.

Gherardi also thanked his immediate family, relatives and friends for their love and support over the years.

"It is indeed a special joy for me to be surrounded here by three tables of people who got me here. They are the ones who because of what they are as people are responsible for having me here with you."

The recipient said family discipline was a major factor in developing his values. He said he learned that "you worked hard, that your word was your bond, that you earned what you got, and you had respect for authority."

"That's the reason I'm here today," he added.

Gherardi also remembered three dear departed friends, Marie Bruton, Leon Badner and former Mayor James McIntyre.

He knew Bruton, a former elementary school teacher, from first grade at the John Hancock Elementary School to her death in 1986. "She was not only my teacher, but was my confidante, my dear friend for over 68 years."

Gherardi and Badner became close friends in 1945 in Freilassing, Germany. For two years, they worked at a Jewish transient camp in Aining near the Austrian border.

Under Gherardi's directorship, more than 30,000 Jews passed through the camp and Leon served as his liaison officer in this covert, clandestine operation.

"We went through some real tough times together from 1945 to 1947 and he was responsible for me being able to get back home."

Referring to McIntyre, Gherardi said he had "the good fortune of walking in his shadow all of his political life.

"I'm very proud of that because he meant a great deal to me," said Gherardi who was appointed chairman of the Quincy Council on Aging by McIntyre in the 1960s.

Gherardi, who volunteered his services to many local organizations from 1935 to 1982, still contributes to several human service groups.

During the 1950s and 1960s, he chaired the American Red Cross Disaster Relief programs, recruiting people to help their fellow citizens in times of emergencies.

Also during that period, he was elected one of the first presidents of Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore.

Gherardi was responsible for raising much of the money needed to fund therapies, education, social workers and counselling services for children and adults with cerebral palsy throughout the South Shore.

He and his good friend, Arthur Ciampa, set up many fundraising committees for CP of the South Shore.

In 1960, Gherardi led another fundraising effort. As residential chairman of the United Fund, he helped the charity raise $348,189.

The United Fund supplied revenue for many non-governmental services, including Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, YMCA and United Cerebral Palsy.

In the 1950s, he served as building chairman of the Atlantic Middle School. The new facility was constructed near the end of the decade.

Since his retirement nine years ago, Gherardi continues to be active and involved in the community.

One of his favorite activities is serving as chairman and secretary of the Quincy High School Classes of 1930 scholarship fund committee.

During the last 10 years, an estimated $10,000 has been distributed to 30 Quincy residents.

Just A Few Of The Latest Things Now Being Delivered At Quincy Hospital.

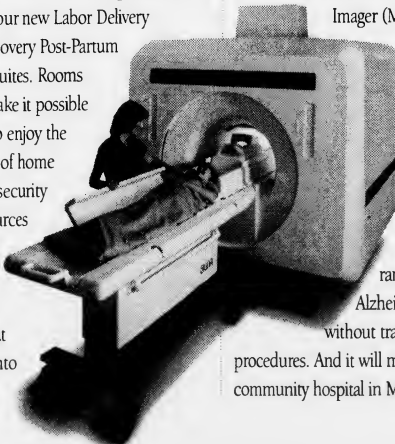

These days, healthy little tykes aren't the only things being delivered at Quincy Hospital.

Take, for instance, the furniture and equipment now being delivered to our new Labor Delivery

Recovery Post-Partum (LDRP) suites. Rooms which make it possible for you to enjoy the comforts of home with the security and resources of a hospital. Partner's chairs that convert into sleepers, special birthing beds, even homestyle oak cabinets covering your basic medical supplies, are all being delivered to make your delivery as stress-free and as "unhospital-like" as possible. And that's just on the second floor.

Coming to the first floor this summer, you'll find the newest in diagnostic technology, a Magnetic Resonance Imager (MRI). This equipment, far more advanced than an x-ray or CAT scan, gives doctors an in-depth look at conditions ranging from Alzheimer's to arthritis without traditional invasive procedures. And it will make us the only community hospital in Massachusetts with a permanent, full-time MRI on campus.

Throughout the new Quincy Hospital, you'll see the changes. New equipment, new facilities, even new menus. It's a new vision of a community hospital the entire community can be proud of.

To see for yourself, or to tour our LDRP suites, just call 773-6100, ext. 4016.

So next time you need to go to a hospital, consider Quincy Hospital. You'll see what's really being delivered here is great healthcare.

Maundy Thursday, Good Friday, Easter Services At Bethany

Holy Week services continue at Bethany Congregational Church, Spear and Coddington Sts., with a Maundy Thursday service of Communion and Tennebrae at 7:30 p.m.

The meditation will be given by the Rev. Luther Durgin, interim minister, who will be assisted by the Rev. Elizabeth Upton, interim associate minister.

Members of the Board of Deacons will assist in the service of Tennebrae. Gregory Flynn, organist and choir director, will direct the Chancel Choir. Soprano soloist Brenda Bonoli will sing.

Quincy Point Congregational Church and Bethany will join for two services on Good Friday. The first service will be held at noon at Bethany. The Rev. Fred Atwood-Lyon, pastor of Quincy Point Congregational, will give the meditation. Music will feature Winslow Bettinson, tenor soloist, and Eileen Timcoe, organist.

A similar service will be held at Quincy Point Congregational at 7:30 p.m. The Chancel Choir of the Quincy Point church will sing and Flynn will accompany on organ.

An Easter Sunday service will be held at 7 a.m. at Wollaston Beach adjacent to the yacht clubs. The meditation will be by Rev. Upton.

In the event of rain the service will be held at Union Congregational Church, 136 Rawson Road. Participating churches include Bethany Congregational, First Church of Squantum, Memorial Congregational of North Quincy, Union Congregational and Quincy Point Congregational.

A Celebration of the Resurrection will be held at Bethany Congregational Church at 10 a.m. Easter Sunday. The Rev. Durgin's sermon will be "What Is Our Easter Faith?" Scripture Reader will be Barbara Ferreira. Greeters will be James and Jean Ross.

Special Easter music will be by clarinetist, Edmund Aluisy; trumpeters Keith Kostick and Walter Platt; a Children's Choir directed by Marsha Archer; the Chancel Choir directed by organist Flynn; and soprano soloist Bonoli.

Ecumenical Good Friday Service At United Methodist

An Ecumenical Good Friday Service will be held Friday from noon to 3 p.m. at the Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., Wollaston.

The service on "The Seven Last Words of the Christ" is sponsored by the Interchurch Council of Wollaston and North Quincy. Clergy from eight local parishes will participate.

Rev. Harry Soper Jr., pastor of the host church, will serve as the liturgist. Other featured clergy are:

•Fr. Joseph Fagan, Sacred Heart Church, "Father Forgive Them," noon to 12:30 p.m.

•Rev. Diane Durgin, Atlantic Memorial Congregational Church, "Today You Will Be With Me In Paradise," 12:30 to 12:55 p.m.

•Rev. A. H. Wismar, Wollaston Lutheran Church, "Women Behold Your Son, Behold Your Mother," 12:55 to 1:20 p.m.

•Rev. Elden Zuern, Wollaston Congregational Church, "My God, My god, Why Hast Thou Forsaken Me?" 1:20 to 1:45 p.m.

•Rev. Richard Murphy, St. Chrysostom's Episcopal Church, "I Thirst," 1:45 to 2:10 p.m.

•Rev. Carolyn Seifert, Wollaston Church of the Nazarene, "It Is Finished," 2:10 to 2:35 p.m.

•Rev. Richard Malmquist, First Baptist Church of Wollaston, "Father Into Thy Hands I Commit My Spirit," 2:35 to 3 p.m.

Special music is planned for the service which has been a tradition for more than 50 years.

Holy Week will soon be here but before that beautiful Week and the Season of Lent have come and gone, we want you to know how pleased we are with your personal response to the call of Jesus...to the command of the Church to do penance over these past few weeks. Your example is always an inspiration to us and a source of encouragement to us in our work among you.

Please, keep your copy of our parish Holy Week/Easter Services Schedule in a convenient spot in your home. We hope it will serve as a reminder to you to join us in reliving the events so closely associated with our redemption. Please, make up your mind to be with us...your parish family, to thank Jesus for laying down His life for us...so that we might have eternal life.

With these few words, we send along to you and your loved ones, a wish for all the blessings and happiness of the Easter and may the peace of Christ be with you always.

Devotedly yours in the Risen Christ,

FR. DANIEL GRAHAM
FR. KEVIN SEPE

North Has Big Shoes To Fill

By TOM SULLIVAN
If the North Quincy baseball team hopes to qualify for the Eastern Mass. Tournament for the third year in a row, it will have to depend heavily on graduates of last year's junior varsity and freshmen teams.

Two years ago coach Leo Donovan's Red Raiders won their last nine games to not only qualify but to win the Suburban League championship.

Last season North again qualified but failed to win its second straight league title as it suffered its only two league losses at the hands of Brockton's champions. The Raiders were 13-6 (9-2 in the league).

Donovan lost most of last year's players, including his top three pitchers, Erik DeBoer, who had a fantastic season for North and Morrisette Legion and now is pitching for the University of Connecticut; Gary Rawden and Billy Warren.

Leading the pitchers is southpaw Scott Dunn, who backed up the three top hurlers last year.

Sophomore Sean Donovan, son of the coach, is an excellent prospect. He had a fine year for the jayvees last season and, in his only varsity start, pitched a five hitter against Quincy. Sophomores Mike Patch, who will also play second base, and Dave Reinhardt are other pitching hopefuls.

In addition to losing his top three pitchers, Donovan also lost catcher Jeff Calvert, second baseman Dave Gamsby, shortstop Tony Anderlionis, one of the best in the league; third baseman Jim Bryan and outfielder Jimmy Glynn.

If interest means anything, North should be all right as Donovan was greeted by a tremendous turnout of 90, including 31 freshmen.

"We have the quantity, but everything is up in the air and it remains to be seen how the quality will be," said the coach.

Junior Mark Kelleher, backup to Calvert a year ago, and junior Serge Belcastro will do the catching.

Junior Mark Walsh and seniors Ed Rizzatoni and Tom Benner will share second base duties and junior Chris Peck, senior Doug MacLean, who saw varsity action last year,

"All the outfielders will be those who are not pitching or playing infield spots," said Donovan.

This is North's first year in the Old Colony League and Donovan expects the league to be strong.

"There are no weak sisters in this league and it will depend upon how our many underclassmen develop on how we will do," he said.

In addition to 16 league games, North will face Brockton again in home-and-away games and will also play home and away with South Boston.

The Raiders will play their first four games at home at Adams Field. They are scheduled to open next Thursday, April 4 against Plymouth, will host Falmouth Monday, April 8, Quincy April 10 and Brockton April 12. All games start at 3:30 p.m.

At the recent second annual Quincy High Hockey Hall of Fame induction ceremonies, four members of the 1937-38 team were among the more than 200 who attended the ceremonies at the Broad Cove in Hingham.

Bill Maver and John Parziale among 13 new inductees. George Peachy and Russ Erickson were inducted last year. Peachy, Maver and Parziale played on the same line.

The other inductees were Bob King, 1932; Bobby Howell, 1942; Bob McCabe, 1958; Hyman Wong, 1950; Bob Ahola, 1969; Ken Marini, 1960; Mark Giordani, 1978; Art Boyle, 1972; Jim Campbell, 1980; Robbie Craig, 1980; and Dick Vacca, 1964.

Quincy athletic coordinator Martin Finnegan was the master of ceremonies.

A special award was presented to Bob Sylvia, who recently completed his 27th year as Quincy coach. Other special awards went to Phil Zona, Wilho (Jake) Ahola, Ambrose Milford and John Crowley.

A special scholarship fund has been started honoring Bill Hutchinson, who coached Quincy hockey for 10 years. The scholarship will go to a Quincy hockey player who is a good player-scholar.

Hutchinson, now a resident of Cape Cod, arrived to a standing ovation and he inducted those who played for him during his 10 years as coach. Hutchinson also spoke briefly.

A large trophy, given in memory of Kevin Lewis' late wife, was presented to principal Lloyd Hill with the names of all members of the Hall of Fame with room for the names of future inductees. The trophy is on display in the Quincy President's Pride Room.

Lewis, a member of the Quincy Hall of Fame, formerly coached the North Quincy hockey team.

Quincy Young But Experienced

Two years ago the Quincy baseball team won only one game. Last year, with one of the youngest teams in the Suburban League, the Presidents won seven.

This season, as it prepares for its first year in the Old Colony League, Quincy has most of last spring's players back, giving it lots of experience.

"We have the veterans, but we are still young with only three seniors," said coach Bob Sylvia. "We had a fine turnout of 65, including 29 freshmen, so the interest is there. But we are in a tough league and will have to hustle all the way."

Sylvia feels his strongest point is the double play combination of junior shortstop Pat Gallagher and sophomore second baseman Robbie Kane.

"They played together all of last year and did a fine job," Sylvia said. "They give us a lot of strength up the middle."

Quincy's co-captains are senior catcher Tom Balzano, one of the best around, and senior pitcher-infielder-outfielder Chad McMahon.

The only other senior on the squad is outfielder John Fahey.

Junior Mike Malvesti, Duane Holmes and newcomer Jamie Schatzl are battling it out for the first base job.

Steve McMahon has the inside track on the third base spot and junior Steve Loud backs him up. Both saw action on the mound last year and will also pitch.

Freshman John Gangi is the backup for Balzano behind the plate.

Outfield hopefuls are junior Joe Crespi, junior Noel DiBona and Fahey. Malvesti and McMahon will also see action in the outfield.

McMahon is the top pitcher and Loud and Malvesti also showed promise last year. Holmes, sophomore Anthony Spadorcia and Crespi also will pitch.

"I am mentioning this group because, with the exception of Schatzl and Gangi, all played last year and should end up somewhere," said Sylvia. "But, there are several other good looking players and if you talked to me a week or so later, there could be some changes. We have been out for only a few days and have had no scrimmages. After seeing more of the newcomers, there could be changes.

"From top to bottom, I feel the Old Colony League is stronger than the Suburban League. Weymouth should be powerful and the Cape teams, Barnstable and Falmouth, are always strong. I don't think there will be a weak team in the league."

Quincy is scheduled to open Wednesday, April 3 against Stoughton at Adams Field at 3:30 p.m. It's next four games, all in the OCL, will be away, at Falmouth April 4, at Barnstable April 8, at North Quincy (at Adams) April 10 and at Plymouth April 12.

Mike Draicchio is back as junior varsity coach and Armand Veneziani is back for his second year as freshman skipper.

Also returning is Sylvia's "right-hand man" George Peachy, who handles several duties, including scorer and statistician. "George is one of our most valuable aides, he does an excellent job," Sylvia said.

Youth Hockey

Pee Wee B's End Season With Win

The Quincy Pee Wee B youth hockey team ended its season on a positive note with a 6-2 win over all-Bright.

Chris Grant sparked the win with three goals and John Healy, Bill Barron and Jeff Coleman also netted goals. John Manning, Pat Tevenan, Dan O'Donnell, Chris McArdle, Barron and Grant had assists.

Previously, Quincy had edged Hingham, 4-3, as Tevenan scored two goals and Manning and Healy had one each. McArdle, Manning, Healy and Barron had assists.

Quincy lost a heart-breaker, 5-4, to Brookline, Manning, Coleman, Coleman and Grant scored for Quincy and McArdle, Coleman, Grant, Tevenan and Eric Oliva had assists. Brookline snapped a 4-4 tie with just seven seconds to play.

The Pee Wee B's enjoyed a successful season with an overall record of 33-13-1. Quincy won its first eight league games and was moved to an open division where it played against A teams. Quincy was the first half winner of the Greater Boston League.

Quincy was a finalist in the Cranberry Tournament, semifinalist in the Coca-Cola Tournament on Cape Cod, and won the bronze medal at the Watuppa Tournament in Fall River.

Other players contributing to Quincy's fine season were John Hasson, Tom Moriarty, David Doherty, Shawn McTomney, Mike O'Brien, Matt Jamis, John Ryan and Tim Sheehan.

The team was coached by Steve Sullivan and Chuck Hughes.

Pee Wee A's Reach Semi-Finals In Lake Placid Tourney

Quincy's Pee Wee A hockey team, sponsored by the Quincy Elks, took part in the 29th annual International Tournament at Lake Placid and advanced to the semi-finals before being defeated by South Boston, 5-1.

Quincy opened by blanking Montclair, N.J., 5-0, with goalie Mark Smith recording the shut-out. Josh Wingate had two goals and Jason Fennelly, Steven Barrett and A.J. Carthas one each. Tommy Sullivan and Danny Donahue had two assists apiece and Robbie Callow, Jamie Murphy and Jimmy Kelley one each.

Quincy then shut out Cheektowaga, N.Y., 4-0, with Smith again shining in goal. Danny Stone and Barrett had two goals each. Sullivan, Wingate and Callow had two assists each and Kelley one.

Next came a 3-2 victory over North Bay, Ontario, with Donahue scoring the first two goals with Murphy assisting on each. Kelley's last minute goal with Carthas assisting won the game.

In the semifinals both teams scored in the first minute with Fennelly scoring the Quincy goal. South Boston led, 2-1, midway in the game but then scored three unanswered goals.

Smith played another fine game with 20 saves and the defense of Jenna Nolan, Danny Hughes, Eric Griffin, and Carthas played well. Alternate goalie Neil Mahoney played a strong game at center.

Harold, Samoset Win Purdy's, Balducci's Tie

The Sen. Paul Harold club defeated Lydon-Russell, 3-1, in Mite House League action.

Sean Fennelly, Shawn Dooley and Ashley Rowerdink had the goals and Chris Griffin and Fennelly had assists. Matt Holt scored for Lydon.

Purdy's Ice Cream and Balducci's tied, 5-5. Mike Sullivan had two goals and Shane Kabilian, Jim Parisi and Steve McGonagle one each for Purdy's. Sullivan, Parisi, Kabilian and Kevin Lynch had assists. Dan Kennedy had a hat trick and Didier Alther and Mike Whalen a goal apiece for Balducci's and Jon Paquette, Tom Maloney and Alther had assists.

Harold blanked Neponset Valley, 3-0, with goalie Jeff Langille recording the shutout. Bill McKeon, Nick Pizziferri and Rowerdink scored the goals and Fennelly, Joe Watson and Merri Langille had assists.

Balducci's edged Lydon-Russell, 3-2, on goals by Alther, Jon Paquette and Whalen. Jeff Brophy had an assist. John Katsarikas scored both Lydon goals and Audra Hill had an assist.

Lynch and Steve Segalla had the goals as Purdy's edged Samoset, 2-1. Jason Pinkham, Adam Smith and Pamela Sullivan had assists. Gibbons had the goal and Sean Haidul the assist for Samoset.

Proposal To Roll Back Christmas Parade Start Time Scrapped

A proposal to roll back the starting time of this year's Quincy Christmas Festival Parade one hour has been scrapped because of opposition from local clergymen.

Last week, Festival Committee Chairman George White and Mayor James Sheets sent a letter to the city's churches asking for input from parishioners regarding a proposal to start the event at 11:30 a.m. instead of 12:30 p.m.

This year's parade, to be held Sunday, Dec. 1, will celebrate the 40th anniversary of the event. Organizers, who hope to make this year's parade the largest ever, said the additional hour would have helped them plan the parade.

However, several local clergy strongly opposed the idea. They said the 11:30 a.m. start would interfere with Sunday worship services.

Some 70 parishioners and friends of the First Church of Squantum signed a petition Sunday stating their strong opposition to the earlier step off time. The petition, directed at Sheets, said the change would interfere with "our worship service and those of other churches in the city."

In his sermon Sunday, First Church of Squantum pastor, the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, objected to the proposal. He said the parade, which moves along the length of Hancock St., would "be literally on the doorstep of many of the city's Protestant and Roman Catholic churches at a time when their Sunday morning services were still going on."

Langevin said many people would be inconvenienced by the earlier time, including youngsters and others in parade bands, float riders and spectators who would have "to choose between going to church or staying away to find a good place to stand."

According to Sheets, the committee requested the 11:30 a.m. start because the parade will be larger this year since it's the 40th anniversary. A larger parade could mean a longer parade and Sheets said the committee was concerned about it finishing later in the day when it would be likely colder and darker.

Sheets said he received about six letters of opposition from local clergy. "There wasn't support (for the earlier time) and we accept that."

"Sunday is a special day and obviously we don't want to interfere with any church services," he added.

The city is one of the major sponsors of the parade.

DOROTHY RAND, center, assistant vice president of the Wollaston Credit Union, was recently honored as Employee of the Year for her 30 years of devotion at the credit union. Doris O'Neil, right, a computer operator, was presented a Spirit Award for her contributions to the credit union and the community. Offering congratulations is Wollaston Credit Union President, Audrey Phinney.

Wollaston Credit Union Honors Two Employees

Two employees at the Wollaston Credit Union were recently recognized for their dedication to the credit union and the community.

Dorothy Rand, assistant vice president of the Wollaston Credit Union, was honored as Employee of the Year and Doris O'Neil, a computer operator, was presented a Spirit Award.

Rand was recognized for her devotion to the credit union and its members over the last 30 years. The mother of 12 children, she was able to raise her family and maintain her career at the same time.

According to Audrey Phinney, president of the Wollaston Credit Union, Rand has her own "following."

"It's not unusual to see customers waiting to see Mrs. Rand," Phinney said. "She definitely has her own following and we are proud to have a person of this caliber at the credit union. We all love her dearly."

O'Neil received the Spirit Award for her unselfish contribution to the quality of life both at the credit union and in the community.

Comer, Rounseville To Take Part 'Hero's Welcome Fund' Telethon On Ch. 5 Monday

Two Quincy residents will take part in "A Hero's Welcome Fund" Telethon Monday, April 1 from 7:30 to 9 p.m. on WCVB TV Channel 5.

John (Jake) Comer, who is president of the fund, and Sandy Rounseville, project director of the fund, will join Peter Mehegan and Mary Richardson, co-hosts of Channel 5's Chronicle program, and Boston Globe columnist Mike Barnicle in an effort to raise money for Bay State veterans of Operation Desert Storm.

Also appearing will be Gov. William Weld and State Treasurer Joseph Malone. Malone is chairman of the fund.

Comer, past national commander of the American Legion, was named president of the fund by Malone.

To help promote the cause, Rounseville has dubbed himself "Uncle Sandy" and wears a costume similar to Uncle Sam complete with red and white striped pants, blue jacket and a red, white and blue hat.

Organizers hope the telethon will raise $200,000. To date, some $400,000 has been raised.

The money will be used as bonuses for Massachusetts residents serving in Operation Desert Storm. The drive is designed to supplant the need for a bill filed earlier this year by House Speaker Charles Flaherty and Senate President William Bulger that would have appropriated state money for Gulf War veterans.

To make a donation, citizens can call during the telethon or send a check to A Hero's Welcome Fund, 520 Main St., Waltham, MA 02154.

CLEAN UP CREW--Five Quincy friends who cleaned the Town Brook at Elm and McGrath Highway Monday kneel in front of some of the 40 shopping carriages and other debris they pulled from the water. 5 Friends Give Town Brook A Good Cleaning

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Driven by a desire to make the area more livable for wildlife and cleaner for residents at a nearby convalescent home, five young Quincy residents spent seven hours Monday cleaning Town Brook at Elm and McGrath Highway. From 7:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., Chris Devlin, Richard Monti, Katie Tyler, Stephen Tyler and Melanie Wilkinson cleaned a small section of the brook which is overlooked by the Robbin House Convalescent Home. Devlin, 26, lives at 65 Madison Ave.; Monti, 26, 52 McGrath Highway; Katie Tyler, 23, and her brother, Stephen Tyler, 26, both live at 200 Keadrick Ave.; and Wilkinson, 22, resides at 17 Dale Ave.

Equipped with rubber gloves and hip wadders, rakes, shovels and even an automobile, the five volunteers dragged 40 rusty shopping carriages out of the dark, dirty water. Other assorted debris taken from Town Brook included a mattress, clothing, automobile tires, old chairs, a traffic pylon, plastic tarps, and broken bottles and glass.

The group, which has cleaned other areas in the city in the past, came prepared. For carriages which were stuck in the brook's sandy, clay bottom, a car and rope were used.

The rope was attached to the carriage and the car's rear bumper.

After both ends of the rope were firmly tied, the car was slowly driven forward until the carriage was loose enough so that it could be dragged out of the water.

The five friends were not asked to clean up the brook and nearby banks. They explained that they were ashamed of the brook's polluted condition and decided to take matters into their own hands.

"We're very ashamed of how our planet looks and very ashamed of what people have done to the planet," said Devlin,

3 Others Pass It Up Only Gorman, Walsh Take Fire Chief's Exam

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

It appears the next chief of the Quincy Fire Department will be either Acting Chief Thomas Gorman or Deputy Chief Joseph Walsh.

Gorman, 53, a 27-year veteran of the department, and Walsh, 41, a 16-year member of the force, were the only Quincy deputies who took the Civil Service fire chief's examination March 20 in Boston.

Three other deputies, Joseph Jackson, Anthony Innello and Gerald Galvin, had signed up but did not take the exam. No other ranking fire personnel in Quincy were permitted to take the exam.

Results from the examination should be known by the end of June. Sheets said he will probably appoint a new chief in June or July.

Asked what qualifications he is looking for in a new chief, the mayor replied, "Leadership, pure and simple."

"In these difficult economic times, I want a chief who will be able to lead and work with people, someone who has knowledge of the department and who'll have the confidence of his men and the community."

Under state law, the mayor is not required to appoint the person who scored the highest mark on the Civil Service test.

When Sheets appointed a new police chief last September, experience on the force weighed heavier than test scores. The mayor named Frances Mullen, a 33-year veteran, over William Falco who at the time was a sergeant and 19-year veteran of the force.

On Monday, Falco was one of two sergeants appointed a lieutenant.

On the police chief Civil Service exam, Mullen had 81 points while Falco had 90. When the appointment was made, Sheets said Mullen's experience was one of the deciding factors.

Both Gorman and Walsh agreed the 100 multiple-choice exam was difficult. Passing grade is 70 and each question, which may have several parts, is worth one point.

Three and a half hours were allotted to complete the test.

Gorman, who scored a 68 on the 1988 Civil Service test, said, "They're just tough. They asked a lot of stuff that really doesn't pertain to the job."

The acting chief did not say whether he had a "gut feeling" on how well he scored. Whatever his score, Gorman said he will take it in stride.

Commenting on the exam, Walsh said, "It was a very hard exam. There were 100 questions, many of them two and three part questions. A lot of tough material."

"I talked with some of the others who took it and they all agreed it was a tough one. I don't think anyone should be embarrassed at whatever mark he gets."

"I think I did pretty well but...wait until the marks are out," Walsh added.

5 Officers Promoted In Police Department

Five Quincy Police officers were promoted Monday by Mayor James Sheets to fill department vacancies created by several recent retirements.

Sheets, who conferred with Police Chief Francis Mullen regarding the appointments, said the promotions will save the city money.

"We've been having to pay superior officers overtime to fill these vacancies. We will save money with these appointments," Sheets said.

The appointments, made from the current Civil Service list, are: Robert Salvaggio, of Braintree, was promoted to captain. A former lieutenant, Salvaggio was named chief of the detective bureau, succeeding David Rowell who left the department last fall to become police chief in Pelham, N.H.

Salvaggio, 51, joined the force in November, 1963.

He was promoted to sergeant in February, 1975 and became a lieutenant in November, 1981.

Salvaggio was selected over Lt. Donald Riley and Lt. Thomas Frane.

Sheets said he chose Salvaggio, who had the second highest Civil Service score with a 95, because of his "temperament, background and interpersonal skills."

"He has extensive experience as a platoon lieutenant and investigator. He's done an excellent job in those capacities," the mayor said, adding Salvaggio has been worked in hostage situations and in the detective bureau.

Riley, a North Quincy resident, scored 98 on the exam. Frane, of Weymouth, scored 94.

Two former sergeants, Terrence Kelly and William Falco, both of Weymouth, were appointed lieutenants. Kelly, who will turn 42 on April 22, joined the Quincy Police Department in December, 1971. He was promoted to sergeant in July, 1985.

Falco, 42, also came on the force in December, 1971. Promoted to sergeant in December, 1985, he was a candidate for police chief last year.

Two patrolmen, Edward Kusser of Kingston and Paul Keenan of Hanover, were appointed sergeants.

Kusser, 44, joined the force in February, 1978. Keenan, 32, has been on the department since August, 1983.

During the last year, five superior officers have retired.

They are: Lt. John Morgan, April 1990; Lt. John Mulligan, December, 1990; Sgt. Richard Buckley, April, 1990; Sgt. Daniel Lyons, April, 1990; and Capt. William Murphy, April, 1990.

Youth City Council Proposed By 15-Year Olds

By STEVE KAVANAGH

Quincy city councillors may soon be receiving input from a new political group.

Quincy residents Darren Kerfoen and Michael D'Amico, both 15, have designed a Youth Councillor Program which they hope to have started later this spring.

Kerfoen and D'Amico presented their idea to the City Council Monday night. The councillor's each praised the pair and pledged their support.

The pair are proposing the program in an effort to get teenagers involved in politics and to give Quincy youths a say in issues that affect them.

The Youth Council will be made up of a six members between age 14 and 17 - one from each Ward.

The Youth Councillors will serve as liaisons between teens and the City Council. The new council will meet twice a month at City Hall prior to regular City Council meetings.

"It's something we wanted to do to have more involvement in city affairs," D'Amico said.

"We thought of it about a year ago and put it on paper about six months and began to develop the criteria for the program," Kerfoen said.

D'Amico said apathy by, and towards, teenagers is the driving force behind the program.

"There is a lack of youth involvement and youth programs in the city," he said.

Kerfoen is a student at Archbishop Williams High School and D'Amico attends Xaverian Brothers High School. The two have been friends since attending St. Mary's Elementary School in West Quincy.

D'Amico and Kerfoen plan to make presentations explaining the program at the high schools and middle schools in Quincy. They will distribute a flyer to Quincy residents at private schools outside the city.

Council Backs Tax Benefit For Sewer Charge

The Quincy City Council went on record, 9-0, Monday in support of proposed legislation which would allow residents to deduct water and sewer charges from their federal income tax.

The legislation is being proposed in Washington, D.C., by Congressman Brian Donnelly.

"Taxpayers used to be able to deduct water and sewer charges because the charges were part of their city real estate tax," Councillor-at-large Michael Cheney said.

The resolve urges residents to write to Donnelly in support of the measure.

Bar Gets 3-Day License Suspension For Customer Brawl

By JANE ARENA
The License Board Tuesday suspended for three days the alcoholic license held by Brannigan's, 226 Water St., for failure to call the police when a fight broke out at the establishment the night of Feb. 14, resulting in injury to two customers.

However, the suspension will be held in abeyance for six months provided the establishment does not get into trouble again.

There is another charge of assault and battery on a customer by an employee (the bartender), but the board held that charge in abeyance until the results of a pending civil case on the charge are available.

The board listened to sworn testimony for close to an hour Tuesday in a hearing concerning a fight which resulted in the injury of two people who required medical treatment.

According to a report by Quincy Liquor Inspector Sgt. Richard Laracy, Joseph Connolly of Winthrop and Richard Stark of Dorchester said they were attacked inside the bar at about 10:30 p.m. Feb. 14 by three customers and by the bartender, John Desmond.

The incident began when Connolly went to the men's room where, he testified, he was "struck by someone several times." Connolly told the board he was not aware of who was hitting him and had had no exchange of any kind with any of the patrons at the bar.

Stark, who was sitting at the bar at the time of the incident, testified that he heard the commotion in the bathroom and then saw Connolly on the floor outside the bathroom with "blood all over his face" still involved in the fight.

Stark went to help, he said, and when he arrived, he told the board, he saw the bartender kicking Connolly while he was on the floor. Stark also said it appeared that the bartender was familiar with the three men and was siding with them in the fight.

Stark succeeded in grabbing two people off of Connolly and restraining them for a time inside the bathroom. During the fight Stark was also hit by the three men but not by the bartender, he said.

In the end, Connolly suffered cuts to his face and damage to his teeth and Stark suffered a broken nose. Both were treated at Quincy Hospital.

The bartender, Desmond, testified that he did not kick Connolly, but was trying to break up the fight which had by this time grown to involve four or five people. He also told the board that he did not know any of the people involved in the fight.

All who testified in the matter agreed that no verbal or physical exchange was made between Connolly and Stark and any of the customers involved in the fight.

Stark said he tried to get Connolly's coat and get him out of the bar, but was then thrown out the bar himself, along with other parties in the fight.

Stark phoned the police from a pay-phone in front of the establishment, and, in the process, told the board he was assaulted by a man who had a knife.

The three men then fled in a blue pick-up truck with a white cap, according to the report, and police are still searching for the vehicle.

In his testimony, Desmond told the board he is not a regular employee at the establishment but was called in to cover for the regular bartender, Robert DiBona, whose wife was having a baby.

Co-owner of the bar, Mark DiBona, brother of the regular bartender, was scheduled to work that night, but instead accompanied his brother to the hospital.

Desmond testified that he did not have sufficient time to call the police while he was trying to break up the fight and clear the offenders from the premises. He said that he picked up the phone to call police after getting the offenders outside, but, by that time, police had already arrived from Stark's call.

Youth Council Proposed

"It's up to the youth of Quincy to make this program a success," D'Amico said.

Youth Councillors will be selected based on a written essay answering the question "Why do you want to be a Youth Councillor and what will you do to help the youth in your Ward?"

Both boys are active politically themselves. They are volunteers in Lt. Governor Paul Cellucci's office. The pair worked on the primary campaign of Frank Bellotti and later joined the William Weld-Cellucci campaign last year.

Kerfoen is the son of Darren and Theresa Kerfoen of Payne Street and D'Amico is the son of John and Jane D'Amico of Willard Street.

Sheets Submits $121.8M Budget

Mayor James Sheets presented a budget of $121,883,373 for fiscal year 1992 to the City Council Monday night. The new budget is up $1,218,267 over fiscal year 1991's $120,665,106. The council's Finance Committee will begin reviewing the budget under the direction of committee chairman Patricia Toland. The council has 45 days to act on the budget.

The school budget of $367 million accounts for about 30% of the total budget. The police and fire department budgets recommended by the mayor are slightly lower than last year. The police budget is $10.6 million and the fire budget is $9.6 million.

$39,500 Voted For N.Q. Traffic Lights

The City Council appropriated $39,500 Monday for new traffic lights at the intersection of West Squantum, Harvard and Evans streets.

Total cost of the project is $79,000 but a North Quincy company has agreed to pay for half. Officials of the company asked Mayor James Sheets not to release the name of the company.

The lights are intended to help make that section of West Squantum Street safer and allow vehicles to be able to pull out onto West Squantum during peak traffic hours.

Ward 3 Councillor Larry Chretien presented a petition signed by 150 neighbors in support of the new traffic signals.

City Asks MWRA To Pay For HN Firefighter

The City of Quincy has asked the MWRA to pay for an additional firefighter for the Houghs Neck fire station.

Mayor James Sheets, Ward 1 City Councillor Peter Kolson and Fire Chief Thomas Gorman have directed Quincy's representative to the MWRA Advisory Board, Jay MacRitchie, to ask the MWRA to fund the extra fireman due to the extensive work, increased traffic and drilling resulting from the work at Nut Island.

City officials are asking for the duration of the that the position be funded MWRA's work at the site.

Medically Speaking

DIETING TO DEATH

Self-inflicted, severe caloric restriction leading to starvation in an otherwise healthy young person seems paradoxical in a society where almost a third of the population is obese or overweight. However, anorexia nervosa, an eating disorder characterized by extreme weight loss, distortion of body image and an intense fear of being overweight, is rapidly becoming a public health issue. About one percent of white, middle-upper class adolescent girls and young women are affected. When one considers that nearly 20 percent of college women have symptoms of bulimia, a related syndrome of binge eating and purging, the problem is of even greater concern. The onset is often at puberty, and is manifested by obsession with food, dieting and body weight. Characteristically the patients have poor insight into their disorder.

P.S. In patients with anorexia, fatigue and emotional upset, especially depression, go unreported or are overtly denied.

If you suspect such a condition in a friend or loved one, special counseling can help motivate the first steps toward reversing the self-destructive behavior and healing and underlying emotional problems. Total health care means taking the whole person into consideration. Each patient at

COMPREHENSIVE CARDIAC CARE receives sensitive, caring professional medical care. We're located at 101 Adams Street, Suite 24 in Quincy. Hours are by appointment when you call 472-2550.

Nutley-Condon Match Sure

The stage is about to be set for what could be the best ballot battle in Quincy Election Year 1991.

Ward 6 Councillor Tom Nutley is expected to announce his candidacy for re-election at a 7-9 p.m. fundraiser tonight (Thursday) at Walsh's Restaurant.

Former Ward 6 Councillor Joanne Condon will make her formal announcement next month.

CONDON

Nutley will be seeking his fourth term. He was elected in 1985 the year Condon gave up the Ward 6 seat to run unsuccessfully against Mayor Frank McCauley.

Nutley lost the preliminary election to Tom Koch but came back in the final election to win the seat. Koch, of course, is now Mayor James Sheets' executive secretary.

Nutley has not been tested since, running unopposed the last two times out. Condon, who served four terms as Ward 6 councillor from 1977 to 1985, has given a lot of thought to running this year.

And, says she: "I have come to a decision. I will be a candidate for the City Council in Ward 6."

Condon, now married to Deputy Fire Chief Joseph Walsh, says she will make a formal announcement early in May.

Her two sons, Michael Condon and Christopher Condon will be honorary campaign co-chairmen.

Michael Condon was a city councillor at-large candidate. Christopher is a senior at Bridgewater State College where he is majoring in political government.

"He's really into government," says his mother. "He's keenly interested in the duties, responsibilities and performance of those in government. He even rode the snowplows with me during the Blizzard of '78."

Condon says her campaign will be built on her philosophy of what a ward councillor should be and do: "Give ward matters and issues priority over city-wide matters. Take care of your ward first. That's what you are elected to do. Little things mean a lot to the people living in that ward."

"Like getting potholes filled, crosswalks painted, stop signs put up where needed and making sure that your streets are plowed in the winter and doing other things too that are important to that ward.

"Be a ward councillor first. And a good one."

QUINCY Atty. George Burke has been a city councillor, state representative and district attorney. And now, you can call him "Coach."

Burke was one of the all-time stars at U-Mass in the 1950's where he set scoring records until Julius Irving came along and went on to become a Boston Celtics rookie.

His heart has remained at Amherst and Boston Garden.

U-Mass made the recent National Invitational Tournament Final Four and Coach John Calipari named Burke an assistant coach for the tourney.

You might say Burke had a pretty good coaching debut.

U-Mass went to the semi-finals, defeating LaSalle, Fordham and Sienna enroute. The Minutemen lost to Stanford in the semi-final round by one basket—a game played in Madison Square Garden.

"It was a thrill," says Burke. "It was the furthest U-Mass has ever gone in the tourney. With a little luck, we might have gone all the way."

He will long cherish the memories of his coaching days.

A REFLECTION of the times: Business is better than usual at Wollaston Theater. Owner Arthur Chandler reports a 50 to 75 percent increase in attendance on Monday and Tuesday nights -- Dollar Nights.

"Times are pretty tough," says Chandler, "and more and more people are taking advantage of the $1 admission charge on those two nights."

Not only that, but the other nights -- admission $3 -- "are holding their own," he says.

Many people who used to rush to see a new movie in the first-run theaters apparently are now content to wait awhile and see it at a bargain price.

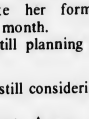

Sometimes a top new movie won't get to the Wollaston Theater for 12, 15, or 20 weeks. "But," says Chandler, "by the time we get it, the movie has proven to be a good one or a bad one. And if it's a bad one, we don't show it."

OBSERVATION: Some drivers think Hancock St. is the Indianapolis Speedway. Zoom! Zoom! Nobody seems to stop them.

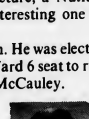

But park at an expired meter and they'll get you!

In A Rage Over City Council And Taxes

Editor, the Quincy Sun:

Rage is the only word I can give to express my inner feelings with representative government in our City.

Rage at a group of elected officials, that in a short space of time, in one evening, trampled all over everything I have ever been taught from my parents, schools, history, and life, about true government by the people and for the people.

Rage in a public hearing, involving business people and residents, such as myself, taking the time to become involved in our government, as we have been asked to do, and then being ignored.

On March 18, 1991 at 7 p.m., the Quincy City Council held a public hearing on real estate taxes. No consideration was given to the taxpayers of this city about this very important decision, that will increase their cost of living. No prior notice to taxpayers was given on this hearing. When asked why it was not given - the arrogant answer was - because the law did not mandate it!

After the proposal and presentation was given, the public was asked for its input. Not one person was recorded in favor of the proposal. All that spoke, wrote, or signed the petition were 100% against the tax increase. Every single person. Yet the proposal passed by an 8-1 vote!

I no longer have faith in the integrity of this city council, nor will I believe them when they publicly state how much they care about us. They have proven to me that they are a sham. They will continue to tell you otherwise, but beware - they are only looking for your vote.

As a lifelong resident and businessman of this city, I am in a rage, because I no longer have confidence in my local government, thus cannot any longer support the city I have always loved dearly.

Town River Gets Cleaning

eliciting agreement from his friends. "We want people to stop talking about it and do something," he added.

By cleaning the brook, they hope wildlife, such as ducks and geese, will return to the spot. They also say the 100 or so residents of Robbin House deserve to have a clean brook babbling by their home.

"In the summer time, (the residents) usually come out here and they try to feed the ducks but it's just been getting too polluted over the years," Monti said.

"We want some wildlife to return here."

The group asked some high school students to visit the area to show them what happens when people litter.

"People don't think about it," Devlin said. "They just throw their litter on the ground and think it just goes away and dissolves but it doesn't."

"We're trying to show people it does not dissolve."

Most of Town Brook is maintained by the city, according to Public Works Commissioner David Colton. Although some sections of the brook are privately owned, Colton said the area which was cleaned is the city's responsibility.

"It's my responsibility to keep the brook clean. We have a four or five man drain crew responsible for maintaining major parts of Furnace Brook and Town Brook as well as dozen of tide gates, not to mention 600 catch basins.

"They have their hands full and they do the best they can," Colton added.

The area which was cleaned is located on Elm and McGrath Highway which is a heavy area for foot and vehicular traffic. Yellow Cab Company is located on one side of the brook while the Robbin House is located on the other. A shopping area, bank, and restaurant as well as other businesses are all located within walking distance.

The city, which picked up the trash, also supplied the group with gloves, plastic bags, hip wadders, a rake and shovel and rope.

"That's all we asked for. We got everything we asked for," Devlin said, adding the mayor's receptionist, Helen Murphy, was very helpful.

The group, which cleaned spots in Faxon Park last year, is considering joining Mayor James Sheets' Cleaner, Greener campaign.

"I'd have to see how I feel about the spirit of the program and see if people are spirited about it or just half-heartedly doing it," Devlin said.

"We're whole-hearted people. We're doing it for the wildlife and residents here."

Praising the group for their volunteer cleanup, Sheets said, "I'm very proud of this group of young people and the job they have done. It's indicative of our concern and their willingness to clean Quincy."

"We're very proud of them."

The cleaning spirit appears to be catching on. Yellow Cab has promised to clean up the brook's banks which has a lot of paper debris, Devlin said Tuesday.

City Ready For Victory Day

Mayor Charles A. Ross and Auditor Leo E. Mullin, Chairman of the Victory Day Committee, announced plans for Quincy's celebration of the day that Nazi Germany surrenders.

The general public was to be invited to special exercises at the nearest school building where guest speakers were lined up, including four combat veteran flyers from Squantum Naval Air Station.

Mayor Ross said if Germany surrenders between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. the ceremonies would be held two hours later, if the fighting ended between 3 p.m. and 8 a.m. the rites would start at 10 a.m.

"We hope and pray that V-Day will come soon to save human life," said the Mayor. Gen. George S. Patton's tanks were reported 90 miles beyond the Rhine River and 198 miles from Berlin.

V-Day speakers were to be Rev. William B. Ayres at Quincy High School, Lt. Cmdr. F.G. Vessell at North Quincy; Lt. Commander A.L. Roberts at South Junior, Lt. G.A. Forbes at Point; Lt. J.M. Swensen at Central.

Mayor Ross also ordered that no liquor was to be served in Quincy for the first 24 years after news of victory in Europe was flashed.

EX-POW SPEAKS TO ROTARIANS

S. Sgt. Francis L. McPherson Jr. of 37 Putnam St., Quincy Center, recently repatriated on the Swedish liner Gripsholm, detailed his experiences in a German prison camp at a Quincy Rotary Luncheon.

McPherson, tailgunner on the B-24 Liberator "Brady's Gang," was shot down on his ninth mission Jan. 31, 1944 and hidden out by Italian partisans before his capture by the Germans.

'Art For Heart' Exhibit, Sale At NFPA April 7

The ninth annual "Art for Heart" exhibit and sale to benefit the American Heart Association will be held Sunday, April 7 from 2 to 6 p.m. at the headquarters of the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) in West Quincy.

"Art for Heart," a gallery-setting exhibit in which artists are present, has generated thousands of dollars over the years for the Massachusetts affiliate of the American Heart Association. Last year, more than 300 art lovers attended, with $20,000 worth of art sold in three hours.

Nearly $12,000 was raised from the event to help support heart research, public and professional education and community service programs. Each artist donates 30 percent of his or her sales from the event to the Heart Association.

Varied work from 14 artists, including 11 from Massachusetts, will be exhibited and offered for sale with prices ranging from $60 to $12,000. Many artists exhibiting this year have earned national and international acclaim for their work. Local artists and their media are:

Lois Atherton of Plymouth, porcelain clay and stoneware; Robert St. Pierre of Duxbury, wood; Roy Thompson of Hingham, acrylic paint and pen and ink; Michael McNabb of Cohasset, sculpture; Ronald Wilson of East Bridgewater, photographs; Miriam Wotiz of Milton, watercolors; Sandra Pineault of Bridgewater, watercolors and graphite; Joyce Zavorskas of Eastham, monoprint and etching; Judith Morton of Wellesley, sculpture; Lynn Loscutt of Andover, watercolors; and Monica Vachula of Harvard, oils.

Regional artists and their media are:

Mark Hagen of Cape Elizabeth, Maine, oils; Cory Staid of Kennebunkport, Maine, watercolors; and Teri Malo of Buffalo, New York, watercolors, oils and etching.

The $10 admission fee is tax-deductible. Refreshments will be served.

For more information, call 508-584-0446.

'Bye Bye Birdie' At Atlantic Middle School

Atlantic Middle School students will present a production of the musical comedy "Bye Bye Birdie," Tuesday, April 9 and Thursday, April 11 at 7:30 p.m. at the school.

"Bye Bye Birdie," tells the story of a rock and roll singer who is about to be inducted into the Army, and students feel it offers a special way to welcome home the local American heroes who served in the war in the Persian Gulf.

Tickets may be purchased through the school for $3 in advance or $4 at the door.

How To Be Healthy And Beautiful

By DANIEL S. KARP, Lic. Ac.

Acupuncture Associates of the South Shore

12 Dimmock St., Quincy

A completely well person is a rarity today.

Most everyone has something wrong, either an outright disease or minor problems such as tiredness, a feeling of "all stressed out," headaches, or other aches or pains. One girl, just out of college, said "I feel only half alive." This feeling is common.

Although the use of acupuncture in the West is for the treatment of pain and organ dysfunction, acupuncturists see this approach as primitive. They believe the goal of a true healer is to cure illness by restoring proper balance of body energy and to prevent illness by maintaining that balance. The acupuncture practitioner sees disease as an imbalance in the energy flow. Balancing the body energy not only makes the patient feel and look better but also increases resistance to illness.

Most people, even if familiar with the many benefits of acupuncture, are unaware of the close relationship between acupuncture and beauty.

There is a basis for beauty that cannot come out of a jar. Genuine beauty is the result of a deep inner vitality. Regardless of age, face or body characteristics, this inner vitality will overcome shortcomings that one may have in other areas, provided all body organs are properly balanced and functioning in harmony with each other. But there is no substitute for the bloom of health - this must shine from within.

Acupuncturists believe that to slow the aging process, special care must be paid to the entire nervous system and the flow of vital energy in all organs. Both skin and hair have a close connection with the lungs. Therefore, an evaluation of the energy balance within the lungs is the first phase in beautifying the hair and skin. Dull, lifeless hair and skin are a sign of an energy imbalance in this organ. Normalizing the energy flow will correct these problems and help to make you look and feel better.

Dr. Steven Windwer Participates

In National Chiropractic Convention

Experts from around the country, including Dr. Steven Windwer, a chiropractor at 111 Willard St., Quincy, gathered at the International Chiropractors Association's (ICA) convention in Las Vegas to discuss the latest chiropractic techniques and research findings.

"New studies are proving what chiropractors have known for years - chiropractic is effective and beneficial for every age group - seniors and children - as well as athletes and expectant mothers," said Dr. Windwer.

Published in the June 2, 1990 issue of the British Medical Journal, a two year study concluded that chiropractic care of chronic or severe back pain - which affect 75 million Americans annually - is superior to the standard regimen administered by medical doctors.

According to this study, chiropractic care can relieve severe back pain quicker and at a lower cost than medical treatment. After this extensive study, the Medical Research Council recommended that England's National Health Service begin including chiropractic care.

Additional documentation on the efficacy of chiropractic care is contained in a study reported in the Western Medical Journal of Medicine, (March 1989), published by the California Medical Association.

This report revealed that medical patients take almost four times longer to get well than do patients of chiropractors. This eight-month study disclosed that back pain patients of medical doctors required an average of 39.7 days to return to normal activity, while chiropractic patients required an average of only 10.8 days.

A member of the International Chiropractors Association, Dr. Steven Windwer received his Doctor of Chiropractic (D.C.) at the New York Chiropractic College.

Health Care At Home

By STEVEN M. BUNICK, R.Ph.

Most of us are familiar with some health care monitoring devices. We use a thermometer - mercury or digital - to check for a fever. If we get a reading over 98.6 we decide whether to take acetaminophen (Tylenol), aspirin or call the doctor.

Today our ability to monitor our health and physical condition ourselves has expanded greatly. It is important to remember that although we can gather this information about our health, professional followup and treatment is still necessary.

Blood pressure and pulse monitors are also well known. A series of blood pressure readings taken at home stress-free can be recorded and shared with your physician. Home testing can help you see what foods and activities affect your blood pressure and can aid in determining the effectiveness of your therapy.

Other tests can help a couple conceive. Whereas Basal thermometers were once the only method of predicting when a woman was ovulating, we now have ovulation tests such as Ovu-Quick, Ovu-Test, First Response, Q-Test Predictor and others. These measure hormone levels to help predict the best time for conception. It is a wonderful aid for couples having difficulty in conceiving a baby and it is very important for couples using fertility drugs.

Not only can tests predict ovulation, there are tests for pregnancy. Most new pregnancy tests work as early as one day after a missed menstrual period. They also are easy to use - most are now dipsticks, fast (3 to 60 minutes), easy to read and 95% plus accurate. Aside from enabling a person to learn of a pregnancy in private, early testing gives a woman the opportunity to adjust her lifestyle during the critical first 3-8 weeks after conception.

Probably the most dramatic advances have been made in home monitoring of diabetes. Careful control of blood sugar levels can reduce the risk of many complications of diabetes. In the past 10 years, diabetes monitoring at home has progressed from inexact urine glucose tests to sophisticated blood glucose meters that give an exact blood sugar level. By adjusting insulin or medication doses in accordance with these readings, you can keep your blood sugar level closer to normal and reduce your risk of complications. Recording these readings assists your doctor in prescribing treatment. A few examples of blood glucose monitors are Glucometer III, Tracer II, Accucheck II, One Touch and Exactech.

New home tests for detecting blood in the stool can help for early diagnosis of colorectal cancer. With early detection, the mortality rate of colorectal cancer can be decreased from 60% to 20%. Anyone age 40 and up should be tested annually as well as anyone with chronic ulcerative colitis, colonic adenoma or polyps and family or personal history of colorectal cancer. The new tests are easy to use. One such test, Early Detector, comes in the form of toilet tissue. Others such as Coloscreen SelfTest, and EZ Detect, are pads dropped in the toilet bowl.

It is important to remember testing at home is not foolproof diagnosis. Professional follow-up is always necessary to ensure proper treatment. Always ask your doctor or pharmacist

Our Home Equity Line of Credit is more about saving than spending.

Save on monthly loan payments.

With a Bank of New England Home Equity Line of Credit, you can pay off current auto loan, department store and credit card balances now, and save. Because you'll reduce your monthly credit obligations to a single payment, and could cut your finance charges almost in half.

Save on taxes.

Federal tax laws have completely eliminated deductions on credit card, auto loan and other unsecured loan interest. The Home Equity Line of Credit, however, is the exception to the rule—with interest still 100% deductible in most cases.

Save on major expenses.

The low interest and tax savings that make our

Home Equity Line of Credit a cost-effective way to pay off your debts also make it a smart way to borrow for such expenses as college tuition and home improvement.

Save on closing costs.

At other banks, you'd probably pay closing costs on a new Home Equity Line of Credit. At Bank of New England, we'll save you at least $200 by waiving those costs if you apply by June 30, 1991.

Stop by any Bank of New England office, or call toll-free for more information or an application for a Home Equity Line of Credit today. And start saving.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Some of the world's most talented people have never been paid a cent. They are called volunteers. They take time from their work, their leisure, their home-life to volunteer their talents and their energies. Volunteerism is in the spotlight this week. It is the time to publically thank them for their work and let them know that it is valuable and important to us. This week is the time to make an effort to look around and see who is doing what to help out... Look at the nursing homes and hospitals and you'll see men and women finding time to visit with the residents and help the staff... Look at the schools and you'll see people who serve on committees, who donate materials, who help raise funds all for the love of doing... Look at the churches and you'll see people who give their time to sing in the choir, and work on committees... You'll see people who deeply care about their community and want to work to make it better, honor it and tell others about it.

When asked why they volunteer, the most popular reason heard will be, "because I care, I want to help"... We ask that our readers join us in saluting the volunteers in our community... Let us show them that because they care, we care about them!

APRIL is Child Abuse Prevention Month

BREAK the SILENCE

As part of a national campaign designating April as Child Abuse Prevention Month, The Dianne DeVanna Center is working to make the community more aware of child sexual abuse. We do this in order for people to recognize sexual abuse of children as a widespread problem, present on every economic and social level. We do not intend to frighten parents and in turn, their children. As difficult as it may be, the only means of preventing and treating child sexual abuse is education. For too long, society has avoided this problem, making its victims ashamed to break their silence.

WHAT IS SEXUAL ABUSE?

Child sexual abuse is contact between a child and adult or older child for the sexual gratification of the offender. In the vast majority of the cases, this person is known to the child. Very often, the offender is a family member or trusted adult. It is important to realize that sexual abuse has many forms and includes non-physical contact such as child pornography, exhibitionism and voyeurism.

The Massachusetts Department of Social Services received 7,605 reports of sexual abuse in 1990. Studies of the general population of adults show that anywhere from 15% to 38% of females were sexually abused as children; the number of male victims is often cited at 10% (Finklehor, 1986). Because many cases of sexual abuse go unreported, the actual number may be much higher.

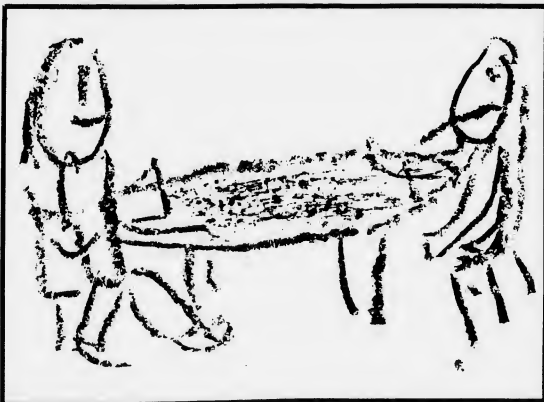

HOW DO WE PROTECT OUR CHILDREN?

Children begin to learn basic survival skills at a very early age. They are warned about the hot stove and told not walk into the busy street. In a similar way, they have to be educated about the dangers of sexual abuse. They need to feel in control of their own bodies. They also need to know that you are willing to discuss their feelings about different kinds of touching. Begin with general information and make it an open, ongoing discussion because often children will have questions or misconceptions to bring back to you.

IF YOU SUSPECT YOUR CHILD HAS BEEN ABUSED...

- Believe your child. It is extremely rare for children to lie about sexual abuse and it is vital that you do not deny or ignore what your child is telling you.
- Protect your child immediately from the suspected offender.
- Reassure your child that it is not his or her fault and that you're glad he or she told you.
- Report the suspected abuse at once to the state agency responsible for investigating abuse. The Child-At-Risk Hotline number is 1-800-792-5200.
- Get a medical exam at once for your child even if he or she appears to be unhurt.

Gen. Sullivan To Speak At PSSB Breakfast May 5

The Protestant Social Service Bureau will hold its 44th annual South Shore Men's Prayer Breakfast Sunday, May 5 at 7 a.m. at Freeport Hall, Freeport St., Dorchester.

Guest speaker will be Quincy native Gen. Gordon Sullivan, U.S. Army vice chief of staff. A four-star decorated general, Sullivan was raised in Quincy's Lakin Square section.

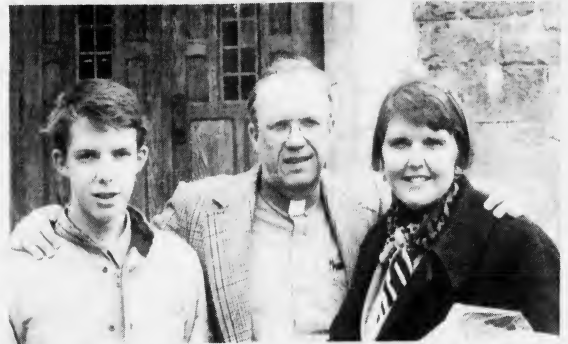

He began his military career in 1959. Among the many awards he has received are the Distinguished Service Medal, Defense Superior Medal, Legion of Merit, Bronze Star and Purple Heart.

Sullivan was the keynote speaker at the city's Veterans Day ceremonies last November.

Music at the breakfast will be provided by "A Touch of Brass" quintet. Tickets, priced $7.50 per person, will be available beginning Palm Sunday, March 24. Proceeds will benefit the Protestant Social Service Bureau's chaplaincy program at Quincy Hospital.

William Jackson of the Weymouth United Methodist Church is chairman of this year's breakfast.

Rev. Richard Murphy New Rector At St. Chrysostom's

The Wardens, vestry and parishioners of St. Chrysostom's Episcopal Church, Wollaston, announce the arrival of their new Rector, The Rev. Richard W. Murphy.

The church will join in officially welcoming the Reverend, his wife, Carol and their son, Jeremiah Sunday at 4 p.m. during the confirmation and Institution of the new Rector.

The Confirmation will be celebrated by the Right Reverend David B. Birney, IV, Assistant Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Massachusetts. The Reverend Theresa Gocha of Saint Paul's, Conway, New Hampshire, will be the guest speaker. The public is welcome to attend.

Ordained in the priesthood in 1990, Fr. Murphy received his Master of Divinity Degree from General Theological Seminary and a Bachelor's Degree in Philosophy from St. John's Seminary.

The priesthood is Fr. Murphy's second vocation, and he brings to it, valuable life experiences. He was the former Assistant Chief Probation Officer in Essex County.

Since 1988 he has been at St. Peter's Church, Osterville, on Cape Cod serving as a Curate, Deacon and then Associate Rector.

Since arriving at St. Chrysostom's at the end of February, Fr. Murphy has spent time getting to know parishioners, working with the Wardens and Vestry, visiting the sick and getting acquainted with local clergy.

Fr. Murphy has also begun to work with the Christian Education Commission to strengthen and add to the education programs for children and adults.

A former staff member at Noah's Shelter in Hyannis, Fr. Murphy has a particular ministry to the homeless, needy and underprivileged. He has already visited staff members at Father Bill's Place.

Two Worship Services At Bethany Sunday

The Sacrament of Holy Communion will be observed at both morning worship services Sunday at Bethany Congregational Church, Spear and Coddington Sts., Quincy.

The 9 a.m. service will be in the Bethany Chapel and the 10 a.m. service will be held in the main sanctuary. Continuing his sermon series on the Beatitudes, the Rev. Luther Durgin, interim minister, will preach on "Blessed Are Those Who Mourn." The Rev. Elizabeth Upton, associate minister, will be the liturgist.

Members of the Board of Deacons will assist during the Communion service.

Scripture Reader will be Lisa Chenette. Brenda Bonoli, soprano, and Matthew Murphy, baritone, will sing a duet entitled "The Lamb." They will be accompanied by Organist Gregory Flynn.

Worship greeters will be Irene Belcher and Betty Elias. The Fellowship Hour, following the morning worship service, is held in the Allen Parlor and will be hosted by Clayton and Gladys Simpson and Paula Aluisy.

Church School Classes will be held at 10 a.m. Child care for infants and toddlers is provided while the church service is being held so that parents may attend the service.

The church is accessible to the physically handicapped via a ramp on the Spear St. side of the building.

Communion Service At United Methodist

Rev. Harry Soper Jr. will give a sermon entitled "When You Doubt and Believe" Sunday at 10 a.m. at the Communion service of Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St.

Child care is provided and church facilities are handicapped accessible. Greeters will be Helen Bailey and Ruth Pleisch. Hostesses for the Fellowship Hour at 11 a.m. will be Annie Ohman, Florence Hunter, Virginia Casey and Anne Giger.

Upcoming events include Youth Council, Monday at 7:30 p.m.; Memorial and Gifts Committee, Tuesday, 7 p.m.; and on Wednesday, Sigma Phi meets at the home of Phyllis Ellison at 2:30 p.m.; at 6:30 p.m., the Youth Confirmation class meets with the pastor; the Adams Shore Circle meets at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Ruth Wainwright; and at 7:30 p.m., the New Women's Circle meets.

On Thursday, the Pastor's Bible Class convenes at 10 a.m. and the choir rehearsal at 7:30 p.m. On Friday, at 2:30 p.m., the Altas Committee meets and at 6:30 p.m., the 3Ms will have their monthly pot luck supper with entertainment by the Eye-Openers who will put on a belated St. Pat's Day program.

Easter Theme Continues At Squantum First Church

First Church of Squantum celebrated Easter at its Sunday morning worship service.

The Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor, preached on the subject, "Unlocking the Riches of Easter."

The readers were Tom Klock, Earl Taylor and Dore Klock. Others with speaking parts were Patti Hurd, Leif Thornton and Susan Scott.

Music was by the Cherub Choir, the Junior Choir and the Chancel Choir which sang "All Praise, O Risen Lord" by John Dykes as arranged by Richard Smith. Organist Mary Ruth Scott and pianist Janet Williamson accompanied the hymns sung by the congregation.

Greeters were Janet Sumner and Kate MacRitchie. Ushers were Katrina Sorrentino, Hubert

Robinson, Bob Silver and Ann Wallin. Sorrentino also arranged the Easter flowers. Shirley Mason and Barbara Anderson hosted the Fellowship Hour.

The Bible Study group continues its study of the gospel of Mark each Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

The Sunday morning worship service begins at 10:30. The Easter theme will continue for the next two weeks. Child care is available. Sunday School meets at 9:45 a.m.

Quincy Community Action Programs Recognized By National Nutrition Board

Quincy Community Action Program's Emergency Food Center, 388 Granite St., Southwest Quincy, was recently recognized by the Massachusetts Nutrition Board at a State House ceremony.

The food center received a letter of commendation for its community outreach efforts and unique volunteer-client relationship.

In 1990, the center gave out more than 3,800 food orders, serving an average of 332 individuals or families per month. A total of 166,400 pounds of food passed through the EFC doors and into the homes of low-income families.

The center also coordinates the distribution of USDA surplus commodities to Quincy, Milton and Weymouth four times a year. Each distribution reaches an average of 8,500 individuals.

The Emergency Food Center receives funding from Project Bread, the city of Quincy and USDA, but the majority of funds come from the community.

This year's fundraising event is a benefit party with music and comedy to be held Friday, April 26 at the Fore River Clubhouse.

Tickets are $10 each year and can be reserved by calling 479-8181.

Victimization Seminar At Beechwood

Beechwood Counseling Services, Inc., 225 Fenno St., Wollaston, will conduct a seminar for clergy on "victimization" Wednesday, April 10 from 9:30 to 11:15 a.m. at Fort Square Presbyterian Church, 16 Pleasant St., Quincy.

The seminar, entitled "Adult Male Survivors of Abuse" will be presented by Tim Lanham, LICSW, clinical director at Beechwood Counseling.

Cost is $10.

To make reservations, call 472-5428.

Special Education Council To Meet

The Quincy Parent Advisory Council to Special Education will meet

Thursday, April 11 at 7:30 p.m. in the community meeting room of Stop and Shop, Newport Ave.,

Quincy.

The meeting is open to the public.

Central Offering Scholarship

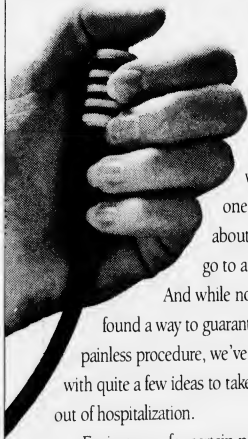

The Central Middle School Home and School Association is accepting applications for its first annual scholarship award.

The scholarship will be presented to a graduating senior who attended Central Middle School and who is to continue their education beyond high school.

Applications are available at the school office, 1012 Hancock St. and the deadline for submitting applications is May 1.

Going To The Hospital Doesn't Have To Be Such A Pain.

"Is it going to hurt?" That's what everyone worries about when they go to a hospital.

And while no one has found a way to guarantee a painless procedure, we've come up with quite a few ideas to take the sting out of hospitalization.

For instance, for certain post-operative recoveries, we offer the most advanced method for dispensing pain medication: Patient Controlled Analgesia (PCA). When something starts to hurt, you press a button and, instead of waiting for a nurse, a computer automatically dispenses the proper, limited dosage of your medication. This way you alleviate pain before it peaks, not after.

Maybe you think having a stranger as a roommate is a pain in the neck. That's why all the patient rooms in our new building are private. And many have spectacular views of the Harbor and Boston.

If you have day treatment such as cataract surgery, an arthroscopic procedure, or a routine biopsy here, you won't have to suffer through a lot of traffic. And if you've been to any of those big downtown hospitals lately, you know what a pain that can be. We have plenty of parking, for guests and patients alike, and it's all free.

So consider Quincy Hospital. And for more information, call 773-6100, ext. 4016.

After all, the less pain you have going to a hospital, the quicker you'll get home.

QSO To Present 'Youth Performs' Concert

Quincy Symphony Orchestra will present the third concert of its 37th season Friday, April 12 at 8 p.m. in the North Quincy High School Performing Arts Center.

The concert will be under the direction of Francisco Noya, music director and conductor.

Rennie Geoffroy, first place winner in the Quincy Savings Bank Scholarship competition, will be the guest violin soloist.

The program will include "Concerto No. 2 for Violin and Orchestra" by Mozart and "Symphony In D Minor" by Franck.

Noya, QSO conductor for the third season, is a native of Venezuela. Holding degrees in music and conducting from Boston University, he is also conductor of the Brockton Symphony. He was recently appointed conductor of the Empire State Youth Orchestra in Albany, N.Y.

Geoffroy, 16, has been studying the violin since she was vice. At present, she is a pupil of Dana Mazurkevich at the New

5 Key Roles To Fill At Quincy

A year ago the Quincy girls' softball team enjoyed its first winning season in several years under first-year coach Bud Mosher and missed qualifying for the Eastern Mass. Tournament by just one win, finishing at 9-7.

This season Quincy is in the Old Colony League and Mosher faces a big job in filling the shoes of pitcher Lisa Connolly, who won all nine games last year.

"Lisa was outstanding and some of the losses were not her fault," said Mosher. "We should have won another few games to make the tournament, but the defense faltered on a few occasions. We were 8-4 in our last Suburban League season and all of our losses came at the hands of Brockton and Waltham.

"We need a good fast ball pitcher this year and we also must fill four other spots. Second baseman Cristen Clarke, catcher Aileen Donahue, center fielder Cindy Galman and third baseman Maureen Shea all graduated along with Connolly."

Heading the returnees are three Suburban League all-stars, shortstop Christine Barrett, who hit .596; infielder-catcher Amy Baker, who hit .465, and outfielder Colleen Gallagher, who hit .340.

Also back are first baseman Holly McDonough (.240), utility player Kim Marsden (.270), Susan McCole, who played in only two varsity games last year, and Christie Richmond, who saw limited playing time.

In addition to 16 league games, Quincy will play home and home games with Milton of the Bay State Conference.

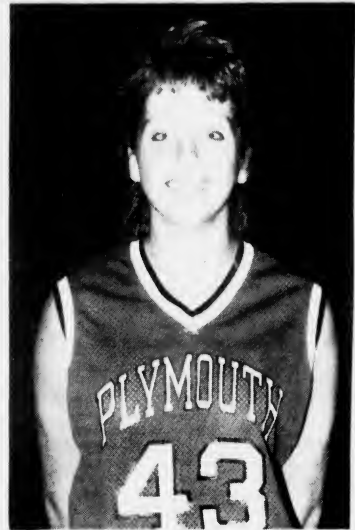

The team is scheduled to open at home against Falmouth Thursday, April 4 at Faxon Field at 3:30.

Its first five games are at Faxon Field, against Falmouth-Barnstable April 8, North Quincy April 10, Plymouth April 12 and Silver Lake April 22.

By TOM SULLIVAN

QUINCY TWINS Gayle, left and Patti Morrell played prominent roles in the Plymouth State College's best season in history. The team finished at 19-7 and earned its first-ever bid to the ECAC Division 3 championship tournament. Gayle averaged 7.5 points and 6.2 rebounds a game and shot a team-high 54 percent from the floor. Patti averaged 4.8 points and 5.1 rebounds a game. The twins are juniors and were standouts at Quincy High.

Two Residents In Quad Rugby National Tourney

Patrick Faherty and Steve Killilea, two Quincy residents, are members of the New England Paralyzed Veterans Association "Pit Bulls," which will compete in the Quad Rugby National Tournament in Tampa, Florida, April 6-8.

The Pit Bulls qualified for the nationals at the Atlantic Regionals March 16 and 17. Eight teams will participate in the national tournament. The Pit Bulls placed fourth last year in their third season.

Quad Rugby is a sport based on rugby and played in wheelchairs.

Innello Completes Outstanding Career

Former Quincy High player Joe Innello completed an outstanding four-year football career at Stonehill College as a wide receiver.

Innello had 16 receptions for 166 yards and a touchdown in his senior year, ranked fourth in the Eastern Collegiate Conference and received all-star honorable mention.

As the second leading receiver for the Chieftains, his speed and mobility allowed quarterback Mark Drake to complete key passes when the leading receiver was covered.

Innello's best game was against MIT when he caught six passes for 70 yards and a touchdown.

Sports

Youth Football Seeks Coaches, Volunteers

The Quincy Youth Football League is in need of volunteers for coaches, cheerleading coaches, ticket takers and concession stand workers. Senior citizens are welcome.

The players and cheerleaders range in age from 10 to 14 years.

Anyone interested in helping out in any capacity is asked to call president Joe Sheffer at 479-7626 or secretary Rose Elder at 876-7284 from 7 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. or 479-9761 after 4 p.m.

Lydon, Samoset, Harold Club Win

Lydon-Russell edged Samoset Pharmacy, 1-0, on John Sullivan's goal. Goalie Mike Cusack recorded the shutout.

Samoset defeated Neponset Valley Survey, 6-1, as Shaun Flaherty scored two goals and Jim Cashins, Mike Carloni, Sean Haidul and Matt Minicucci one each.

Minicucci, Haidul, Flaherty, Paul Flynn, Jeremiah Hasson, Jon Healy, Ryan Murray and Tom Carloni had assists. Tom Hughes scored for Neponset Valley and Patrick O'Neill assisted.

The Sen. Paul Harold Club topped Lydon-

Russell, 5-1, with Joe Cunningham, Chris Griffin, Nick Pizziferri, Joe Watson and Andrew Nestor scoring the goals and Shawn Dooley, Nestor, Jeff Langille, Pizziferri and Watson having assists. John Katsarikas scored for Lydon and Matt Holt assisted.

Daniel Kennedy scored all three goals as Balducci's edged Purdy's Ice Cream, 3-2. Jon Paquette and Joe Callahan had assists. Adam Smith and Kevin Lynch scored for Purdy's and John Segalla and Steve McGonagle assisted.

Youth Hockey

Quincy Bantam A's Win Division Crown

Quincy's Bantam A hockey team, sponsored by Bryan Post VFW, won the Division I state championship, sweeping through five games unbeaten in the state tourney. It is the first Quincy Youth Hockey Bantam team to win a state title.

Quincy is playing in the national championships in Moorhead, Minn. this weekend.

Quincy won the state crown with a 7-5 victory over Weymouth in the finals. Steve Bartkus and Brian Sullivan had two goals apiece and Jeff Craig, Mike DesRoche and Brian Wood one each.

Wood had three assists, Doug Nolan, Joe Carinci and Rob Guarnieri two apiece and Sullivan, John DeMarco, DesRoche and Matt McGowan one each. Lou Bertucci, normally a forward, filled in on defense and turned in a fine performance.

The Bantam A's opened the tourney with an 8-1 win over Danvers. McGowan had four goals and Nolan, Sullivan, David Cooper and DesRoche one each. Carinci had four assists, David Manning, Craig, DesRoche and Sullivan two each and Cooper and McGowan one apiece.

Quincy then overcame a 2-0 deficit and defeated SWS, 6-2, with six unanswered goals. Carinci had a hat trick and Wood, Sullivan and McGowan a goal each. Craig had three assists and Bartkus, Manning, Sullivan and DesRoche one each.

Next came a 4-2 win over Parkway with Craig and DesRoche scoring two goals each. Bertucci, DeMarco, Carinci, Manning, Wood and Bartkus had assists.

Quincy then advanced to the title game with a 7-2 semifinal victory over Billerica. Quincy trailed by two before Craig scored the first of his two goals. Quincy then scored six unanswered goals with Wood and DesRoche having two each and Carinci one. Wood had two assists and Guarnieri, Manning, Bartkus, Craig and DeMarco one apiece.

Kevin Mock is the coach, Paul McDonald and Bruce Wood assistant coaches, and Lou Carinci is the manager.

Donations to help defray expenses of the trip to Minnesota may be mailed to, Quincy Youth Hockey, c/o Lorraine Rooney, Quincy Youth Arena, 60 Murphy Memorial Drive, Quincy, 02169.

Pee Wee C's Win State Championship

The Quincy Pee Wee C youth hockey team edged Woburn, 3-2, to win the state championship at Lo Conte Rink, Medford, last weekend.

Jason Healy led the way with two goals in the title game and J.J. Farrell also scored for Quincy. The champs got outstanding goaltending throughout the tournament from Tom Hawes.

Quincy skated past Medford, 4-2, in the opening round as Farrell scored two goals and Craig Pinkham and Paul Princiotto also scored. Quincy demolished Falmouth, 9-1, in the second round as Tim Zaniboni and Princiotto netted two goals each. Matt McSweeney, Bruce Stenberg, Matt Radzevich, Dave Rowell and Pinkham each scored a goal.

Framingham came the closest to beating Quincy as the two teams skated to a 2-2 tie. McSweeney and Radzevich scored for Quincy.

In the semifinals,

Billerica fell, 6-3, as McSweeney netted a hat trick and Farrell, Stenberg, and Radzevich scored single goals.

Quincy's roster also includes Martin Hickey, Joe Bracken, Tim Hunter, Dave Twomey, Jeff Spear, Tim Sugrue, Mike Martin, Chris Knox, Jim Casinelli and Brian Beaton.

The team was coached by John Nee and assistant Ed Leavitt. The team had an overall record of 18-10-2.

Pee Wee House

Colonial Federal Widens Lead

Colonial Federal widened its Pee Wee House League lead to six points with a 6-0 victory over Keohane's.

Goalie Mark Smith recorded the shutout and Jimmy Kelley had two goals and Jeff Spear, Rich Perona, Matt Radzevich and Eric Griffin one each.

Dan DiPaolo and Matt Jarnis had two assists apiece and Ken Burke, Jenna Nolan and Joe Bracken one each.

Bersani Brothers outlasted New England Deli, 9-7, as Eric Oliva had a hat trick, Chris McArdle and John Healy two goals apiece and Pat Tevenan and Bruce Stenberg one each. Stenberg had four assists, Healy, McArdle and Tevenan two each and Matt McSweeney one. J.J. Farrell and Chris Knox had two goals each for Deli and Dan Hughes, Chris Geary and Dan Stone one apiece.

The standings: Colonial Federal, 14-4-2; N. E. Deli, 10-6-4; Bersani, 9-9-2; Keohane's, 2-16-2.

presented a resolve to the City Council Monday calling for a reorganization of the Quincy Public Schools and creation of a new Department of Public Buildings.

Chretien, chairman of the council's Education Committee, said he would like to see the school department's non-educational functions such as building maintenance, purchasing, accounting, etc., to be consolidated with other city departments.

Chretien said he formulated the idea after working on the 26-member School Budget Advisory Committee.

The plan calls for business affairs personnel to be transferred to appropriate positions in City Hall and creation of the new buildings department which would actually be a merger of school and public works maintenance and custodial personnel.

Chretien said the streamlining of the non-educational functions of the schools will make them "more efficient and more accountable."

The Ward 3 councillor said he would also see the same idea applied to other large departments including police and fire.

Chretien has proposed the ideas to the School Committee.

"This will allow the School Committee to focus on educational issues," he said.

In a letter to fellow councillors Chretien stated: "We have to restructure government in many ways to restore taxpayer confidence in our ability to provide worthwhile public services.

I think that the Quincy Public Schools will receive greater support from taxpayers when people know that the school budget involves only positions that pertain to its fundamental mission, which is education."

Councillors Patricia Toland, Michael Cheney and Ted DeCristofaro each voiced general support for the idea.

The Granite Ball

69720 ... Quincy Sq.

Quincy Sq.

By H. BOSWORTH

I don't know about you, but I still can't make heads or tails out of that Constitution sculpture that sits like a rock pile in front of City Hall.

I wonder how many tourists have stood in front of it and asked: "What the hell is that?"

Sixty tons of granite slabs, it is supposed to depict the drafting of the Massachusetts Constitution which served as the model for the U.S. Constitution.

Three of the slabs are supposed to be our own John Adams, his cousin Samuel Adams and James Bowdoin who drafted the state constitution here in 1779 in John Adams' law office in the John Quincy Adams' birthplace on Franklin Street.

But to look at the sculpture and see those three figures, you have to stretch your imagination like a rubber band.

You have to read the nearby explanation to find out that the middle slab is John Adams. But you still wonder which slab is Sam Adams and which one is Bowdoin.

THE CONSTITUTION SCULPTURE in front of new City Hall is a mystery to most passersby and hardly the beauty the granite ball is.

THE GRANITE BALL, a gift to the city in 1925, and now at the Fore River traffic rotary, was once located outside City Hall and should be returned.

YAKOO FAN--While the debate continues in Quincy over the use of North Quincy High School's Yakoo mascot, Sgt. Roger Hartwell shows his support while stationed in the Persian Gulf during Operation Desert Storm. Hartwell was a classmate of Dr. Allan Yacubian at NQHS where they graduated in 1958. Yacubian, an Armenian-American, was the model for the popular mascot.

Kolson Withdraws Proposal Fire, Police Chiefs To Remain Under Civil Service

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Although the scores from last month's Civil Service fire chief examination will not be known until June, the chief's appointment is fast becoming a major issue in Quincy.

Only two of the five Quincy deputies who signed up to take the test took the examination: Acting Chief Thomas Gorman and Deputy Joseph Walsh. As a result, only one man may be eligible to take the reins of the department.

That option does not sit well with Mayor James Sheets who says he wants a choice in making the appointment. If only one man passes the test, Sheets will have to decide whether to appoint him or call for another exam to be administered next year.

Commenting on the latter option Tuesday, the mayor said, "I won't even think about it until I receive the Civil Service list."

On Monday, Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson said he would propose removing the police and fire chief's positions from Civil Service at the April 16th City Council meeting. However, he decided against the proposal Tuesday after he learned the removal would affect veteran preference for Civil Service employees.

"I was not aware in removing the fire or police chief from the Civil Service system that evidently it would have an effect on the status of veteran preferences. I wouldn't do anything to hurt the veterans," said Kolson, a Vietnam veteran.

According to Civil Service regulations, a veteran who attains a passing grade on a promotional Civil Service examination receives preference over other employees who achieve passing marks.

At first, Kolson said he wanted to submit a home-rule petition calling for the removal of the chiefs' jobs from Civil Service to give the mayor a wider choice of candidates and make the chiefs more accountable to the public.

Under Kolson's original proposal, the mayor would have appointed the police and fire chief from within the department. The appointment would have to be confirmed by the city council.

To make the job non-civil service, the council, mayor and state legislature would have to approve the petition. In addition, the mayor would have had to renegotiate the clause out of the fire union's present contract.

Although Kolson has dropped his idea, another councillor could introduce the non-civil service home-rule petition.

Asked whether he supports or opposes taking the positions out of civil service, Sheets replied, "If the council votes to remove it, that's a strong recommendation that you have to look at."

"Whether I would or would not support it, I would wait until it got to me."

In any event, the petition would not affect the appointment of the city's next fire chief.

By ordinance, the mayor appoints the police and fire chiefs from among the top three scorers on a Civil Service test list. Sheets called for a fire chief test of in-house candidates about two months ago. The exam

Decision Up To Ricci Students, Committee Vote To Retain 'Yakoo' At NQHS

By STEVE KAVANAGH

The student body at North Quincy High School has sent a message-loud and clear-that it wants to retain its mascot.

However, the decision on the fate of the Yakoo rests on the shoulders of Superintendent of Schools Dr. Robert Ricci.

NQHS principal Peter Chrisom, a backer of the mascot, is expected to make a recommendation to Ricci on the use of the Yakoo.

Ricci has said in the past that he is opposed to the use of the mascot.

An overwhelming 88 percent of students participating in a recent non-binding referendum voted to keep the Yakoo symbol and another 7.8 percent voted to keep the Yakoo but change its appearance.

The Ad Hoc Committee on the Yakoo, made up of parents, alumni, students and faculty, later voted, 13-0 (with one abstention), to recommend to Chrisom that the Yakoo be maintained as the school mascot.

The committee was to make its presentation to Chrisom Wednesday.

At the same time, Vicki Higgins of Quincy, a Micmac tribe member had organized a protest rally against the Yakoo outside the school.

More than 57% of the school's 1,163 students participated in the referendum. Five hundred and twenty-four voted to continue the use of the Yakoo symbol; 25 voted to discontinue the use of Yakoo; and 46 voted to change the Yakoo symbol.

The Yakoo, a depiction of an Indian carrying a stone hammer and an NQ flag, was introduced in 1958 as the mascot of the Red Raiders.

Opponents have said the symbol is racist and stereotypes American Indians.

Backers of the Yakoo say that the mascot inspires pride and excellence-not racism-at North.

Students recently participated in a two-week forum which included presentations for both sides of the issue. Speakers included native Americans who spoke both for and against the popular mascot.

The Quincy Wire Department issued 112 permits for an estimated cost of $434,259 during March, reports Wire Inspector Thomas Purpura.

There were 30 certificates of approval to the Massachusetts Electric Company and $3,603 in permit fees.

In addition, there were 410 inspections, 68 defects noted, 33 reinspections and three fire calls.

An electrical permit was issued last month for the wiring of three townhouse condominiums at 86 Crescent St.

Mass LearnPike Comes To Quincy Center For Tech-Ed

The Massachusetts Corporation for Education Telecommunications (MCET) has opened the "Mass LearnPike," a satellite-based broadcast network linking 50 school systems state-wide, at the Quincy Center for Technical Education.

As members of MCET, school systems receive satellite equipment which allows them to participate in interactive academic courses, student enrichment programs and staff development programs as well as a number of programs offered via satellite from producers across the United States and western Europe.

MCET courses currently in the broadcast schedule include "SportsPlan," a goal-setting course for students in grade 4 through 8, "Devoted to Science," a five-week hands-on program for elementary teachers, produced with the Museum of Science, and "My Town," featuring student-produced videos about their local communities.

Additional programs will be developed with teachers, universities and local institutions.

Quincy Multicultural Arts Festival Opens April 14

The first Quincy Multicultural Arts Festival opens Sunday, April 14 from 3 to 6 p.m. at the Atrium at Presidents Place, Quincy Center.

The opening event of the month-long festival will feature Hiro Honshuku and the A-No-Ne Big Band with guest George Garzone.

The Multicultural Festival will involve some 45 events between April 14 and May 11. More than 40 community organizations have helped in the planning, and the festival has received financial support from the Massachusetts Cultural Council, the Quincy Arts Council and the Harold Brooks Foundation.

Highlights of the festival will include:

- Mediterranean and Middle Eastern Dance Festival
- Cultural Songs and Stories from Nori Nke Ake, African, Li Min Mo, Asian, Betty Lehrman, Jewish, and Len Cabral, Afro-American.
- A Greek "Taverna"
- Swedish folk songs and dance
- Lectures on immigration
- Folkdancing from around the world
- Russian music
- Japanese flower arranging
- classical music concerts
- Jazz concerts
- "A Fashionable Journey Through Scotland"
- Asian Cultural festival
- "Gala Finale" with the Berklee Caribbean Ensemble, Shirim Klezmer

Band, and an Irish Fiddle Band

• Food from around the world planning for the the Multicultural Festival began after last year's Asian Cultural Festival at Beechwood Community City Center. Principal organizers, Stan Nikkel of Urbanistics Human Services Foundation and Mark Leighton of Beechwood, envisioned a city-wide festival celebrating the history of all the different immigration populations which make up Quincy.

One of the primary goals of the festival is that each individual population will be introduced to other immigrant populations, breaking down isolationist boundaries that tend to insulate ethnic groups.

'Baby Shower' To Mark Opening Of New Quincy Hospital Birthing Suites

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

To celebrate the opening of First Moments, Quincy Hospital's new birthing suites, the hospital is planning a "baby shower" to benefit the residents of the Mary-Martha Learning Center in Hingham.

Baby shower gifts will be presented to representatives of the center Saturday, April 20 at the dedication of the birthing suites. Members of the community are invited to bring gifts of new clothing and other essential items for infants and babies.

Gifts can be dropped off at the Quincy Hospital Public Relations Department any time or brought to the dedication ceremony April 20.

In keeping with the shower theme, gifts should be new items, and gift wrapped.

Beginning at noon, the opening will also include a ribbon cutting ceremony with Mayor James Sheets and Hospital Director Ellen Zane. Refreshments, tours and entertainment for children will continue until 4 p.m.

The event is free and open to the public. For more information, call (617) 773-6100 ext. 4016.

The Mary Martha Center is a program of the Quincy Crisis Center. It is a residential educational program where homeless women with young children receive training in life skills designed to help them achieve positive, long-term changes in their lives.

The three-month program provides classroom instruction and supervision in the practical application of new skills in daily life. A full-time advocate assists each family in locating permanent housing and community services, and provides follow-up for three months after they leave the program.

First Moments is a new addition to existing birthing services at Quincy Hospital. The unit is made up of eight new labor/delivery/recovery/post partum rooms which allow women the choice of remaining in one room throughout her childbirth experience.

"In making the opening of this beautiful new unit, we wanted to reach out to women in our community who might be facing some difficult times during the first moments of their children's lives," said Gail Driscoll, R.N., nurse manager of First Moments.

"Working in a hospital is really about being able to offer support to those in need, and we felt that it was important that this recognition be included in our celebration."

Flower Vendors Need Building Dept. Approval

Anyone wishing to sell flowers during the upcoming holidays, including Mother's Day and Independence Day, are reminded a permit is required from the Quincy Building Department prior to the day of the outdoor sales.

Upon application, the building department will ascertain that the particular site involved is in a zoning district that permits outdoor sales. Permits for outdoor sales involve a $10 fee for each day of the sale.

For more information, contact the Quincy Building

Department at 773-1380 ext. 367.

Building Department Issues $1,227,103 In Permits

The Quincy Building Department issued 80 permits for an estimated cost of $1,227,013 during March, according to a report issued by the department.

In March, 1990, the department issued 124 permits for an estimated $4,160,885.

One permit was issued for a nine-unit condominium at Westford St. at an estimated cost of $411,840.

In addition, there were 60 residential alterations for an estimated $359,623; 11 other alterations for an estimated $416,200; two garages for an estimated $16,000; three removals for an estimated $7,800; and six miscellaneous permits for an estimated $15,550.

Last month's receipts totaled $22,413 and public safety inspection fees amounted to $235.

In addition, there were 111 plumbing permits issued for an estimated $2,607 and 72 gas permits issued for an estimated $551.

Adams National Historic Site To Open April 19

The National Park Service announces the Adams National Historic Site will open for the 1991 season April 19.

The Adams National Historic Site includes the birthplaces of John Adams, 2nd U.S. President, and John Quincy Adams, 6th U.S. President; and the "Old House." For four generations the "Old House" was residence to John Adams, John Quincy Adams, Charles Francis Adams, U.S. Ambassador to England during the Civil War, and two literary historians, Henry and Brooks Adams.

Park Rangers provide tours through the homes and provide a more personal view of this distinguished family.

Tours of the both sites is about an hour long and conducted on a first come basis. Sites are open seven days a week from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. through November 10. Reservations are required for groups of eight or more. The last full tours begin at 4:15 p.m.

This year is the 75th Diamond Anniversary of the National Park Service.

The Granite Ball Belongs In Quincy Sq.

That's the trouble. You have to read the explanation to find out what it's all about. And then you're still not too sure.

The sculpture was unveiled in September 1979 during one of the most glorious weekends in Quincy's history celebrating the 200th anniversary of the Massachusetts Constitution.

The precious document was brought to Quincy from the State Archives in a Brink's armored car to the John Quincy Adams Birthplace where it was put on public display.

The weekend activities included a parade featuring 80 West Point cadets, concerts by the Quincy Symphony Orchestra and the U.S. Naval Academy show band, a special Mass at St. John's, a pageant at historic First Parish Church, a breakfast at Beth Israel Synagogue—all three with a Bicentennial theme—open house at the Adams Mansion, a bonfire, and fireworks.

Participating in the ceremonies were Gov. Edward King, Congressman Brian Donnelly, former Congressman James Burke, Mayor Arthur Tobin, former mayors Thomas Burgin, James McIntyre and Walter Hannon, and other officials. McIntyre was chairman of the Bicentennial Committee that put it all together.

Constitution Common in front of City Hall was dedicated. And, the sculpture was unveiled.

The sculpture didn't exactly set the town on its ear. Bystanders stared but didn't say too much. Maybe they were too wrapped up in all the other activities that weekend.

But since then, there have been unflattering comments, and it has mystified both visitors and residents. It has also been a challenge to daredevil skateboarders and has served as a handy urinal for some at night.

The sculpture was designed by Jerry Raichler and the artwork was done by sculptor Ed Monti who has done a lot better work than this.

Monti reportedly did it for $12,000. The actual value back then was set at $35,000.

Former Mayor McIntyre, while the sculpture was still in the making and kept a secret, predicted, "It will be of controversial design."

He was right. Just prior to the unveiling, Monti said: "It's a rather new concept. It's sort of like a mystery. You look at it and you just have to make up your mind as to what you see in it."

Frankly, when I look at it, I see a pile of rock that might be put to better use as reinforcement for a Houghs Neck seawall.

Monti added, at the time:

"It's something that will be there forever and ever in the memory of all the granite people in Quincy."

The granite people of Quincy deserve something better than that.

And, it is here and has been for many years.

It's the beautiful large polished Quincy granite ball at the Fore River Bridge rotary circle in Quincy Point.

Now, that's a piece of art.

The ball, notes former Quincy Assessor Elmer (Mike) Fagerlund, was a gift to the city from the historic Granite Railway Company and the Faxon family in 1925 to commemorate the 300th anniversary of the settlement of Quincy in 1625.

For many years it was located in Quincy Square outside City Hall a few feet from where the Constitution sculpture is now.

"It is a symbol of the granite heritage of Quincy—a memorial to the thousands of workers who made Quincy famed the world over as the Granite City," says Fagerlund.

He would like to see it back in Quincy Square.

So would I.

That's sure to bring a howl from a good friend and City Council President Ted DeCristofaro, who represents Quincy Point and would guard the ball with a shotgun if need be.

But with all due respect to DeCristofaro and the residents of Quincy Point, the ball really belongs back in Quincy Square.

It could go on McIntyre Mall. Or in front of First Parish Church where there is a spot sitting ready for it right there now.

Most people who see the ball in Quincy Point are the same people who drive by there daily, going and coming over the Fore River Bridge.

In Quincy Square, it would be seen by thousands of new visitors each year.

It would be the crowning glory for Mayor James Sheets, "Cleaner Greener Quincy" and his accent on tourism as a major attraction for the city.

And it would be a fitting tribute to Quincy's granite craftsmen and history.

One thing for sure. You wouldn't need a nearby explanation to know it is a granite ball — and a thing of beauty.

Discussion On South Shore Immigrants April 23

Stan Nikkel, Ph. D., executive director of Urbanistics Human Services Foundation, will discuss "Immigration to the South Shore: Who, Why and Where?" Tuesday, April 23 at noon in the Quincy

Hospital conference room. The U.S. Census recently reported its findings about the people living on the South Shore. They include a number of recent immigrants and refugees. The talk and discussion will focus on the composition of the newcomer population, where they live and issues dealing specifically with them.

Founded 10 years ago, Urbanistics is a non-profit organization serving refugees, immigrants and their employees. Services are provided throughout the South Shore, Southeastern Massachusetts and Greater Boston. They include English as a Second Language, literacy, pronunciation, citizenship preparation, job placement and cultural education.

Reservations for the luncheon and meeting are $6.

To make reservations, contact the Inter-Agency Council, St. Boniface Church, 26 Shed St., Quincy.

GIVING TO YOURSELF

Your doctor has recommended surgery and has mentioned the possibility of a blood transfusion. You wonder about being your own blood donor. It's not only feasible for most patients, but many doctors prefer it.

Autologous blood transfusion (using the patient's own predeposited blood) safeguards recipients against transfusion-related illness and also nearly eliminates the risk of adverse allergic reactions. Autologous transfusion is relatively simple. A patient scheduled for elective surgery is asked to donate blood which is processed and labeled using current blood bank methods of preservation and storage. A unit of "pint" of blood can be collected as often as once a week, up to 72 hours before surgery. The amount needed depends on the proposed operation. Iron pills are prescribed to replenish the lost hemoglobin before the operation.

P.S. If donated blood is not needed, it can go into the blood bank to be used for others.

Donating blood is a crucial way to help others, and in some cases, help make the difference between life and death. If you are considering elective surgery, you may want to ask your physician about being your own blood donor. We believe in preventive health care here at COMPREHENSIVE CARDIAC CARE and can help you develop a lifestyle that is heart-smart. For more information, please call 472-2550. We're located at 101 Adams Street, Suite 24 in Quincy. Hours are by appointment.

Quincy Lions Club To Celebrate 50th Anniversary Friday

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

The Quincy Lions Club will celebrate the 50th anniversary of its founding at a dinner dance to be held Friday, April 12 at Lantana in Randolph.

Cocktail hour will begin at 7 p.m. and dinner will be served at 8 p.m.

The club which received its charter from Lions International on Jan. 20, 1941, had 21 charter members. Avery Gilkerson, a Quincy attorney who served on the city council and as a state representative, was the club's first president.

Gilbert Conklin, the Quincy Lions Club's 50th president, said "Since the Lions Club of Quincy was chartered in 1941, it has actively worked to aid the blind and promote sight conservation. With confidence, imagination and efficiency, Club members have raised funds to carry out sight and community projects.

"We are proud of all our past accomplishments and look forward to continuing to "Touch a Life with Hope."

Over the years, the Quincy Lions Club has donated more than $70,000 to Mass. Lions Eye Research, helped sponsor annual glaucoma and vision screening clinics and provided scholarships for graduates of Quincy and North Quincy High Schools.

In addition, the club has sponsored an annual Christmas Dinner for the Blind, provided needy with eyeglasses and eye examinations as well as donating to Lions International Fund and various community charities.

The club has also helped community organizations in fundraising activities.

Invited guests at the anniversary dinner dance include the presidents of the Quincy Rotary and Quincy Kiwanis Club and their wives, and Lions District Governor Robert Garrity.

Mayor James Sheets, a new Lions Club member, will bring the greetings of the city. Elaine Vakalopoulos will serve as mistress of ceremonies.

Lions International is the largest service organization in the world, with 1,375,000 members in more than 39,000 clubs in 171 countries.

Quincy's Yesterdays

Furcolo Defends Record State Budget At Quincy Dinner

Gov. Foster Furcolo defended his record state budget of $457 million at a dinner-dance sponsored by the Democratic City Committee and the Democratic Women's Club at Quincy Armory.

But he declined to get into a debate with Lt. Gov. Robert F. Murphy, an opponent of the governor's proposal for a limited sales tax. Murphy left the party before Furcolo arrived.

"Irresponsible men vote for programs and won't vote to finance them," said Cong. James A. Burke (D-Milton) in support of the governor. "Furcolo has the courage to do something to pay off the debt."

Atty. Gen. Edward J. McCormack urged everyone present to become a missionary for the presidential ambitions of Sen. John F. Kennedy by writing to friends out of state "and telling them about Jack Kennedy."

TANKER AGREEMENT

An agreement was reached on more than $50 million in financing guarantees that apparently cleared the way for construction of a 106,500-ton tanker and two 46,000-ton tankers at the Fore River Shipyard.

The tankers, one costing $26 million and the other $12,650,000 apiece, had been on order for some time by the Onassis interest of Greece but the financial negotiations had been long and involved.

RAISES APPROVED

The City Council's Ordinance approved raises for all members of the Police and Fire Departments, effective July 1, their second pay hike of the year.

Under the new salary schedule, privates in both departments would get raises from $3,990 to $4,000 to start and a maximum of $4,705 to $5,000 for the lowest rank.

CATHOLIC GIRL HONORED

Mary Sheila Coughlin, daughter of Mrs. Marion C. Coughlin of Wollaston, was presented the Eagle of the Cross award for leadership and spirituality at the Archdiocesan Catholic Youth Convention in Boston.

'Forty Years Of Christmas Memories' Selected As Christmas Parade Theme

The theme of this year's Quincy Christmas Festival Parade is "Forty Years of Christmas Memories" which was submitted by Kathleen Cameron of Wollaston.

The 40th annual parade will be held Sunday, Dec. 1.

Compared to past years, the number of entries in the theme contest was down. However, this year the suggestions were more varied, making the committee's selection more difficult.

"The Christmas Festival Committee greatly appreciates the general public participation and it is wonderful that they want to be a part of this annual event," Chairman George White said.

This is the 40th consecutive year of the grand event and several theme responses recognized this significant achievement. The winning theme relates to this achievement.

According to Publicity Chairman Herb Fontaine, theme entries were received from Quincy, Randolph, Weymouth, Braintree, Milton, Hull, Rockland, Hingham and Marshfield.

Committee Float Chairperson Frances Flynn said the winning theme offers float builders diversification, flexibility and imagination in building a float. The theme also emphasizes the parade's 40th anniversary.

Organizations will soon be notified of the winning entry. Parade float entry forms will be mailed out shortly.

Flynn urges organizations and businesses planning to participate to return the completed entry forms as quickly as possible.

In past years, the committee has had to establish a float waiting list. The committee has increased the number of float participating and a waiting list was still needed.

The best overall non-commercial float receives the Fr. Thomas Tierney trophy and $1,000 cash. Second place receives $500, third $300 and fourth $200.

Floats are judged on creativity, complying with the parade theme and other criteria.

A float building seminar is being planned for mid-September. For more information, write to Frances Flynn, 79 Freeman St., North Quincy, MA 02170.

The next committee meeting will be held Wednesday, April 17 at 7 p.m. at the Patriot Ledger, Crown Colony Dr., South Quincy. All members are requested to attend.

Patrick Neil Nominated As Outstanding Vo-Tech Student

Readers Forum

Good Luck, Ned

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The Boston Marathon is a grueling event. When this vast sea of humanity bursts from the starting line in the little town of Hopington, and floods like a stream toward Boston, I'll be watching for my pal, Ned Tobin from Quincy. He as trained for this event since November, sometimes four days a week. I used to run myself, so I think I understand from a runner's point of view what the challenge is all about. Every year I take my 12-speed into Boston and pedal along the same marathon route. This year I'll be cheering Ned Tobin on, as that sea of humanity streams toward Boston. All of Quincy will be cheering for you. Good luck, Ned.

Win or lose, you can tell your children 'I ran the Boston Marathon and finished,' and that represents the true meaning of accomplishment.

$56,000 Raised For American Cancer Society

Quincy Leads As South Shore Sets Daffodil Days Record

Quincy volunteers, residents, schools and businesses led the way in helping the South Shore Unit of the American Cancer Society sell a record $140,000 daffodils and raise $56,000 during the recent Daffodil Days which supports the Society's program of information, education and service in nine South Shore communities.

Quincy turned in top receipts of $24,340 from the sale of "these first flowers of spring" that have come to symbolize the increasing hope made possible for cancer patients by research sponsored by the Cancer Society. Of this amount, Quincy schools, in a program headed by Pat Drew and Jean Healy, sold $11,360. Employees of State Street South brought in $3,000.

"We're delighted with the success of Daffodil Days, which was a pleasant surprise considering the current economic difficulties," said Pauline Sweeney, co-chairperson of the Daffodil Days committee. "People were wonderful and I especially want to thank the volunteers, residents, schools and businesses in Quincy who helped make it possible.

"With their cooperation, the South Shore Unit again led all 40 units in the state," she added.

The South Shore Unit, with offices in Stoughton, covers Braintree, Cohasset, Hingham, Hull, Milton, Norwell, Quincy, Scituate and Weymouth. Volunteers carry out programs of public and professional education, referral and transportation in these towns.

In addition, Sweeney commended the Quincy Health Department, Quincy City Hall where Mary Papile headed the effort; Quin Oil Industries, Manet Health Center, Miller Studios, Granite City Electric, Heartcare Medical Center, Quincy Hospital, Quincy District Courthouse, Quincy Visiting Nurse, National Fire Protection Association, De Merritt Associates, The Cooperative Bank, Continental Cable, Indek Chiropractic, Granite Bank, St. Joseph's School, Sacred Heart School, Woodward School, U.S.F. & G., South Shore Hematology, Sweeney Funeral Home, Interstate Distributors, Kennedy and Lehane.

Also, Lloyd's Diamonds & Gold, Proctor & Gamble, Vazza Associates, Crestview Healthcare Facility, Wollaston Credit Union, GTE Shareholders, O'Connor & Drew, The Patriot Ledger, The Quincy Sun, James Neundorf Builders, South Shore Bank, Mark Nankin D.D.S., Dickenson Development, Quincy Firefighters' Association, Robbin House Nursing Home, Bayview Inn, Daniel Penni-Boston Insurance, Arbella Insurance, Dr. Steven Kahn, Applied Image and Reprographics, Flavin & Flavin and Colonial Federal Savings Bank.

ROSLYN GREENWALD OF Merrymount presents a daffodil to a bemused Lisa Sweeney being held by her mother Pauline Sweeney, also of Quincy, at a recent Daffodil Days luncheon held by the American Cancer Society at the Lafayette Hotel. Mrs. Sweeney, co-chairperson of the South Shore Unit, was honored for selling 270 boxes of daffodils, the second year in a row that she has sold the most. In seven years, she has raised $214,000 for ACS.

Quincy Hospital Offering $1,000 Scholarship

For the fourth consecutive year, the Volunteer Services at Quincy Hospital is offering the $1,000 Bissett Junior Volunteer Scholarship to a high school student who has volunteered at the hospital.

Students who have volunteered a minimum of 100 hours at the hospital, and who have been accepted by an accredited institution, should call (617) 773-6100 ext. 3149 for an application and further information.

Deadline to apply is April 30.

Besides filling out an application, the student must submit a letter explaining "What Volunteering has Meant to Me." An accompanying letter must state the reasons for application, personal interests and extracurricular activities.

A transcript of the student's high school grades must also be included.

The scholarship was initiated in 1988 from the estate of a former Quincy Hospital employee, John Bissett. Funds have been supplemented through the sale of heirloom baby beads to maternity patients.

ST. ANN'S SCHOOL

Wollaston, MA

"An Atmosphere of Caring"

"We have had the honor of having our four children educated at St. Ann's School. We feel St. Ann's School has given them a very sound foundation both educationally, with an outstanding teaching staff, and spiritually as good and caring Christians. We are very proud to have been a part of the St. Ann's community."

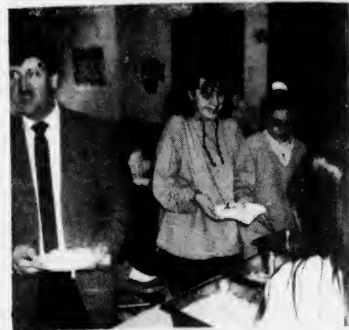

Ed & Joan Keohane

Your children deserve a strong foundation for a lifetime of success.

Registrations are being held now for grades K-8. For an appointment, call Mrs. Murray at 471-9071

WILLIAM BILLIKAS, Home Economics teacher at Sterling Middle School, serves students some Italian cuisine. As part of a unit on geography, eighth grade students have been sampling food from the foreign countries they have studied.

STERLING MIDDLE SCHOOL Principal Richard Hutchison was one of approximately 100 eighth grade students and teachers who enjoyed a recent Italian lunch.

Sterling Eighth Graders Get 'A Taste Of The World'

Students at Sterling Middle School have developed a real taste for geography this year.

David Higgins' eighth grade geography classes have had something extra to go along with their introduction to new countries. Besides studying each country and region thoroughly, classes have sampled a bit of the cuisine of some of these foreign lands.

To date, students have tried bratwurst and sauerkraut (Germany, Austria and Switzerland), crepes (France), pickled herring (Scandinavia), and most recently, the classes dined Italian.

Eighth grade students paid $2 each to defray the cost and enjoyed a meal of antipasto, Fettucini Abruzzesi, Risotta con le Zuchite, Petti di Pollo, Alla Bolognese, Pagnoli di Sant Anna and Zeppole.

The meal was prepared by Higgins, Home Economics Teacher William Billikas and selected members of the eighth grade class. Approximately 100 students and teachers enjoyed the meal served during the third lunch.

The learning experience has been a big success and students look forward to the remainder of the year when they will study the Middle East, Asia, Soviet Union and Latin America.

Laity Sunday At Bethany Church

Laity will be observed Sunday at Bethany Congregational Church (United Church of Christ), Spear and Coddington Sts., Quincy.

Lay members of the congregation will preach two short sermons and conduct the worship service at 10 a.m. There will be no chapel service this Sunday.

Preaching the sermons will be Fairlie Kinnecon and Ruth Penn. Others involved in leading the worship service will be Linda Devin, Lena Foster, Bob McLain, Shirley Pyne, Jackie Rivera and Ron Rivera.

This observance gives specific expression to the theological doctrine that all baptized and confirmed Christians are "ministers" (servants) and should exercise that ministry—including leading worship.

The choir will sing under the direction of organist/choir director Gregory Flynn. Worship greeters will be Eleanor Shattuck and Doris Folger.

Fellowship hostesses are Robert Peoples Jr., Marcia, Holly and Jeanette Archer.

Church school classes will be held at 10 a.m. Child care for infants and toddlers is provided while the church service is being held so that parents may attend the service.

The church is accessible to the physically handicapped via ramp on the Spear St. side of the building.

Easter Continues At Squantum First Church

The Easter theme continued at First Church of Squantum on Sunday. Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor, preached on the subject, "Knowing the Real Jesus."

Readers were Barbara Walter, Tom Williamson, Tom Klock, Leif Thornton and Dore Klock.

Music was by James Sumner, the Chancel Choir, organist Mary Ruth Scott and pianist Janet Williamson.

Greeters were Gretchen and Blyth Bumpus. Ushers were Katrina Sorrentino and Janet Sumner. Hazel Mayne and Kathy Sullivan-Moran hosted the fellowship hour.

Bible Study group continues its study of the gospel of Mark each Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

Sunday morning worship service begins at 10:30 a.m. Child care is available. Sunday School meets at 9:45 a.m.

Red Cross Needs Nurses, Therapists In Middle East

The American Red Cross has put out an urgent call for volunteer registered nurses and physical therapists to go to the Middle East to assist at the Kuwait Institute for the Handicapped in Kuwait City.

Nurses and physical therapists must be willing to serve for a minimum of six weeks and up to three months. Potential candidates must be registered physical therapists or nurses with at least two years experience with pediatrics, geriatrics, physical or mental handicapped patients.

Living conditions are spartan with no electricity or running water. Duties include general nursing or physical therapy, teaching nursing and surveillance of and responsibility for material used in the hospital.

The hospital has 380 patients and treats the physically and mentally handicapped, children and seniors.

Qualified people in good health will go to Washington, D.C. for three to five days of orientation and training. The first team of nursing personnel is scheduled to leave May 1.

For more information, contact Volunteer Services at the American Red Cross of Massachusetts Bay at (617) 262-1234 ext. 233 or 234.

Our New Emergency Center Opens May 1. Then We Can All Breathe A Little Easier.

The newest Emergency Center in Massachusetts is about to open. And when it does, it's sure to take your breath away. First of all, the entrance is now on Fogg Rd. And to make life even easier, there are separate entrances for walk-in and ambulance patients. There's even a special play space for children.

For convenient treatment of non life-threatening illnesses or injuries, we've created a special Urgent Care area. And even though you'll probably spend less time there, now the waiting area is far more comfortable and comforting.

Our new Emergency Center has many special features. Thirty-two treatment areas, a trauma room for seriously injured accident victims, a special resuscitation room for patients with heart problems, central monitoring of patient vital signs, and an eye treatment room are all a part of the new facility. There's even an emergency radiology suite.

But without a qualified medical staff, what good is it? Here, all the doctors are experienced emergency medicine specialists. And there are forty nurses to further ensure you receive quality care and personal attention.

Combine this highly qualified medical team with the latest in emergency technology and you have an emergency and trauma center that truly is state-of-the-art. Judge for yourself. Come to our Community Open House on April 27 and 28. Because when it comes to emergency medicine, our center really is a breath of fresh air.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Seeds of Kindness

If you have a friend worth loving,
Love him. Yes, and let him know
That you love him, ere life's evening
Tinge his brow with sunset glow.
Why should good words ne'er be said
Of a friend - till he is dead?

D. Scott Deware

If you hear a song that thrills you,
Sung by any child of song,
Praise it. Do not let the singer
Wait deserved praises long.
Why should one who thrills your heart
Lack the joy you may impart?

If you hear a prayer that moves you
By its humble, pleading tone,
Join it. Do not let the seeker
Bow before his God alone.
Why should not your brother share
The strength of "two or three" in prayer?

If you see the hot tears falling
From a brother's weeping eyes
Share them. And by kindly sharing
Own your kinship in the skies.
Why should anyone be died
When another's heart is sad?

We all need love and acceptance. Too often we forget. A smile, or a word of support and encouragement costs nothing. Yes, we can make life easier for one another with kindness ...

She was born in Jamaica Plain.

She was the wife of the late Joseph D. Mahoney. She is survived by two sons, Edward J. Mahoney of Rockland and Daniel Mahoney of Weymouth; two daughters, Joanne H. Lumley of Garden Grove, Calif., and Mary E. Forrer of Virginia Beach; two brothers; two stepisters; a cousin, 14 grandchildren and 20 great-grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were by the Sweeney Funeral Home, 326 Copeland St., West Quincy.

Youth Baseball League Wants To Sell Snacks To Defray Costs

By STEVE KAVANAGH

The Quincy Youth Baseball League wants to sell peanuts, Crackerjacks, soda and other snacks at its games this summer to help defray the cost of participating youngsters.

Greg Hanley, a member of the QYBL Board of Directors, told the Quincy License Board that the league would like to raise money by selling snacks from push carts at the leagues Babe Ruth, Little League, Farm League and Junior Farm League games.

Hanley said that leagues in other towns raise money to make it more affordable for youngsters to play.

"In Quincy it costs $60 for a kid to play in the Babe Ruth League (ages 13-15). In Braintree it costs $7," Hanley said.

The player fee in Quincy ranges from $35 for Junior Farm League to $60 for Babe Ruth.

League expenses include equipment, uniforms, umpires and trophies. These costs are passed on to the players.

Although the License Board was in favor of the idea, the application for a Common Victualer License for the push carts was not to the board's satisfaction. Hanley agreed to withdraw the application and resubmit it next week.

Hanley, owner of Screamers Ice Cream in Quincy Center and sponsor of a team, has volunteered the use of his business for storage of snack items for the league.

Recreation Ceramics On Display In Sun Window

The annual exhibit of the Quincy Recreation Department youth ceramic program is now on display in the window of The Quincy Sun office, 1372 Hancock St.

The display marks the conclusion of the 20-week program for children age eight through Middle School.

Nineteen children have items selected for display this year. They are:

Janean Pulera, Joseph Hern, Terrence Doherty, Colleen Hillis, Marybeth Skahan, Katie Lynch, Matthew O'Malley, Maureen Casey, Tabatha Miller, Marcia Hern, Katie Kodgis, Shannon Hillis, Melissa Pulera, Sheila Lynch, Craig Royce, Kerri McLaren, and Lauren McLellan.

Recreation Director Barry Welch praised Quincy Sun publisher Henry Bosworth for sponsoring the ceramics display.

"The Sun window allows each participant an opportunity to share their artistic talents with all who pass by the display," he said. "This experience is important to our program because often the individual creative expression of these participants are overshadowed by our highly recognized team sport activities. The participants look forward to having their completed works placed on display."

Welch also praised the ceramics instructors from the Recreation staff for their dedication and enthusiasm. The programs are supervised by Nancy Joyce and instructors are Tina Calabro, Nicole LaPointe, Brenda Riley, Susan Swanton, and Lisa Zambruno.

ELISA PEARMAIN

Storyteller At Crane Public Library April 16

Storyteller Elisa Pearmain will present "Stories of Peace," for children age five and older and for adults on Tuesday, April 16 at the Thomas Crane Public Library. "Stories of Peace" is a multi-cultural program of heroes and heroines who solve disputes with their own strengths and wisdom.

Pearmain's appearance is the first of several multi-cultural performances at the library that are funded by this grant.

Pearmain is a professional storyteller who has told stories during the library's summer storytelling series. She is a member of the Storytellers in Concert and participates in the annual Three Apples Storytelling Festival.

The multi-cultural program is funded by The Family Reading Project, a grant administered by Ann McLaughlin, assistant director.

Quincy Historical Society Musical Benefit April 19

The Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women and Eastern Nazarene College will co-sponsor a musical benefit in honor of the Quincy Historical Society Friday, April 19 from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Adams Academy, 8 Adams St., Quincy.

Light refreshments will be served.

A "Tribute to American Composers" will be performed by Barbara Marois, soprano soloist, and her accompanist, Sister

Theresa Donovan, C.S.J.

Proceeds will benefit the society. Tickets can be purchased in advance at the Adams Academy for $8, or at the door for $10.

Marois, native of Yorkshire, England, began her vocal studies there with a former member of the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company. Shortly after arriving in the United States, she continued her studies with Elizabeth Josselyn of Hingham.

Marois has taught music at Sacred Heart in Weymouth and St. Francis de Sale in Charlestown. Active in community theater, she is also cantor at the 11:30 a.m. Mass at St. Helen's in Norwell.

Her accompanist, Sister Donovan, has taught at St. Ann's School in Wollaston and St. John's in Quincy Center. She received her musical degree from Regis College and is now musical director at St. Helen's in Norwell and a teacher at Sacred Heart in Weymouth.

'Madwoman Of Chaillot' At ENC

The Communications Arts Department of Eastern Nazarene College (ENC) will present its Spring production of Jean Giraudoux's comedy, "The Madwoman of Chaillot," April 11, 12, and 13 at 7 p.m.

The play will be directed by ENC's Michael Ballard.

Although the play was written nearly 50 years ago, the plot is filled with contemporary themes including environmental concern.

The Madwoman, Countess Aurelia, leads the carefree street people in a desperate effort to save Paris from greedy developers on a quest for oil.

Performances will be held in the O'Connell Auditorium of the Cove Fine Arts Center at ENC, 23 East Elm Ave. All seats are $4.

Matinee performances of the play for school groups will be held Thursday and Friday, April 11 and 12 at 10 a.m.

For further information call 773-6350, ext. 262 or 269.

Chamber Music At First Presbyterian Church

The First Presbyterian Church, 270 Franklin St., will present an evening of chamber music Sunday beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Boston Symphony Orchestra musicians and friends will perform compositions by Gioacchino Rossini, Franz Peter Schubert and Samuel Barber. The concert is the third in the church's ongoing "Artist Series 1991."

BSO cellist Joel Moerschel and freelance bass player Nicholas Tsolainos will perform a duet for cello and bass by Rossini.

Schubert's "The Trout" will be performed by a quintet of BSO violinist Bonnie Bewick, BSO violist Edward Gazouleas, freelance pianist Deborah DeWolf Emery, with Moerschel and Tsolainos.

BSO violinist Tatiana Dimitriades will join Bewick, Gazouleas, Moerschel and Tsolainos to perform Barber's "Adagio for Strings" from the composer's original arrangement.

Admission is free and child care is available.

A reception with the musicians will follow in the church fellowship hall and a free offering will be accepted to further the concert series.

North Rocks Plymouth, Falls To Falmouth

The North Quincy boys' track team, like the girls, rolled over Plymouth, 82-49, in its first Old Colony League meet, but fell to powerhouse Falmouth, 88-50.

North faced Quincy Tuesday and will be at Taunton, April 23.

Against Plymouth Mike Yee won the 110 high hurdles and 300 hurdles, John O'Donnell the high jump and triple jump, Wayne Sit the 100 meters, Tony Licciardi the 200 meters, Adam Chansky the 800, Eric Torvi the two-mile, Evan Kiley the shot put and the 4x100 relay team of Sit, Chris Murray, Licciardi and Marc Cocuzzo also won.

Finishing second were Cocuzzo, 200; Mark Sinclair, 400; Jason Buckley, mile; Chris Ballum, two-mile; Marc Larson, 110 hurdles and 300 hurdles; Yee, triple jump, and Matt Swierk, shot and discus.

Taking third places were Josh O'Donnell, 400; Buckley, long jump; Larson, triple jump; Tim Ross, discus; and Adam Strout, javelin.

Winners in the Falmouth meet were Licciardi, 200; Torvi, two-mile; John O'Donnell, high jump; Strout, javelin, and the 4x110 relay team of Murray, Licciardi, O'Donnell and Cocuzzo.

Second place finishers were Sinclair, 400; Buckley, mile; Yee, 300 hurdles; Larson, triple jump, and Kiley, shot put.

Finishing third were Cocuzzo, 200; Josh O'Donnell, 400; Chansky, 800; Ballum, two-mile; Yee, high hurdles; Buckley, long jump; Sinclair, high jump; John O'Donnell, triple jump; Swierk, shot; and Ross, discus.

Quincy Squirrt B's End Season Undefeated

Quincy's Squirrt B hockey team ended its season undefeated in the Greater Boston League and posting an impressive 40-4-1 overall record.

In their season's finale Quincy defeated Charlestown, 5-1, with Bobby Harvey scoring twice and Mark Glyn, Dennis Allen and Bobby Hall once each.

Jonathan Haddad, Matt Allen, Mark Hawes, Pat McGann and Danny Murphy had assists.

The team won three tournaments and made it to the state semifinals.

The members of the team were Dennis and Matt Allen, Glen Chase, Pat Coughlin, Mike Fitzpatrick, Mark Foster, Mark Glyn, Jonathan Haddad, Bobby Hall, Bobby Harvey, Mark Hawes, Shawn Manning, Pat McGann, Danny Murphy, Billy Norris, Mike Powers, Betsy Stone and goalie Brian Beaton, who had 22 shutouts.

The team was coached by John Grennon, Ron McGann and Bob Fitzpatrick.

Ditto For North Girls

The North Quincy girls' track team opened its first Old Colony League season with an 83-48 victory over Plymouth, but then ran into perennial powerhouse Falmouth and lost, 90-51.

North faced Quincy yesterday (Wednesday) and will host Taunton April 23.

In the Plymouth meet Tristen Mastrogiacombo was a triple winner in the 100 meter hurdles, shot put and discus. Tricia Hughes won the 300 meter hurdles and long jump; Amy Wong the 100 meters and triple jump; Jen Hutley the 200; Jenn Flynn the two-mile; and the 4x100 relay team of Wong, Suzanne Hamilton, Nutley and Debbie Ramos also won.

Finishing second were Hamilton, 200; Ilana Cobban, 400; Melanie Gaziano, 800; Suzanne Lewis, mile; Erin Duggan, two-mile; Aimee Chin, triple jump; Heather Rendle, high jump; Voula Regas, shot put; and Tara Miles, javelin.

Third place finishers were Carin Corrigan, 800; Julie Tangney, mile; Kara Sullivan, two-mile; Gaziano, long jump; Meghan Barry, shot put; and Ramos, javelin.

The Falmouth girls, always an Eastern Mass. power, had too much depth for North and were easy winners.

Mastrogiacombo was again a triple winner, taking the shot, discus and 100 hurdles. Hughes won the 300 hurdles and Miles the javelin.

Taking second places were Wong, 100; Nutley, 200; Cobban, 400; Lewis, mile; Flynn, two-mile; Hughes, long jump; and Zoe Bohl, high jump.

Placing third were Lewis, 800; Tangney, mile; Wong, triple jump; Barry, shot, and Ramos, javelin.

Quincy Drops Pair, But Walker Shines

The undermanned Quincy boys' track team proved no match for Falmouth and Barnstable last week, but junior Chris Walker had two outstanding meets and was a double winner in both.

In a 94-37 loss to Falmouth, Walker won the high jump at 6'2", the high hurdles (16.4) and anchored the winning 4x100 relay team.

Calvin White, Jason Anderson and Scott MacPherson joined Walker on the winning relay team.

In a 99-36 loss to Barnstable, Walker won the long jump (21 feet), the high jump (6 feet) and high hurdles (16'5").

Anderson placed second in the triple jump at 38'6" and the 220 at 26 flat. Mike Kavanaugh took second place in the shot put (40 feet) and White took second in the 100-yard dash (11.8).

The Presidents met North Quincy Tuesday and will be at Plymouth Friday at 3:30 p.m.

Pee Wee House

Colonial Continues To Roll

Colonial Federal continues to pull away in the Pee Wee House League and widened its lead to eight points with a 4-1 victory over Keohane's.

Dan DiPaolo, Tom Moriarty, Jenna Nolan and Matt Jarnis scored the goals and Joe Bracken and Moriarty had assists. Scott Shepherd scored for Keohane's and Timmy Sheehan assisted.

Bersani Brothers topped

New England Deli, 8-3, as John Healy scored a hat trick. Chris McArdle and Dave Rowell had two goals each and Chris Brundage scored one. Matt McSweeney had two assists and Jason Healy, Bruce Stenberg and McArdle one each. Dan Hughes, Jamie Murphy and J.J. Farrell scored for Deli and Murphy had an assist.

The standings: Colonial Federal 15-4-2; New England Deli, 10-7-4; Bersani, 10-9-2; and Keohane's, 2-17-2.

Snug Harbor, Montclair Take First Round Wins

The Quincy Recreation Department Middle School Basketball Tournament tipped off with Snug Harbor and Montclair capturing first round victories.

Snug Harbor used a well-balanced offense to defeat Atlantic, 50-37, while Montclair took an early lead on a hustling Merrymount team to capture a 54-22 victory.

Snug Harbor had seven different players score and used a variety of defenses to beat Atlantic.

Eric Zimmerman was the game-high scorer with 19 points for Atlantic.

Eric Kenny and Sammy Brown had 12 each to pace Snug Harbor. Martin Noonan had eight first half points, Jason Beauvais scored six, and David Sawan, Kevin Norton and Matt Miller had four each. Norton had four assists and Beauvais led in rebounding.

Atlantic's Mike Doyle had eight points and made some great passes. Bill Manning nailed a three-pointer and Todd DeBoer was the leading rebounder and scored two points.

Tim Semchenko scored two points and Kevin Sullivan hit a free throw to round out Atlantic's scoring. Chris Richie and Ted McGillicuddy played good defense.

Atlantic was coached by Joe Mulvey and Will Hughes guided Snug Harbor.

Montclair used a tough, pressing defense to hold Merrymount scoreless in the first period while Shawn Nee scored eight of his game-high 24 points.

Awards Presented At Point Panthers Dinner

The Quincy Point Panthers football team recently held its annual awards night with more than 250 players, cheerleaders and family members attending at Fore River Clubhouse.

Special awards went to varsity and junior varsity players, cheerleaders and all-star players.

Jonathan Gangi received the Varsity Players Award as the outstanding player. Kevin Schneider won the coaches Trophy, Kenny Wood was named Most Improved Player, Tom Arcadipane received the 12th Player award and Mike Delaney received the Memorial Trophy as Panther of the Year.

Other varsity players were Jeff Russell, Patrick Joyce, Jimmy Smith, Neil Kiley, Greg DiBona, Paul Johnson and Allan Harvey.

Junior Varsity awards went to Sean Joyce (players award), Joe Donahue (coaches award), Kurt Palluccio (most improved) and Brad Smith (12th player).

Varsity co-captain Kara Bagen was named Most spirited Cheerleader. Capt. Cindy Cedrone was selected by the coaches as the Most Dedicated and Samantha Perry was named Most Improved. Cati Brillo, cheerleading mascot, also received an award.

Quincy Youth Football League Commissioner Roy Johnson awarded all-star trophies to Gangi, Schneider, Arcadipane, Dave Gunther, Mike Caporale and Keith Martinson.

The cheerleaders received first-place awards for winning the first QYFL cheering competition and Cedrone, Bagen and Christine Curran were given medals for being named to the all-star team.

Fundraising awards went to Paul Johnson, Carmen Lorenzano, Joe Mariano, Bob Walsh, Cindy Cedrone, Christina Staffier and Melissa Link.

The coaches, Bill Myers, Tom Donovan, Mike Dunlea, Jack Kilrain, Patti Myers, Anita Curran and Debbie Russell, were also recognized.

Squirt House

Green Cuts Burgin Lead

Burgin Platner's lead in the Squirt House League was cut to one point when it lost to Green Environmental, 3-1.

Mark Glynn, Pat McGann and Jim Sullivan scored the goals and Kevin Regan and John Masone had two assists apiece and Mike Fitzpatrick and Glynn had one each for Green. Andrew Boyd scored for Burgin and Chris DiMattia and Matt Langille had assists.

The Quincy Sun walloped Granite Auto Electric, 11-5, with Brian Beaton having a hat trick, Chris Haidul and Mike

Sullivan two goals each and Joe Ardagna, Gene Silverman, Jimmy Hasson and Billy Norris one apiece. Hasson had four assists, Haidul and Billy Connelly two apiece and Beaton, Sean Garvey, Sullivan, Ardagna, Matt McDonough and Jacob Fleming one each. John Barron had a hat trick for Granite Auto and Paul Markarian and Shawn Manning a goal each, and Markarian had three assists, Barron and Manning two each, and Ryan Barrett one.

Doran & Horrigan defeated Johnson Motor

Parts, 6-3, as Dennis Allen scored twice and Joe Valatini, Jason Snaith, Billy La and Bobby Harvey once each. A.J. Quinn had two assists and Billy Griffin, Spike Bertucci and Valatini one each. Brian Ehrlich, Mike Ryan and Josh Silverman scored for Johnson and Silverman, Pat Coughlin, Chad Fitzpatrick and Ehrlich had assists.

The standings: Burgin Platner, 7-2-1; Green, 7-3-0; Quincy Sun, 4-5-1; Granite Auto, 4-6-0; Doran & Horrigan, 4-6-0; and Johnson Motor, 3-7-0.

Bowling

McAllister Team Takes St. John's Lead

Bud McAllister's team returned to first place in St. John's Bowling League by a point over John Grande's team.

The standings: McAllister, 62-34; Grande, 61-35; Dan Dieso, 53-43; Jim Mastrantonio, 42-54; Joe Matarazzo, 42-54; Bob Saluti, 28-68.

Saluti rolled the weekly high single of 143, Dave Gilliland had 118 and Ernie DiTullio 117. Saluti also had the high three of 358 and DiTullio rolled 317.

McAllister's team had the high team single of 407 and Matarazzo's team rolled 380. McAllister also had the high team three of 1144 and Matarazzo had 1120.

The Top Ten: Saluti, 108.71; Grande, 103.39; Mastrantonio, 100.14; Dacy DiCesare, 97.59; Matarazzo, 97.03; Don Gilliland, 96.90; Dave Nolan, 95.59; McAllister, 95.38; Dieso, 92.83; Richie Warner, 92.06.

Over 100 Take Part In Basketball Clinic

The Quincy Recreation Department hosted over 100 youngsters in its annual basketball clinic and jamboree for elementary age participants.

The youngsters age 8 through the fifth grade came from nine different recreation centers from all sections of Quincy. This free clinic and jamboree is held as a concluding event to the 25-week winter recreation program.

The program is designed to teach skills of basketball to participants with a 45-minute clinic followed by a series of mini games on a round robin basis.

Once again this year the clinic was put on by Brian Buckley, a 20-year veteran of the recreation staff and the current head coach of basketball at Boston College High School. He emphasized ball control when dribbling and proper foot movement when making a pivot. Youngsters were shown drills and encouraged to practice during the upcoming jamboree.

The jamboree champion crown for 1991 goes to Merrymount, which advanced through the series of 12-minute mini-games with an undefeated record. The jamboree format saw teams compete in a format that insured that every team plays two games before elimination.

In first round action, Merrymount defeated Montclair, 12-6. Matt Kisiel was high scorer for Merrymount while Brian Kane and Brian Ross combined for Montclair's points. Chris Tobin contributed with several key rebounds.

Point/Webster fell to Snug Harbor, 10-4. Jeff Sullivan had all four of Point/Webster points. Michael Dalrymple was outstanding defensively. Snug Harbor Kevin Celoucci and Alpie Montes each had four while Richard Rose had two for the Will Hughes-coached team.

Executive Hockey

Fowler Playoff Winner In Double Overtime

Regular season champion Fowler House defeated Fibotte's Auto Body, 4-3, in double overtime in the first round of the Executive Hockey League playoffs recently at the Quincy Youth Arena.

Eddie Mullen scored the winning goal with John Farrand assisting. Also scoring for Fowler House were Dave Connell with two goals and Jim Conso. John Norton, Joe Fibotte and Dave Casey scored for Fibotte.

Grumpy White's Pub edged Adams Sports, 4-3,

Illness forced Wollaston to combine with Atherton Hough for its first round game as they defeated Beechwood 12-4. Wollaston/Atherton saw balanced scoring as Dan Chenette and Luke Chenette each had four, while Steve Marks and Dan Nichols each had two. Matt Noonan and Sean Harvie scored for Beechwood.

The Atlantic/Quantum game saw Atlantic win, 15-2, to advance. Brian Doyle had six, Kerry Sheehan had four, Nick Sears had two, and Dan Collins had three. Chris Robinson had the lone Quantum basket. Joe MacRitchie, Alex King, and Rachel Leschmier rebounded well at both ends of the floor.

Merrymount played excellent defense in shutting out Wollaston/Atherton, 6-0. Brian Dunne, Stephen Inferrea and Andy Chiacchio all played well for the Steve Gardner and Sean McCarthy-coached team. Jared Downey had all six of Merrymount's points while Tim Lewis and Mike Keddy played a tough man to man defense.

Sean Tilton and Brian Doyle were matched up in the Atlantic vs. Snug Harbor second-round game. Tilton scored 16 to Doyle's 10 as Snug Harbor won 18-12. Atlantic coach Joe Mulvey also got points from Sean Tilton and a strong passing game from Billy Lacey.

Quantum and Point-Webster then matched up in the closest contest of the day as Ray Sartree's buzz-beater game Quantum a 12-11 victory over Point/Webster. Janice Sullivan's Point/Webster team was lead again by cousin Jeff Sullivan with six, while Michael Feiner and Michael Buckley had two apiece. Kofi Frazier chipped in one point.

Chris Robinson had six, Ray Sartree four and Randy Feetham two for Quantum.

Beechwood got a solid defensive effort from Chris

Liccardi and Matt Joyce as it held on to beat Montclair, 12-8. Matt Noonan and Sean Harvie each had six for the winners. Tom Wilson had two and Brian Ross six for the Dean Zoia-coached Montclair. Jim McGrath had two assists.

Merrymount continued to use defense to earn its way to the championship. It held Snug Harbor to one Tilton free throw in its 10-1 victory. Matt Kisiel and Jared Downey each had one and Mark Miller two, while Jonathan Caliri lead both teams with assists.

Beechwood then turned the tables on Quantum with a 12-10 victory. Noonan had two, and Harvie 10 while Dave Buckley had some timely rebounds. Randy Feetham and Chris Robinson each made one first half field goal while Ray Sartree had six to complete the Quantum scoring.

The championship game saw Billy Reardon's Merrymount team play an aggressive man-to-man defense to once again hold a team to under 10 points. Mark Miller and Jared Downey had six points while Matt Kisiel had four. Jonathan Caliri and Tim Lewis were top in assists and Jonathan Caliri was top offensive rebounder and Mike Keddy tops on the defensive boards.

Coach Mike McManus of Beechwood praised the playmaking of Mike Buckley and Andrew Risitano and the rebounding of Chris Liccardi and Dave Buckley, along with the defensive pressure of Matt Joyce with keeping them in the game early. Harvie and Noonan provided the scoring.

Recreation Director Barry J. Welch provided finalist ribbons to Beechwood and championship ribbons and the jamboree trophy to Merrymount in a post-game presentation. Welch also thanked all the recreation leaders who acted as coaches and officials for the event.

Boutlier was the high scorer during the regular season with 44 goals and 21 assists followed by Paul O'Brien with 20 goals and 18 assists. Goalies Ralph DiMattia and Bill Parsley tied for best goals-against average.

Beacon Sports topped South Shore Bearing, 6-2, with Jack Duffy scoring twice and Skip Manganaro, Peter DiBona, Artie Boyle and Mike

West Quincy Koch Registration

Registration for West Quincy Koch Club softball will be Saturday, April 13 from 9-11 a.m. at O'Rourke Field. Girls in grades 3-8 are eligible. Fee is $8. For information call, 471-1434.

Baseball

North Edges Plymouth, Loses To Falmouth

After squeezing by Plymouth, 3-2, with a run in the final inning in its Old Colony League debut, the North Quincy baseball team fell apart in the field and lost to Falmouth, 5-3, Monday.

Leo Donovan's Raiders will host Brockton, an oldtime Suburban League rival, Friday at 3:30 p.m. at Adams Field, will meet new rival South Boston Monday at 10 a.m. at Southie's King Field and will host South Boston next Wednesday, April 17, at Adams at 10.

Sophomore lefty Sean Donovan pitched a fine game against Falmouth Monday, giving up only two earned runs, but North's defense handed the Cape team three unearned runs. Donovan struck out nine and walked only two.

North had six hits, all singles, one each by Doug MacLean, Serge Belcastro, George Rozanitis, Mark Kelleher, Ron Boudreau and Pat O'Donoghue.

North Quincy took a 2-0 lead over Plymouth in the fourth inning when Kelleher tripled, Boudreau singled and stole second and scored on Pat Shea's triple.

North starter Scott Dunn shut the Blue Eagles out until the top of the seventh when four hits tied the score.

With runners on second and third, sophomore Mike Patch relieved Dunn and, after intentionally walking Brett Strassel, struck out the final three hitters.

In the bottom of the seventh Shea walked, Chris Peck singled and Patch won his own game, driving in Shea with a single.

Dunn allowed eight hits, struck out eight and walked only two.

"We had some timely hitting and solid pitching," said Donovan. "But we just made too many errors against Falmouth. I was very pleased with the way Dunn, Patch and Donovan pitched. I think we will be a good hitting team, but there are some very strong teams in this league and it is going to be a battle all the way."

Fire, Police Chiefs To Remain Under Civil Service

was administered March 20. Five of Quincy's fire deputies signed up but only Gorman, 53, a 27-year veteran, and Walsh, 41, a 16-year veteran, took it. Under Civil Service regulations, at least four deputy chiefs must sign up to take the chief's exam or lower ranking captains become eligible.

Since only two men took the test, there is the possibility that only one deputy scored a passing grade of 70 or above.

Although the department has not had a permanent chief since former Chief Paul O'Connell stepped down last October, the mayor said not appointing a chief is still an option.

But, he added, "If you don't name a chief, you have to justify it. I haven't looked at (Gorman or Walsh's) personal files yet."

Moreover, he said the department should have a permanent chief.

"I think the department needs a permanent chief. I think it's disruptive anytime you have an acting chief. It's hard to do planning and create administrative flow.

"The legitimacy of leadership is greatly undermined when you have an acting chief. Gorman has done well. He's operated very well under the circumstances," he said, noting the department, like other city departments, is experiencing tough fiscal times.

Sheets also said he does not regret keeping the exam in-house.

"One can look back with hindsight and say you would have had broader options (if the exam were opened up outside the department) but I'm a firm believer in promoting from within.

"It's important to the morale of any department for officers to know 'I could be chief someday.' We should be very careful anytime we cut out that channel of action."

Quincy Drops Tough One To Barnstable

Quincy's baseball team made an excellent showing against Barnstable, ranked No. 2 in Eastern Mass. and favored to win the Old Colony League title, but dropped a 4-3 squeaker Monday at Barnstable and, despite some fine pitching, fell to 0-3.

Bob Sylvia's Presidents, in a schedule change, met Everett yesterday (Wednesday), will play at Plymouth Friday and will host Boston Latin next Thursday at Adams Field at 10 a.m.

Quincy received fine pitching from Chad McMahon against Barnstable and the Presidents had the winning runs on base in the seventh inning but couldn't push them across.

A key hit for Quincy came when freshman Tom Malvesti singled home the run that moved his team to within one.

Steve Loud had two singles for Quincy, McMahon a double and Dewey Holmes, Malvesti and Pat Gallagher a single each.

Last week Quincy bowed to Falmouth, 4-1, despite Mike Malvesti and Joe Crespi allowing only two hits. Quincy was held to three hits.

In their opener the Presidents lost to Stoughton, 4-2, despite another excellent pitching effort by McMahon.

Quincy had only two hits, both in the first inning, a triple by Robbie Kane and a single by Tom Balzano.

McMahon was taken out with the bases loaded and two outs in the seventh and a walk and wild pitch gave Stoughton the two winning runs.

Cleaner, Greener Quincy City-Wide Cleanup May 4

The second annual Cleaner, Greener Quincy City-Wide Cleanup will be held Saturday, May 4, Mayor James Sheets announces.

Officials say last year's effort was a success with some 1,500 volunteers participating.

Interested community groups, service organizations, PTOs, churches and youth groups are invited to attend a planning meeting Thursday, April 18 at 7 p.m. in the second floor conference room of City Hall.

There will be six meeting places for the cleanup which will start at 9 a.m.

They are: Ward 1, Adams Shore Library; Ward 2, Fore River Clubhouse; Ward 3, Wollaston School; Ward 4, Lincoln-Hancock School; Ward 5, Beechwood Community Life Center; and Ward 6, North Quincy High School.

Rain date is May 11.

Following the cleanup, a cookout will be held at 1 p.m. at Pageant Field for volunteers and participants.

He urges all citizens to participate.

Neighbors Favor Beer, Wine License For Wollaston Restaurant

By STEVE KAVANAGH

A decision to allow the LaCucina Restaurant to serve beer and wine with meals will likely be made at the April 16 License Board meeting.

La Cucina is located in the Wollaston business district at 698 Hancock St., at the corner of Bass Street next to a residential area.

Ward 5 City Councillor Charles Phelan said he is opposed to any more liquor licenses in his ward.

However, attorney for La Cucina, Paul Barbadoro, presented a petition with 190 signatures from neighbors favoring the proposed CV-Wine and Malt License.

The License Board voted to continue the hearing for one week to allow the parties involved to discuss the issue together.

Board chairman John Gillis said the board should decide one way or another next week.

Board member, Fire Chief Thomas Gorman, said that Barbadoro and LaCucina owner Nicholas Forziati should meet with Phelan to explain their plan in more detail.

Barbadoro told the board that LaCucina is not looking to expand its seating or its hours but would like to serve a glass of beer or wine to customers with their meals.

"People will not be able to come in and order a drink by itself. Beer and wine will only be served with a meal and there will be a three-drink limit," Barbadoro said.

Since their will be no increase in seating at the restaurant there should not be any new parking problems in the neighborhood, Barbadoro said.

Phelan said that the board should be consistent. He recalled that prior to his election as Ward 5 councillor Papa Gino's had made a similar request which was rejected.

"We can't grant it to one and not another,"

Phelan said.

Barbadoro said that the two cases are entirely different.

"The average age of customers at LaCucina is over 30. It's not an establishment that attracts young kids like Papa Gino's and other fast food places," he said.

Barbadoro said he has made numerous attempts to contact Phelan since November but that the councillor has not been cooperative.

A neighborhood meeting was held to discuss the issue on April 3 but only six neighbors attended. Phelan, who had to attend a different neighborhood meeting that evening, was not in attendance.

Phelan denied that he has been uncooperative and said that the neighbors he has heard from are opposed to the license.

Volunteers Sought To Deliver Recycling Flyers

A new flyer promoting the Quincy recycling program will be available the last two weeks of April and officials are asking for volunteers to help deliver it to each of the city's 28,000 households.

According to Ward 3 Councillor and Recycling Chairman Larry Chretien, the program has been going very well since it began last August.

"However," Chretien added, "the experience of other communities is that periodic advertising is necessary to keep residents participating at high levels. The flyer we will be sending out to people will reinforce the importance of recycling and also some of the so-called 'do's and don'ts'."

Public Works Commissioner David Colton said a decision was made to advertise the flyers because not everyone reads the newspaper or listens to the radio.

"Newspaper and radio ads can be very effective, but this time we want to make sure that everyone gets the message. Mailing would be easier but we don't want to waste money on postage, so hopefully enough volunteers will come forward to get the job done," Colton said.

"I think we are going to need about 200 people. Even if someone is willing to do just their street, we would be greatly appreciative," he added.

Residents interested in distributing flyers can contact the City Council office at 773-1380 or the Recycling Hotline at 770-BINS.

Let The Kids

By HENRY BOSWORTH

With all due respect to American Indians, isn't all the flap over Yakoo, the North Quincy High School symbol, making a mountain out of a molehill?

Really, now should the kids at NQHS be labeled racist, bigoted, insensitive or insulting to a minority -- or minorities -- because of a beloved caricature that means so much to them? A cherished symbol for which they have tremendous respect.

Come on, really?

Yakoo simply is a symbol of North Quincy High School pride and spirit for which the school is well known and often the envy of students in other schools.

Yakoo shouldn't be twisted into something that he isn't. And what he isn't is a symbol of racism, bigotry, intolerance or disrespect.

The symbol which depicts an Indian with feather headband, carrying a stone hammer and NQHS pennant, was actually modeled not after an Indian but Dr. Allan Yacubian, a 1958 graduate of the school who in 1957 and for over three decades his existence didn't bother anyone. Then someone found fault with him and with enough publicity suddenly there's an uproar.

Sunbeams

It is too bad the group of American Indians that protested at the school last week didn't get to know the school or the students before that demonstration.

If they could have seen the intense pride and spirit at North Quincy, they might have a different opinion of Yakoo. They would have seen that the students hold him in high esteem.

Keep in mind that Yakoo is not frowned on by all American Indians. They have different opinions about him and NQHS students have listened to representatives of both sides who came to the school to give their views.

THE U.S.S. LEXINGTON, as shown in this 1973 photo, will be decommissioned in November, ending nearly 50 years of naval service. Mayor James Sheets wants to bring the Quincy-built air craft carrier home in the hope of creating a major tourist attraction at the former Quincy shipyard.

Carrier Would Be Part Of Shipbuilder's Museum

Sheets Lobbying Washington For U.S.S. Lexington

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Although its shipbuilding heydays are probably over, the former General Dynamics shipyard may be busting in a year or two from another industry: tourism.

On Tuesday, Mayor James Sheets travelled to Washington, D.C. to meet with several ranking officials to drum up support for the city's return to the U.S.S. Lexington to Quincy campaign. Built by the men and women at the shipyard in the early 1940s, the ship will be decommissioned in Nov. 1 and Quincy is one of four cities vying for the coveted air craft carrier.

The reasons for the attraction and pursuit are simple. The Lexington, which has been at sea for nearly 50 years and whose proud history is as long as its 889-foot flight deck, is seen by Sheets as the major component of a future shipbuilder's museum at the former shipyard in Quincy Point.

The mayor, who also wants to obtain a replica of the fighter plane President George Bush flew during World War II, said the ship and museum would be a major tourist attraction in the Northeast.

"I think it would revitalize Quincy Point without question," he said.

Commissioned on Feb. 17, 1943 at the Boston

Naval Shipyard South Annex, the Lexington departed two months later for shakedown operations off Trinidad, British West Indies. After returning for alterations, she entered the Pacific Theatre Aug. 9, 1943 joining the Fast Carrier Force. She went on to be one of the carriers to break more records than any other vessel in naval history.

While participating in 35 engagements in the Pacific, she downed 387 Japanese planes in the air, destroyed

Prospects Good For School Committee Preliminary Election

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

There is a very good chance there will be a preliminary election for school committee in Quincy this fall.

Voters will be asked to fill three school committee seats this fall and two incumbents will likely run for another four-year term. In addition, at least four other residents have indicated they will join the race.

With six people likely to campaign and seven candidates needed for a preliminary, the prospect is good that a school committee preliminary election will be held Tuesday, Sept. 17.

The general election will be held Tuesday, Nov. 5, regardless of whether there is a preliminary election.

According to election officials, School Committee members Stephen Durkin and Mary "Janc" Powers are expected to seek re-election. Margaret Nigro, who is filling the unexpired term of former Committeeman Frank Anselmo, will not run.

In addition, at least four other residents, including three first-time candidates, will likely run for the three seats.

Jo-Ann Eragg, 74 E. Elm Ave., has taken out and filed papers for her political organization committee.

Wollaston Beer, Wine License Request Withdrawn

By STEVE KAVANAGH

Nearby residents have won the latest battle to prevent LaCucina Caterers, 698 Hancock St., from serving beer and wine.

LaCucina owner Nicholas Forziati agreed to withdraw without prejudice the application for a CV-Wine and Malt License.

Forziati had also applied for the license last summer but withdrew on September 4, 1990 after strong neighborhood opposition.

LaCucina is located on the corner of Hancock and Bass streets in the Wollaston Business District.

A petition, dated Sept. 24, 1990, adamantly opposing a Wine and Malt License for LaCucina was submitted to the License Board last year. It was signed by 25 nearby neighbors of Bass and Kemper streets.

A petition, submitted last week, favoring the license was signed by 140 residents. However, only one Bass Street resident signed the petition and most of the signatures were from customers who do not live nearby.

Ward 5 City Councillor Charles Phelan said he spoke with Forziati last August shortly after the business changed hands. Phelan said Forziati told him the restaurant would not be altered except to add the catering function.

The restaurant's license allows it to operate from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. If LaCucina were to receive a CV-Wine and Malt License,

Fire Engine May Be Sidelined Until End Of Fiscal Year

A temporary cut may have to be made in the Quincy Fire Department because of a shortfall in the department's personal services account.

Fire Chief Thomas Gorman said he estimates he will have to remove an engine from service five or six days between now and the end of the fiscal year

June 30. This would lower the manpower by four men on those days. Gorman said it could happen more than five or six days.

Robert Perry, president of the Quincy Fire Fighters Association, Local 792, said the manpower cuts could result in slower response time to fires and accidents.

The situation goes back to last year when the city gave pink slips to 14 men. The 14 fire fighters were kept on through September which caused a shortfall in the personal services account.

"We ran out of overtime money and had to transfer money from personal services," Gorman said.

To replace the personal services money Mayor James Sheets borrowed from the overtime account in January, Gorman said.

Gorman said each time he has to take an engine out of service he will do it on a rotating basis between headquarters (Quincy Avenue) and the Wollaston and North Quincy stations.

"No single engine companies will be put out," Gorman said.

Gorman said he is worried that any unforeseen expenses could cause additional cuts until July.

Toni Kabilian Announces Bid For School Committee

Toni Kabilian, 33 Hyde St., Quincy, announces her candidacy for a four-year term on the Quincy School Committee.

Kabilian, 44, a lifelong Quincy resident and 1964 graduate of Quincy High School, said the city's school children will be her top priority if elected.

"I'll just continue to do what I've been doing and speak up for what's best for the kids," said Kabilian, who has been active in the Sterling Middle School Parent Teachers Organization and the City-Wide Parents Council the past six years.

She was president of the Sterling PTO for four years and is presently president of the City-Wide Parents Council. Prior to that position, she served as vice president and co-president of the 35-member city-wide group.

As president of the City-Wide Parents Council, she holds a non-voting seat on the Quincy School

TONI KABILIAN

Committee. As vice-president, she was a spokesperson for the city-wide group. Kabilian said she now wants to be a voting member of the school committee and take an active role in making school policy.

"It's time to move and get involved. Next year will be a tough year," she said, noting the difficult fiscal climate which has gripped the city and its school system the last several years.

As an education activist in Quincy, Kabilian has protested teacher layoffs and opposed classroom overcrowding. She was one of the featured speakers at an education rally last year outside City Hall.

She said her involvement in the PTO and parents council has given her good insight into the problems facing city schools. The education and welfare of Quincy's children is the "driving force" of her run for school committee, Kabilian said.

Toni and her husband, Arthur, have three children attending Quincy schools. Their oldest son, A.J., 16, is a junior at Quincy High School; a daughter, Toni Marie, 12, is a seventh grader at Sterling Middle School and their other son, David, 10, is in the fifth grade at Lincoln-Hancock School.

A campaign fundraiser will be held Thursday, May 16 at the Morrisette Legion Post, 8 p.m. to midnight. For more information, call 773-5171 or 479-8554.

Quincy Auxiliary Police, CD Aid At Marathon

Fifteen Quincy Auxiliary Police and members of the city's Civil Defense were among 200 personnel from 26 cities and towns assigned to traffic and crowd control for Monday's Boston Marathon.

According to Tony Siciliano, president of the Massachusetts Auxiliary Police Association, Quincy Police Chief Frances Mullen authorized Quincy's personnel to assist the Hopkinton Police Department. Siciliano said 15 Quincy auxiliary police personnel assisted Hopkinton police along with two marked cruisers and Quincy Civil Defense personnel.

With the help of Underwater Recover Dive Chief John Blackadar, the newly refurbished emergency management command center was utilized to assist all police departments for communications.

Hopkinton Police Chief William McRobert extended to all volunteer police officers his appreciation for their assistance to his police department.

Business Districts Will Be 'Flushed' City Streets To Be Swept Year-Round

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

The City Council's Public Committee Works Committee was scheduled to discuss the city's new street sweeping contract Tuesday which calls for year-round cleaning as well as street flushing in the three main business districts.

The meeting was called by Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson.

According to Public Works Commissioner David Colton, the city has signed a new $350,000 contract with American Sweeping Company. Colton said the company, which has contracts in Cambridge in several North Shore communities, submitted the low bid.

Last year, the city paid Browning Ferris Industries $335,000 or $21 per mile to sweep the city's streets from March 15 through Dec. 15.

The new contract with American Sweeping Co. calls for year-round cleaning.

Colton said the contract breaks down to $24 for each mile of street swept. However, the final cost figure could change depending on next winter's weather. Streets are only swept when they are free from snow and ice.

With the new contract, there are three major changes in the street sweeping schedule which the council must approve since it involves an ordinance change.

Colton said city streets will be divided into three categories.

"A" roads are the main streets which will be swept five times a week between midnight and 8 a.m. Among the streets which fall into the "A" category are Hancock, Sea, Adams and Beale.

"B" roads are secondary streets such as Whitwell, Harvard and Wilson Ave. They will be swept once a week between midnight and 8 a.m.

"These roads are not main streets but are still well-traveled," Colton said. "They tend to be more residential main streets than commercial main streets."

"C" roads or residential streets will be swept twice a month. However, only one side of each street will be swept per month during a four to six-hour period in the day.

For example, if a street is on a Tuesday schedule, the even numbered side of the street would be swept one week and the odd-numbered side would be swept another week. The system would be similar to the no-parking program put in place during the winter months.

To ensure the streets are free from parked cars, an ordinance change is needed to design temporary no-parking zones for sweeping on residential streets. Colton said temporary no-parking signs made out of paper would be put up the day before a street is swept to alert homeowners who park their cars on the street. He said residential streets will be put on a day schedule since most people are not home during the day. Therefore, less cars are parked on the street in the day than at night.

A schedule will be devised soon indicating what day and time streets are swept.

"Come June, we'll announce what the final schedule is so that everyone knows what day and what hours their streets will be swept," Colton said.

In addition, the contract calls for a "flusher" truck to operate in the Quincy Center, Wollaston and North Quincy business districts for 250 hours over the next year.

The truck will flush the main streets in the three districts, such as Hancock St., with water after the streets are swept. Streets will be flushed about once a week, more in the summer when the weather is consistently warm and dry.

"The flusher gets rid of the fine sand that collects. It does a much better job," Colton said.

"SILENT" BUT DEADLY

Preventive measures and advances in medical and surgical therapy have reduced the mortality for coronary disease. A major problem physicians still face is diagnosing heart problems before a heart attack occurs. This is often difficult because coronary disease can progress to advanced stages yet remain clinically silent (the patient has no warning symptoms). For example, only about half of persons with coronary disease develop angina as the initial manifestation of their condition. Heart attack is often the first indication of a problem. Similarly, patients with known coronary disease may feel well on medication despite laboratory evidence of deterioration. The absence of chest pain or the ability to exercise and carry out everyday activities, therefore, does not guarantee a strong heart. Frequent check-ups are urged for those at risk.

P.S. With early diagnosis and monitoring, the outlook for those with heart problems is excellent.

Think preventively, and don't neglect your health. In addition to check-ups and exercise, diet can contribute to a healthier, more energetic, and heart-smart you! Form a partnership for health with your physician and set up a regimen ideally suited to your lifestyle needs. For more information, contact COMPREHENSIVE CARDIAC CARE at 472-2550. We're located at 101 Adams Street, Suite 24 in Quincy. Hours are by appointment.

Jeff Hamley, director of Harvard University's Native American Program and a Chippewa Indian from North Dakota opposes Yakoo.

"A group of people have been reduced to a mascot," he said. "It perpetuates racial stereotypes."

But Louella Fallis, a Sioux Indian originally from South Dakota came all the way from New Mexico, to speak in favor of Yakoo.

"The students have so much pride behind the mascot that I can't understand the controversy," she said. "I don't find anything derogatory about it."

And, she added: "With all the other problems today...to take this issue and put it under a microscope...I'm just appalled."

There seems to be an objection to Yakoo's fighting stance. But American Indians have been known to take a fighting stance when needed. Custer found that out at Little Bighorn.

Yakoo's fighting stance is for the football field, the basketball court and the cinder track where often the Raiders have been outmanned, outweighed and smaller in height.

Isn't the fact that so many sports teams have Indian names a tribute to itself to the American Indian?

If Yakoo is banished, what else are we going to ban?

Change the name of the Washington Redskins? Rip the tomahawk from the Atlanta Braves uniform? Silence the tom-toms in the Cleveland Indians Municipal Stadium? Tell the Chicago Blackhawks to get new uniforms?

And how about ending that tradition at Florida State University where a student dressed as a Seminole Indian with feather headdress and war paint rides out onto the football field at home games and throws a flaming spear into the turf?

How about telling Notre Dame to change its nickname Fighting Irish, because someone might feel it denotes that all the Irish want to do is fight?

Malone To Discuss Office Restructuring

State Treasurer Joseph Malone will give an update of his plans to restructure the state treasurer's office at the South Shore Chamber of Commerce 7:44 a.m. Breakfast Thursday, April 25 at the Lantana in Randolph.

Malone will also discuss the commonwealth's fiscal future at the meeting.

The treasurer is the founding executive director of the Massachusetts Civic Interest Council, a non-profit watchdog organization where Malone was instrumental in uncovering the misuse of public funds.

In 1987, he was appointed executive director of the Massachusetts Republican Party. In that position, he helped lead the petition to repeal that year's legislative pay raise and helped force the state's hierarchy to withdraw a proposal to increase fees, finances and taxes by $222 million.

Tickets are $12 for members, $15 for non-members and $110 for a table of 10. For reservations, contact the South Shore Chamber of Commerce at (617) 479-1111.

And what about our own Boston Celtics and their leprechaun-like symbol? Surely someone could take offense—or be convinced to take offense—because they don't like the way he smiles or because they feel leprechauns are demeaning.

And while we're at it, let's ban Santa Claus. He's not the true spirit of Christmas. The heck with the kids. Besides we could all save money at Christmas.

North Quincy High School students listened to presentations from Yakoo opponents and proponents and then took the issue to the ballot box.

An overwhelming 88 percent of students taking part in the referendum voted to keep Yakoo the way he is. Some 7.8 percent favored retaining Yakoo, but wanted to change his appearance.

More than 57 percent of the school's 1,163 students took part in the referendum; 524 in favor of Yakoo as he is, 46 to change him, and only 25 to ban him.

An ad hoc committee comprising students, parents and alumni then voted 13-0 recommending that Yakoo be kept as the school mascot and symbol.

Principal Peter Chrisom has indicated his support for Yakoo.

The issue is scheduled to go to School Supt. Dr. Robert Ricci who has indicated he is opposed to Yakoo.

Ricci has been in Quincy less than four years and has submitted his resignation effective after the school year.

Maybe he should pass on this one. Instead of making a ruling and then leaving town.

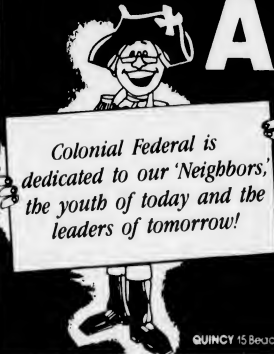

The final decision -- if there needs to be one -- should be placed in the hands of the School Committee or the next superintendent.

But is a final decision really necessary?

Why not trust the judgement of the kids at North Quincy High School and accept their wishes.

Let the kids keep Yakoo -- and the school spirit he represents.

647 planes on the ground and sank 588,000 tons of warships and 497,000 tons of merchant supply ships.

The Lexington, which shot down 15 attacking planes, was hit by a kamikaze pilot on Nov. 5, 1944 near the island of Leyte. The plane, in flames, crashed into the center of the ship, spraying fire in all directions. She refused to go down.

The ship was nicknamed the "Blue Ghost" because of its unusual blue-gray paint and because Tokyo Rose, the Japanese propagandist, reported four times that the ship was sunk.

The last of the great Essex class of aircraft carriers, the Lexington was awarded 11 battle stars for World War II service and received the prestigious Presidential Unit citation.

In service longer than any other Navy ship, more than 100,000 Navy personnel were trained on the Lexington. More than 50,000 Marine and Naval aviators were qualified for flying after training on the carrier.

Sheets acknowledges the effort to get the Lexington is a mammoth undertaking. Several million dollars must be raised and the U.S. Navy and Congress must be persuaded the ship belongs in Quincy.

The mayor believes the money will be found and the city has the inside track of getting her because the ship was built here.

"I think our chances are very good. Unless there's been a commitment somewhere that no one knows about I don't think anyone should have more of a claim to the Lexington than the people who built it.

"I think we have a good shot. (Getting her to

Property Management Workshop April 24

Quincy Community Action's Housing Services Program will hold a property management workshop Wednesday, April 24 from 7 to 9 p.m. at Quincy City Hall, second floor conference room.

Agenda topic is landlord/tenant rights and responsibilities.

The workshop will feature the staff of Quincy Community Action's Housing Services program: Michele Goss, landlord counselor; Nicoletta Guerrieri, tenant/landlord counselor; Birgitta Segala, tenant counselor; and Kaye Straut, housing search specialist.

The workshop is free and open to the public.

Quincy) will be difficult to do and a lot of work but I think we have a shot at it."

To date, the city does not have permission to berth the ship at the shipyard which is owned by the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority. However, Sheets said, "We feel once we get the ship we'll be able to work something out with the state."

Before Sheets went to Washington, he sent a letter to H. Lawrence Garrett III, secretary of the Navy, indicating the city will file an application to get the carrier. Garrett will determine the winner of the "Lexington Lottery" and his decision will need congressional approval.

Other cities planning to apply are Pensacola, Fla., San Diego, Calif., Corpus Christi, Texas, and Miami.

The only other city with a legitimate claim is Pensacola. Since 1962, The Lexington has been homeported there as the Navy's training carrier.

On Tuesday, Sheets met with White House political director Ronald Kaufman, a friend and former student at Quincy College. The mayor also planned to meet with Andy Card, an aide to White House Chief of Staff John Sununu, Sen. Ted Kennedy, Cong. Brian Donnelly and "as many congressmen as we can schedule in."

In addition, Sheets was scheduled to meet with another Quincy resident, John (Jake) Comer, past national commander of the American Legion. Comer was in D.C. on American Legion business.

Comer has been tapped to chair a commission comprising Quincy and Lexington residents as well as former shipyard workers and Lexington crew members. Lexington officials support the Quincy cause because the ship was named after the Minutemen of Lexington.

The commission will also ask for support and assistance from Gov. William Weld, Senate President Billy Bulger and House Speaker Charles Flaherty.

Sheets calls Comer a "pivotal person" in the campaign. "He'll certainly be able to help us with veterans' groups across the commonwealth and he also has some excellent contacts in Washington.

In addition, Sheets had hoped to meet with Bill Walter, president of the National Trust for Historic Preservation to see what kind of funding is available for preserving carriers.

"We wouldn't be looking for any operational money, we would be looking for planning money and organizing money. The whole objective of this visit is to secure high level support for our efforts to get the carrier," Sheets said.

"One of the things we're going to try to find out is how much is the decision predicated on merit of your proposal and how much is predicated on lobbying.

"That's one of the reasons we want to make contact with Ronnie Kaufman and Andy Card."

Sheets estimates $1 million is needed to get the Lexington here, $500,000 to prepare it as a museum and another $1.5 million to $2 million annually to operate and upkeep the tourist site.

"We're looking now at the possibility of having some people who are experts in the various areas volunteer to bring the carrier back. There would still be insurance issues to be dealt with but we figure we'd pick those up," Sheets said.

Once in Quincy, Sheets sees guided tours on the ship, a restaurant and eventually a shipbuilder's museum.

Noting the financial burden of maintaining the ship's engine, the mayor does not envision excursions into the Fore River and surrounding waters.

To help finance the cause, the mayor said the commission will conduct fundraising drives. A group in Lexington has already begun. He also hopes to secure federal money for a full-time project coordinator.

Also, a non-profit group from Pensacola, which has begun its fundraising effort, has pledged to donate the money to whichever city gets the ship.

If all goes according to plan, Sheets hopes the Lexington celebrates the 50th anniversary of her commission in February, 1993 in the same spot she got her start: Quincy.

Hearings On New High School

A large but generally quiet crowd attended a City Council public hearing into a proposal to take land at the corner of Woodward Ave. and Coddington St. on which to build a new high school.

No one spoke in favor of the landtaking and only three spoke against it.

They were Otto A. Hayward, whose home would be taken; Martin Burns, who did not want land taken from the tax rolls in Quincy Center; and Alfred P.J. Pinel, who objected to the method of taking.

NEW HAVEN GRADE WORK

A.P. Russell, president of the New Haven Railroad, said that only the lack of money was standing in the way of a quick elimination of all grade crossings in Quincy.

"Under present circumstances," he said, "there is absolutely nothing available in the way of funds for any work outside the necessities of keeping the road in operation."

Work began last fall on the elimination of the Saville St. crossing but, said Russell, there has been a general falling off of business on the Old Colony line since last November, there has been a general falling off of business on the Old Colony line since last November.

UNION BLASTS OFFER

Union officials put out a flyer urging that employees of the Eastern Mass Street Railway reject a company offer that would reduce their wages 20 percent.

"The company's proposals," said the flyer, "destroy the work being 18 years ago, carried on ever since by negotiation, agreement and arbitration and are intended to destroy your union if you accept them."

Historical Society Expands Hours

The Quincy Historical Society will observe its centennial anniversary in 1993.

For the next two years, the focus will be to build up the society so that it may start its second century in a position to pursue its long-term objectives for growth and expansion, and reaching for higher goals than are possible at the present time.

In order to extend the activities and better serve the members and the public, the Adams Academy building will now be open weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., and on Saturdays from 1 to 4 p.m. It will be closed on holidays.

The library is now open for research regular afternoon hours. It will be open every day Monday through Saturday from 1 to 4 p.m. It will be closed on holidays.

Many local and area people are not familiar with the historical research library, due in part to the limited open hours of the past. For anyone interested, there will be two evening openings at 7 p.m., one on Wednesday, April 3, and one on Tuesday, April 9, with others to follow if interest warrants.

These will be held to acquaint people with the library and what it has to offer, for a discussion on how to undertake historical or genealogical research, and possibly for some to do research.

The library is oriented to the Quincy area and to Quincy subjects such as granite, shipbuilding, the Adams family, and yachting, but contains much of regional and broader interest. It has a depth that is unusual for a local historical society library. It dates from the founding of the society in 1893.

Russian Choral Group

To Perform Here April 25

The Angarsk Youth Chorus, a Russian Choral group of teenagers, will perform in Quincy while during an April tour of the United States.

The concert will be held at North Quincy High School on April 25 at 7:30 p.m.

The group will spend April 26 visiting North

Quincy and Quincy High schools, and viewing historic monuments in Quincy.

The visit to the United States by this group is under the auspice of Sharing A New Song, a cultural exchange group located in Duxbury, Mass. The group is headed by Mrs. Susan Cook Thanas, a teacher in the Duxbury public schools.

After arriving in New York on April 13, the group will present concerts throughout New England, including the Concord/Lowell area, southern New Hampshire, the Duxbury/Plymouth area, and Buzzards Bay.

Sterling Students Experience Chinese Classical Music

Students at Sterling Middle School recently enjoyed a presentation on classical music by members of the Chinese Culture Institute.

Joel Fan and Eric Chan, students at Harvard University, presented a mini-recital. Fan played piano and Chan played the violin.

Afterwards the musicians fielded questions from students.

The presentation allowed Sterling students to experience classical music.

Mildred Ambrosia American Red Cross Outstanding Neighbor

More than 200 guests applauded when Quincy resident Mildred Ambrosia was honored as the Outstanding Neighbor of the Year by the American Red Cross at a recent dinner dance.

The award was presented by Helen Shea, chairman of the South Area Council.

A Red Cross volunteer for more than 50 years, Ambrosia started her service rolling bandages and knitting wristers for infantrymen during World War I. During World War II, she formed a group of 25, including her three children, to entertain with the USO.

Devoting more than 20 years to the blood program, Ambrosia currently serves as the area blood chairman and is a member of the South Area Council.

Her other civic affiliations include past president and the current community service chairman of the Altrusa Club of Quincy. She is a member of the board and chairman of the Social Committee for the Hingham Chapter of AARP. She is chairman for Norfolk County RSVP and is a member of St. John's Catholic Club and Ladies Sodality.

She has three children, 14 grandchildren, 14 great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren.

Fundraiser Co-Chairman Joan Crowley and Helen Shea expressed thanks for the financial and volunteer support given the Red Cross.

Quincy Community Action Commended

Quincy Community Action Programs, Inc. received a Letter of Commendation from the Massachusetts Nutrition Board awarded to The Emergency Food Bank at a State House ceremony March 27.

The commendation was given for the Food Center's creative use of volunteers and unique volunteer/client relationship. Volunteers have become especially important as funding becomes scarce and the number of those in need increases.

Many of the volunteers at the Food Center are present or former clients who wish to give back to the place which gave to them.

Other volunteers are from Judge Albert Kramer's Community Service Program at Quincy District Court which frequently sends workers to load and unload trucks of food and stock the shelves of the Food Center.

Carolyn Remy, Emergency Food Bank Coordinator accepted the award from Christine Kranyak of the Nutrition Board. Also attending the ceremony were Sen. Paul Harold and Rosemary Wahlberg, Executive Director of Quincy Community Action Programs, Inc.

Quincy Hospital Birthing Suites Dedication Saturday

Calling the expanded maternity unit First Moments, Quincy Hospital will dedicate eight labor, delivery, recovery and postpartum (LDRP) suits on Saturday, April 20.

The dedication will be celebrated with an open house from noon to 4 p.m. A ribbon cutting ceremony will take place at noon featuring Mayor James Sheets, Hospital Director Ellen Zane, Obstetrician S. Patrick Donegan, M.D., and Doris Sinkevich, R.N., administrator for nursing.

The afternoon will also include tours, refreshments and entertainment provided by the Ninots Puppet Theatre.

LDRPs are one of the most popular options for women giving birth. They are designed so women can stay in the same room from the time she is admitted until she leaves the hospital, if there are no complications with the birth.

An LDRP encourages bonding between the mother and family members, and the new infant. Mothers, infants and family members receive strong support from hospital staff, including individual teaching and personalized care.

While hospital births offer reassurance of a team of medical professionals and immediate access to medical technology, the LDRP provides a "non-technical" environment in which to give birth. Physicians, nurse midwives, nurses and administrators who planned the unit focused on ensuring the comfort of the mother, new baby and father or coach in a beautiful setting, with the benefit of all the hospital resources and technology.

All furnishings with the LDRP are attractive and functional. A partner's chair in each room converts to a bed so the coach/partner can spend the night with the mother and new baby. In addition, there is a private bath in each room with a tub and shower. Necessary medical supplies in each room are concealed or masked to maintain the homelike atmosphere.

For more information on the open house, call (617) 773-6100 ext. 4016.

Tours of First Moments are available upon request by calling (617) 773-6100 ext. 3061.

Central Students Raise $2,150 For Easter Seals

Youngsters from the Central Middle School shot baskets to help people with disabilities at a recent Boston Celtics-Easter Seal basketball shootout.

Thirty-eight students shot baskets for three minutes and raised

$2,149.99 to fund Easter Seal services. Jon Mahoney was the top fund raiser with $202.40.

Basketball shootouts are sponsored throughout Massachusetts by TJX Companies, Inc. and the Celtics. Celtic star Kevin McHale is honorary chairman of the event.

Students secured pledges from family and friends for baskets scored during the shootout.

Winners receive such prizes as Celtics t-shirts, autographed basketballs and Converse athletic shoes and bags.

After You Read About Our Doctors, We Hope You'll Say Ahhhhh.

There are many places you can read about the doctors at Quincy Hospital besides this ad.

For instance, there's Boston Magazine. Their recent Nurses Poll named Dr. Peter Ambrus as one of the top Ear, Nose, Throat specialists in the area. And if you haven't heard by word of mouth, you can have your surgery performed by Dr. Ambrus and his associates right here.

There are always newspapers, too. Dr. Walt Kagan, an oncologist, and Dr. Halbert Miller, a psychiatrist specializing in issues of aging, were both highlighted in recent feature stories. And don't forget cardiologist Dr. Alan Bernick's weekly Ask The Doctor column in the Patriot Ledger.

In our Physicians Directory, you can read all about the training our doctors have received. As graduates of such fine medical schools as Harvard, Tufts, and Boston University, our doctors are some of the most respected in the area. Which is why many of them also practice at such prestigious hospitals as Mass. General, Beth Israel, and the Lahey Clinic.

It all leads Dr. Charles Ripberger, the President of our Medical Staff, to point out, "Why would anyone bother going to one of those downtown hospitals when there's an outstanding medical staff right here in Quincy?" Good question.

So, if you're interested in finding your own doctor or want more information about our exceptional medical staff, call our Doctor Referral Line at 786-0005. After all, if reading this has touched you, maybe our stethoscopes will, too.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

SOMETHING TO THINK UPON ... JUST FOR TODAY ...

Just for Today, I will try to strengthen my mind reading something that requires effort, thought and concentration ...

Just for Today, I will do somebody a good turn and not get found out ...

Just for Today, I will do a task that needs to be done but which I have been putting off. I will do it as an exercise of will power ...

Just for Today, I will try to exert patience with people and things and especially have patience with myself ...

Just for Today, I will look upon the present as the past of my future ...

Just for Today, I will aim to praise not criticize ...

Just for Today, I will do all the good I can willingly and "save my indignation by thinking pleasantly." ...

Just for Today, I will be unafraid. Especially, I will not be afraid to be happy, to enjoy what is beautiful, to love and to believe that those I love, love me ..."

South Shore Hospital's New $8.3M Emergency Center To Open May 1

South Shore Hospital's new $8.3 million emergency center will begin serving the public Wednesday, May 1 at 11 a.m.

The enlarged emergency center, more than triple the size of the current emergency department, is part of the hospital's continuing efforts to upgrade emergency medical services in the region.

Hospital President and Chief Executive Officer David Hannan said, "The new emergency center is an exciting component of our plan to expand and improve the range of emergency medical services in Southeastern Massachusetts.

"It gives the region a state-of-the-art facility and a highly-qualified staff capable of caring for any medical emergency."

South Shore Hospital, one of the busiest emergency departments in the state, is one of only a handful of hospitals with an entire medical staff trained in emergency medicine.

The center will be staffed by 11 physicians and more than 40 nurses.

The hospital also trains local emergency medical technicians in the use of life-saving medical technology, and has developed a plan for a hospital-based regional advanced life support system.

The new emergency center will enable the staff to care for as many as 75,000 patients a year. The hospital now treats 60,000 emergency/ambulatory care patients annually.

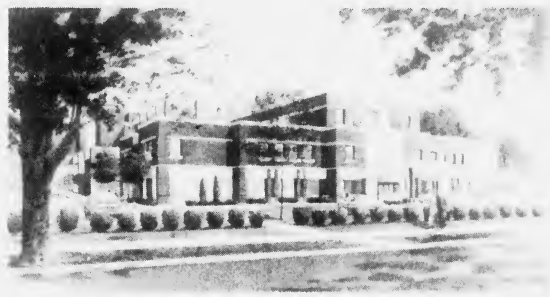

The new center, designed for patient comfort and privacy, will have a spacious new waiting area with seating for 60 people and a play area for children.

"Families as well as patients benefit from the comfortable new surroundings," said Maureen Cokely, nurse manager of the emergency center. "Our purpose is to help people get through their time of crisis, and that often means helping family members as well as patients."

The center will also have a separate "urgent care" area for treating people with non-life threatening illnesses or injuries, a trauma room for serious accident victims, a resuscitation room for patients with cardiac or respiratory arrest, its own radiology suite, central monitoring of patient vital signs, specially-equipped rooms for treating people with orthopedic or eye injuries, and separate entrances for walk-in patients and those brought in by ambulance.

Under a proposal made by the hospital, the new emergency center would be the base for a paramedic-staff advanced life support program serving 11 surrounding towns, including Hingham. An advanced life support (ALS) program would provide paramedic-level emergency coverage to the South Shore region, which is the only area in the eastern part of the state lacking across-the-board ALS coverage.

Paramedics can begin emergency medical care at the scene and in consultation with a physician can initiate medication and perform procedures to increase a patient's chance of survival. The ALS service proposed by South Shore Hospital would supplement, not replace, the existing emergency coverage provided by local towns and ambulance services.

"Minutes count to a heart attack or accident victim," said Leonard Winer, M.D., director of the hospital's emergency medical services. "A paramedic acts as a doctor's eyes and hands right at the scene. An ALS system will save lives."

The new center's entrance will be at 55 Fogg Rd., the public will no longer be able to enter the hospital from Columbian St. where the current emergency department has been located for decades. A separate entrance will accommodate ambulances and other emergency vehicles. Both entrances will be accessible by Fogg Rd., which runs between Columbian St. and Route 18 in South Weymouth.

The center will occupy the first floor of the new $15.9 million three-story building. When the structure is completed this fall, it will house a new maternity service, including the hospital's recently-licensed level II special care nursery.

The community is invited to tour the new emergency center at an open house Saturday, April 27 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Sunday, April 28 from noon to 4 p.m. Free emergency handbooks will be distributed and the hospital staff will provide guided tours throughout the facility. Refreshments will be served.

South Shore Hospital is a 340-bed acute-care community hospital serving the 450,000 residents of Southeastern Massachusetts.

Joseph Fitzsimmons To Receive Malaney Legal Service Award

Norfolk Probate and Family Court Associate Justice B. Joseph Fitzsimmons Jr., has been selected the recipient of the Alfred P. Malaney Memorial Award for Distinguished Legal Service.

Fitzsimmons will receive the award from the Quincy Bar Association at its annual spring meeting April 30 at the Quincy Neighborhood Club, 27 Glendale Rd.

The judge is being recognized for "distinguished service to the community and the practice of law, and in defending individual rights in accordance with the highest ideals of the legal profession."

A social hour will begin at 6:30 p.m. followed by a full-course dinner.

Emergency Food Center Benefit Party April 26

Quincy Community Action Programs, Inc., and the South Shore Coalition for Human Rights are sponsoring The Emergency Food Center Benefit Party, Friday, April 26, at the Fore River Clubhouse.

Proceeds from the event will benefit the QCA's Emergency Food Center which provides food for those in need from Quincy and surrounding towns.

The Food Center estimates a 30% increase in individuals and families asking for help while, at the same time, operating funds have become scarce.

The evening will begin with comedian Julie Barr who has performed on HBO and at many local comedy clubs.

A cabaret show will follow featuring singers Mike Palter and Lynn Jackson who will perform songs from the 1920's, 30's and 40's. The pair have been on many television and radio shows and perform throughout the country.

Following the cabaret show, the party continues with dancing and fun featuring DJ Bill Richardson.

MC's for the event will be Ward 1 City Councillor Peter Kolson and Marilyn LeBlanc.

Refreshments include a cash bar, free hors d'oeuvres, pastry and coffee. Raffle drawings will be held. Prizes include dinner for two at many local restaurants, savings bonds and more.

Tickets are $10. To buy tickets or sponsor a ticket for a low-income person, call QCA Programs at 479-8181. Tickets will also be available at the door.

Quincy Edged By Plymouth, 6-5

The Quincy baseball team, which has been playing fine ball all season, lost a 6-5 last inning decision at Plymouth last Friday, dropping its record to 1-4.

The Presidents host Boston Latin this morning (Thursday) at 10 o'clock at Adams Field, will face North Quincy Friday morning at 10 at Adams and will play at Silver Lake Monday at 3:30.

Jamie Fitzgerald gave Plymouth its win over Quincy with a two-out single in the seventh and final inning.

Robbie Kane had a three-run homer for Quincy and freshman Tom Malvesti, for the third game in a row, drove in a run with a single.

Malvesti, replacing Pat Gallagher at shortstop, and sophomore Kane combined for two double plays.

Joe Crespi started pitching for the Presidents and Chad McMahon pitched the final two innings and was the victim of the winning run.

Earlier in the week Quincy, after not hitting for three games, broke out of its batting slump and defeated Everett, 7-1, behind the two-hit pitching of junior Steve Loud.

In 6 1/3 innings he had nine strikeouts and walked only two. With Quincy leading, 1-0, in the third inning, he allowed a double and a walk but retired the next three batters in a row.

In the bottom half of the inning Loud drove in Kane with a hard single for a 4-0 lead. Crespi, who had singled earlier in the inning, scored on a passed ball.

The Presidents clinched the game in the fourth when Young and Malvesti drove in two with a single and, in the sixth, Tom Balzano drove in Kane with a sacrifice fly. Kane tripled and scored Quincy's second run in the third and scored on Dewey Holmes' sacrifice fly.

Balzano had a double and McMahon a single for the Presidents.

"This team has been playing well all season, but our hitting couldn't keep up with the pitching in the first three games," said Quincy coach Bob Sylvia.

"We snapped out of it offensively in the last two games and if we can just combine our good pitching with good hitting, things should improve the rest of the way. We needed that win over Everett and Loud pitched a great game."

Quincy Girls Bow To Plymouth, 8-5

After a controversial call had nullified the winning run in the seventh inning, the Quincy girls' softball team lost to Plymouth, 8-5, in the eighth inning last Friday, dropping its record to 2-2.

Quincy will host Silver Lake Monday at 3:30 at Faxon Field, will be at Milton next Wednesday at 3:30 and will be home to Weymouth next Thursday at the same time.

The loss to Plymouth was tough to take after Quincy had apparently scored the winning run in the seventh.

Jennifer Steen had two doubles for Quincy and Christine Barrett and Kristy Richmond had two hits apiece.

In their previous game the Quincy girls blasted winless North Quincy, 18-10.

Sophomore Colleen Gallagher hit a two-run homer and a two-run triple to pace Quincy offensively. Barrett had a triple and double and three RBI.

Quincy led, 8-2, after three innings and had a 15-6 advantage after five. Jackie Slattery pitched up her second win. Steen had two hits.

For North Quincy Cindy Mitton blasted a homer and a triple and Eileen McDonagh had two hits. Soyon Park played a fine game at shortstop.

Earlier, Quincy defeated Barnstable, 7-2, with Slattery pitching a seven-inning hit.

Barrett was three for three with an RBI and handled 11 chances in the field. Holly McDonough had two hits including a two-run triple and Kim Marsden also had two hits.

North Loses To Southie

The North Quincy baseball team, after a promising start, faltered in its last two games and a 9-4 loss at South Boston Monday dropped its record to 1-3.

The Raiders will try and regroup Friday morning when they face Quincy at 10 a.m. at Adams Field. They met South Boston yesterday (Wednesday), hoping to avenge Monday's loss. They will host Taunton Monday and Silver Lake next Wednesday, both games at Adams at 3:30 p.m.

North's pitching, which looked good in the first two games, slipped in the last two and the defense also committed several key errors which allowed unearned runs.

Previous to the South Boston loss, North Quincy was bombed by Brockton, 14-5.

"We didn't play well against Brockton and South Boston," said coach Leo Donovan. "The pitching wasn't all that bad, but the defense was poor and we just have to start putting things together if we hope to have a winning season."

Caldwell On ENC Baseball Team

Kipp Caldwell of Quincy is playing for the Eastern Nazarene College baseball team.

"Although Kipp has played two years of basketball, this is his first Crusader baseball season. His size and natural ability bring much needed depth to the squad," said ENC baseball coach Jack Willy. "Kipp can play infield and outfield and he hits with power."

Caldwell, a sophomore, is the son of Gladys and Charles Caldwell of Quincy.

the President Golf Course to help raise funds to support the post's baseball program.

This is one of several fund-raising events planned to help raise $8,000 needed to cover expenses for the Region I Tournament to be hosted by Morrisette in August of 1992. The first event was a meet raffle.

The golf tourney will get underway at 8 a.m. and will be immediately followed by an afternoon buffet and prize award ceremony. The fee for the entire day is $75 per person.

The event will be limited to 100 golfers and members of the Morrisette Alumni must enter by April 30 to reserve a place. On May 1 entries will be opened to the general public if all starting times have not been filled.

Track

North Breezes By Quincy

The North Quincy boy's track team easily defeated undermanned Quincy, 97-34, last week, despite another outstanding performance by Quincy's Chris Walker, who was a triple winner for the third meet in a row.

Walker won the 110 hurdles (15.6), the high jump (6-3) and the long jump (20-9).

North's depth paid off as it won 10 events. Chris Ballum was a double winner, taking the 800 (2:13.1) and the mile (4:59.1).

Other North winners were Tim Ross, discuss (118-0); John O'Donnell, triple jump (38-1); Wayne Sit, 100 (11.6); Tony Licciardi, 200 (24.0); Mark Sinclair, 400 (54.9); Eric Torvi, two mile, (11:53.3); Mike Yee, 300 hurdles (44.6); and the 4x100 relay team of Sit, Desmond Bellot, Chris Murray and Marc Cocuzzo (47.3). Licciardi and Torvi are both freshmen and have outstanding futures.

Other Quincy winners were Gary Collins, javelin (153-0); and Mike Kavanagh; shot put Placing second for North were Adam Strout, javelin; Matt Swierk, shot put; Murray, long jump; John O'Donnell, high jump; Marc Larson, triple jump; Licciardi, 100; Cocuzzo, 200; Josh O'Donnell, 400; Brian Fitzgerald, 800; Jason Buckley, mile; Greg Buck, two-mile; Yee, 110 hurdles and Larson, 300 hurdles.

Quincy's only second place finisher was Collins in the discuss. Taking third places for North were Swierk, discuss; Evan Kiley, shot put; Buckley, long jump; Yee, triple jump; Murray, 200; Hugh Meighan, mile; Ken Duncan, two-mile; and Larson, 110 hurdles.

Finishing third for Quincy were Keith Norris, javelin; Bartlett, high jump; Scott MacPherson, 100; and Kelley, 800.

North coach Peter Chrism was pleased with his team's performance. "We are 2-1, our best start in years and the first time in 10 years we have been over .500," he said. "We may not win all our meets, but we've won the respect of the league. My assistant, Chris Morton, has worked hard with these kids and the results are starting to show."

North will be at Taunton Tuesday for a 3:30 p.m. meet.

In Quincy's next meet, a 93-42 loss to Plymouth, Walker was a triple winner for the fourth meet in a row, winning the high jump (6-2), the high hurdles (16.3) and the long jump (20-11).

Quincy is 0-4, but Walker has been a triple winner in every meet.

North Girls Roll

The North Quincy girls' track team rolled over inexperienced Quincy, 97-34 last week, with its field event strength and overall experience making the difference.

North had a 45-9 bulge after the field events and won 12 of 15 events.

Tricia Hughes was a double winner for North, taking the triple jump (32-2) and qualifying for the state meet, and the 400 (65.6).

Jen Nutley also was a double winner, taking the long jump (14-4 and a half) and the 200 (29.7).

Other North winners were Maureen McCarthy, discuss (71-9); Debbie Ramos, javelin (83-2); Voula Regas, shot put (26-7); Amy Wong, 100 (13-7); Suzanne Lewis, 800 (2:32.8); Jenn Flynn, mile (6:01.3); Erin Duggan, two-mile (13:38.7); and Tristen Mastrogiacom, 100 hurdles (192.2).

Quincy's winners were Amy Dunn and Michelle Civitarese, tied in the high jump, Kerry Perry, 300 hurdles (57.6) and the 4x100 relay team of Lori Novak, Amy Dunn, Jackie Potter and Nicole Shaughnessy (56.7).

Placing second for North were Meghan Barry, discuss; Tara Miles, javelin; Barry, shot put; Wong, triple jump; Sue Hamilton, 100; Ilana Cobban, 400; Kristy Kabilian, two-mile; and Kara Sullivan, 300 hurdles.

Taking seconds for Quincy were Novak, long jump; Dunn, 200; Jaime Graham, 800; Sarah Edwards, mile; and Amy Galman, 100 hurdles.

Finishing third for North were Trish McNamara, discuss; Mastrogiacom, javelin; McNamara, shot put; Melanie Gaziano, long jump; Zoe Bohl, high jump; Aime Chin, triple jump; Julie Ramos, 200; Carin Corrigan, 400; Gaziano, 800; and Bohl, 300 hurdles.

Placing third for Quincy were Shaughnessy, 100; Julie Tangney, mile; Maureen O'Donnell, two-mile; and Christine Miele, 100 hurdles.

Several freshmen were winners for both squads. "Erin Duggan, who won the two-mile, has improved more than any female distance runner I have ever worked with," said North coach Jeff Hennessy. "She wasn't even a varsity cross runner and now she's no worse than the seventh or eighth best distance runner in the league."

"Quincy has shown vast improvement under John Francheschini and Ray Papile. They have a hard-working cohesive unit and train hard every day. The victories are starting to come with their youngsters. A couple of throwers and they've got something."

"John worked hard to turn Quincy's basketball program around and winning creates more winning. It took us three years to straighten out North's track program and with the middle school programs creating interest, it's just a matter of time for them to help Quincy."

The North girls (2-1) will host Taunton next Tuesday at 3:30 p.m.

Linda Stice, 26 Phillips St., has taken political committee papers out but had not returned them as of last Friday.

Toni Kabilian, 33 Hyde St., has announced her candidacy and was expected to take out organization papers out soon.

In addition, Robert Jamis, 98 Warren Ave., is considered to be leaning toward a run for the committee. Jamis, who finished fourth in the 1987 school committee race, was appointed to fill the unexpired term of the late Christopher Kennedy in 1988.

Jarnis did not run for school committee in 1989.

Others thinking about entering the campaign are former Norfolk County Treasurer and School Committeeman Dan Raymond; Judith Brams, chairman of Quincy Citizens for Quality Education; and perhaps Anselmo.

Anselmo, 92, who had resigned because of health concerns, asked for his seat back after regaining his health. However, the City Council voted to allow Nigro to fill his seat until his term expired in November.

In the next few months, the field of candidates should be known. Nomination papers for elected office will be available May 20. Papers are due Aug. 13.

Chretien Reports:

Ward 3 Traffic Changes A Success

Two traffic improvement projects in Ward 3 have been successful to date, according to Councillor Larry Chretien.

One improvement is the traffic signal on Newport Ave. at the intersection of Brook and Beale Sts. which was modernized last summer. According to an analysis by Traffic Engineer David Kinnecom, the economic benefits from the project are 17 times the cost, which was $62,000 last year.

Kinnecom said the public will realize savings from the project in terms of value of time, gasoline, few accidents and less air pollution.

In his analysis, Kinnecom reports the intersection handles more than 11 million vehicles per year or 31,000 vehicles per day over 365 days.

"I believe the changes have reduced the delays to southbound through traffic in the afternoon by as much as two minutes. During much of the day, the average delay has been reduced by 10 to 15 seconds," he said.

"Assuming an average time savings of only 10 seconds per vehicle, the annual time savings is over 30,000 vehicle hours. Since an idling vehicle burns about one-half of a gallon of gasoline per hour, the project reduces gasoline consumption by at least 15,000 per year," Kinnecom said.

Assuming time is worth $3 per hour, he added, "If the value of time savings to the public is included, there is a value of time savings worth nearly $100,000 per year."

In addition, Kinnecom estimated the new signal system would prevent at least two accidents per year, at an economic value of $5,000 per year.

The reduction in idling traffic also reduces emissions of carbon monoxide, carbon dioxide and other air pollutants that contribute to acid rain, greenhouse effect and health problems.

The second project is the implementation of several one-way streets and addition of several stop signs in the area between Arlington St., Highland Ave., Beale St. and Holbrook Rd.

According to Kinnecom, the accident rate for the area has fallen 43 percent since the changes were implemented in July, 1989. As a result, officials estimate 20 fewer accidents in the neighborhood per year.

Chretien said the two projects are working according to design. The signal modernization, one-way streets and additional stop signs are intended to give commuters a greater incentive to stay on Newport Ave. rather than cutting through adjacent neighborhoods.

The councillor praised Kinnecom for his work on the projects and area residents who attended meetings and answered surveys prior to the traffic plan changes.

by state law, it would have to be open 12 hours a day which would automatically allow the restaurant to remain open later in the evening.

Phelan has been consistent in opposing any new liquor licenses in Ward 5.

"We don't want to establish a precedent. We would like to keep it (Wollaston Business District) as a neighborhood-type area," Phelan said.

Phelan visited with neighbors over the weekend and said they remain opposed. Phelan said he spoke with Forziati's attorney, Paul Barbadoro, Monday and again expressed his opposition to the license.

U.S.S. Lexington Would Boost Quincy Tourism

By ROBERT BOSWORTH
Bringing the U.S.S. Lexington home to Quincy would give the city's tourism business a tremendous boost, attracting perhaps as many as one million visitors here annually, Mayor James Sheets said Tuesday.

In fact, Sheets said he believes the Quincy-built aircraft carrier berthed in Quincy Point at the former General Dynamics shipyard and a shipbuilder's museum at the site would also stimulate the state's tourism industry and make Quincy an international tourist destination.

Calling the Lexington a tourist "spark" and "catalyst," the mayor said, "Given the importance of these kind of sites, certainly you would increase tourism in this city by 10 fold, easily."

The mayor, who has said he wants Quincy to be the second biggest tourist destination behind only Boston, said, "Attracting one million visitors is within reach

"I don't think there's any question. I think we could reach that number" if the Lexington comes home, he added.

The mayor said he envisions visitors to Boston taking tourist boats to Quincy to see the Lexington known as the "Blue Ghost" because she was reported sunk four times in World War II. He also said he thinks travellers from around the world would want to see the ship because of her proud and illustrious history.

Built at the former shipyard in the early 1940s, the Lexington was commissioned Feb. 17, 1943 at the Boston Naval Shipyard South Annex. While participating in 35 engagements in the Pacific, she downed 387 Japanese planes in the air, destroyed 647 planes on the ground and sank 588,000 tons of warships and 497,000 tons of merchant supply ships.

In service longer than any other Navy ship, the Lexington is the last of the great Essex class of aircraft carriers. She was awarded 11 battle stars for World War II service and received the prestigious Presidential

Kolson Concerned Over Costs Meeting Called On Sewer-Water Bills

By STEVE KAVANAGH

Concerned about escalating sewer-water bills has prompted Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson to call for a meeting of the Public Works Committee.

The meeting will be held Thursday, May 2 at 7 p.m. in the second floor conference room of New City Hall.

Kolson, chairman of the committee, said the purpose of the meeting will be to decide how to best deal with escalating costs in the coming years.

Kolson has invited Mayor James Sheets, all city councillors, Sen. Paul Harold, State Rep.'s Michael Morrissey, Robert Cerasoli and Steve Tobin, City Solicitor Steve McGrath, Quincy's representative to the MWRA Board of Directors Jay MacRitchie, Public Works Commissioner David Colton and chairman of the Evergreen Quincy program, Leo Kelly.

Council Begins FY 92 Budget Review Monday

The City Council will begin its review of the $121,883,373 FY 92 municipal budget Monday, April 29 at 7 p.m. in City Hall Council Chambers.

The fiscal 92 budget, which begins July 1, is up one percent or $1,218,197 from FY 91.

Twenty department budgets are scheduled to be discussed at the meeting called by Councillor Patricia Toland. Toland is chairman of the council's Finance Committee.

All department heads are requested to bring to the meeting a list of city cars assigned to their departments and the names of individuals to whom they are assigned. Department heads should also provide the names of personnel currently receiving car allowances.

Departments will be reviewed in this order:

Clerk (elections and license board); assessor; treasurer-collector (Furnace Brook Golf); purchasing and parking; law (judgements, workmen's compensation); personnel, data processing, rent grievance, zoning board of appeals, planning, veterans services, library, cemetery, park, recreation, auditor (unemployment, retirement, debt service, pensions); building inspector, weights and measures, wire inspector and public works which includes sewer-water-drain, snow and ice, street lighting, special fuels, engineering, sanitary landfill and waste collection.

Group Wants Newport Ave. Renamed After McIntyre

A group of friends of the late former Mayor James R. McIntyre would like Newport Ave. to be renamed in his memory.

A letter was recently sent to neighbors along Newport Ave. explaining the group's request. The letter points out the city has a tradition of naming major roadways after historic and contemporary public figures who have made major significant contributions to Quincy.

Some examples are

JAMES R. MCINTYRE

Adams and Hancock St., Dennis Ryan Parkway, Mayor Thomas Burgin Parkway and Mayor Thomas McGrath Highway.

The group anticipates the name change becoming effective in 18 to 24 months.

In order to have a street renamed, an order must be introduced to the City Council. The order is then referred to the Planning Board which studies the proposal before making a

Ward 2 Cleanup May 4

The Ward 2 Neighborhood Cleanup will take place Saturday, May 4. The cleanup, chaired by Council President Ted DeCristofaro, will be held in conjunction with Mayor James Sheets' Cleaner, Greener program initiated throughout the city last year. More than 150 neighborhood residents and business owners participated in last year's Ward 2 cleanup, co-sponsored by Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services, Quincy Point Resources Committee and the city. DeCristofaro said it is rewarding to see neighbors join together out of pride in their community and work hard to maintain the area their families live, work and play. Because of fiscal restraints, he said it would be impossible for the city to provide the level of services donated by area residents and businesses. Areas to be cleaned are Faxon Park, Pond St. playground, Avalon Beach, Follet St., Whiton Park, Pollard Park, Mound St. Beach and Point-Webster School playground. Volunteers and suggestions are needed as well as supplies and refreshments. For more information or to contribute, call DeCristofaro at his office, 773-1380 ext. 341 between 9:30 and 11 a.m. In addition, DeCristofaro announces the Ward 2 Bean Supper will be held Saturday, May 11 at the Ward 2 Community Center on Nevada Rd., Quincy Point. The annual event is sponsored by the Ward 2 Civic Association.

JoAnn Bragg Begins Bid For School Committee Seat

JoAnn (Grazio) Bragg, 74 East Elm Ave., Wollaston, announced her candidacy for the Quincy School Committee Monday at the Common Market, West Quincy.

Bragg, 36, said her campaign will focus on bringing innovative and cost effective ideas to education. One idea she would work toward if elected is expanding recycling in city schools. "This has the potential of bringing revenue in, cutting our operating costs and helping to educate our children on ways they can save the environment."

She also said she supports broadening the concept of partnerships between local businesses and schools. "Most schools in our system have some form of a business partnership, let's expand this resource to get business to donate supplies, funds and their expertise particularly in the computer field." Bragg added all students should be computer literate "for computers are a very important part of the business world, training is essential."

A lifelong Quincy resident, she is a 1973 graduate of North Quincy High School. She holds an associate of science degree from Quincy College and has taken financial management courses at Northeastern University.

During the last six years, Bragg has advocated quality education. She has served as chairperson on numerous committees, including the Campbell's Labels for Education Program which has provided more than $4,000 worth of free equipment and supplies for the Wollaston School. Bragg has also played a role in the successful campaign to reopen the Wollaston School in 1987.

Bragg has held the posts of PTO president at the Parker School, treasurer at the Wollaston School and vice president and treasurer of the City-wide Parents' Council. She is City-wide's first Maintenance Committee Subcommittee chairperson and has worked to secure a bond to repair city schools.

Bragg also created and organized the teacher survey on learning materials and textbooks that was given to QEA members in 1989. She was appointed by the School Committee to serve on the Educational Development Committee, which she continues to serve as chairperson on the subcommittee for Recycling and Environmental Studies.

A tax accountant, Bragg participated on the School Committee Budget Task Force for the 1991-92 school year. She said she understands the financial problems facing the school system and offers innovative solutions.

Bragg, and her husband, Rick, have three children in Quincy public schools: Michelle, a ninth grade student at North Quincy High School; Lisa, a sixth grader at Central Middle School; and Jonathan, who is in kindergarten at the Wollaston Elementary School.

Fantucchio Chairman Bertolon New Assessor

Henry Bertolon of 96 Connell St., West Quincy, has been named to the Quincy Board of Assessors by Mayor James Sheets effective Monday, April 29.

Bertolon, who served as a Quincy assessor from 1971 to 1977 under former Mayors James McIntyre, Walter Hannon and Joseph LaRaia, fills a vacancy created when former assessor Elmer "Mike" Fagerlund retired in February.

When Fagerlund retired, he was chairman of the board. Marion Fantucchio, an assessor since 1984, was named acting chairman. With Bertolon's appointment, Fantucchio becomes chairman.

The other assessor is James Papile. All three assessors live in Quincy.

Funding in the FY 92 budget calls for the chairman to be paid $42,944 and the two other assessors to receive $41,697 each.

Sheets said he selected Bertolon, who is stepping down as administrative assessor in Needham to take the Quincy assessor's post, because of his experience and "talent dealing with people."

"First and foremost, (Bertolon) is an experienced assessor and he has an excellent talent for dealing with people. He's a people person, he's sensitive, caring and gets great satisfaction out of helping people.

"In Henry Bertolon, we find not only the professional we need but the kind of compassion that we also want of a person in that very sensitive, difficult position."

The mayor also said the fact that Bertolon is a former Quincy assessor was a key factor in hiring him.

"We don't have to train him, we don't have to put him through an orientation period, we don't have to show him where the records are.

"He knows all that, he's ready to go and I think he'll do a great job."

Sheets said Bertolon notified his office that he was interested in the position. A number of other applications were also received.

A graduate of Dorchester High School, Boston University, and the University of Southern Illinois, Bertolon is a former assessor in Newton and a former chief appraiser for the Board of Assessors in Milton.

Certified by the International Association of Assessing Officers as an official Massachusetts assessors instructor, he has taught at Mount Holyoke College, the University of Massachusetts and Bridgewater State College.

He is also a certified Massachusetts assessor and a Massachusetts accredited assessor.

He is a member of the International Association of Assessing Officers, Mass. Association of Assessing Officers and the Executive Board of the Massachusetts Association of Assessing Officers.

Partnership Daffodils Fundraiser Sunday At Adams Historic Site

The Quincy Partnership will hold a special fundraising event at the Adams National Historic Site, 135 Adams St., Sunday from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Visitors are welcome to view the spring garden and field of daffodils at the Adams site, tour the "Old House" and the Stone Library, as well as the third floor of the building which will be open to the public for the first time in several years.

Refreshments will be served in the Carriage House and garden tent, and entertainment will be provided by New York actress Harriet Bigus who, in the character of Abigail Adams, will perform "A Passion for Liberty," excerpts from the letters of Abigail and John Adams.

Readings will continue throughout the afternoon.

A $100 per person donation is requested and proceeds from the event will be used to light Quincy's historic treasures. The Adams Academy has already been illuminated, and the Thomas Crane Public Library will be lit up June 14 following the Flag Day parade. Old City Hall and the United First Parish Church (Church of the Presidents), are scheduled to be illuminated Oct. 30, the anniversary of John Adams' birthday.

The event will be held rain or shine and parking is available along Adams St.

Tickets may be purchased through Maureen Rodgers at the South Shore Chamber of Commerce at 479-1111.

Senior Olympics Open May 13

The Quincy Senior Olympics will be held during the week of May 13-18 with an awards evening May 20.

The program, which has won a state award, is open to all senior citizens.

Registration forms will be available at all Council On Aging offices on the South Shore or by calling the Beechwood Community Life Center at 471-5712.

POST-TRAUMATIC STRESS DISORDER
Some veterans watching television coverage of the war in the Gulf report increased feelings of anxiety, sleep disturbances, and other symptoms of post-traumatic stress disorder, or PTSD. This illness, formerly called "battle fatigue" or "shell shock", is a psychiatric disorder characterized by an inability to cope with the stress of combat or the violence and destruction of war. The chronic symptoms, however, are not limited to veterans. Victims of any severe, unexpected life stress may be affected. A similar pattern of emotional disturbances may follow such events as natural disasters, kidnapping, vehicular accidents, urban violence, and severe or recurrent physical injury. Although shock, guilt, anger and fear are normal reactions, for most people the intensity of the reaction eases over time. PTSD patients however, seem less able to "let go" of the emotions and are often disabled by the symptoms.

P.S. Counseling, support groups and medication can help ease the symptoms of PTSD.

Whatever the source, prolonged stress takes its toll physically as well as emotionally. Your physician can help you make decisions about how to manage and eliminate stresses in your daily life. Total health care means treating the whole person; we offer that kind of personalized, quality medical care here at COMPREHENSIVE CARDIAC CARE. For more information, please call 472-2550. We're located at 101 Adams Street, Suite 24 in Quincy. Hours are by appointment.

Reaction To Granite Ball

There seems to be a lot of people in favor of moving the granite ball back to Quincy Square from the Fore River Bridge traffic rotary in Quincy Point.

Most of the reaction to our suggestion here (April 11 column) that it be returned to Quincy Square—its original site—has been favorable.

City Council President Ted DeCristofaro, who represents Quincy Point, however, apparently isn't that crazy over the idea.

His reaction was something like: "Over my dead body."

DeCRISTOFARO

But others would like the beautiful polished granite ball back in Quincy Square near City Hall. And some of them would also like to have the controversial Constitution sculpture moved out and maybe hidden somewhere.

Samples:

Angie Cingolani of West Quincy: "The granite ball is absolutely beautiful. But the sculpture (Constitution) reminds me of a pigeon stop."

Her father, a stonecutter at Swingle's Quarry, worked on the granite ball.

She has clipped the column and sent it to her two nephews, former Quincy residents, now living in New York.

"They admired the ball when they lived here," she says.

Margaret Cahill of Hughes Street says her father, Peter, supervised work on the ball at the Quincy Column Turning Co. on Water Street.

"It is beautiful," she says. "It should be in Quincy Square. It would look nice in front of the Crane Library."

She recalls that at the time the ball was made and presented to the city as a gift from the Granite Railway Company and the Faxon family in 1925 miniature balls were also created.

The balls were presented to dignitaries attending the ceremonies commemorating the 300th anniversary of the settlement of Quincy in 1625.

And, her father, made some for members of the family which are still in existence as heirlooms.

Nelle Thompson of 1000 Southern Artery, whose relatives were Quincy granite stonecutters said:

"I do hope the ball is brought back to Quincy Square. I can't stand that ugly (Constitution sculpture) thing."

Harry Koehler of Rhoda Street: "Put it back at City Hall. It belongs there. As for that sculpture, well, let those who like it, like it. But it's not for me."

He fondly recalls as a youngster in the 1930s: "I loved to run my hand over that ball. It was so nice and smooth."

Verna Eicker of Martinson Street, who used to work at City Hall: "The granite ball belongs back there. That sculpture is a laugh—it's ridiculous."

And, Baron Hugo of Totem Pole fame, who grew up in West Quincy: "I would like to see the ball back in Quincy Square. The McIntyre Mall area would be an ideal place."

"You know you really don't see the ball down at the Fore River Circle because you've got to keep your eye on the road as you approach or come down from the Fore River Bridge and go around the rotary."

Baron is so enthused about the ball going back to Quincy Square that he has $468 he wants to donate to the cost of moving it.

He raised the money playing out in front of City Hall in September 1989 to help the victims of Hurricane Hugo in Charleston, S.C.

Baron sent a check to Charleston but has no idea what happened to it. He tried to trace it but was unsuccessful. The check was never cashed so he finally stopped payment on it.

"I decided to hold onto the money for some other worthy cause," he says. "Moving the granite ball back to Quincy Square is a worthy cause."

HUGO

The granite ball would be the crown for Mayor James Sheets' "Greener, Cleaner Quincy" program.

Sheets is not a fan of the Constitution sculpture which was unveiled in 1979 at the dedication of Constitution Common in front of new City Hall during the celebration of the 200th anniversary of the Massachusetts Constitution which was written here at the John Quincy Adams Birthplace.

SHEETS

He would like to see a pretty fountain in the area.

Out of friendship and respect for Ted DeCristofaro, Sheets probably would be reluctant to initiate plans to move the granite ball out of Quincy Point.

Sheets right now is trying to bring the Fore River Shipyard-built carrier U.S.S. Lexington back to Quincy as the centerpiece for a shipbuilding museum.

If he's successful, how about swapping the Lexington for the granite ball?

Put the Lexington in Quincy Point. The granite ball in Quincy Square.

MAYOR JAMES SHEETS was among those present when the Massachusetts Campers Association recently honored Peter O'Connell as the recipient of the James R. McIntyre Good Scout Award.

O'CONNELL

Sheets, of course, defeated O'Connell in the 1989 mayoral race and their's was one of the cleanest campaigns for the city's top political job.

Sheets had a nice tribute to O'Connell:

"Peter and I were good friends before the election, we were good friends during the campaign and we are still good friends after the election."

O'Connell has made himself available to Sheets to help him help the city whenever needed.

ANDREW ENGELKE, son-in-law of Sheila McIntyre and the late Mayor-Senator James McIntyre, has returned from Saudi Arabia where he served with the Marine Corps in an intelligence unit as pilot of an electronic countermeasure aircraft.

SHEILA

He received a Naval commendation medal for heroism when he saved the life of a fellow Marine by breaking the current that was electrocuting him.

Sheila McIntyre says: "I wish to thank all our friends who expressed concern for and offered prayers for his safe return."

Engelke, who is married to daughter Elizabeth, is retiring from the Marine Corps with the rank of major and is joining American Airlines as a pilot.

MILESTONE: Pete Zoia, North Quincy's "Mr. Football" and his wife, Elaine, recently celebrated their 52nd wedding anniversary in Hawaii. Congratulations, kids.

Lexington Would Boost Tourism

Unit citation.

"People from the Pacific rim who have a more vivid memory of World War II would want to see it. It's a natural fit if we can do it."
"We might not be able to do it. All we can do is touch every base and press every button. I think it's an extremely important element for the future of tourism."

"That's why we have to fight for her."

Since as many as six other cities are competing with Quincy for the Lexington, the mayor is reaching out to federal and state officials for assistance.
Last week, the mayor travelled to Washington and met with Sen. Ted Kennedy, Congressman Brian Donnelly, Joseph Moakley and Gerry Studds. "The plan was received with enthusiasm by everyone," Sheets said.

He also spoke with White House Political Director Ron Kaufman. Kaufman, who is a friend of Sheets and former student at Quincy College, will set up a meeting for Sheets to meet with Gov. William Weld, Lt. Gov. Paul Cellucci and perhaps State Treasurer Joseph Malone.

Sheets said he hoped the meeting would be held next week. In addition, the mayor sent a letter to President Bush Wednesday indicating the city's interest in acquiring the carrier after it is decommissioned in November.

"(Bush) has to be politically neutral but we want to make sure we are in touch with him in case some of the other cities show interest to him," the mayor said.

Because of the competition and the fact that several million dollars must be raised to renovate the carrier and bring her back, the mayor said state leaders must get actively involved to make the mission a reality.

"I just think (the leaders) are going to be enthusiastic about it. It's a grand carrier, a grand lady of fighting ship and I think Massachusetts is going to become deeply involved in bringing her home.

"I think the issue is bigger than me and bigger than Quincy and I think it's going to be a cause celebrated across the state. We have no illusions about the magnitude of difficulty."

"The state of California, Texas, Alabama and Florida, they will want her, but we created her so I think she should come back here. The fact that we created here is a stronger claim than anyone else can have," the mayor said.

Navy Secretary H. Lawrence Garrett III will recommend to Congress which city should receive the Lexington after she is decommissioned this fall. Garrett's recommendation will stand before Congress for 60 days.

"If no one objects, than it becomes a fact. The only way that (Congress) would not accept the recommendation is if there was a substantial reason, such as if the chosen city did not have the money or a plan or both," Sheets said.

The mayor's office will process the city's application for the Lexington. "It will take some time to do because you have to have your funding or funding sources. We're still in the process of doing that," Sheets said.

Meanwhile, the mayor said the next step is gaining the support of the state leadership.

"Once we have done that, then everything comes into focus. It means we have touched all the bases and met with the major players. We can then assess, analyze and make judgements based on that."

"The key is going to be where the funding is coming from. We'll certainly get involved in a state-wide fundraising effort. The character of the effort is going to be determined by need."

"I can see the possibility of back when they were raising money for Old Ironsides. School kids were saving money. I can see a state-wide program with school children involved in getting the Lex back."

Sheets estimates $1 million is needed to get the Lexington here, $500,000 to prepare it for a museum and another $1.5 million to $2 million to annually operate and upkeep the tourist site.

Once in Quincy, the mayor sees guided tours on the ship, a restaurant and eventually a shipbuilder's museum.

"I think it's going to be a massive undertaking with a massive effort and I think you'll see people responding all over the state," he added.

South Shore League Suspends Baseball For Duration Of War

The four remaining members of the South Shore Baseball League voted to suspend operations for the duration of the war due to lack of players and problems brought on by gas rationing.

President Tom Lonergan said that out of 120 players on the rosters during the 1942 season, a total of 103 had been inducted into the armed services.

The folding of the Braintree White Sox and the Thorp Motors team from Weymouth left the league with only four teams - the Sagamore Plebes, the Coalers, Squantum and Hingham Ammunition Depot.

DAY CARE PLANNED

The Quincy Day Nursing Association took steps to establish a day care center for children in Quincy at a meeting in the home of Mrs. Archer M. Nickerson, 116 Putnam St., Quincy Center.

The center would care for youngsters while their mothers worked at jobs in defense plants.

Recently a committee headed by Public Welfare Commissioner Anthony J. Venna found that there was no present need for such a center and referred the matter to the Quincy Council of Social Agencies.

GLEE CLUB GOES COED

The Wollaston Glee Club, faced with a shortage of men lost to military services and defense plants, turned to women to fill the gap for the first time.

Ladies were selected from the Wollaston Choral Art Society and local church choirs to assist the club at its opening concert in the Quincy High School Auditorium.

BENCH REPAIRS URGED

City Councillor William W. Jenness filed a resolve urging the Park Department to fix the benches on the traffic island at Coddington and Washington Sts. where riders wait for the Houghs Neck bus.

The benches, said Jenness, "are so dilapidated that whenever a man sits down on them he risks getting up without his pants."

FIRE BOAT SHOWS OFF

Fire Chief William J. Sands and Deputy Thomas Gorman attended a demonstration of the fireboat, CG-30109-F, the first ever assigned to the Fore River shipyard.

The boat was capable of directing six simultaneous streams of water a distance of 50 to 100 feet at a rate of 2,000 gallons a minute.

Mostoccioli Cookies

During a recent visit to Berkley with our "relations" Jerry and Amy, we had the most delicious cookies made by their friend and neighbor Mary DeAngelo. They are called Mostoccioli cookies (sounds like a pasta doesn't it?) They should be called "Mary's Cookies" because she is such a great cook. These cookies can be made weeks in advance and kept in a box or container until ready to eat.

MARY'S COOKIES

- 1 Lb shelled almonds
- 1 cup chocolate chips
- 4 cups flour
- 2 cups sugar
- the rind of two lemons
- 2 tsps clove
- 2 tsps cinnamon
- 2 Tbsps margarine (melted)
- 2 tsps anisette
- 2 tsps baking powder
- one half tsp baking soda
- 3 tsps cocoa

1 cup cold, strong, sweetened coffee
Chop the almonds and roast for 15 minutes in a 400 degree oven. Mix all the ingredients together in a large bowl adding the cold coffee, the anisette and the melted margarine last. Turn the mixture into a dough and then on to a floured board. Knead the dough and divide it into 4 to 6 parts. Roll in one and a half inch flat pieces and bake on cookies sheets lined with aluminum foil. Bake in a 400 degree oven for 10 to 15 minutes. Take out when soft, cool and then cut into biscotti sizes. Cool completely. They get crispy when cooled.

Marie D'Olimpio is the author of "Simply Italian-And Then Some," a collection of her own recipes. Copies of the book are available at Previt's Market, Sumner St., Quincy Point, Samoset Pharmacy, Samoset Ave., Merrymount and Winfield Gift Emporium, Hancock St., Quincy Center.

THIS WEEK has been proclaimed "Licensed Practical Nurse Week" in Quincy by Mayor James Sheets. Quincy College has the largest LPN program in the state with its students working in a wide range of health care areas. With the mayor, are, from left, Yvonne Duncanson of the Brockton Veterans Administration Hospital; Krystyna Benson, president of the Quincy College LPN class; Katherine Sullivan, class treasurer; Marian Gamache, student representative; and Anna Santosuosso, Quincy College nursing coordinator.

KINDERGARTEN STUDENTS AT the Merrymount School hand in their pledge envelopes for the Easter Seals Hop-n-ing. Two kindergarten classes raised a total of $572.94 to benefit disabled children.

Merrymount School Students Raise Money For Easter Seals

Merrymount School students learned about physical disabilities during the Easter Seal HOP-N-ING recently.

The program, sponsored by TJK Companies, teaches children about disabilities and their effects on everyday lives. Children also learn how wheelchairs, crutches and other special equipment works.

Students raised money for Easter Seals by hopping for three minutes and collecting pledges from family and friends.

Last year, more than 9,000 children statewide helped raise $225,000 through this program.

Products for the environment

For those concerned with the environment, as most of us are today, here is a list of natural products which clean just as effectively and less expensively than brand name cleaners with harmful, non-biodegradable chemicals:

White vinegar is good for cleaning windows as well as washing waxes and pesticides from fruit and vegetables.

Butter makes an excellent treatment for leather shoes and boots.

Pure castile soap is biodegradable and acts by dissolving rather than cutting up dirt. It is said to effectively wash woolsens and silks, cure athlete's foot, and the peppermint type can be used as a natural mouthwash when diluted.

Light up the night and keep thieves away with new do-it-yourself security products

Outdoor lighting is one of the most effective ways to deter potential burglars.

"Poor lighting is the criminal's ally," says Willis Shannon, an officer with the Chicago Police Department. "Without lighting, a burglar can take his time on a door or a window to gain entry into a house. The darkness is his shroud, his cover. But light up the area, and you expose him."

Home security and outdoor lighting have come a long way in recent years in terms of options, quality and prices.

New do-it-yourself (DIY) security products such as motion detectors, remote controls and audio alarms are designed especially for integration into outdoor lighting systems. These products allow homeowners to secure their homes easily and inexpensively.

According to Jay Kakuk of The Toro Company, a manufacturer of outdoor security lighting products, many homeowners are hesitant to install exterior security lighting because of the perceived dangers of working with electricity.

"New low-voltage outdoor lighting systems are very safe and easy to install," says Kakuk. "These systems do not require building permits or installation by electricians."

Kakuk offers the following tips for effective security lighting.

- Make sure there's enough light in your yard to identify the color of a thief's clothing and hair.
- Use spotlights and floodlights because they emit more light than decorative accent fixtures. Choose lights with a variable focus beam to intensify light in unit areas. By adjusting the focus, you can spread the light out to cover the entire front porch or concentrate it at the front door.
- Look for halogen bulbs. The 12-volt

LIGHT ALL POTENTIAL ENTRY POINTS such as doors and windows to reduce residential theft. Also, integrate infrared motion detectors and audio alarms into your outdoor lighting system.

halogen light bulbs used in Toro outdoor lighting emit more light than conventional bulbs.

- Keep bushes and shrubs pruned away from the house.
- Eliminate all shadows around windows, doors and corners.
- Integrate motion detectors into your outdoor lighting system to surprise and frighten would-be thieves away. Toro's Infrared Motion Detector automatically turns on lights when it senses the body heat of an approaching person.
- Integrate audio alarms into your outdoor lighting system as well. Toro's Security Link sounds a warning when someone has been detected by the motion detector. Place the alarm near a window and the sound can be heard outside the house.

• Most outdoor lighting systems have lighting timers which automatically turn on the lights. If you plan to be away, set your lighting timer for nighttime. The best timers have light-sensitive photocells which turn on the lights as soon as it gets dark.

• Purchase a remote lighting control similar to your garage door opener. You'll be able to turn on your exterior lights from inside the house or your car.

For a free booklet on outdoor lighting, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Lighting Security Booklet, The Toro News Center, 8500 Normandale Lake Blvd., #1200, Bloomington, MN 55437.

Eliminate driveway, sidewalk, patio weeds

Removing weeds and grasses along fences, sidewalks and driveways is one of the most dreaded spring tasks.

Many liquid edgers remove growth above the soil, but most of these leave the roots behind. So, the weeds eventually grow back and several applications are required to maintain clean fence lines and weed-free areas during the growing season.

Ortho Consumer Products has developed a major work saver, Ortho Kleenup[®] Super Edger, a systemic product with a unique pre-emergent formula to not only kill weeds and grasses, but prevent regrowth for up to three months.

Kleenup Super Edger won't stain gravel or paved areas. The ready-to-use formula is available in a convenient one-gallon applicator container; most weeds are controlled in one application.

Although it provides pre-emergent control against germinating weed seeds, it is safe when used as directed around the base and over the root zones of trees, shrubs and ornamental borders to control weeds without harming the plant.

Kleenup Super Edger can be applied anytime, but for best results, apply to mature weeds and grasses that are actively growing. Warm, sunny weather will accelerate systemic movement from foliage to roots.

Our Home Equity Line of Credit is more about saving than spending.

Save on monthly loan payments.

With a Bank of New England Home Equity Line of Credit, you can pay off current auto loan, department store and credit card balances now, and save. Because you'll reduce your monthly credit obligations to a single payment, and could cut your finance charges almost in half.

Save on taxes.

Federal tax laws have completely eliminated deductions on credit card, auto loan and other unsecured loan interest. The Home Equity Line of Credit, however, is the exception to the rule—with interest still 100% deductible in most cases.

Save on major expenses.

The low interest and tax savings that make our

Home Equity Line of Credit a cost-effective way to pay off your debts also make it a smart way to borrow for such expenses as college tuition and home improvement.

Save on closing costs.

At other banks, you'd probably pay closing costs on a new Home Equity Line of Credit. At Bank of New England, we'll save you at least $200 by waiving those costs if you apply by June 30, 1991.

Stop by any Bank of New England office, or call toll-free for more information or an application for a Home Equity Line of Credit today. And start saving.

Legionnaires Take Part In Squantum Church Service

"How Does God Give Us Courage?" was the title of the sermon preached Sunday morning at the First Church of Squantum by the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor, with veterans from the Robert Nickerson American Legion Post in attendance.

The Legionnaires were led by Commander Donald Pitts and accompanied by Nick D'Alessandro, department vice-commander, and Joe Crimmins, the next department commander, both of the national American Legion. Mayor James Sheets was also present.

Richard Hendry, chaplain of the Nickerson Post, read the list of Legion dead, after which Dr. Langevin led the congregation in a memorial prayer. "Taps" was played by the Legion trumpeter. The pastor also offered special prayers for those who were sick or confined, those serving in the military who are or recently have been serving in the war zone and veterans of Vietnam.

In his prayer for the men and women currently serving in the Persian Gulf, Dr. Langevin mentioned by name, as he does every Sunday morning, the names of those military personnel who are from Squantum, including Private First Class Paul Brown, Lance Corporal Christopher Cameron, Sergeant Joseph P. Doherty, Airman Lawrence Hickey, Sergeant John P. Kelly, Sergeant Roger Hartwell, Sergeant Richard Stohberg Jr., Chaplain Major John Sumner and Lance Corporal Richard Williams.

The scripture readings were read by Tom Klock, Dore Klock and Tom Williamson.

The congregational singing was accompanied by Craig Zaehring on the organ and Janet Williamson on the piano.

Special music was provided by violinist James Sumner who is also the father of Chaplain Major Sumner. The offertory was played by saxophonist John Chapman and pianist Kristen Fluhr. They played a special arrangement of "Amazing Grace."

Greeting the veterans and their families were Lori Oglivie and Matt Chetwynd, both cadets in the North Quincy High School ROTC, with Sandra Stohberg, mother of Sergeant Stohberg Jr.

Ushers were Ann Wallin and Katrina Sorrentino. Fellowship hour was hosted by Louise Randall and Drucilla Wames.

The Bible Study group continues its study of the gospel of Mark each Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

Sunday morning worship service begins at 10:30 a.m. Child care is available. Sunday School meets at 9:45 a.m.

To Find Our New Emergency Center, Walk This Way.

In an emergency, you can always turn to South Shore Hospital. Only now, please turn on Fogg Road. Because that's where you'll find the newest Emergency Center in Massachusetts.

You'll be amazed at how different the new Fogg Road facility is. Now, it's easier to get and park here. And there are separate entrances for ambulance and walk-in patients. For your comfort, there's a new waiting area which even includes a special children's play area.

Our new Emergency Center has many special features. Thirty-two treatment areas, a trauma room for seriously injured accident victims, a special resuscitation room for patients with heart problems, central monitoring of patient vital signs, and an eye treatment room are all a part of the new facility. There's even an emergency radiology suite.

Best of all, it's staffed by some of the most highly qualified emergency medicine physicians and nurses in the area.

So when an emergency strikes your family, get over to our new Emergency Center. We'll have you back on your feet in no time.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

In every vocabulary is a set of keys. Keys to thinking and the working tools with which one puts together one's thoughts. Try as you may, you cannot express yourself, or even think, without a vocabulary.

There must be a name for everything. A key-word is a key to thought. As a musician cannot play a Chopin composition on a piano with less than a dozen keys, so does the individual fall short of harmony, melody and beauty of expression without a wide range of keys to thought. They are needed for those finer, deeper and richer shades of meaning.

Today it is more important than ever that the tools of expression be kept keen and bright. Words have often directed the fate of mankind and ordered the course of history. They can also dictate changes and alter the aims of your life and mine. World understanding cannot be greater than word understanding.

It is of the greatest importance to mean what you say, when you say what you mean. It is within your power to banish misunderstanding and create havoc with doubts, fears and prejudice. And the bigger the vocabulary, the better the thinking. New heights of ecstasy can be attained. Problems can dissolve like the mists before the summer sun for you will have the keys to a vast treasure of understanding ...

Documentary On Quincy Christmas Parade To Be Made

The Quincy Christmas Festival Committee along with the Quincy Community Television Council, is currently accepting applications to hire an experienced producer to produce a video documentary highlighting the 40-year history of the Quincy Christmas Parade.

"The parade has gone through many changes," says Festival Committee General Chairman, George White, "and this documentary will highlight the changes as well as the people who made the parade such a success."

The Christmas Festival Committee has spent three months gathering information about the parade's history.

With the help of Continental Cablevision and the Quincy Community Television Council, the documentary will be aired on local programming channels and presented to the city.

Any interested producers are asked to write to Continental Cablevision, c/o Christmas Parade Committee, 81 School St., Quincy, or call 471-3200 ext. 3048 to request an application.

The closing date for applications is May 1.

'Art For Heart' Raises $8,000 For Heart Assn.

More than 300 art enthusiasts attended the ninth annual "Art for Heart" exhibit and sale which raised $8,000 to benefit the American Heart Association.

Proceeds from admissions, donations and art sales from the recent event held at the

Quincy Rebounds To Edge North

The Quincy baseball team lost five of its first six games, three by one run, but things turned around for the Presidents last Friday when they took a 4-0 lead and held on to edge North Quincy, 4-3, to improve to 2-5. The Raiders, who also have lost tough decisions, fell to 1-5.

Quincy plays at Weymouth today (Thursday), will host Taunton Monday at 3:30 at Adams Field, and will play at Bridgewater-Raynham next Wednesday at the same time.

North hosted Silver Lake yesterday (Wednesday), will play at Bridgewater-Raynham Friday, will be at Weymouth Monday and will be home to Barnstable next Wednesday at 3:30 at Adams.

Chad McMahon, who has been pitching well but had nothing to show for it, shut North Quincy out until the bottom of the seventh when the Raiders rallied for three runs. He held North to two hits until the seventh.

North filled the bases and Ron Boudreau doubled to left field, clearing the bases, as the ball took a bad bounce past Jeff Craig. However, McMahon bore down and left the tying run on third base.

North pitcher Scott Dunn pitched well but Quincy took a 1-0 lead in the third when McMahon singled and sophomore Robbie Kane drove McMahon in with a triple just inside the left field line.

The Presidents added a run in the fourth when Dewey Holmes reached on a fielder's choice and scored on an error. They added a run in the sixth when Tom Balzano doubled, moved to third on a ground out and scored on a squeeze bunt by Noel DiBona. Quincy scored what proved to be the winning run in the top of the seventh when Ralph Bevilacqua singled, was bunted along by freshman Tom Malvesti and pinch runner Steve Miller scored on Kane's two-out single.

Dunn allowed eight hits, struck out eight and walked only one.

"We knew this was going to be the type of game where you were going to have to grunt runs in," said Quincy coach Bob Sylvia.

"There were two thoroughbreds pitching out there and they just battled each other."

"We had our chance in the seventh but McMahon was tough," said North coach Leo Donovan. "Dunn pitched a fine game for us and it was a tough game to lose."

In its previous game, Quincy lost a 9-8 slugfest to Boston Latin in the seventh inning.

Balzano's bases-loaded triple tied the game for the Presidents in the sixth. He had another triple and drove in five runs. Steve Loud pitched four strong innings, but errors of omission and mental errors were costly to Quincy.

North lost to South Boston, 7-5, in 10 innings as Southie's Mike Whitney doubled home two runs including the game-winner. He came on in relief in the eighth with the bases loaded and one out and retired the next two batters, setting up his 10th inning heroics.

Sophomore Mike Patch pitched all the way for North and Serge Belcastro doubled home two runs.

Over 45 Compete In Houghs Neck Road Race

More than 45 runners, ranging from three years old to "over 50," took part in the recent annual Houghs Neck road race sponsored by Houghs Neck Legion Post.

Athletic chairman John Duffy, Commander Russell

Baratelli and John Christenson were in charge of arrangements.

The top runners were Laura Moore and Adam Vecchione, eight and under; Jenna Nolan and Jim Goldrick, 9-14; Deane Moore, women over 25;

The Department of Public Works for the City of Quincy, Massachusetts will receive sealed bids for Contract No. 3, Washington Street and Quincy Avenue: Water Mains Construction until 10:00 AM local time on Tuesday May 21, 1991, at the Office of the Commissioner of Public Works, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, Massachusetts 02169, at which time and place all bids will be publicly opened and read aloud.

The Work in this Contract consists of removal of about 3,000 feet of 8-inch main in Quincy Avenue and installation of approximately 20 linear feet (1.1) of new 16-inch ductile iron (D.I.) watermain; 9,370 l.f. of new 12-inch D.I. watermain; 145 l.f. of new 10-inch D.I. watermain; 1,350 l.f. of new 8-inch D.I. watermain and 750 l.f. of new 6-inch D.I. watermain including all valves, fittings, connections to existing watermains, hydrants, house service connections and appurtenances.

A deposit of $50.00 in cash or check, payable to the City of Quincy, Massachusetts will be required for each set of Contract Documents. A refund of the deposit will be made for Documents returned in good condition within 30 days after the bids are received.

Bidders will be furnished one set of Contract Documents for the deposit specified. Additional sets may be purchased.

Bidders requesting Contract Documents by mail shall also include a separate non-refundable check payable to the City of Quincy in the amount of $15.00 per set to cover the costs of handling and mailing.

The Contract Documents may be obtained during the business hours from 8:30 AM to noon and from 1:00 PM to 4:00 PM at the office of the Commissioner of Public Works, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, Massachusetts 02169 on or after April 24, 1991.

The Successful Bidder must furnish a 100 percent (100%) Construction Performance Bond and a 100 percent (100%) Construction Payment Bond with a security company acceptable to the Owner.

The bidders and award of this Contract shall be in full compliance with Massachusetts General Law, Chapter 30, Section 39M, as last revised.

Bidders attention is called to the requirements as to conditions of employment to be observed and minimum wage rates to be paid under the Contract.

No bidder may withdraw his bid within 30 days, Saturdays, Sundays and legal holidays excluded, after the actual date of this opening of the general bids.

This Contract to be awarded as the result of this Advertisement for Bids is expected to be funded in part by the Department of Environmental Protection, Bureau of Municipal Facilities; Water Supply Section.

1. The Contractor shall maintain on this project a not less than ten percent (10%) ratio of minority employee manhours to total manhours in each job category.

2. A minimum of eleven percent (11%) MBE participation and five percent (5%) WBE participation by state-certified MBEs and WBEs. The bidder shall submit completed MBE/WBE forms with the bid.

Failure to comply with these requirements may be deemed to render a proposal non-responsive. No waiver of any portion of these provisions will be granted unless approved by the Department of Environmental Protection.

The City of Quincy has residency requirements for workers which provides for local preference in hiring on City-supported construction projects.

The Owner reserves the right to waive any informality in or to reject any or all Bids if deemed to be in their best interest.

Group Wants Newport Ave Renamed For McIntyre

recommendation. After a recommendation is made, the order goes back to the council for a vote.

A public hearing is not necessarily required for a proposed street renaming.

Mark Reed, second vice president of the James R. McIntyre Memorial Fund, Inc., said it is the committee's intention to make the public aware of the request.

Reed said the committee has not decided when it will asked the City Council to introduce the name change. When that is known, he said residents and businesses on Newport Ave. will be informed.

"This is something the committee wants the public to be aware of. We welcome any input," Reed said.

He also said the exact name change has not been decided. He expects the committee to decide in the near future.

Mayor James Sheets said he would support the name change if the City Council okays it. "If the council passes it, I would certainly sign it."

He said Greg Doyle of the city's planning department researched the origin of the name. "I want to make sure it wasn't named for someone." The mayor said the street was not named for a person; instead, it was probably named Newport because it connects Quincy with Boston.

"Once Boston was established, Quincy was thought of as the New Port. It was a road to a New Port South of Boston," the mayor said.

The group believes Newport Ave. is the most appropriate since McIntyre was born and lived in Wollaston. As a Marine, he served in the Korean War, and was awarded the Bronze Star, with V and three Purple Hearts. Besides serving as mayor of Quincy, he was a city council president, state representative and state senator.

His major accomplishments include the acquisition of federal funds that resulted in the North Quincy and Wollaston Neighborhood Improvement programs and the public works facility on Sea St. In order to lessen the impact of the MBTA, McIntyre was instrumental in planning the depression of the tracks through Quincy Square, and the rebuilding of Beale St., Furnace Brook Parkway and Adams Street bridges.

A Few Words on FUNERAL SERVICE

What is proper Funeral Attire?

Black is no longer the rule for a visitation, wake, or funeral.
Today a visitor may wear colorful clothing in good taste. Gloves and hats may be worn, if desired; but are being worn less and less. Small customs and local mores may suggest a small black veil, an armband or something similar.
The widow or widower will usually wear something basic or conservative in color and style.
The fact that you were there will remain in the family's memory longer than what you wore.

'Iraq Had Terrible A 'Welcome Ho For Wollaston Marine

By ROBERT BOSWORTH
As much as Paul O'Grady of Quincy will remember Feb. 27, 1991 as the day he turned 23, he will remember April 25, 1991 even more.

O'Grady, of 47 Sachem St., is a lance corporal in the U.S. Marines. After three long, hot months in the Saudi desert as a member of Operation Desert Storm, O'Grady came home to Quincy last Thursday. Some 30 family, friends and neighbors greeted the soft-spoken Marine at Logan Airport at 9 a.m. When he got home at 10 a.m., they threw a "Welcome Home, Paul" party, complete with red, white, blue and yellow balloons, ribbons, streamers and American flags.

From Jan. 20 through April 14, O'Grady was assigned to the Sixth Motor Transportation Battalion as an ordinance driver. The battalion supplied the First Marine Expeditionary Force with ammunition.

"They were the Marines that went into Kuwait City," O'Grady explained. "We stocked all their ammunition supply points. We had that going around the clock until the war was O'Grady spent three months in Saudi Arabia serving in Operation Desert Storm.

Cheney Clashes With Colton DPW Merger Plan Presented To Council

By STEVE KAVANAGH
Department of Public Works Commissioner David Colton introduced a reorganization plan for the management of his department at Monday's Finance Committee budget review.

However, City Councilor-at-Large Michael Cheney called the plan an attempt to give large pay raises to management personnel. No vote was taken and the Finance Committee agreed to further review Colton's $8.4 million dollar budget at a later date.

The thrust of Colton's plan would be to merge six management positions into four and create a team approach to the DPW's duties.

Cheney said that two of the positions are presently unfilled and that the reorganization would create large pay raises for two men, Mike Wheelwright and Steve Aluisy.

Cheney said Wheelwright would go from Principal Planner, which now pays $33,833, to Program Manager, which would pay $38,672--a jump of about $4,800.

Aluisy is currently Energy Coordinator which pays $29,516. Cheney said Aluisy would become Public Works Superintendent at $38,672--an increase of almost $9,000.

Colton would not

To Meet With Two Top Ranking Navy Officials Kennedy To Push For Lexington

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Sen. Edward "Ted" Kennedy (D-MA) is planning to meet with two top ranking U.S. Navy officials soon in an effort to help the city acquire the U.S.S. Lexington after the aircraft carrier is decommissioned in November.

In an interview with The Quincy Sun Tuesday, Kennedy said he will meet with Admiral Frank Kelso, chief of U.S. Naval Operations, and Navy Secretary H. Lawrence Garrett III to ensure the city's application for the Quincy-built ship gets adequate consideration.

In other issues, the state's senior senator commended President George Bush's selection of Quincy native Gen. Gordon R. Sullivan as the Army's next commander and expressed his support for a bill which would make water and sewer bills tax deductible.

Looking ahead to 1992, Kennedy said the Democrats, including former Sen. Paul Tsongas, should devise a strategy based on domestic issues if the party hopes to win the White House.

Discussing the city's bid for the Lexington, Kennedy noted five other cities are competing for the carrier. Because of the intense interest for the ship, the senator said Quincy's strategy should be to emphasize the fact that the Lexington was built here. He also said stressing Quincy's proud shipbuilding past plays in the city's favor.

"If it's preserved here it will be an important addition to the culture and educational system and it will be an important asset not only to Quincy but also the state."

Kennedy said the city must show Garrett, who will recommend which city gets the ship, that the Lexington will be well-maintained if it becomes part of a shipbuilder's museum at the former General Dynamics shipyard in Quincy Point.

Sheets has said it will cost between $1.5 to $2 million to manage the carrier as a tourist attraction. He said $1 to $1.5 could be raised by charging visitors a fee to tour the ship.

The rest of the cost could be covered by operating a function room in the ship's hanger, the mayor said.

Council Finds No Major Cuts In Budget

The first round of the City Council Finance Committee's budget review went smoothly with no major cuts being made to any departments.

Reductions had already been made at the department level as part of Mayor James Sheets order to cut most department budgets by eight percent. Police, fire and school department budgets face two percent cuts.

"How much more can be cut," said Tom Koch, executive secretary to Sheets. "We are trying to make areas more efficient by consolidating."

Budgets approved by the council Monday include: City Clerk, Elections, Assessor's, Treasurer/Collector, Furnace Brook Golf Course, Purchasing and Parking, Data Processing, and Rent Grievance.

Also, Zoning Board of Appeals, Planning Board, Veteran's Services, Library, Cemetery, Parks Department, Recreation Department, Building Inspector, Weights and Measures, Wire Inspector, Sewer/Water & Drain, Snow & Ice Removal, and Street Lighting.

Also, Special Fuel, Engineering, Sanitary Landfill, Retirement, Unemployment, Auditor, Debt Services, and Pensions.

The Fire, Traffic Control and Health budgets were scheduled to be reviewed May 1 and Police, Harbormaster, Civil Defense, Animal Control, Education, Council, Mayor and miscellaneous budgets will be reviewed May 13.

Faxon Park Cleanup Saturday

A Faxon Park cleanup will be held Saturday, May 4 from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Volunteers should meet at the park's basketball court. Rakes, shovels and brooms will be provided, but it would be appreciated if people with these tools bring them because it's possible the city won't have enough tools to equip everyone.

It would help the effort if cleanup workers bring work gloves and a sturdy canvas or nylon bag or duffle bag for picking up glass. Volunteers will be put into groups and assigned different sections of the park. The project is affiliated with the city's "Cleaner, Greener" campaign. Once a beautiful wilderness retreat, Faxon Park is littered with glass and other debris.

Since Faxon Park is the largest park in the city, volunteers are sought from throughout the city to help out.

There will be a barbecue at Pageant Field after the cleanup.

Organizers of the Faxon Park cleanup say the project could be a great experience for families. Parents would be able to show their children the effects of pollution.

Linda Stice Launches School Committee Bid

LINDA STICE

Linda Stice of 26 Phillips St., Quincy, announces her candidacy for the Quincy School Committee.

Stice, 42, is the former coordinator of the Quincy Teen Mothers Program. Since 1970, she has worked as a teacher, social worker and administrator.

She taught in the inner-city schools, co-founded and directed Massachusetts' first school for young female offenders, and directed the Quincy Public Schools' alternative school for pregnant and parenting teens.

Stice left the Teen Mothers Program in 1988 in order to spend time with her children. She and her husband, Ken Tarabelli, have a nine-year old son and a four-year-old daughter.

"I'm running for school committee because I have a vision for Quincy: that we can provide the best public school education in Massachusetts. We're lucky because we happen to have the greatest kids in the world right here.

"My vision requires that we all work together—parents, teachers, the school committee, and the community. I have great faith in the people of Quincy. If we remember that our number one priority is kids, I know we can do the job," she said.

If elected, Stice said she will work to "create a volunteer program for the schools to top all volunteer programs." "I agree with (State Education Commissioner Harold Raynolds) that 'it takes a village to raise a child'.

"I will ask every person in Quincy to make a commitment to our public schools," she added.

With the permission of teachers and principals, Stice said she would spend at least two hours a week in the city's classrooms if elected.

"That a school committee member should spend time in the schools is just plain common sense. We need to understand how decisions we are faced with affect children and teachers'.

Stice holds two masters degrees in education, an Ed. M in counseling and consulting from Harvard University and an M. Ed. in elementary education from the University of Florida. She earned a B.A. from the University of Wisconsin.

She is a member of the South Shore Cerebral Palsy Board of Directors and the Board of the Quincy Teen Mothers Program. She is treasurer of the Wollaston School PTO and a member of the school's beautification committee.

She is also a member of the Quincy Foundation for Excellence in Education, serves on the city's Recycling Committee, and was appointed to the city's Household Hazardous Waste Committee.

Stice plans a fundraiser in June. For more information, call 773-1552.

Kennedy To Push For Lexington

With space for as many as 1,500 people, he said various groups, such as veterans groups and former shipbuilders, could rent the room and hold reunions there.

As far as the cost for transporting the Lexington from its present dock in Pensacola, Fla., to Quincy, Kennedy said he will look into federal funding.

Kennedy, who is a member of the Armed Services Committee, said, "I think the Lexington should be here. We're going to make every effort to work with Mayor Sheets and the local community to see that it is.

"I'm hopeful we can get a fair hearing and I'm very hopeful we will."

Kennedy also expressed his support for a bill filed by Cong. Brian Donnelly which would allow homeowners to deduct water and sewer bills from their federal taxes. Local bills are rising because of the Boston Harbor cleanup project.

"We're going to work with the Finance Committee in the Senate," Kennedy said. Noting as much as 75 percent of the cleanup could have been federally funded if the project "hadn't fallen through the cracks 10 to 15 years ago," he said, "It seems to me we shouldn't be penalizing local taxpayers for the failure of the state to make that application and get that project in. That would have relieved them of that particular burden."

Kennedy called Sullivan's appointment as the Army's next commander "outstanding."

"He's had a very, very distinguished career. I think it's a great credit to him personally, to his family and to the community."

Kennedy, who said he expects the Senate will confirm Sullivan "very quickly," added, "He's had a very distinguished military career. He's a real soldier's soldier. I think we're lucky to have him."

As for the race for president next year, Kennedy said Tsongas as well as other Democrats should build from a platform based on domestic issues such as jobs and the economy.

He noted unemployment in Southeastern Massachusetts is at its highest level since the Depression. As an example of the difficult economic times, he pointed out a newspaper ad for 11 minimum-wage positions at a new Pizza Hut in Fairhaven drew 1,100 responses.

"The idea that you have an administration that believes this recession is only temporary and not deep and hurting people is a myth," the senator said.

He also said the Democratic Party should make energy a key concern.

"The fact is that this administration seems to be coasting on the achievements of the Persian Gulf War in terms of dealing with serious problems.

"The only energy plan that this administration has is to fast-track nuclear power and drill in the Arctic reserve. After we've gone through this whole Persian Gulf situation that, as an energy policy, does not show a serious attitude."

TRACY O'SULLIVAN, a North Quincy High sophomore, will sing the national anthem at the opening ceremonies of the Quincy Public Schools Festival of Arts Wednesday, May 8 at 8:45 a.m. at Presidents Place, 1250 Hancock St., Quincy.

Quincy Partnership Seeking Memorial Flags

The Quincy Partnership, Inc., is asking families of deceased veterans to loan their Veterans Memorial Flags to the partnership for use during this year's Flag Day Parade.

A Veterans Memorial Flag is given to the family of a deceased veteran by the Veterans Administration to be displayed on the casket during the funeral. Flags will be prominently displayed along the parade route. Each flag will have a banner attached bearing the name of that veteran.

"We feel this is a special way to honor our flag as well as the veterans who fought to protect and preserve it," said Ed Keohane, president of the Quincy Partnership. "We want Quincy to lead the way in showing how much we appreciate the courage and sacrifices which have been made by all our veterans through the years."

The Flag Day Parade will be held Friday, June 14. It will begin at Veterans Stadium at 6:45 p.m. and proceed down Hancock St. to the Thomas Crane Public Library.

Gettysburg Peace Flags will be carried in the parade and many military and veterans units will participate.

"The Quincy Partnership wants this Flag Day to be a time when citizens can show their pride in the flag and all it stands for," said Mike McFarland, a member of the partnership.

This year's parade will also honor the late Dick Koch, founder of the Koch Club, who for many years sponsored Quincy's Flag Day parade.

The culmination of the parade will be the lighting of the exterior of the Thomas Crane Library which was funded by the partnership.

Those interested in loaning a flag can deliver it to Keohane's 785 Hancock St., Wollaston. It will be returned.

Evergreen Tree Pickup At DPW Saturday, Sunday

Residents who recycled Christmas trees and wrapping and received a coupon for a free evergreen tree can pick up their sapling Saturday, May 4 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Sunday, May 5 from noon to 4 p.m. at the Quincy Public Works Department, 55 Sea St.

High participation has made the Quincy Evergreen Program an overwhelming success. Not only will yards benefit, but the recycling of 2,650 Christmas trees and paper and the planting of 2,650 new trees throughout the city will have a significant environmental impact on Quincy and the region.

In addition to receiving a four-year-old, 12 to 18 inch Scotch Pine, residents who recycled will also receive a fertilizing pellet that will nourish the tree over a period of a time. Planting instructions and information on trees and their benefit to the environment will also be distributed. There is a list of all participants in the event someone has lost or misplaced their coupon. Those who have lost their coupon should present their name and address at the time of pickup.

Those who have a coupon should bring it to the pickup.

In recognition of Quincy's commitment to the environment through the Quincy Evergreen Program, the public is invited to attend the dedication and planting of a 16-foot Norway Spruce in front of City Hall Friday, May 3 at 6 p.m.

Refreshments will be served.

Mayor James Sheets, Evergreen Program Sponsor J. M. Cashman and Chairman Leo Kelly thank all the Quincy residents who participated in the first Christmas Tree Recycling program.

Gov. William Weld reportedly is giving serious thought to proposing the death penalty for drug kingpins.

He would get to it in two steps. First: stiffer penalties — longer prison sentences and heavier fines — for those involved with drug rings.

Second: re-establish the death penalty for first degree murderers and include drug kingpins in the same category.

*If the late Superior Court Judge Henry Chmielinski were alive today he would march with Weld on both proposals.

In fact he proposed the very same get-tough-with-the-drug pushers some years ago.

CHMIELINSKI

As for drug peddlers, he'd like to see them locked up and have someone lose the cell key.

And, as for drug ringleaders, he once startled a White House conference on law enforcement by suggesting the death penalty for those dealing in hard drugs.

They, he said in effect, should be hanged or sat down in an electric chair.

As far as he was concerned, they were murderers. First degree murderers. Their weapons drugs.

"They murder our youth," he said. "They ruin young lives. Anyone responsible for getting drugs to children should pay the ultimate penalty. The death penalty."

Chmielinski was convinced the only way to curb drug traffic was to crack down hard on the ringleaders.

"Impose the death penalty. Get rid of them once and for all. They're a cancer on society."

Chmielinski was drafted by the Republican State Convention in 1982 to run for attorney general but declined the nomination because he felt it would be improper for a sitting judge to run.

Later that year he retired from the bench and ran unsuccessfully for district attorney in Plymouth County.

If he had been elected to either post there is no doubt he would have advocated — loud and clear — the return of the death penalty for first degree murderers and for drug kingpins.

Chmielinski died of cancer at age 70 in May, 1983 —

Death Penalty For Drug Lords?

eight years ago this month. If you were guilty of a crime — and especially a more than one-time offender — he was one judge you wouldn't want to see sitting on the bench. You knew you were going to get what was coming to you.

Chmielinski respected the rights of the accused. But never forgot the rights of the victim or the victim's family. But if he could be tough, he could also be compassionate.

First time offenders could get a break and a second chance if he felt they were deserving and with help could turn their lives around.

But he would hit drug peddlers as hard as he could. And as for drug lords he would gladly have personally plugged in the electric chair.

Whether Weld gets anywhere with his death penalty proposals remains to be seen. There are a lot of victims and victim's families out there that would favor the return of the death penalty. And there are others who will again argue that the death penalty is no deterrent to crime.

Well, it wasn't a deterrent when it was on the books and Massachusetts governors commuted death sentences to life imprisonment — and a chance for freedom.

But as Chmielinski would note: impose the death penalty and that would be one first degree murderer who wouldn't someday get out to do it again.

Murder is very much in style in Massachusetts these days. And a lot of them are drug related.

Maybe Chmielinski had the right idea back there when he said first degree murderers and drug lords should be given the death penalty. And, maybe Weld has the right idea today.

In some murder cases, you might be killing two birds with one stone.

But a death penalty will never be a deterrent to murder — or drugs — if it is never imposed. And even if it is imposed it may not deter too many for the simple reason that those committing murder or any crime don't figure on getting caught.

But it might deter some and slow down the killings.

THE WARD 6 City Council race will soon be officially underway.

Incumbent Tom Nutley will formally announce his candidacy for re-election at an "announcement party" tomorrow (Friday) from 8 to midnight at the North Quincy Knights of Columbus Hall, Hancock St.

Tickets are $10 and available at the door.

And, former Ward 6 Councillor Joanne Condon Walsh will make her announcement Tuesday, May 21 at a 6 to 9 p.m. campaign kickoff at Walsh's Restaurant, Billings Rd., North Quincy. Tickets are $15 per person or $25 per couple and will be available at the door.

CORONARY ANGIOPLAST

Balloon angioplasty is a procedure for improving the flow of blood in arteries narrowed by deposits of cholesterol. A balloon-tipped catheter or long plastic tube is placed into an artery and advanced to the point of blockage. The balloon is then inflated, disrupting the plaque, widening the artery and increasing blood flow. Although this technique can be applied to arteries in various parts of the body, it is most often used in the coronary arteries, the vessels which supply the heart muscle with blood, oxygen and nutrients. When the coronary arteries become narrowed or obstructed by atherosclerosis, chest pains, heart attack or cardiac death may occur. Most patients are treated with medication; however, a significant number require coronary artery bypass surgery - a major operation. For some, the balloon treatment is an effective alternative. P.S. Over 150,000 cardiac angioplasties are performed each year in the USA.

Diet, exercise, and regular physical check-ups can go a long way towards preventing the conditions that lead to heart disease. While sophisticated medical technology enables ever more successful treatment of heart disease and related conditions, isn't it wiser to think preventively before you become ill? Liaison To City Hall Teens To Be Selected For Council

By STEVE KAVANAGH

Teens between the ages of 14-18 will now have an opportunity to participate in city government as part of the City Youth Councillor program.

A representative from all six wards in the city will be selected to serve on the Youth Council and will serve as liaisons to the Quincy City Council.

The selection of Youth Councillors will be based on a 500-word essay on the topic "Why Do You Want to be the Youth Councillor in Your Ward."

Teens interested should send their completed essay to:

Ted DeCristofaro, City Council President, City Hall, Quincy, 02169. Or essays may be dropped off at City Hall. For more information call 773-1380 (City Council office). Those interested may also contact the originators of the program, high school students Michael D'Amico (471-6583) or Darren Kerfien (479-6753).

The program will allow youngsters in the city's neighborhoods to communicate their concerns and ideas to a Youth Councillor, who is also a peer, who in turn will relay information to the City Councillor from the Ward.

The idea is to give young people a voice that will be heard in city government.

D'Amico and Kerfien said the program will help prevent apathy and will promote a better understanding of how government works.

Candidates should include their full name, address (including Ward number) and telephone number on their essays. Those chosen will serve a two-year term which will include meeting twice a month at City Hall prior to City Council meetings.

Presentations will be made at the middle schools and both high schools explaining the program.

Monday, Kerfien, D'Amico and DeCristofaro visited the city's private schools, St. Ann's, Sacred Heart, St. Mary's, St. Joseph's and the Woodward School to explain the program.

Applications Available For Adopt-An-Island

Applications for Quincy's Adopt-An-Island program are now available from the Quincy Park Department for the 1991 season. The program, entering its third year, has been successful with over 50 green spaces adopted throughout the city by concerned residents, business and civic groups.

There are still some islands and green spaces available for new participants in the program. Interested parties should call the Quincy Park Department at 773-1380, ext. 267 for an application.

The Adopt-An-Island program begins officially on May 1 and runs through October. Maintenance responsibilities include seeding, planting, mowing, weeding, watering, raking and cleaning the designated areas. Participants in the program will have a sign placed on their island recognizing their maintenance efforts.

The Adopt-An-Island program is available to Quincy residents and Quincy businesses only.

Tax Rate Set At $45.20

City Manager William J. Deegan Jr. announced a tax rate of $45.20 for 1950, an increase of $4.20 over 1949, and the City Council blamed it on State Tax Commissioner Henry F. Long.

Deegan, who was also critical of the commissioner, said Long refused to permit the city to apply any of the $1 million in the water reserves and the excess and deficiency fund against the rate.

May 1-7

The Council took the unprecedented action of asking Long to reconsider and allow the city to use $500,000 of the reserve money to lower the tax rate from $1.50 to $2.

"I think the time has come," said Councillor Edna Austin, "for cities to protest against the dictatorial manner of Mr. Long."

Program On N.E. Coastal Architecture At Adams National Historic Site

The National Park Service, Adams National Historic Site, will sponsor a lecture and slide program on New England Coastal Architecture Thursday, May 16.

The program, to be presented by Miriam Butts, will take place in the Visitor Center, Carriage House, 135 Adams St., Quincy.

The all-day program will begin at 10 a.m. Luncheon will be served between noon and 1:30 p.m. followed by the lecture.

Tours of the Old House will be offered at 12:30 p.m. and 3 p.m. Street parking is available.

The lecture will focus on the New England coastal mansions from Newport, Rhode Island to Columbia Falls, Maine from 1680 to the turn of the 20th century. The program will include a broad spectrum of period styles using slides to assist in re-creating the feeling of the periods.

Butts, an instructor at the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston, is a resident of Lexington and a graduate of Middlebury College. She is the co-author of two "Jackdawess," China Trade and Early Industrial Trade in New England.

During the past 10 years, she and her husband have escorted several art study trips to England. Currently, her studies are concentrated on the English background of New England painters.

The limited capacity of the Carriage House and Butts' popularity require reservations in advance. Call the Adams National Historic Site at (617) 773-1177 to reserve a place.

The lecture program is free. There is an admission fee of $2 for the tour of the Old House.

How To Deal With Stress And Problems

By Dan Karp, Lic. Ac. Acupuncture Associates of the South Shore

Functional Diseases of the nervous system constitute a growing problem. Unruffled types take their problems as they come, but many others complain of a variety of symptoms-fatigue, anxiety and an inability to handle family and work. If prescribed tranquilizers, these drugs can cause side effects, giving rise to additional complications.

Stress medicine was only recently discovered in the West. The Chinese have been aware of it for thousands of years. The reason the West lagged behind is that our medicine is based on dualistic Greek philosophy, which draws sharp distinctions between mind and matter. This is why western medicine developed along two paths, one physical, the other psychological.

For helping to discover the problem, pulse reading is probably the greatest contribution Chinese medicine has made to diagnostic procedures. No other method has such a wide range in indicating the overall state of energy balance within a patient's body.

Body energy is balanced by inserting fine needles into prescribed points to either increase or reduce the flow. Performed correctly, the internal organ connected to the meridian, whether it be the heart, lungs, kidney, etc. will be provided with the correct amount of energy to cure itself of whatever ails it.

And since the body's vital energy flows through the various organs--from the lungs to the large intestine to stomach to spleen to heart, and so on--when the practitioner finds one sick organ he also strengthens the energy level in the next one down the line.

Here are some comments: "I took tranquilizers for five years. Since receiving acupuncture, I don't get nervous anymore and I stopped the pills."

"After one treatment for nervousness, I feel more relaxed and composed. I am amazed what acupuncture can do. You made me a believer."

Acupuncture Associates of the South Shore is located at 12 St., Quincy. Office hours by appointment, Monday-Friday, 9 a.m.-6 p.m., 471-5577.

Art As Therapy Program May 6

Laura Street, a registered art therapist, will discuss "Exploring Arts as Therapy for Children with Special Needs" Monday, May 6 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the Super Stop and Shop meeting room, 141 Newport Ave., Quincy.

A $1 donation is requested.

An informal survey will be taken to determine degree of interest in setting up a satellite program on the South Shore through the Genesis Fund. The fund sponsors therapy and the performing arts program free or at a nominal cost to any child or young adult born with genetic disease, birth defects or mental retardation.

The public is invited. The informational meeting is sponsored by the Attention Deficit Disorder Support Group.

Blood Drive At Masonic Lodge

The Rural and Wollaston Masons will sponsor a community American Red Cross blood drive Saturday, May 11 from 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at the Masonic Lodge, 1170 Hancock St., Quincy.

For an appointment, call Chet French at 749-7478 or Richard Masson at 963-2506.

Walk-ins are welcome.

Appreciation Day At Milton Chiropractic

In observance of Perfect Posture Month, Milton Chiropractic will conduct a Patient Appreciation Day May 18 to thank current patients and introduce new patients to the natural benefits of chiropractic health care.

On this day, they will provide chiropractic services in exchange for a $10 donation to the Foundation for Chiropractic Education and Research.

Milton Chiropractic has been providing the community with chiropractic care since 1990.

Millions of people across the country are experiencing the benefits of chiropractic care in treating such common ailments as low back pain, headaches and sports injuries.

Since 1944, FCER has contributed to chiropractic by funding scientific research in these areas. The new knowledge provided by FCER's research projects and education programs helps doctors continue to improve the quality of health care for their patients.

Individuals who are interested in taking advantage of this special opportunity are asked to call Milton Chiropractic for an appointment at 471-4491 between 8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. and 3-7 p.m.

Glaucoma Screening Clinic At JFK Health Center

The Lions Club of Quincy will sponsor its annual Glaucoma Screening Clinic, Thursday, May 9, at the John F. Kennedy Health Center, 1120 Hancock St., from 2-4 p.m.

The screening is free. Glaucoma is a potentially blinding disease and is a "silent" disease which presents no symptoms until the disease has reached its danger point.

The screening is a simple, painless test which measures the pressure level in the eye and shows if the person should have a thorough eye examination.

Dr. Domenic Strazzulla of Quincy will conduct the screening clinic.

Lions Club members will assist in registration at the clinic. Vision and prevention of eye diseases is the focus of the International Lions club and each year the Quincy chapter sponsors the screening as a service to the community.

To reserve a screening time, call 773-1380 ext. 219.

Relapse Prevention Lecture

Mass Bay Counseling of Quincy (formerly the Delphi Center) is offering a free introductory lecture on "Effective Relapse Prevention Skills" for individuals recovering from chemical dependency. The lecture will be held May 4 at 10 a.m. at 44 Billings Road.

Seating is limited. To reserve space call 786-0137.

'Slice For Life' Fundraiser

The second annual "Slice For Life" will be held Monday, May 6 from 5 to 10 p.m. at Papa Gino's Restaurant, 100 Granite St., Quincy.

AVOID BACK PROBLEMS WHILE CATCHING SPRING FEVER

It appears that the worst of the long cold winter is behind us as the sleds, shovels and ice skates have been replaced by bicycles, rakes, and baseball bats. The longer, warmer days not only signal a time of renewal for the plants and animals of our environment, but springtime also beckons each of us to get off the couch, put down the TV clicker, and get outside and do something. Whether it be exercise, recreation or working around the house, there are many examples of springtime activities which can be harmful to your spine if you are not careful. Specific activities which can be troublesome include swinging a golf club or baseball bat, turning over the garden, raking and cleaning up the yard, and lifting fallen tree limbs, bags of manure, limestone or peat moss.

If would be a good idea for each of us, especially those folks who have been relatively inactive during the winter months, to take a few moments to stretch and loosen up our backs before engaging in stressful physical activity.

After warming up, use common sense and start your activity slowly; maintain good posture with your back straight and knees bent whenever possible; and avoid repetitive bending, twisting and lifting. Remember that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, as you enjoy the spring of 1990.

If you have any questions or would like to make an appointment, please call Dr. Mark Jaehnig, a lifelong Quincy resident, at Quincy Chiropractic Office, 440 Hancock Street, North Quincy at 773-4400.

Save Gas and Money Shop Locally

Our Home Equity Line of Credit is more about saving than spending.

Save on monthly loan payments.

With a Bank of New England Home Equity Line of Credit, you can pay off current auto loan, department store and credit card balances now, and save. Because you'll reduce your monthly credit obligations to a single payment, and could cut your finance charges almost in half.

Save on taxes.

Federal tax laws have completely eliminated deductions on credit card, auto loan and other unsecured loan interest. The Home Equity Line of Credit, however, is the exception to the rule—with interest still 100% deductible in most cases.

Save on major expenses.

The low interest and tax savings that make our

Home Equity Line of Credit a cost-effective way to pay off your debts also make it a smart way to borrow for such expenses as college tuition and home improvement.

Save on closing costs.

At other banks, you'd probably pay closing costs on a new Home Equity Line of Credit. At Bank of New England, we'll save you at least $200 by waiving those costs if you apply by June 30, 1991.

Stop by any Bank of New England office, or call toll-free for more information or an application for a Home Equity Line of Credit today. And start saving.

American Cancer Society Jail And Bail Fundraiser At Presidents Place

The South Shore Unit of the American Cancer Society will conduct its annual Jail and Bail fundraiser Wednesday, May 15 and Thursday, May 16 from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. at Presidents Place, 1250 Hancock St., Quincy.

Mayor James Sheets, who is honorary chairman of the event, has proclaimed May 15 and 16 Cancer Awareness Days in Quincy.

"I urge all citizens of Quincy to take cognizance and support the South Shore Unit of the American Cancer Society in its efforts toward cancer control," the mayor said.

Jail and Bail is a unique way to raise money for the ACS's programs of research, education and service. Proceeds are raised by making two types of arrests: surprise and prearranged.

In prearranged arrests, participants agree to be picked up or turn themselves in to the jail site. While behind bars, arrestees call friends, relatives and co-workers to raise their bail for the fight against cancer.

Participants are in "jail" no more than an hour.

In surprise arrests, a person requests the arrest of a particular individual for a $25 tax deductible donation. A volunteer visits the arrestee, serves a warrant and takes the arrestee off to the jail site.

Bail is set, and the arrestee calls friends, relatives and co-workers to raise the bail. After approximately one hour, the arrestee is released and returned to home or business.

Sheets, who has been "jailed" in the past, said, "It's not only an outstanding fundraiser for American Cancer Society but it's a lot of fun for everyone who is involved.

"I usually get put in jail and have the opportunity to call a number of people to see if I can get contributions in order to get back out of jail and it's been very effective and draws attention to a worthy cause.

"I am exceptionally proud of the South Shore Unit of the American Cancer Society for the outstanding job they do each and every year. I look forward to the May 15th and 16th and the Jail and Bail that will be taking place," the mayor added.

Jail and Bail co-chairmen are Bruce Ayers, John Gillis and Martin Paul.

The ACS South Shore Unit serves Quincy, Braintree, Cohasset, Hingham, Hull, Milton, Norwell, Scituate and Weymouth.

MAYOR JAMES SHEETS, first row center, has proclaimed May 15 and 16 Cancer Awareness Days in Quincy to coincide with the South Shore Unit of the American Cancer Society Jail and Bail Fundraiser at Presidents Place. Looking on are, first row from left, Paul McDonough, Nouriel of Weymouth; Laura Vosburgh, Presidents Place Associates; Winthrop Sargent, IV, president of South Shore Chamber of Commerce; George Baker, Quincy Center for Technical Education. Second row, Bruce Ayers, Ayers Brothers; Laura Fournier, Fournier Construction; Martin Paul, Fringe Benefit Specialists. Third row, Greg Buckingham, Buckingham Personnel; Beth Anne Strenge, Marketing Consultant; and Eileen Cooney.

GOP City Committee To Meet

The Quincy Republican City Committee will meet Tuesday, May 14 at 7 p.m. in the conference room at Stop and Shop, Southern Artery, Quincy. Registered Republicans are invited and encouraged to attend.

In Case Of Emergency, Follow These Simple Directions.

In a serious emergency, such as a heart attack or stroke, the directions are easy. Call 911.

But what about all those emergencies that don't require an ambulance call?

The cuts, sprains, and broken bones that take us all by surprise. In those cases, the directions are just as simple. Head to the Emergency Room at Quincy Hospital.

Whether you're facing a life and death situation or just temporary discomfort, whether you're taken here by ambulance or walk in on your own, our new Emergency Room can handle any crisis. Fact is, it's been totally redesigned so that it's four times larger than it used to be.

Our Emergency Room has space for its own specialized services. There's an E.R. Radiology suite so you don't have to wait to use the main hospital x-ray department. As well as specially equipped suites for orthopedics, gynecology, and even ear, nose and throat. This way, you get diagnosed and treated as quickly and as thoroughly as possible. As vital as these facilities are, however, the most important part of any emergency room is the staff. Dr. Dugan Mahoney, formerly at Mass. General Hospital and now our Chief of Emergency Services, has assembled an exceptional staff including physicians specifically trained in emergency medicine, nurses with certification in emergency care, and physician assistants.

So next time an emergency strikes, remember these simple directions. Take Adams Street to Whitwell and go straight to Quincy Hospital.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Anytime is an appropriate time to give gifts to the elderly, especially if the gifts are meaningful and free of stereotypes ...

D. Scott Deware

A gift has more meaning if it is related to the person's immediate needs and if it provides pleasure or delight ...

During the summer, an elderly person might need some help. Make the chores an occasion for gift-giving: try a homemade certificate for personal services such as weeding the garden or flower bed, mowing the lawn, transportation to an appointment or friend's house, taking a pet to the veterinarian or cleaning and painting ... Food gifts are often warmly received but remember to use appropriate recipes if the elderly person's diet requires sugar-free or sodium-free foods ... An elderly relative or friend might enjoy going out for lunch or dinner ... In thinking of a specific person, consider the past. If a woman used to have a beautiful flower garden, she might enjoy a pictorial book about floral gardens, a garden picture, or a favorite photo of her garden enlarged and framed.

Ralph Waldo Emerson once said, "Rings and jewels are not gifts, but apologies for gifts. The only true gift is a portion of thyself."

Spring HOME IMPROVEMENT

Buyer's Checklist For Landscaping Tools

Your home can look more beautiful, become more valuable and bring you more happiness, just by improving the landscaping—plant more gardens, trees and shrubs, add new irrigation systems and generally improve your grounds. With the right tools, landscaping can be done with less time and effort than you may have thought possible. Here's a checklist of things to look for in landscaping tools and questions to ask before you buy:

Quality: "How good are they?" Look for flame-treated, straight-grain hickory handles, the strongest wood for tools.

Ruggedness: "Can they take it?" Check for high-impact, corrosion-resistant ductile iron in tool heads.

Durability: "Will they last?" Check out tool for handle "fit" into tool head. Some tools feature the new rectangular fit that eliminates twisting and slippage which can result in "flying off the handle."

Versatility: "How many jobs can they do?" Look for multi-purpose tools such as the Groundbreakers Landscaping Tools from V & B Manufacturing Co., nine new tools with 18 different working tool heads.

Performance: "Will they fit me?" Check out tools for size, weight and balance. Some lightweight, shorter handle tools are better for tight working situations and also for seniors and campers.

Safety: "Are they user-friendly?" Check for curved handles on some long handle models. Shallow cuts mean less bending, less backaches—they're safer, too, because tool strike is away from user's feet.

Having the right tool for the job can make landscaping projects go much easier.

Environment: "Will they help or add to problems?" The new landscaping tools enhance the land without harmful emissions, noise or other pollutants and are good for composting.

Information: "Where can I learn more?" For a free "Groundbreakers" Tool Catalog write: Groundbreakers, V & B Mfg. Co., P.O. Box 268, Walnut Ridge, AR, or call 1-800-443-1987.

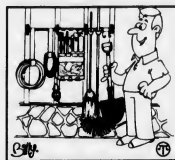

Timely Tips Simplify Spring Cleaning

It's spring! Time to throw open the windows and begin the time honored ritual of spring cleaning. To make the job of organizing your home for warmer weather a bit easier, use these timely tips from the home engineers at Velcro USA.

• Now is a good time to dust those places that usually get overlooked: windowsills and moldings, louvered shutters and blinds, heaters and exhaust vents. For hard to reach ceiling corners, slip a sock over the end of a yardstick or broom and use it to gather cobwebs.

• Odds are your garage has become a warehouse over the past winter months. Store out-sized items such as skis, sleds and shovels on a Velcro® Up-the-Wall™ Storage Organizer. Smaller items, like ice scrapers, fit neatly in the organizer's pouches. • If screens are grimy from months of storage, take them to a do-it-yourself car wash and power clean them with the high-pressure hose.

• The return of warm weather means a return to yardwork. To keep your shed neat and safe, store garden hoses, rakes and hoes on an Up-the-Wall™ Storage Organizer, and leave the floor free for larger items like lawn mowers and wheel barrows.

• Change the air conditioner filter. Some are washable in soap and water.

Nightmare Continues For North Quincy

The nightmare continues for the North Quincy baseball team.

Leo Donovan's Raiders, building after losing virtually the entire 1990 tournament team, won their season's opener over Plymouth and have lost their last nine games, the latest, an 8-2 decision to Weymouth Monday.

Last Friday North was bombed by Bridgewater-Raynham, 15-4, and in its previous game lost to Silver Lake, 14-7. Earlier the Raiders were blanked by undefeated Old Colony League leader Taunton, 7-0.

"This has been very frustrating," said Donovan. "Despite our record the pitching hasn't been all that bad. Our defense has been terrible with numerous errors giving the opposition loads of unearned runs.

"Ron Boudreau, George Rozanitis and Mark Kelleher have been hitting well and Scott Kohler had three hits against Silver Lake, the only time this year we have had a batter with three hits. Most of these kids are playing their first year of varsity ball and their inexperience shows. Hopefully things will improve down the stretch."

The Raiders hosted Barnstable yesterday (Wednesday), will be at Plymouth Friday at 3:30 to start the second half of the season, will play at Falmouth next Monday and will meet Quincy next Adams Field at 3:30 at Adams Field.

--TOM SULLIVAN

Things Not Going Well For Quincy

Things are not going well for the Quincy baseball team and the Presidents lost to undefeated Old Colony League leader Taunton Monday, 14-3, dropping their record to 2-8.

"We gave this game away and must have handed them at least 10 unearned runs," coach Bob Sylvia said. "We haven't been playing good defense and our pitchers have been working hard but have not received any support."

The only bright light for Quincy Monday was the hitting of sophomore Robbie Kane who had four hits.

Steve Loud was the starting pitcher, followed by Jeff Craig and freshman Tommy Malvesti, who did well.

Last Thursday Weymouth scored three runs in the sixth inning to top Quincy, 11-8.

The high point of the game for Quincy was a tremendous home run by Tom Balzano which traveled an estimated 500 feet.

"This was the longest ball I've ever seen hit on any level of baseball," said Sylvia. "The ball cleared the fence, went across the street and just disappeared. Everyone looked on in amazement."

Balzano had two other hits, Joe Crespi had two triples and Loud had two hits in a losing cause.

Earlier the Presidents suffered their fourth one-run loss, 5-4, to Silver Lake. In each one-run loss Quincy has lost in the final inning or extra innings.

The Lakers won it on Sean Sullivan's RBI single in the last inning.

Balzano and Loud had two hits each for Quincy.

The Presidents played at Bridgewater-Raynham yesterday (Wednesday), will host Falmouth Friday at 3:30 at Adams Field, will be home to Barnstable Monday and North Quincy next Wednesday, both at Adams at 3:30.

Triple A Baseball

Fernald Bombs Orioles

The Fernald Plumbing Dodgers opened the Triple A League baseball season with an 18-4 victory over the IHOP Orioles.

John Parastatedes was the winning pitcher, striking out 10. The Dodgers scored in every inning except the third.

Mike Russo and Chris Wilkie had four hits apiece, Wilkie having two doubles and Russo one,

Men's Softball

Washington Sweeps Doubleheader

Washington Tap of Quincy improved its record to 4-0 by sweeping a South Shore Papa Gino's League softball doubleheader from the Weymouth Indians.

The Tap, which went 24-4 a year ago as Brannigan's, won the opener, 14-5, with Bob Hennesley the winning pitcher.

Dave Tocchio had three RBI and sparked in the field, Joe Godfrey and Mike Bates each had two hits and two RBI, Sean Gately, Al Freeman and Dan Trabucco had two hits each and Chuck Sullivan, Mike Ash, Hennesley, Marty Tolson and John McManus one apiece.

The Tap won the nightcap, 10-5, with Sullivan the winning pitcher.

Sullivan had three hits, Bates and Tocchio two apiece, Freeman a long triple and Ellis Sabello, Tolson, Trabucco, Steve Thurston, Hennesley and Ash a hit each.

The Tap will host the Brockton Aces Sunday at 9 a.m. at Fore River Field.

Flavin Standout At Bentley

Ed Flavin of Quincy is having an outstanding year for the Bentley College baseball team.

In 15 games the former Quincy High standout was hitting .433 (13 for 30) with 11 runs scored, five stolen bases, three RBI and a .541 on base percentage.

He had handled 17 chances without an error. The junior outfielder is just nine hits shy of 100 for his career (only two Bentley players have ever reached 100 hits prior to their senior year) and he is a career .324 hitter.

Also playing for Bentley is North Quincy's Bill Warren, a freshman southpaw pitcher. Warren pitched for North Quincy High and Morrisette Legion.

Morrisette Tryouts Saturday, Sunday

The Morrisette American Legion baseball team will hold tryouts for 1991 Saturday and Sunday May 4 and 5 at 1 p.m. at O'Rourke Field, Quarry Street.

Any Quincy resident who will not be 19 before Aug. 1, 1991 is eligible.

Tryouts are every Saturday and Sunday during May from 1-4 p.m.

Atherton Hough HOP-N-ING Raises $313 For Easter Seals

Youngsters from the Atherton Hough School hopped to help people with disabilities, raising $313 in a recent Easter Seal HOP-N-ING.

Children first spent a week learning about disabilities--what causes them, how disabilities affect people's everyday lives, the equipment used to cope. Then they were ready to help. Each child secured pledges from family and friends for every hop performed during a three-minute HOP-N-ING. Funds raised help provide Easter Seal services for men, women and children with disabilities.

Easter Seal services include summer camp, therapeutic swim programs, home health care, physical and occupational therapy, speech therapy, equipment loan, support groups for people recovering from strokes and information and referral services.

Last year, more than 12,000 children across Massachusetts learned about disabilities and hopped for Easter Seals, raising $225,000. The HOP-N-ING is sponsored by the TIX Companies, Inc.

Cultural Dance Celebration On Quincy Community TV

Quincy Community Television will air the "Mediterranean & Middle Eastern Dance Celebration" Tuesday, May 7 at 7 p.m. on Channel 3.

The celebration, presented by the Quincy Multicultural Festival, was taped Sunday, April 21 at North Quincy High School. The festival is a month-long celebration of Quincy's cultural heritage.

The dance celebration was made up of four diverse dance groups: the Greek Diocese Youth Dance Group, The Hamakor Israeli Folk Dance Troupe, the Tamzara Folklore Ensemble and the Ricordi D'Italia. Together, the four dance groups performed more than 10 selections. The celebration will be aired in two parts.

Part one will be shown Tuesday, May 7 at 7 p.m. and replayed Wednesday, May 8 at 9 p.m. and Thursday, May 9 at 1 p.m.

Part two will be broadcast Thursday, May 9 at 7 p.m. and replayed Friday, May 10 at 9 a.m.

Snug Harbor Wins Senior Division Title

Snug Harbor is the Senior Division Champion of the Quincy Recreation Department All-City Basketball Tournament.

Snug Harbor won the 1991 title by defeating Central, 63-42, in a fast-paced final game which saw Snug Harbor hit six of 11 three-point shots.

Brian McPartlin was the game's top scorer with 20 points including nine from three-point land. Harold Mortel was the key to the pressing defense while also scoring 14 points.

First-year coach Mike Norton used a variety of player combinations and saw all players make the scoring column. Jim Cipriano and Ed Kenny each had eight, Mike Bartlett and Joe Kelley each had four and rebounding leader Kevin Littlewood chipped in with five second half points.

Central had six players score in a balanced attack. None however, broke into double figures. Jay Schabel had nine and was the top rebounder. Jason Simon chipped in eight, Pat Bryan, Matt Fennessy and Chris McHugh each had seven.

McHugh had the lone Central three-pointer. John MacNeil rounded out the scoring for the Brian Buckley coached Central team. He was assisted by Dan Coughlin, who has been supervising Saturday Recreation Programs for more than 30 years.

Park and Recreation Board Chairman Bryant Carter presented championship trophies to Snug Harbor, while Commissioner Tom Mullaney and Howard Crowley gave finalist awards to the Central team.

In advancing to the finals, Central defeated Point/Webster, 62-32, in a well-played first round game. Central was paced by Matt Fennessy with 19 points and seven rebounds.

Tickets may be obtained by mailing a $20 check payable to QHS Basketball Alumni Club to Pettinelli, 40 Hardwick Road, Quincy, 02169.

Coup de Hoop To Be Held Here

The 1991 Coca-Cola/Reebok Coup de Hoop 3-on-3 Black Top Basketball Championship will be held at two Quincy locations May 18-20 and 25-27.

The local and state finals will be held at The Tent at Marina Bay and the Fenno St. courts in Merymount Park.

"All the people we've met with, including the owners of The Tent, the Police Athletic League, and Barry Welch, Quincy Recreation Director, are extremely excited about Coup de Hoop," said Paul Tedeschi, president of Collegiate Advantage which is promoting the event.

Coup de Hoop is extending a 20 percent discount to Quincy residents under age 18, Tedeschi said.

Tournament officials named Brian Buckley as tournament director. Buckley is a Quincy Park Department official and basketball coach at Boston College High School.

"The City of Quincy is happy to be able to assist in making this tournament worthwhile to all participants," said Buckley.

Registration forms are available at Reebok and Coca-Cola retailers. For more information call Tedeschi at 262-3734.

North Quincy To Face Maver's A-B

The North Quincy football team will face a potent new opponent next fall when it opens at Acton-Boxboro, coached by former Quincy High al-scholastic and Hall of Famer Bill Maver.

Maver, who later starred at the University of Connecticut, has had much success at A-B and, with most of last year's squad returning, big things are expected of the team next fall.

A-B replaces Somerset as North's non-league opening opponent.

Houghs Neck Boxing On Ch. 3

Quincy Community Television will air a "Boxing Extravaganza" Monday, May 6 at 7 p.m. on Channel 3. The matches were taped April 27 at St. Thomas Aquinas Hall, Houghs Neck.

The special night of boxing features more than 20 action-packed bouts. Matches include Junior Olympic and Golden Glove boxing. As an added attraction, there are exhibitions of karate and Tinker Picot's comedy boxing.

State Auditor Joseph DiNucci, a former boxer, referees the bouts. Proceeds benefit the Houghs Neck American Legion Post and Boy Scout Troop 6.

The matches will be replayed Tuesday, May 7 at 9 a.m. and Wednesday, May 8 at 1 p.m.

Terry Duggan Receives Award At Stonehill

The Gartland Sportsmanship Award was presented to Terry Duggan of Quincy at a recent Stonehill College Awards Night.

The citation was for the senior who has made outstanding contributions to intercollegiate athletics at Stonehill.

Duggan was a two-year captain of the volleyball team and was named to the Northeast 10 Conference All-Star team along with her twin sister, Ginny Duggan.

Duggan was a 12-letter athlete at Quincy High School and achieved all-star honors in volleyball, basketball and softball in the Suburban League.

She is in the advanced curriculum at Stonehill.

Grande Team Holds St. John's Lead

With the second half of the season winding down, John Grande's team holds a 13-point lead over Bud McAllister's team in St. John's Holy Name Bowling League.

The standings: Grande, 77-35; McAllister, 64-48; Dan Dieso, 63-49; Joe Matarazzo, 48-64; Jim Mastrantonio, 46-66; Bob Saluti, 38-74.

Mastrantonio rolled the weekly high single of 121, Matarazzo had 115 as did Grande. Grande had the high three of 334 and Richie Warner had 313.

Grande's team and McAllister's team tied for the high team single of 387. Grande's team had the high three of 1136 and Matarazzo had 1094.

The Top Ten: Saluti, 108.59; Grande, 104.1; Mastrantonio, 100.34; Duesy DeCesare, 97.57; Matarazzo, 97.23; Don Gilliland, 96.74; Dave Nolan, 95.59; Bud McAllister, 95.39; Dieso, 93.07; Warner, 92.81.

Barry Has UMass Lacrosse On Right Track

The UMass/Boston lacrosse team, which has had its troubles in recent years, is turning around under fourth-year coach Myles Barry of Quincy.

The Beacons had three wins as of last week, its best start since 1985.

Among those helping to turn the program around are Quincy's Dave Usher and David Benson.

DPW Merger Plan Presented To Council

confirm which employees would fill which positions.

Colton's plan would replace the Superintendent of Highways, Principal Planner, Energy Coordinator, Assistant Superintendent of Public Buildings, general foreman and a foreman.

The duties of these jobs would be merged and four new positions created in their place: Operations Manager, Program Manager, Public Works Superintendent and Supervisor of Custodians.

The Operations Manager, Program Manager and Public Works Superintendent and City Engineer would lead the new management leadership.

Colton's realignment would save $46,000 and eliminate two positions.

Cheney said the city would save $62,500 by not filling the positions which are currently vacant.

"Since these positions have gone unfilled the responsibilities have been shifted and it has worked out well," Cheney said.

The positions were not vacant when the plan was devised and presented to the mayor in mid-February, Colton said.

"These are pay raises being shielded by changing the title of the position," Cheney said. "This is a plan which gives large pay raises when the city can least afford it. It's going to destroy morale among city workers who have agreed to go with little or no raises," he said.

"I met with both union (HLPE and Local 1139) presidents and no objections were raised to the reorganization," Colton said. "We are cutting at the top. The alternative is layoffs from the bottom up."

"If the four individuals are making more money I have a problem with this (reorganization) because other city employees have gotten no raise or minimal increases," said Ward 4 City Councillor Thomas Fabrizio who also said he supports the concept of the plan.

Colton said that the elimination of two positions and the reorganization of the department means that the jobs have changed. The new positions do not have the same duties and responsibilities.

"It's not a pay raise. These are new jobs with new responsibilities," the commissioner said.

Colton said the goals of his plan are: no layoffs; maintain current service levels; reduce expenditures by eight percent (as requested by Mayor James Sheets); focus on program (task) by a team approach.

"This represents a comprehensive reorganization of the management structure of the department," Colton said.

"We're here to provide services to the citizens of Quincy and the guys in the trenches are the ones delivering those services and they deserve an efficient management system to support them," Colton said.

Colton said the team approach would eliminate any duplication caused by the hierarchy system of management.

Despite Cheney's objections to the increase in pay for two workers the idea was well received by the City Council.

"I commend you (Colton) for bringing us a professional study with fresh ideas on how we can better serve with less resources," said Ward 6 City Councillor Thomas Nutley.

"This is a model which other departments should follow," said Ward 3 City Councillor Larry Chretien.

Ward 2 City Councillor Ted DeCristofaro said he was supportive of the reorganization because no physical workers would be lost under the plan.

"Public Works is doing what no other department has done. The DPW is reorganizing its way of thinking," said Ward 5 City Councillor Charles Phelan. "We all have to be realists. This is going to happen."

Welcome Home Party For Marine

over. After that, we drove the supplies back." Besides being O'Grady's birthday, Feb. 27 turned out to be a memorable day for the Allied forces fighting Saddam Hussein.

On that day, Marines captured Kuwait City. A decisive victory, the war would end in a short matter of time.

"I found out that night that we took Kuwait City. I didn't do anything special because it was my birthday. I just kept driving explosives," he said.

The time for celebration came last Thursday. Drinking a beer on a warm, hazy afternoon, O'Grady reflected on his time at war and expressed pleasure at being home again.

Dressed in his desert camouflage fatigues and sporting a tan, the Marine admitted he was nervous because of war's uncertainties.

"I was nervous. Just driving and not knowing where you were going and what was going to happen. Not knowing what to expect. That was the worse thing."

Noting his unit came within seven miles of the Kuwait border in Saudi Arabia, he said, "We were behind the first Marines. At night you could hear all the bombs."

"We got a few SCUDS. Almost every night we had SCUD sirens but we got lucky. Nothing hit us. (Iraq) had terrible aim."

Now that he's home, O'Grady said he feels "great."

"It feels good to be just standing here and not having to do anything or not be nervous about anything happening to me. Just to feel safe feels great."

The feeling was mutual among O'Grady's family and friends.

His mother, Joan O'Grady, said, "I'm just so happy to have him home again."

O'Grady's girlfriend, Dawn Halpin, added, "It hasn't hit me yet. I sat by the television 24 hours a day (while the war was going on). I'm glad to have him home."

O'Grady said correspondence with loved ones helped keep his spirits high. He also wrote to Joan Gleason's class at the Parker School.

O'Grady was a student of Miss Gleason and his girlfriend's sister, Erin Halpin, is a student in her class now.

"I wrote to them and they wrote to me. They sent me birthday cards and sent me Valentines. Letters were the biggest things. They kept me in touch with everything else going on," he said.

He said he missed his family and modern conveniences the most.

"We lived in a truck most of the time. I was psyched to see a real bathroom. Just clean living. Mostly I missed my family. That was the number one thing."

O'Grady joined the Marines a few months after graduating from North Quincy High School in 1986. As for his next move, O'Grady said he is considering staying in the service. He noted he will be promoted to corporal July 1.

He is also an apprentice with the Local 17 Sheetmetal Union. He'll begin his fourth year in September and should complete the program in two years.

"I'll see what happens after that. I might go back to college too. There's a lot of things I'd like to do."

But for now, O'Grady is content. "I just want to relax and take it easy and sleep. I don't think I got a full eight hours sleep the whole time I was there."

Asian Cultural Festival At Beechwood

The second annual Asian Cultural Festival at Beechwood Community Life Center, 225 Fenno St., Wollaston, will take place Saturday, May 4, from 1 to 4 p.m. as part of the Quincy Multicultural Festival.

Featured performers include PAMAS Philippine Dance Ensemble's Bamboo Stick Dance, Japanese Shakuhachi Player Elizabeth Bennett, Chinese Fiddler Siu Wah Yu, and Chinese Dulcimer Player and Dancer Felicia Kuo.

There will be food and crafts from China, Cambodia, Vietnam, Philippines, Egypt and Malaysia.

Admission is $2 and open to the public.

Because of the success of last year's festival, it was expanded to include other ethnic groups in Quincy.

The cultural festival was made possible from the Massachusetts Cultural Council and the Harold Brooks Foundation. For more information, call 471-5712.

Brian Glennon II Intern In Weld's Office

Brian Glennon II, of North Quincy, was recently selected to intern in Governor William Weld's office. Glennon, a Dean's List student at UMass-Boston, was selected by the Executive Department for the spring semester.

Glennon is a 1990 graduate of North Quincy High School where he formed the Young Republican Association. Glennon also encouraged the formation of other political groups including Democrats at NQHS.

The club got a chance to see President George Bush last fall during his visit to Boston to rally for GOP candidates.

Glennon is the Ward 6 Chairman of the Quincy Republican City Committee and is a counselor at the American Legion Boys State forum on state government.

Law Day At Quincy Court

RABBI JACOB MANN, left, of Temple Beth Israel, Quincy Point, receives the James R. McIntyre Award from the late mayor's wife, Sheila McIntyre, and Rep. Steve Tobin at the recent Law Day ceremony at Quincy District Court. The award is given to those who give of themselves to the community.

QUINCY POLICE Officer Patrick Glynn receives the Robert Dana Distinguished Service Award for law enforcement by Norfolk County D.A. William Delahunt at the recent Quincy District Court Law Day ceremony. The award, named after a State Police officer killed in the line of duty, is given to officers who perform beyond the call of duty. Glynn is credited with capture of suspects who held up a gas station.

4 Times A Year Tax Bills Seen

By STEVE KAVANAGH

A proposal to have residents pay property tax four times a year instead of two could save an estimated 15-18 city jobs and appears to have the support of the City Council and Mayor James Sheets.

The council put off making a decision Monday on quarterly tax bills to give taxpayers a chance to voice their opinions. The proposal was moved to the council's Finance Committee and will likely be acted upon at the May 20 council meeting.

City Auditor Robert Foy has estimated that changing to a quarterly tax billing system would save the city between $450,000 and $550,000 a year.

Treasurer/Collector Dana Childs said he thinks that Foy's estimate is a conservative one. Childs explained that the city will save money on interest paid on short term loans by having cash on hand. That available cash will also generate interest for Quincy.

Sheets said that because money is tight and the state distributes local aid only two times a year, the city has had to borrow twice during this fiscal year. Interest on these short term loans, one of which was for $18 million to pay for salaries, cost Quincy $800,000.

Marion Fantuccio, chairman of the Board of Assessor's told the council that, since the state recently passed the law allowing communities to establish the quarterly tax payment system, 36 municipalities have adopted it.

Quincy would be the first large city to adopt the system.

"It was created to improve the cash flow for the community," Fantuccio said.

"The towns that have adopted it have reported favorably," Childs said.

Fantuccio told the council the sooner they make a decision the better. "Our office is looking for as much lead time as possible," she said. "If we have the lead time we can do it (switch to quarterly system) with our current staff."

"It certainly is more work for the assessors and (tax) collectors. And business owners and home owners will pay four times a year...but $500,000 is a huge savings," Sheets said.

Bob Brennan, head of the city's Data Processing Department, told the council the change would require minimal reprogramming by his office.

Fantuccio said that bills would be due Aug. 1, Nov. 1, Feb. 1 and May 1.

City councillor's voiced approval of the plan but expressed concerns about the burden on tax payers if

Sludge Bill Would Give City Up To $14M A Year

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

The Massachusetts Water Resources Authority, which plans to operate a permanent sludge facility in Quincy Point, would pay Quincy upward to $14 million a year if a bill to be filed by the city's legislative delegation becomes law.

According to Mayor James Sheets, Quincy's legislators will try to amend a sewage landfill bill filed by Gov. William Weld. Under the Weld bill, Walpole would receive $1 million a year plus $15 million for every ton of grit and screenings if a sewage-debris landfill is built there.

On Tuesday, Sheets said he will begin contacting state senators and representatives in an effort to build support for the bill. He said he has not decided whether the Quincy bill will be filed in the Senate, House or in joint committee.

Under the bill, the MWRA would pay Quincy $15 for every ton of sludge processed if a permanent pelletizing plant is sited in Quincy Point at the former General Dynamics shipyard.

The MWRA plans to begin the permanent plant operation in January, 1996. Beginning in January, 1996, the permanent plant would process approximately 600,000 tons of sludge a year. That would translate into $9 million per year.

Between the year 2000 and 2020, the plant is expected to process 950,000 tons annually. With the Quincy bill in effect, the city would receive $14.25 million a year for that tonnage.

The bill would not effect the city's agreement for an interim sludge facility which will begin testing operations in September and operate until January, 1996. Under that agreement, the MWRA will pay Quincy $2.3 million a year.

Sheets said the city's bill is an attempt at "justice."

"If you're going to give Walpole $15 a ton for grit and screenings in a tightly controlled area, the city of Quincy should be paid for the tons of sludge that come here to be processed."

Quincy officials believe the impact of a permanent sludge facility in the city would be substantially more than the landfill in Walpole.

In addition, the mayor noted the city is losing millions of dollars in tax money every year because the MWRA, which is a state entity, does not have to pay property taxes. In

'Tag-A-Keg' Plan Proposed As Youth Beer Party Crackdown

By STEVE KAVANAGH

In an effort to reduce drinking of alcohol by minors city councillor's Michael Cheney and Patricia Toland are urging that Quincy adopt the "Tag-A-Keg" program.

"This cracks down not only on adults buying alcohol for minors but on the problem of fake ID's as well," Cheney said.

The program, which has been adopted recently by a number of South Shore towns, requires package stores to keep a record of anyone who purchases a keg of beer.

Information from the buyer's driver's license is recorded at the package store and each keg is marked with an identification band.

Kegs, which are popular at parties of young people, must be returned with the identification band intact or the buyer will forfeit a $50 deposit.

In the event that the police confiscate a keg from minors they would be able to identify the purchaser.

The program has the support of Police Chief Francis Mullen. "It's not a solution to the problem (of underage drinking) but it's a step in the right direction," Mullen said.

Det. Sgt. Richard Laracy, the city's liquor inspector said he would inform the 11 stores in Quincy that sell kegs about the program.

In addition, Cheney and Toland have already sent a letter to the city's package stores explaining the program.

Woodward School Settlement

City Solicitor Steve McGrath updated the City Council Monday on the settlement between the city and the Woodward School.

The two parties recently agreed on a payment of $400,000 by the city to the school. The money will be paid over a period of three fiscal years.

School officials claimed that the City of Quincy, the trustee of the school, was negligent in the past in overseeing the school's trust fund.

"The result is a fair one based on all my review of the facts. It is fair from the point of view of the City of Quincy," McGrath said.

Nutley Campaign Off And Running

TOM NUTLEY

Ward 6 City Councillor Thomas Nutley kicked off his re-election campaign with a successful fundraiser attended by over 200 supporters Friday at the North Quincy Knights of Columbus Hall.

Nutley listed the following among his accomplishments:

- 18 years of service including six as president of the Atlantic Neighborhood Association and six as Ward Councillor.

- Federal grants and loans for housing rehabilitation.

- Obtained private developers "linkage" donations used to fund the Atlantic and Squantum community centers.

- Worked with Mayor James Sheets to obtain $1.3 million in mitigation monies from the MWRA used to improve Ward 6 intersections.

- Fought the relocation of the Deer Island Jail to Moon Island.

- Chairman of the city council's Zoning Review Committee in 1987 which recommended restrictions on development.

- Formed Adhoc committee of Ward 6 residents on development.

- Rezoned several areas in Ward 6 in 1986-87 to prevent dense, high-rise development.

- Urged delay of combined sewer and water bill. Presented 31 alternative proposals to increase revenues and reduce city expenses.

- Fought the proposed helicopter station in North Quincy.

- Opposed the transfer of 400,000 cubic yards of fill to Marina Bay for a proposed golf course.

- Opposes the proposed Old Colony Railroad which would run through Quincy.

- Helped form the North Quincy Human Relations Committee and initiated the 136-language emergency telephone line to help Asian residents new to Quincy and prevent racial violence.

- Obtained federal funds to upgrade Atlantic Middle School field and Squantum Playground. He is currently working to obtain funds for Welcome Young Park.

- Obtained funds for Squantum School's Day Care Center.

- Obtained tree plantings, sidewalk repairs, tidal gate repairs to halt flooding and street repairs in Ward 6.

- Initiated the night and weekend snow removal information number and the hotline for renters without heat.

- Served as president of the Quincy Community Action Programs board of directors. The organization serves seniors and the needy.

"As councillor, I may have antagonized some vested interest individuals and organizations by voting for higher taxes for businesses and lower taxes for residents, and by speaking out as the only elected official to advocate a city employee wage freeze this next fiscal year so that we can save our younger teachers, police and fire fighters from layoffs," said Nutley.

Cleaner, Greener City-Wide Cleanup A 'Great Success'

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

An estimated 1500 to 1800 volunteers participated in the second annual Cleaner, Greener Quincy city-wide cleanup Saturday, making this year's event a giant success.

"It was a great, great success," said Mayor James Sheets. "We had 1500 to 1800 people. That's a tremendous turnout. I'm very, very pleased.

"The second cleanup operated more efficiently and had better participation. Overall, it was much more effective."

According to cleanup coordinator Helen Murphy, volunteers throughout the city's six wards along with city officials and municipal employees joined in the cleanup effort. Among the areas which were given a thorough cleaning were Flaherty Field in West Quincy, Faxon Park, Sailor's Pond in Wollaston, Cavanaugh Field and the beaches in Ward 2.

To assist the volunteers, city supplied 30 rakes for each ward, 65 to 70 brooms, 10 cases of trash bags, 90 pairs of gloves at each site, two sweeper trucks, two rubbish packer trucks, a backhoe and eight dump trucks to haul the litter and debris away.

After the cleanup, workers were treated to a barbecue at the Quincy Park and Recreation Facility. Games were set up for youngsters at nearby Pageant Field.

Murphy said the cookout was bigger than anticipated. Some 500 hamburgers, 500 hotdogs and 150 sausages were cooked and served to the hungry volunteers.

"The cookout was much bigger than last year. People came in spurts. I had to run out and double the order," she said.

Among those donning the chef's hat were city councillors Ted DeCristofaro, Larry Chretien, Thomas Fabrizio, Recreation Director Barry Welch and the mayor.

Roxie's Meat Market on Southern Artery donated a portion of the food. The rest was paid through a private fund.

McDonald's Restaurant on Southern Artery provided the soft drinks.

The cleanup spirit will continue this weekend as the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and Wollaston Business Association spruce up their respective areas. The mayor also noted Evergreen Quincy was a success and the "Adopt-an-Island" program is taking off.

"We're thrilled. The city is beginning to look cleaner."

MBTA Meeting At City Hall May 16

The Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority will hold a meeting Thursday, May 16 from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Council Chambers of City Hall, announces State Rep. Michael Morrissey.

The purpose of the meeting is to bring together the Service Planning Staff of the MBTA and area residents in order to discuss MBTA bus and rail service to the area.

The meeting is part of a new series being held on a trial basis.

IN HOT WATER

Floating in a hot tub or whirlpool spa is a soothing, fun way in which many of us like to relax. Apart from heat-related illness in persons who stay in too long, whirlpools are generally safe. The major concern for most bathers is bacterial infection from contaminated tub water. Pseudomonas aeruginosa, a germ that thrives in warm, wet environments, is usually responsible. Folliculitis, or infection of the hair follicles, is manifested by a red, itchy rash, often in hair-bearing areas such as the groin or armpits. The rash typically begins one to three days after exposure, and because it resolves on its own, treatment is generally unnecessary. Urinary tract infection in men and women and at least one case of pneumonia have also been linked to hot tubs. These infections are serious, and pseudomonas pneumonia can be life-threatening.

P.S. Stay out of whirlpools in which the water appears clouded or a "funny" color. If you become ill, tell your doctor about the whirlpool use and possible link.

Any facility that is open to the public necessitates a certain measure of caution when it comes to hygiene. Take the recommended simple precautionary measures and all should be well. We offer preventive professional medical care in a caring office environment here at COMPREHENSIVE CARDIAC CARE. For more information or an appointment, please call 472-2550. We're located at 101 Adams Street, Suite 24 in Quincy. Hours are by appointment.

God's Not Invited

Now they've banned God from public school graduation ceremonies.

Because a Providence, R.I. father complained that having a member of the clergy deliver an invocation and benediction at his daughter's middle school graduation violated the Constitutional separation of church and state.

What's next?

Let's see, there must be someone out there who thinks reference to God should also be taken out of the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag.

And let's get rid of that "In God We Trust" that appears on our currency if you're lucky enough to have any these days.

And while we're at it, why not tell the next President of the U.S. that he can't place his hand on a Bible or refer to God when taking his oath of office.

A federal judge in Rhode Island, as a result of that father's complaint, ruled that God cannot be mentioned at public school graduation ceremonies.

His ruling has been upheld by the Circuit Court of Appeals in Boston.

The Providence School Committee has appealed the case to the U.S. Supreme Court which plans to hear it this fall.

The Supreme Court could uphold or overturn the two verdicts in so far.

Quincy officials, fearing a possible lawsuit, are going to abide by the ruling while some other communities are not going to bow to it.

In Quincy, members of the clergy will be invited to the graduation ceremonies. They just won't be allowed to mention God's name if they do get to speak.

But at least three neighboring school districts are standing their ground, refusing to be intimidated by possible legal action.

Milton, Canton and Sharon say that prayers will be part of their graduation exercises this spring just as they have in the past.

Other school districts are thinking it over.

Was Quincy a little too hasty in its decision? Isn't there a little room here to wait for the Supreme Court to be heard from?

Why deprive members of the Class of 1991 the tradition of a prayer or two at their graduation and then possibly have to tell them later: "Gee, we're sorry, you could have had them after all?"

The Rev. Cornelius Heery of Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy who has spoken at North Quincy High School graduations in the past says:

"Until the appeal is heard, I would continue the long-standing tradition.

He personally believes God's name should be invoked and his blessing asked as graduating seniors "reach this milestone in their lives."

Why not wait until the final decision has been handed down by the U.S. Supreme Court? Lower court judges and courts have made decisions that were later overturned.

And doesn't God deserve to be heard by the highest court in the land?

Do you ever get the feeling that a handful of people demanding their rights have been chipping away at the rights of the rest of us?

In this particular case of telling God, "Stay home, you're not invited" the rights of the graduates who want him there apparently don't count.

Do you ever wonder if the majority is getting a little shortchanged in the rights department?

We wish Quincy officials would reconsider and let the Class of 1991 have God at its graduation.

POLICE CHIEF Frank Mullen stays in shape by running or walking (or both) at least five miles a day, seven days a week.

And he thinks nothing of being at the police station seven days a week. "I'm responsible for that department," he says. "I want to be sure things are done the way I want them to be done."

MULLEN

MILESTONE: Quincy Atty. Nate Sherman was honored at a surprise party by friends and colleagues at the Neighborhood Club marking his 50th anniversary as a lawyer.

Bernie Reisberg, downtown Quincy businessman and a member of the Governor's Advisory Board on Marine and Recreational Safety presented him with a citation from Gov. Weld.

Hard to believe Sherman has been an attorney for a half century. Doesn't look old enough. He must know where the Fountain of Youth is.

REISBERG

AND, speaking of Bernie Reisberg, he was recently elected executive director of the Massachusetts Justice of the Peace Association.

Reisberg, who is a justice of the peace, was the association's first president, and is an instructor specializing in interfaith marriages.

He has performed over 1,000 weddings including one at the Hanover Mall, and a Valentine wedding on television and radio.

As a ship's captain, he also performs weddings aboard ships.

And he also knows where to get a good tuxedo.

addition, the land at the former shipyard, is not available for development which would also bring in tax money.

Before the MWRA bought the shipyard from General Dynamics, GD was paying the city $2.25 million in real estate taxes.

The mayor said the bill is an opportunity to take action against the MWRA in a democratic arena.

"It's an opportunity we've never had before. It lifts the responsibility on decision-making from the MWRA and it's board of directors to the legislature."

Sheets said the fate of the Quincy bill depends on the success of the city's lobbying effort. He has contacted Senate President William Bulger who has indicated he has an "open mind" on the issue.

The mayor planned to meet with House Speaker Charles Flaherty Wednesday.

"We're going to have to build support in both the Senate and House for the bill. The key is to not to have some countervailing pressure working against you.

"I don't see that," Sheets said Tuesday morning.

Asked whether the bill would help the city's lawsuit against the MWRA permanent plant, Sheets replied, "It would give them more incentive to look at other technology other than pelletizing."

The city's lawsuit contends the MWRA's decision process to site the permanent facility in Quincy was flawed and violated the interim sludge facility agreement. The city is awaiting a decision by Suffolk Superior Court Judge John Kratzley on an MWRA motion to dismiss the case.

5,000 Fans Turn Out For City League Baseball

An estimated 5,000 baseball fans, 2,500 of them at Merrymount Park for a doubleheader, turned out for the opening five games of the Quincy City League season.

Boston Gear Works scored five runs in the last inning on singles by Reid and Righini and three errors to defeat Wollaston 5-3, in the first game at Merrymount.

May 8-14
59 Years Ago

The Boston Gear lineup included: Kramer ss, Reid c, Thompson rf, Joyce 3b, Righini cf, Campbell lf, Devine 2b, Ainslie lb, Lenox p.

In other games Quincy Pirates beat Quincy Market 7-3; Blessed Sacrament defeated Boulevard Associates, 6-0; West Quincy Eagles topped Karhu AC, 12-6; West Quincy AC triumphed over Quincy Cubs, 9-8.

WAGE CUT AT YARD

The 4,685 workers at the Fore River Shipyard were given 15 percent wage cuts as General Manager Harry E.D. Gould said there was no truth to rumors the yard would close when present contracts are finished.

"I have been with this plant for 30 years now and this is one of the hardest things I was ever forced to do," said Gould of the pay reductions.

VETS CONVENTION FOR QUINCY

Plans were announced to hold the 33rd annual convention of the United Spanish War Veterans of Massachusetts in Quincy in June with 2,000 delegates as guests of the John A. Boyd Camp.

Also invited to attend the convention were Sen. David I. Walsh (D-Mass), Rep. Richard B. Wigglesworth (R-Milton), Gov. Joseph B. Ely and Boston Mayor James Michael Curley.

CIVIL WAR VETS DINED

The four surviving members of the Paul J. Revere GAR Post were guests of honor at a testimonial banquet given by the Quincy American Legion Post at the Spic and Span Grill.

They were Commander Frederick H. Bishop, Vice Commander Elwood Litchfield, Adjutant James H. Webb and Officer of the Day Charles A. Brown.

Shirim Klezmer Orchestra Highlights Multicultural Finale

The month-long Quincy Multicultural Festival comes to a close Saturday at North Quincy High School with the gala finale from 6 to 9 p.m.

Performers for the evening will include:

- The Berklee Caribbean Ensemble from the Berklee School of Music. Under the direction of Phil Wilson, the group will perform music from the Caribbean Islands;
- The Irish Fiddle Trio

featuring Liam Coyne, and;

• Featured performance by The Shirim Klezmer Orchestra. Klezmer, translating as "musician" in Yiddish, combines Middle Eastern music, dance rhythms of Romania, Poland and Russia, and the Dixieland feel of roaring twenties America.

Shirim's six member orchestra structures the concert to reflect how Eastern European music transformed to fit the American environment after immigration from Eastern countries.

The program is made possible in part by grants from The Massachusetts Cultural Council and by the Harold Brooks foundation.

Admission is $3 and the public is welcome to attend. For further information or to purchase advance tickets call the Beechwood Community Life Center at 471-5712.

SHIRIM KLEZMER ORCHESTRA will be the featured entertainment during the gala finale of the month long Quincy Multicultural Festival to be held Saturday at North Quincy High School.

Annual QSO Pops Concert At Freeport Hall May 17

The Quincy Symphony Orchestra will present its Annual Pops Concert Friday, May 17 at 8 p.m. at Freeport Hall, 256 Freeport St., Dorchester.

In keeping with Quincy's Multi-cultural Festival, musical selections will be on an international theme.

Under the direction of Francisco Noya, the concert will feature the Eastern Nazarene Summer Opera Workshop Singers.

Tickets, by paid reservation only, are $15 and are available by calling 328-5347 or 925-4319, or write to QSO Ticket Chairman, P.O. Box 2, Wollaston, 02170.

ENC To Present "Seascape"

The communications Arts Department of Eastern Nazarene College will conclude its 1990-91 theatrical season with a production of Edward Albee's absurdist comedy, Seascape, to be held Thursday to Saturday, May 9-11 at 7 p.m. in the Cove Fine Arts Center.

A matinee performance for school groups will be held Thursday and Friday at 10 a.m.

The play will be performed in the round, allowing for audience intimacy and experimental approaches.

All seats are $4. For further information call 773-6350, ext. 262 or 269.

Violin Recital At First Presbyterian May 19

Boston Symphony Orchestra violinist Bonnie Bewick will perform a recital at First Presbyterian Church, 270 Franklin St., Sunday, May 19 at 6:30 p.m.

This is the final concert in the church's Artist

Series 1991.

Bewick will perform works by Stravinski, Prokofiev, Beethoven and Kreisler.

She will be accompanied by pianist Timothy Steele.

Admission is free and child care is available. A reception with the musicians will follow in the church fellowship hall.

A free-will offering will be taken to further the concert series.

For further information call 773-5755.

'Patients Night Out' At Bryan Post May 28

The Quincy Federation of Senior Clubs is sponsoring a "Patients Night Out Program" Tuesday, May 28, from 5-9 p.m. at the George F. Bryan VFW Post.

All nine nursing homes in Quincy are invited and some nursing homes are expected to bring as many as 30 patients. Many of the patients are on walkers or wheelchairs. All are accompanied by their activities directors and helpers.

The patients will be treated to a special evening with catered sandwiches, desserts and cold drinks along with hats and favors and gifts of knitted lap robes or slippers. There will be an accordion player and vocalist. There will be a Grand March around the hall with wheelchairs, walkers, canes and all.

Frank Kearns, treasurer of the Quincy Federation of Senior Clubs, said, "The program has been going on for the past seven years and is done entirely by the senior clubs out of the goodness of their hearts. There are no fund raisers. The senior clubs just get together once a year for this very special program for very special people. And to see the patients with a smile on their faces, clapping hands or tapping their feet, makes it all worthwhile."

"This kind of 'people-caring-for-people' activity sets an outstanding example for all of us to contribute to the community in our own way and demonstrates how the efforts of a few can affect the well-being of many," said City Council President Ted DeCristofaro.

Officials of the Federation of Senior Clubs are: M. Kay Bamford, president; Helen Andrews, vice president; and Kearns. The Senior Clubs volunteering for Patients Night Out are: North Quincy Seniors, Tobin Towers Association, Pagnano Towers Association, Martensen Street Seniors, Heritage Club Seniors, Nite Owls Club, St. Ann's Seniors and Squantum Seniors.

Poetry Workshop At St. Ann's A Big Success

Students at St. Ann's School participated in a poetry workshop recently conducted by North Shore poet K.T. Reilly.

Reilly's most recent works have been published in a book called "New Voices in American Poetry."

"Write it down--write it all down and save it," Reilly said. "Once the moment passes, it can never be recreated in the exact same way unless its written down."

Fourth and fifth grade students read their poetry to Reilly who shared some of her poetry with the students.

Our Home Equity Line of Credit is more about saving than spending.

Save on monthly loan payments.

With a Bank of New England Home Equity Line of Credit, you can pay off current auto loan, department store and credit card balances now, and save. Because you'll reduce your monthly credit obligations to a single payment, and could cut your finance charges almost in half.

Save on taxes.

Federal tax laws have completely eliminated deductions on credit card, auto loan and other unsecured loan interest. The Home Equity Line of Credit, however, is the exception to the rule—with interest still 100% deductible in most cases.

Save on major expenses.

The low interest and tax savings that make our

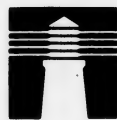

Home Equity Line of Credit a cost-effective way to pay off your debts also make it a smart way to borrow for such expenses as college tuition and home improvement.

Save on closing costs.

At other banks, you'd probably pay closing costs on a new Home Equity Line of Credit. At Bank of New England, we'll save you at least $200 by waiving those costs if you apply by June 30, 1991.

Stop by any Bank of New England office, or call toll-free for more information or an application for a Home Equity Line of Credit today. And start saving.

Family And Peace Sunday At Bethany

In celebration of Family and Peace Sunday, the 10 a.m. worship service at Bethany Congregational Church will bring together music, story, scripture, sermon and prayer.

The litany and sermon will focus on the inward and outward journey of peacemaking toward a world in which no one would be hungry or homeless and all would share in pursuing goals of justice in and for all nations. Rev. Elizabeth Upton's sermon will be on "Motherpeace."

A children's story written by Lisa Birr will be illustrated by Bob McLain and narrated by Rev. Luther Durgin. Special music through instruments and voices of choir and congregation will be led by Organist Gregory Flynn and Marsha Archer.

Scripture reader will be Sylvia Hofsepien. Greeters will be Edith and Gene Ryder. Ronnie and Jackie Rivera will host the Fellowship Hour in the Allen Parlor following the service.

Displays demonstrating the work of Church School as it relates to the meaning of Peacemaking will be on display during the Fellowship Hour.

Bethany Church members will have the opportunity to contribute to the Just Peace Appeal during the 9 a.m. worship service in the chapel and the 10 a.m. service. Seventy-five percent will go to the United Church of Christ to witness for Peace and Justice and the rest will benefit the Protestant Social Service Bureau to help their work with children of all ages.

Last Sunday, Rev. Elizabeth Upton, interim associate minister at Bethany Church, announced she will leave Bethany to become pastor of the Piermont Congregational Church in Piermont, N.H. effective July 1. She will conclude her Bethany ministry June 2.

St. John's Holy Name Communion Breakfast May 18

St. John's Holy Name will hold a Communion Breakfast, Saturday, May 18.

There will be a Mass in the upper church at 8 a.m. followed by a full buffet breakfast at El Torito Restaurant, 150 Granite St., Braintree.

Tickets are $6 and all men and sons are invited. For tickets call Fred Saluti, 479-1607; Aldo Saluti, 843-4776; Fred Fostello, 773-5164; or Richard Gentile, 472-7727.

The law is of particular importance to elderly people who face decisions about medical treatment, death and dying. Samuels will describe the law, the Health Care Proxy and instructions for its use.

'Children's Day' Observed At Squantum First Church

It was Children's Day last Sunday at the First Church of Squantum. The Sunday School classes helped to lead the service and every child went home with a flowering plant.

The youngest children, under the direction of Beth Harper, Katherine Sullivan-Moran and Blythe Bumpus, made Bible bookmarks for everyone in the church.

An older group, directed by Patti and Marci Hurd, performed a play for the congregation entitled "A Good News Broadcast." Players included Ian MacRitchie, Adam McMillan, Amy Harper, Emily Zaehring and Matthew Potter.

The oldest group was represented by David Dykens and Cheryl Potter who led the congregation in a recital of the Hundredth Psalm. The group was directed by Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin.

Choir director Mary Ruth Scott awarded Choir Pins to the children who had participated in Junior Choir this year.

Tom Klock, Tom Williamson and Barbara

Walter read the scripture readings.

Dr. Langevin preached on the subject, "The Uncontrollable Spirit."

Violinist James Sumner was accompanied by organist Mary Ruth Scott. The congregational singing was accompanied by Scott and by Janet Williamson on the piano.

Greeters were Paul Ruckes and Marci Hurd. The ushers were Barbara Anderson and Katrina Sorrentino. Assisting with distribution of the Lord's Supper were Deacons Leif Thornton, Walter, Williamson, Sandra Concannon and Richard Hendry. The Fellowship Hour was hosted by Sorrentino and Lynda Thornton.

The Bible Study group meets Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

Sunday morning worship begins at 10:30 a.m. Sunday School begins at 9:45 a.m. with a craft program for children. Child care is available for younger children.

A group for teen-agers, The Way Up, meets Sundays at 7 p.m.

'How Is Peace Possible With Religion?' Topic At First Parish

"How is Peace Possible With Religion?" will be Dr. Sheldon Bennett's sermon during the 10:30 a.m. Sunday service May 12 at United First Parish Church (Unitarian), Quincy Square.

Music Director Norman Corey will play organ works. The soloist for Sunday's service will be Terry Keovil, oboist, who has performed in chamber ensembles and as a soloist throughout the eastern United States.

He will be accompanied by Dr. John A. Dowd, composer and pianist. Dr. Dowd, a member of the church choir and chairman of United First Parish Church Music Committee, composed the first solo to be performed during the service, entitled "Pastoral Vocalise."

Visitors are welcome and invited to the social hour following the service.

Greeters for Mother's Day will be Lillian Cullum and her daughter, Susan McKeon, granddaughters Elaine McKeon and Heather Winiewicz, and great-granddaughter Anya Winiewicz.

The Women's and Men's discussion groups will meet at noon. The men will view Robert Bly's PBS video with Bill Moyers, "A Gathering of Men."

Parker People

Supplement To The Quincy Sun

Vol. 1 No. 1

The Francis W. Parker School

May 9, 1991

Living In A Pluralistic Society

Our Multi-Cultural Festival: 'I Call You Friend'

Francis W. Parker School celebrated its Multi-Cultural Festival, "I Call You Friend" from April 3-10. Children showed what they had learned about the cultures they studied through group activities, and most of them performed for an audience.

This Quincy Sun supplement is an effort funded by the Quincy Education Association to let the people of the city know about some of the efforts being made by teachers and students in our schools to meet today's challenges.

Living in a pluralistic society is certainly one of them. Quincy, and especially North Quincy, have become ethnically mixed quite quickly. Children growing up in these neighborhoods can live together in harmony, we believe, if they learn how people are the same in some ways, different in others. When education comes first, appreciation can follow. Multi-Cultural Week represents a beginning.

On Opening Day, Wednesday, Mayor James Sheets, Superintendent of Schools Dr. Robert Ricci, and other dignitaries were greeted by the Parker School band and chorus. They watched the flag parade as children from each class marched into the upstairs media center bearing the flags they had made by painting pillowcases. Each flag represented the country that class is studying.

Principal Daniel Malvesta opened the festivities, saying that "This week is about the differences that make us alike."

He noted that all of us have had ancestors who came to this country, and that each person can make a contribution to the greater society. "The future is in you boys and girls," he concluded.

Mayor Sheets offered the opinion that this country "... is still a melting pot." He added that the people are what make this country great. He said that Parker School itself is a melting pot, and he noted that the ethnic and racial climate in the city is much improved due to the job being done in the schools.

Dr. Ricci said that every school in the country should have a program like the one at Parker. He said that the multi-cultural notion has spread all over the city.

On Thursday, the crafters took over. The media center became a workshop with weavers, designers, calligraphers, PRINCIPAL DANIEL MALVESTA in opening day remarks.

MRS. MARY SOFIS, ESL teacher, in Greek apparel.

and masters of crafts from many cultures. Students spent time watching, asking questions, occasionally trying things for themselves, and often taking home a small souvenir.

Stephen Ford, of the kindergarten, thought the Faberge eggs were fabulous. Why?

"Because when you opened one of them, there was a lighted Christmas tree inside."

corridors of the building look like a medieval castle.

Folk tales from many lands were enacted or told by fourth and fifth graders and enjoyed by the rest of the school. First grader Mark Tucker like "Tikki-Tikki-Tembo" the best. "It was funny when the boy fell into the well." But Victor Siu couldn't decide: "They were all pretty good. It's hard to tell which was the best." Victor is probably right.

Nicole Norris enjoyed the professional puppet theatre which presented Vasilisa, the Beautiful, featuring the witch, Baba Yaga.

"When the witch first appeared kids were scared," she said, and Tess Crane of grade two agreed: "Lauren and I squeezed hands. We were scared of the witch." Bell was enthralled, too. "They made you feel almost as if you were really there."

Kim Lacorazza, grade four, who had enacted the part of Rumpelstiltskin, was familiar with witches. She already knew about Baba Yaga from stories she had read, but added, "I never knew she had a good side."

Fourth grader Kim Pham had her name (which means "golden") drawn in Chinese characters. Her ancestry is Vietnamese, and her class studied Korea, so she was able to find both similarities and differences between the cultures.

Nick Favorito learned that in Korea symbols are laid before a baby and the child's future depends upon which symbol he or she reaches for. One who reaches for a law book might become a lawyer; or a piece of chalk would predict a career as a teacher for example.

Henry DiNino, who led his class in a "taekwondo" exhibit, said he was impressed by how well the first graders memorized the lines they had to recite. Katie Wilkinson had an answer for him: "When you're little you don't have that much stuff in your mind to start with." If that was true once, it wasn't for long. All the students had much in their minds when the week was over.

The multi-cultural museum was filled with "stuff." It was hard to believe that one school and one neighborhood could mount an exhibit like this. Artifacts from all countries; costumes, dolls, jewelry, furniture, carvings ... even two camel saddles. The original plan had been for the museum to be open for one day, but children just couldn't see everything and ask all the questions they wanted to, so it stayed open right through the festival.

The first graders' each represented a different state or some official of the U.S. government and they came to the microphone to tell the audience what they had learned. Valerie Cooney enjoyed her part in this. She played the Secretary of the Interior, and even a week later she was able to recite a long list of facts and figures about the office including its control over the national park system.

Monday afternoon was set aside for activities in each classroom with parents invited and foods from many cultures prepared. Each class had studied a different country and on that day demonstrated some of the things they had learned.

Begun with modest expectations, the culinary experience turned out to be a school-wide smorgasbord. Everyone had a chance to try new tastes, share their favorite things, and learn something about countries they might not otherwise have studied.

When the festivities closed on the second Wednesday some children said they wished it could go on and on. The Media Center continued to report heavy use of the school's collection of print and visual materials.

"This place was a beehive—a perfect model of what a media center should be. There were children in the computer section finishing reports, a group in one corner making posters from overhead projections, some on stage practicing storytelling, others looking for materials or checking them out, study groups making maps or flags.

"It's been like that for weeks," the media specialist said. "Even though the festival is over now, children are still checking out multi-cultural books, or materials on various countries."

Mary Sofis, English as a Second Language teacher at Parker, who initiated the festival, was pleased with the outcome as were all of the staff. "I wanted the children to have an experience which was apart from the classroom—something different.

"We all reached a little. The parents responded, the children responded and we responded. I saw creative energies in our staff and saw this as a way for everything to be brought together. It gained its own momentum as people began to understand what we were going to do. And it was something we did because we wanted to do it. Not because someone told us we had to."

What about the cultural aspects? Did she think the children had gained a respect for other cultures?

"It showed in their actions. When Slow Turtle (a Native American) was here, you could watch how they acted. He was quite old, and his voice did not project well, but they must have asked a hundred questions--intelligent, caring questions which showed their interest and their sensitivity.

"And with all that was on display, in all the things that were made and put up by children and teachers, there has been no destruction or disrespect to anyone else's work. The tone we attempted to communicate got through. It was reflected in the children's behavior."

Serves The Community In Many Different Ways
The Salvation Army:
 There's Much More
 To It Than You Think

By JANE ARENA

When most people think of The Salvation Army they think of the brass bands, ringing bells and red kettles in shopping malls at Christmas time. Maybe they recall the Salvation Army's activities during World War II when they aided the armed forces and helped to form the USO.

But most people probably don't consider pre-schools, ceramics classes, exercise groups, senior centers, church services, Sunday School, or counseling services. The fact that you can rent their gymnasium for after-work basketball teams or even children's birthday parties, probably doesn't even enter your mind. How about drug rehabilitation, help for runaways and homes for retarded persons?

The Salvation Army is all of this and more. And, when you drop some spare change into those red kettles at Christmas, these are the sort of services and programs you're helping to support all year long.

Captain James LaBossiere head of the Quincy Salvation Army Corps, wants people to know that "People know individual parts maybe, but we'd really like people to understand the total picture of The Army," he says.

National Salvation Army Week, May 13 - May 20, the first ever in its 100 year-plus history, will hopefully help to that effect.

The Salvation Army is part military, part church, and part social service organization. It is a worldwide agency (serving people in 90 countries) which is based on spiritual and social missionary work by ordained ministers and volunteers. It is structured on a quasi-military basis and all clergy hold officer's rank and the members of the congregation are called soldiers. The head of the entire international Salvation Army is a general, (and is incidentally, currently a woman).

Through community programs and corps centers, like the one in Quincy at 6 Baxter St., The Salvation Army can offer something to just about everyone, and you don't have to be needy to qualify, although it once catered primarily to those in the most dire need of the basic necessities.

The whole thing began in London in 1865 when a minister, William Booth, left the Methodist Church to preach to the very poor in the East End of the city, whose spiritual, emotional and physical needs were not being met by established churches.

"When he realized how large their needs were," LaBossiere explains, "he started the soup kitchens, he started the children's homes, he started all the other social aspects that the Salvation Army would be come known for.

"The Army has its definite roots administering to the poor people of the communities," LaBossiere adds, "but it hasn't remained that way in many communities."

In Quincy, LaBossiere notes, there is a varied "mix" of people who partake in Salvation Army activities and programs, help as volunteers, or come to weekly services in the chapel and consider the Salvation Army to be their place of worship.

"We have a lot of professional people, we have many college graduates, working couples, and filtering down throughout the whole range of the community...but the basic mission is still to the people with the greatest need."

For example, the Salvation Army employs a case worker who is available to work with families or individuals on a one-to-one basis and help them to find assistance in fuel, rent, food, and other basic needs.

But the Salvation Army also has a daily senior citizen program where seniors in Quincy and surrounding communities are transported via bus and van to the center for most of the day. These are mainly seniors who otherwise might have to be institutionalized for lack of daily in-home care, LaBossiere explains.

While their family members are away at work, up to 24 seniors socialize, have breakfast and lunch, and are entertained by community music and drama groups who visit the center.

The senior program is one of the most costly run by the Salvation Army because of the need for a full time professional nurse and a large staff. It is partially funded through the South Shore Council on Aging, the Veterans Administration, and by a sliding fee scale based on what clients are able to pay.

"And," LaBossiere adds, crossing his fingers, "we also have a contract with Medicaid."

A few years ago the program was in danger of being dropped due to the expense involved, LaBossiere says, but, thanks in part to community support, it's still going strong.

The pre-school program, for children age 3 and 4, is also a big hit, with parents and kids alike. While parents can get a few hours off during the morning or afternoon, sometimes a luxury, but more often a necessity, the children have a wonderful time playing in the bright, toy-filled room, complete with sort of an indoor jungle gym.

The building on Baxter St. also has a full size gymnasium which, LaBossiere says, is almost always in use. The general public books the gym for evening games, it's used by area programs for troubled teens, it houses the Tiny Tots gym program, and, for a nominal fee, parents can also rent the gymnasium for children's birthday parties.

The Salvation Army has its own scouting program for boys and girls of all ages, a bowling league, gym hockey, weight lifting, woodworking facilities and a large and well-equipped ceramics area, complete with its own kiln.

The Salvation Army also offers activities for adults of all ages, including ceramic and art classes and exercise groups.

During National Salvation Army Week members will be a lot more visible around Quincy, and so too will the red kettles.

Although some of the Quincy Community Center programs are self-sustaining through fees, many other require a little bit extra to help, especially during the summer months when donations are at a low, LaBossiere explains.

LOIS PIETILA PUTS the finishing touches on her ceramic creation during a class at The Salvation Army

"This fund will hopefully help us generate a little pool of money to maintain adequate services throughout the dry months of the summer...I don't know if other states are putting their kettles out, but all through this state, all 29 community centers will be putting their kettles out."

But, LaBossiere says, the National Week is much more than just an excuse to dust off the red kettles, it's a chance for the general public to become more familiar with what is available at their local Salvation Army Center and how they can benefit, share in it and help.

"I am extremely grateful for the support that our community gives the Salvation Army," LaBossiere says. "When we do announce needs people have been very generous. Many people in our community recognize the work that we're doing."

"We want to continue to share the total program of the Army so that people can get a lot more out of what we do. I believe we offer a lot of different things to a lot of different parts of the community. I want people to realize what's here and what they can be a part of at their corps community center here in Quincy for the Salvation Army."

Spring HOME IMPROVEMENT

Now's the best time to take a close look at your roof

If you are like most homeowners, you probably haven't given much thought to your roof lately. However, roofing experts suggest that the best time to take a long, hard look at the condition of your roof is not when there's a problem, but right now, when you can carefully weigh the many options available to you and make an educated decision.

While there are many roofing materials available, it makes good sense to invest in the highest quality roofing material your budget allows, according to Robert Garrett, director of marketing, residential roofing products, GAF Building Materials Corp., a leading producer of roofing products.

"A high quality roof provides not only maximum protection for your family and your possessions, but adds the perfect finishing touch to the overall look of your home," he says.

"Better quality materials have important aesthetic advantages, too," he adds. "They're available in more colors and textures than most low cost materials."

Choosing a material

There are many different roofing materials on the market today, including slate, wood, aluminum, organic-based asphalt and fiberglass-based asphalt. Each offers a different appearance, overall performance characteristics, fire ratings, life expectancy and warranty.

The most popular material is the fiberglass-based asphalt shingle. Fiberglass shingles combine fiberglass base mat, weathering grade asphalt and coated granules. In general, fiberglass stands up better to weather conditions, offers better fire protection, extended manufacturers' warranties and provides superior performance over time.

HIGH QUALITY roofing materials, such as the GAF Timberline® Fiberglass shingles shown here, are available in a variety of colors and textures to enhance the architectural design and overall appearance of any home.

These shingles also come in a great variety of colors and textures to enhance the architectural design and overall appearance of your home and to complement other homes in the neighborhood.

According to Garrett, texture and color are important parts of the design of a roofing product. The company's Timberline® Series of shingles, for example, is designed for both beauty and performance. The Series offers a deep dimensional look that resembles wood shakes or tile. In addition, the Timberline Series comes in up to eight popular color blends, including Burnt Sienna, Charcoal and Cedar.

The Series also is rated Class A by Underwriters Laboratories — the highest fire and wind resistance rating available — which means the shingles have passed the most rigorous tests to assure maximum protection for your home.

When choosing a new roofing material, it's a good idea to consider the manufacturer's warranty. Most offer protection against manufacturing defects on a "prorated" basis for the full length of the warranty. Many cover reasonable labor costs on a prorated basis also. If you're not sure what it covers, ask, says Garrett.

"Too often the warranty is overlooked until it is too late, when, in fact, the warranty should be a major consideration in the purchase," says Garrett.

Frustration Continues For Quincy, North

The Quincy and North Quincy baseball teams are suffering through frustrating seasons and, going into this week's games, each had a 2-10 record.

Monday's games were rained out and were rescheduled for Tuesday. North made the trip to Falmouth, played one inning, and then the rains came.

Quincy and North were scheduled to face each other for the second time yesterday (Wednesday). Quincy will host Plymouth Friday, Silver Lake Monday and Weymouth Tuesday, all games at Adams Field at 3:30.

Last Friday, North Quincy finally put everything together and bombed Plymouth, 9-1, snapping a 10-game losing streak. The Raiders' only other win was also over Plymouth in the season's opener.

Scott Dunn pitched a four-hitter and struck out seven. Mark Kelleher and Ron Boudreau had two hits apiece.

"We finally jelled and did well in every department," said coach Leo Donovan. "We got fine pitching from Dunn, hit well and the defense improved tremendously."

Quincy was blanked by Falmouth, 5-0, for its fifth straight loss. However, coach Bob Sylvia found one silver lining.

"We ran out of pitchers and I used Dewey Holmes, our sophomore first baseman, in the third and he shut them down the rest of the way," Sylvia said. "We were amazed. He did a fine job and will help our pitching in the future."

Earlier in the week both team lost by big scores, Quincy going down to Bridgewater-Raynham, 14-3, and North bowing to Barnstable, 13-1.

The Beechwood Community Life Center and the City of Quincy will sponsor the ninth annual Senior Olympics May 13-18. Closing ceremonies will be held Monday, May 20 at 7 p.m.

Various events are planned including golf, softball, pool, swimming, bocce, volley ball, horse shoe pitching, walking, running and bowling.

For registration and further information call Bette Campbell at Beechwood at 471-5712.

Junior League

Rotary Blanked By Kiwanis, Rebounds For Two Wins

Rotary, the defending Quincy Junior Baseball League champion, opened its season winning two of three games.

Rotary lost to unbeaten Kiwanis, 4-0, in its opener despite fine pitching by Erik Goodrich, who allowed six hits and struck out 12. Mark Kelley was the winning pitcher, holding Rotary to one hit and striking out nine.

Billy Connolly and Chris Erler played well for Rotary and Chris Curry and Jeff Finer had good games for Kiwanis.

Rotary rebounded to outslug the Elks, 10-8, with Brian Shields the winning pitcher. Goodrich had a triple in the first inning, followed by Erler, Mike Eddy and Brian Shields.

T.J. Wilson and Chris

Brundage hit well and Adam Delorey and Kevin Shaw played well defensively.

Mark Glynn had a homer for the Elks and Mike Hannon, Tom Bowes and Brad Smith had hits. Scott Cooper and Sean Tirrell played well in the field.

Rotary followed up with a 9-2 win over Quincy Police with Goodrich the winning pitcher. He struck out four and didn't walk a batter.

Delorey, Shaw, Jeff Brophy and Wilson all made outstanding plays in the field to support Goodrich.

Kevin Moore, Chuck Feeley, Keith Herron and Russ Corner all had hits for the Police and Jose Diaz and Kevin Regan played strong defense.

The standings:

NATIONAL LEAGUE: Rotary, 2-1; Colonial Federal, 2-1; South Shore Buick, 2-1; Keohane's, 0-3; Quincy Police, 0-3; Elks, 0-3.

AMERICAN LEAGUE: Kiwanis, 3-0; Foley Chrysler, 3-0; South Shore Bank, 3-0; Continental Cable, 2-1; VFW, 1-2; Burgin Platner, 0-3.

In the Falmouth Girls Invitational Lewis won the freshman-sophomore two-mile in 11:51.7, a new meet record, and Barry placed sixth in the shot with a 29-11 toss, a three-foot improvement.

In the junior-senior events, Wong was fifth in the 100 meters in 13.1 and she set a school record of 12.9 in the trials. Tangney was sixth in the mile, Flynn fourth in the two-mile, Ramos fourth in the javelin and Hughes third in the 300 hurdles in 48.3, a new school record.

In the State Class B Relays at Andover, North's medley relay team placed second with Hughes, Cobban, Flynn and Lewis. North was third in the 4x1-mile with Lewis (5:32), Flynn (5:52), Tangney (6:09) and Duggan (6:09).

The team finished sixth in the shot put with Mastrogiacom (30-11), Regas (26-10) and Barry (26-10).

North finished 11th overall with 15 points.

The North girls met Weymouth Tuesday and will finish the dual meet season at Barnstable next Tuesday, May 14.

Colonial Federal, Quincy's entry in the South Shore Soccer League boys under 12 Division 2, improved its record to 4-0 with victories over Easton and Rockland.

Quincy bombed Rockland, 12-0, having a 6-0 halftime lead. Jeff Verlicco and Mike Sullivan each scored two goals in the first half and Mike Fitzpatrick and Danny Kinnecom one each. Nick Bissanti had

Youth Soccer Results

By LESLIE SATKEVICH

The Quincy Youth Soccer League continued to provide plenty of action last weekend. The results of the latest games:

Coed under 12: Jiffy Lube edged That's Italian, 2-1, on goals by Sarah Downing and Billy Norris. Mark Demeo and Jeff Marks had assists and Brian Brownell, Michael Demeo and Melissa Hardiman had good games.

T.J. Miller scored for That's Italian and Joe Miller, Teuta Hajrizaj, David Klingenstein and Mark Doran played well.

Bentley's defeated Deware Funeral Home, 4-1, as Ron Gamel scored twice and Felipe Ornelas and Shawn Manning once each. Kevin O'Hearn and Jon DeLuca had assists and Stephen Wilson, Elizabeth Rudolph and Sharon Marchbanks had fine games. For Deware, Donald McCarthy, Marc Castelli and Pat Lyons played well.

Donnell M. Carr Sr., 87 Managed Woolworth's In Wollaston

A funeral service for Donnell M. Carr Sr., 87, of Alton Bay, N.H., former manager of the Woolworth's store in Wollaston and a popular Santa Claus in the Wollaston area, was held Monday in Deware Funeral Home, 576 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Mr. Carr died May 2 at New Hampshire Hospital in Concord, N.H.

Manager of the Wollaston store from 1948 to 1968, he lived in Wollaston and was active in charities and fraternal organizations. He headed the Wollaston Merchants Unit in the Red Feather Drives in 1954, 1955 and 1956. Red Feather was a predecessor of the United Way.

He had been active in Red Feather as a solicitor and team captain before becoming chairman.

As a store manager during Christmas time, Mr. Carr bought many items for children who went into his store. During the year, he often handed out pieces of candy to boys and girls on their way home from school.

He played Santa Claus for several groups during his time in Wollaston.

He was also known to find jobs for youngsters who needed a few extra dollars to buy a bicycle or some other item.

An enthusiastic fisherman, he often hauled flounder near Hull Gut and was generous in sharing his catch with friends.

Before moving to Quincy, Mr. Carr managed Woolworth stores in Newton Center; Dover, N.H.; Waltham and Watertown. He started with the company in 1922 and retired in 1968.

He was a past senior councillor and secretary-treasurer of the Wollaston United Commercial Travelers, a director of the Quincy Rotary Club and a director of the Wollaston Business and Professional Association. He was a past president of the Wollaston Merchants Association.

Active in Masonic organizations, he was a member of Masonic Lodges in Wollaston, Alton and Bath, Maine, a past patron of the Order of Eastern Star in Alton, a member of St. Stephen Royal Arch Chapter in Quincy; and a member of the Quincy Commandry of Knights Templar.

He had also been a member of the Quincy Lions Club and the South Shore Rod and Gun Club.

A member of the Wollaston Baptist Church, Mr. Carr served as president of the Rand Class at the church. He was also a member of the Baptist Church in Alton.

He was president of the Quincy Council of the Boy Scouts of America for three years and served on the executive board of the council. He had been active in scouting in Newton before moving to Quincy.

A native of Bath, Maine, he attended Bath schools.

He is survived by his wife, Eva J. (Martin) Carr; a son, Donnell Carr Jr.; six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Burial was in Oak Grove Cemetery, Bath, Maine.

Margaret L. English, 89 Former Office Manager

A funeral Mass for Margaret L. (Pouch) English, 89, of Wollaston, former office manager for the American Mutual Insurance Co., was celebrated Tuesday at St. Ann's Church.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

MOTHERS ... HOW TO KEEP THEM RUNNING SMOOTHLY ...

Perhaps mothers should come with a maintenance agreement which provides for a complete overhaul every five years, three kids, or 300,000 miles, whichever comes first. Here are some points to be included:

FUEL: While most mothers will run indefinitely on hot coffee, pizza and hamburgers, an occasional gourmet meal for two in elegant surroundings will add immeasurably to increased efficiency.

MOTOR: A mother's motor is probably one of the most dependable anywhere. Any mother can exert and reach top speed from a prone position at a single cry from her child. To keep that motor at peak efficiency, regular breakers are recommended. A leisurely bath and nap about every 1,000 miles, a baby utter every 10,000 miles will do wonders.

BATTERY: Batteries should be recharged regularly. Rose, candy or other thoughtful and unexpected gifts often do the trick.

CHASSIS: A mother operates best when her chassis is properly maintained. Her wardrobe, hairdo and makeup should be changed as needed.

TUNEUPS: Mothers need regular tune-ups. Compliments are both the cheapest and the most appreciated.

By following these simple instructions, the average mother would last a lifetime providing love and caring to those needing her most ...

Quincy, MWRA To Launch Operation Watersense Friday

Quincy and MWRA officials will launch a new water and cost control program Friday, May 10 at 10 a.m. in the second floor conference room of Quincy City Hall.

Mayor James Sheets and MWRA Executive Director Paul Levy will kick-off the water-saving program, called Operation Watersense, for Quincy householders in one-, two- and three-family homes.

Operation Watersense assists Quincy residents in obtaining free water-saving fixtures through direct installation by trained crews. Conservation fixtures available include water-saving showerheads, faucet aerators and toilet-tank water dams.

Water conservation literature will also be given to each participating family.

After a formal ceremony at City Hall, officials will travel to the home of Ray and Nora Dunn, 19 Murdock Ave., to witness an installation demonstration.

Quincy is the first of 46 communities in the MWRA water system to participate in this program of water and cost control. Operation Watersense, which is a joint program of the MWRA and Quincy, is part of the authority's long-range water supply planning program.

A Few Words on FUNERAL SERVICE

What are the rules for Funeral Traffic?

Traffic rules for funerals differ sometimes from those governing other traffic. These tips may help if you are in a funeral procession - or if you encounter one.

1. Use the wind-shield sticker and keep your headlights on.
2. If the procession is crossing an intersection while the traffic light turns red, continue through. The funeral procession has the right-of-way. The lead car, will stop and obey all posted signals. DO NOT CROSS OR JOIN A PROCESSION.

FUNERAL PRE-NEED SPECIALISTS

What Does A Funeral Cost?

We get many calls asking us this question. We're pleased to give price information but the problem is that funerals are very personal. So, each one is slightly different. Asking "what does a funeral cost?" can be like calling a nice restaurant and asking what a meal costs.

To help our customers make informed choices we now offer a new service - the free funeral cost analysis. By answering a few simple questions we can tell you exactly what your funeral will cost. We can even help you lock in today's prices so you can fight against inflation.

Call or write us today for a free, no obligation funeral cost analysis.

4 Times A Year Tax Bills Expected

property tax and water and sewer bills are due in the same month.

"I would like to hear from constituents on this first," said Councillor-at-Large Michael Cheney.

Ward 6 Councillor Thomas Nutley agreed. "It's an important issue and I want to give the public a chance for input."

Ward 5 Councillor Chuck Phelan said he was concerned about Wollaston residents getting a sewer and water and a tax bill due at the same time.

Because of the staggered schedule of sewer and water bills (which are also quarterly two areas of the city, Wollaston and South Quincy, would get both bills in the same months.

"Eight bills in four months for people, like senior citizens on a fixed income... that could really scare some people," Cheney said.

For the most part, taxpayers, especially senior citizens, like the quarterly system because the payments are smaller, Sheets said.

Childs said that the property tax bill dates are set by law and any change would have to be in the sewer and water bills.

Sheets has said that most of the jobs saved, because of the additional cash on hand, would be in the fire, police and school departments.

Mayor Seeks State Support For Carrier

Sheets, Weld Meet On Lexington Bid

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Mayor James Sheets met with Gov. William Weld Wednesday in an effort to gain the governor's support and perhaps state funding for the city's bid to bring the U.S.S. Lexington home to Quincy.

The mayor was scheduled to meet with Weld for a half hour Wednesday afternoon. Sheets planned to pitch the Lexington as a tremendous tourism booster for the city and the state.

Besides seeking a personal commitment from the governor, the mayor discussed with Weld several options to help finance the aircraft carrier's return to Quincy. One option calls for a $3 million state bond which would pay for bringing the ship to Quincy, position it at the former General Dynamics shipyard and open it as a tourist site.

"We hope to get a commitment from the governor, to bring the Lexington back home. We need that commitment.

"What we're looking for is an independent organization which would administer the Lexington complex, would operate out of its own funding and avail itself to bonding capabilities at the state level," Sheets said Tuesday.

"We'll ask (the governor) for a commitment to bring the Lexington back and work the details out and to lead in a state-wide effort to get the private sector deeply involved in getting the Lexington back," he added.

On Monday, the mayor visited Patriots Point, a naval and maritime museum in South Carolina which features the U.S.S. Yorktown. The Yorktown, which is an Essex aircraft carrier like the Lexington, opened as a tourist site 15 years ago after it was decommissioned.

The Lexington will be decommissioned in the fall. Quincy is one of several cities which wants the ship.

Sheets said his trip "brings the scope of bringing the Lexington here into perspective." He

Council, Ricci Discuss Possible School Closings

By STEVE KAVANAGH

Members of the City Council are worried that further cuts in local aid from the state may mean schools will be closed in the near future.

Changes are most likely at the secondary school level and could include the merging of the two high schools or the consolidation of the middle school system into one school.

The issue of possible school closings was discussed Monday night at the council's Finance Committee budget review with School Superintendent Dr. Robert Ricci.

Councillor-at-Large Tim Cahill asked Ricci for enrollment information and school building capacity figures.

'Down-The-Road Option,' Sheets Says QCA Wants City Employees To Take 5% Pay Cut

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Mayor James Sheets says he shares similar views with the Quincy Citizens Association on such issues as free parking in Quincy Center and appropriating money for a public health study on the Fore River basin area.

Sheets also believes asking city employees and officials to take a five percent pay cut to save jobs is an option that may be looked at in the coming years.

The mayor was responding to issue votes taken recently by the QCA membership.

In response to the question "what do you suggest be done to decrease the city's budget" and keep city jobs at their present level, members said city employees, starting with city officials, should be asked to accept a five percent pay cut.

"In this year of high unemployment and severe economic conditions, a five percent pay cut must be faced," members said.

Sheets said, "I think it's a-down-the-road option. We're not through the worst of this economic recession. We may have to look at other issues and that certainly is an option to consider."

To save money, the mayor said some city officials have had their car allowances cut by $1,000. Other officials, including Executive Secretary Thomas Koch and Administrative Assistant Bernice Mader who use their cars regularly on city business, do not have a car allowance.

To increase business in Quincy Center, the QCA advocates establishing free parking in the city's parking areas. To prevent all-day parking, the lots would not open until 9:30 a.m.

The QCA supports keeping metered parking on Hancock and abutting side streets.

Sheets said he will consider the free-parking concept.

In addition, QCA members want the city to target sizeable discount stores for the downtown area. Members believe the stores would attract a variety of South Shore customers and provide Quincy's middle-class residents with a vibrant shopping area.

"I think (the QCA) is on the right track in terms of retail, retail which matches the blue-collar clientele," Sheets said.

As for a proposal to sell the Kennedy Health Center and build a multi-million dollar City Hall annex, QCA members voted no. Members suggest the health center be retained and better utilized for city purposes. They also voted against bonding a new annex building.

Sheets said the proposal involves a parking garage behind City Hall and over the MBTA tracks, not a new annex. He said the garage would include space to house several city departments, including health and veterans services.

"The health center costs the city $75,000 a year in maintenance. There's no parking and its only half utilized. That's not economic.

"(The garage) will be an option seriously looked at by the downtown partnership. We need more parking around City Hall," Sheets said.

The mayor agrees with the QCA's call for city participation in a health and air-monitoring study of hazardous air conditions in the Fore River basin. Members said Quincy should appropriate $3,000 to join with Weymouth and other affected communities in studying the current and future potential health problems created by industries in the basin, in the long-range interest of Quincy's public health.

On other issues, the QCA:

2,500 Trees Distributed, Planted

Evergreen Program 'Outstanding Success'

The Evergreen Program has firmly taken root in the city and is starting to grow.

More than 2,000 evergreen trees were distributed to residents recently outside the city's Department of Public Works for planting. In addition, another 500 trees were planted throughout the city's neighborhoods by various community organizations.

"It was an outstanding success," said Chairman Leo Kelly. "It was just a great program."

A steady stream of residents drove their cars into the DPW parking area to pick-up a 12 to 18-inch Scotch Pine Saturday and Sunday. Residents who recycled their Christmas trees and holiday wrapping in January were entitled to a free tree.

The trees and wrapping were made into mulch which is being used by the city.

Kelly said the distribution was non-stop both days.

"We were just jammed. Cars were just coming in constantly. It didn't let up all day Saturday. They were there (at the DPW) before we got the signs up Saturday.

"Sunday was the same thing. They just poured in there."

Residents also received a fertilizing pellet that will nourish the tree over a period of time. Planting instructions and information on trees and their benefit to the environment were also distributed.

Organizations which helped plant 500 trees in Quincy included the Children's Forestry Program, After Day School Program, Atlantic Middle School Parents Group and the Girl Scouts.

The trees were funded by the J.M. Cashman Company.

A 16-foot Norway Spruce was dedicated in front of City Hall last Friday.

City-MBTA Sign $51,200 Station Cleanup Contract

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Quincy and MBTA officials have signed a contract for a summer employment program designed to keep the city's four Red Line stations clean and landscaped.

Mayor James Sheets, Quincy Public Works Commissioner David Colton and MBTA General Manager James Rooney signed the agreement May 9 in the mayor's office.

Under the terms, Quincy will employ one working foreman and five laborers through mid October. The MBTA will pay Quincy up to $51,200 for the labor.

Any money left over after the contract expires will be returned to the MBTA.

The working foreman will be paid $548 per week or $13.70 per hour. Laborers will receive $300 per week or $7.50 per hour. The cleanup crew will work a 40 hour week, primarily Monday through Friday from 7 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. with some weekend work, Colton said.

Crew duties include picking up, cleaning and removing trash and debris in all exterior station areas; grass cutting and removal; fertilizing plants, trees, shrubs and flowers; planting flowers, shrubs and trees; trimming shrubs and pruning trees; and performing "special tasks" and related duties.

The MBTA will supply all tools and supplies are required. Quincy will supply the work vehicle for transporting the employees to and from the work site.

The city and MBTA conducted a similar program last year. The $36,000 contract ran from June through September and employed eight workers and one foreman.

Colton said this year's five laborers were employed by the program last year. They are all Quincy residents, ranging in age from 19 to 21.

Colton said the foreman, who has not been hired yet, will probably come from Quincy since the contract gives Quincy residents hiring preference.

Officials from both parties agreed the program is a good concept which works well.

"Last year's program had a dramatic impact on the public," Sheets said. "They are aware of how well the stations were kept clean."

"We appreciate your cooperation. We're putting forth a major effort to change the appearance of the city and it's working. We've made a big dent so far," he added, noting the success of recent city-wide cleanup.

"We're pleased to do it," Rooney said. "It's a good program for the T. Rooney noted the cost of the contract is less expensive than hiring a private landscaping firm. He also pointed out the program puts youths to work."

"I think it's a win-win situation," Rooney said.

The MBTA has similar cleanup contracts with Boston, Brookline and Newton where ninety percent of its stations are located. Rooney said the MBTA focuses on stations which need the most work.

Durkin Wants All School Administrators Screened, Interviewed Before Hiring

School Committee member Stephen Durkin has proposed a policy change that would require all school system administrative positions, including central office positions, be filled only after a screening team/interviewing process.

In proposing the policy change, Durkin allowed that administrative positions may, in limited circumstances, be filled on an acting basis.

The school committee does have a policy requiring an interviewing process for some administrative positions. However, many central administrative positions are not covered in the policy and several in the past few years have been filled without an application process.

"By opening up the process and allowing those interested in a position to apply, we would be sending a message to people who work for Quincy Public Schools that they do have real opportunities to advance and that they will be given a fair shot at administrative job openings," Durkin said.

"Moreover, by insisting on a screening process chances are better that we will ultimately settle on the most qualified and talented candidates."

Durkin's proposal further requires that when positions are filled on an acting basis, a screening-interviewing process take place as soon as its practicable so that a permanent appointment can be made.

Weld To Address Chamber Breakfast

Gov. William Weld will address an audience of more than 500 business people at the South Shore Chamber of Commerce 7:44 a.m. Breakfast Tuesday, May 21 at Lombardo's in Randolph.

The governor will discuss the state's current fiscal situation and how he intends to deal with its financial problems.

Weld will also speak about specific issues that directly affect South Shore communities including the restoration of the Old Colony Railroad.

Weld was a senior partner in the Boston law firm of Hale & Dorr from 1988, until his election as governor last November. In 1986, he was appointed assistant attorney general in charge of the Criminal Division by former President Ronald Reagan. Prior to that position, Weld served as U.S. Attorney for Massachusetts.

Breakfast tickets are $12 for Chamber members; $15 for non-members; $110 for a table of 10. For reservations, call 479-1111.

Medically Speaking

by Michael M. Bakerman, M.D., F.A.C.C.

MRI-A NEW IMAGING TECHNIQUE

It looks and sounds like something out of a science fiction film, but this new diagnostic method is science "fact." Called magnetic resonance imaging or MRI, it produces very high quality pictures without exposure to radiation or X-ray dye. The procedure is painless, requires no medication and takes less than an hour.

After removing all metallic objects and jewelry, the patient is placed on a padded table inside a tunnel surrounded by a huge magnet. Then radio frequency waves are directed at the area of the body to be studied. Body tissues absorb these RF waves, thereby altering their own tiny magnetic fields. When the RF stimulus is turned off, the tissues return to normal and emit shortwave radio signals which can be detected by a receiving coil and converted by computer into a detailed picture of the internal anatomy.

P.S. MRI is extremely good at imaging the brain and spinal cord and is not affected by interference from the bones of the skull or spine.

Advanced medical technology like MRI has enabled sophisticated diagnoses of certain conditions without surgery or x-ray. If you would like more information on this topic or other medical conditions, please contact

Yakoo Deserves Better

Yakoo has bitten the dust. School Supt. Robert Ricci fired from the hip last week and brought down a beloved 34-year North Quincy High School symbol.

He has ordered Yakoo, a caricature of a native American that has symbolized NQHS school pride and spirit since 1957, removed from the school's gymnasium floor, official documents, athletic uniforms and school property.

But Yakoo will be allowed on student clothing, publications and graduation memorabilia.

The ruling seems to be a little inconsistent. Yakoo can't be here but he can be there.

The Yakoo symbol, which came into being in 1957, depicts an Indian with feather headband carrying a stone hammer and NQHS pennant in a fighting stance. Yakoo was modeled after an Indian but Dr. Allan Yacubian, a 1958 graduate of the school and now a Wollaston dentist who is Armenian-American.

The symbol hasn't bothered him all these years. And it didn't bother other people until a teacher decided to make an issue of it.

And, Yakoo, it should be remembered, is not frowned on by all American Indians. One said she couldn't see what all the fuss was about.

Ricci's decision overrules a recommendation by NQHS Principal Peter Chrisom that Yakoo be allowed to remain as the school symbol.

It also flies in the face of an ad hoc committee comprising students, parents and alumni that overwhelmingly voted to keep Yakoo as the school symbol and mascot.

It also ignores the results of a referendum on the issue in which 88 percent of the students participating voted to keep Yakoo the way he is while 7.8 percent favored retaining him but wanted to alter his appearance.

The referendum and the ad hoc committee's vote came after students invited representatives on both sides of the issue to speak at the school.

Ricci has suggested that the students hold a contest to create an alternative mascot.

RICCI

Yakoo will be officially banished Sept. 4, the first day of the 1991-1992 school year.

Unless, that is, the School Committee overturns Ricci's decision.

One school committee member, Frank Santoro, seems ready to fight for Yakoo's honor. Santoro, a NQHS 1967 graduate, says he has "learned, to love, honor and respect the symbol, its meaning and the man it portrays."

"Anybody it characterizes should be proud that they are regarded on the same level of respect."

And on that point, critics seem to miss the boat.

The students hold Yakoo in high esteem and respect. They are not, as some critics complain, racist, bigoted, insensitive or insulting to a minority.

Ricci hasn't been in Quincy too long -- less than four years -- and has submitted his resignation effective by Jan. 31.

He probably hasn't been around Quincy long enough to appreciate what a cherished symbol Yakoo is to North Quincy High School.

Yakoo has been twisted into something that he isn't: he isn't a symbol of racism, bigotry or disrespect.

We wish Ricci had followed the recommendation of Peter Chrisom who has been around long enough to know how his students feel about Yakoo and what Yakoo really means to them.

We wish he had trusted the judgement of the kids who made a sincere effort to hear both sides of the issue and then voted their conscience.

We tell the kids to grow up and act like adults. And when they try to, we sometimes seem to turn around and tell them they're too young to be trusted with serious decisions.

We hope the School Committee will restore Yakoo to his place of honor.

YES, THERE WILL be a preliminary election in Ward 6 this fall.

Bruce Ayers will announce his candidacy for the Ward 6 City Council seat tomorrow (Friday) at 12:30 p.m. in front of Ayers Bros., 440 East Squantum St., North Quincy.

The occasion will also mark the 10th anniversary of the firm that provides transportation for the handicapped.

learned how the Yorktown tourist site came to be and how it operates. He believes a similar operation can be done in Quincy.

To get the Yorktown, the state of South Carolina bonded $3 million to bring the ship from a dry dock in New Jersey. The bond financed the construction of a walking bridge which connects the ship to a ticket selling facility.

In addition, the bond helped open a portion of the ship as a tourist site. The rest of the ship opened to tourists after refurbishing.

Money raised by tourists boarding the ship paid off the $3 million bond.

"That's the kind of arrangement we would be looking for," the mayor said Tuesday. "I won't take anything out of the city budget for the Lexington, not at a time when we're laying people off."

The Yorktown, which has been open to tourists for 15 years, has an annual operating budget of $3.25 million. Of that amount, $2 million is generated by tourist fees, $750,000 from functions and lease agreements to gift and snack shops, and another $500,000 from boy and girl scout groups.

Sheets said the scouting groups stay on the carrier on weekends, sleeping where the ship's crew slept. The groups also prepare food in the galley. "They make a weekend of it," he said.

Although the Yorktown and museum basically "breaks even," Sheets said the tourist site has generated tremendous growth in the area.

An average of 450,000 tourists visit the Yorktown every year. Sheets said the Patriots Point group estimates the Lexington would need at least 300,000 visitors per year to keep the operation afloat.

Sheets was impressed and inspired by his visit on the Yorktown. He noted hangar rooms have been converted into function rooms with capacities of up to 1,350 people. He also pointed out an elevator has been changed into a movie theatre. The theatre has seating for approximately 200 people and shows documentaries relating to the carrier war in the Pacific during World War II.

There are 10 reconstructed airplanes in the hangers.

As expected, maintenance is expensive. For example, it costs $150,000 just to paint the ship every year.

The mayor said the Lexington would give tourism in Quincy and the state a tremendous boost. He hopes the governor agrees.

"I think it's a great tourist attraction. We get back $8 for every dollar we invest into tourism."

Bringing the Lexington home would give Quincy national attention.

"For the Greater Boston and Quincy area, it becomes a tremendous shot in the arm for tourism."

The mayor said a bipartisan effort to get the Lexington would "bring everyone together for a good cause." Noting these are not good fiscal times, he added, "I just think it's a great morale booster."

At the very least, Sheets hopes to emerge from his meeting with Weld with a contact from his office, such as Lt. Gov. Paul Cellucci.

"I'm hoping (Weld) takes this to a higher level. I'd like him to say 'yes, this is something I'm interested in and would like to pursue."

"Bringing the Lexington home is a major opportunity and if we miss it, it's gone forever."

'Boys Town' Proposed For Old Squantum Air Base

Sen. Richard I. Furbush of Waltham, president of the State Senate, urged the Legislature to support a plan that would convert the former Squantum Naval Air Station into a Boys Town of Massachusetts.

Mayor and State Rep. Amelio Della Chiesa opposed the plan to bring "practically every potential delinquent in the Commonwealth" to Quincy, a proposal already turned down by Hingham and Hull.

"This land should be used for desirable industries to bring in tax revenue for Quincy, create jobs and help the small homeowner by reducing this tax bill," said Della Chiesa.

Council, Ricci Discuss Possible School Closings

local aid picture will be even gloomier next year.

"I think next year will be horrendous budget-wise. If that's the case we are going to have to give something up to get something," Ricci said.

"Maybe we can have a better quality education but we might have to give up some buildings," he added.

Ricci told the council his office will undertake a comprehensive study on the entire school system which should be helpful to school committee members and city officials in making decisions regarding changes in the school committee.

Ricci said the study could include recommendations regarding redistricting, consolidations or closings, educational issues, etc.

Ricci said any closings would most likely be at the secondary level.

"How much money can be saved by closing a small school?," Ricci said.

Council president Ted DeCristofaro agreed that closing schools is an alternative the city may have to deal with.

"It's something that's going to have to be looked at. It's a terrible decision for the school committee to have to make," DeCristofaro said. "I know how bad it is. We went through it already in my ward."

"This is the time to look at it. If things don't turn around local aid-wise something will have to be done. The school committee will have to deal with a lot of angry parents and do what's best for the city financially," DeCristofaro said.

"First I think we have to look at what kind of school system we want. I don't think we should say a school closing is inevitable until we look at what kind of system we want," said Ward 4 Councillor Thomas Fabrizio.

"We have to look at the long term -- the city has closed schools before but some of them should have stayed open. We have to decide what kind of system we want and look at the buildings themselves afterwards," Fabrizio said. "Is there a better way to put more money into the classroom itself?"

RICE EVENTIDE residents and fifth grade students enjoy dancing around the May pole recently at the Atherton Hough School

Rice Eventide Residents, Atherton Hough School Students Celebrate May Day

Continuing a 14-year tradition, 10 residents of the William B. Rice Eventide Home recently visited the Atherton Hough School to celebrate May Day with students of the fifth grade class.

Eventide residents were entertained by the fourth and fifth grade band, led by Richard Striano, the school's band leader, and the fifth grade chorus, led by Karen Schodde, the school's music teacher.

In return, residents presented each student with a candy-filled May basket.

Students then shared a dance around the May pole with their visitors.

Atherton Hough teachers Warren Meehan and Linda Billikas helped coordinate the celebration with Beverly Murano, Eventide's activities director.

Day Care, Nursing Home Celebrate Mother's Day

The Quincy After School Day Care children and Merrymount Manor Nursing Home elders recently entertained one another at a traditional Mother's Day Tea Party.

The groups have been getting together since January as part of the South Shore Elder Services' Intergenerational Program.

The children brought presents which they made and flowers for the window boxes at the nursing home.

Karl Bueller, owner of the International House of Pancakes, contributed a free pancake breakfast to the group.

Day care program director, Sine Pounder, and Merrymount Activities Director, Alice Skehan, said they hope to continue the program during the summer since many of the children will attend the day care summer camp at Lincoln Hancock.

For information on the summer program for 5-12 year olds call 773-3299.

Union Congregational Flea Market Saturday

The Union Congregational Church, corner of Beach St., and Rawson Rd., Wollaston, will hold a Flea Market Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

In case of rain the Flea Market will be held inside the church.

Space is available for rent. For further information call 479-5100.

St. Anthony's Festival At St. John's June 14, 15

The 16th annual St. Anthony's Festival sponsored by St. John's Parish will be held on the church grounds, 41 School St., Quincy, June 14 from 6 to 11 p.m. and June 15 from noon to 11 p.m.

Proceeds will benefit the parish charitable programs including a 20-bed shelter for homeless men and a home for single pregnant young women.

Last year, a record

12,000 people from the Quincy-South Shore area attended the two-day festivities.

Most Rev. John Mulcahy, auxiliary bishop of Boston, will celebrate a special Mass in Italian honoring St. Anthony of Padua on Saturday, June 15 at 4 p.m.

The two-day celebration will include booths, special events, varieties of special foods and delicacies, music and entertainment, clowns, games and prizes for children and adults.

The festival has become a major religious, social and cultural spring attraction along the South Shore.

Fr. Gary Sullivan, parochial vicar, is festival coordinator with assistance by co-chairpersons Rosemary Martin, Diane Acorn and hundreds of parish volunteers.

The public is invited to attend. Admission is free.

Salvation Army Open House Today

The Salvation Army Adult Day Care Program will hold an Open House with a luncheon buffet today (Thursday) at the Salvation Army headquarters, 6 Baxter St.

Lunch will be served from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. with coffee and dessert following until 3:30 p.m.

The public is welcome to meet the seniors and the Salvation Army staff and to learn more about the adult day care program.

An R.S.V.P. is requested. For further information call 479-3040.

Spring HOME IMPROVEMENT

Homeowners have many options when installing hardwood floors

Some people are confirmed do-it-yourselfers when it comes to home improvements, but there's a growing number of buy-it-yourselfers who enjoy shopping for the best deals they can find before hiring a contractor to do the work.

By buying a product made for the DIY market and hiring someone to do the work, a homeowner can often save money, and still get a lot of satisfaction from planning and overseeing the project. Many home centers and flooring retailers can provide homeowners with the names of contractors or installers to perform the work.

In response to the growing DIY and BIY markets, Bruce® Hardwood Floors, America's largest hardwood flooring manufacturer, recently introduced "Oxford™ Plank," a 3" x 48" laminated oak plank with a slightly eased edge and Bruce's Dura-luster™ no-wax urethane finish for easy care. The Dura-luster finish is durable and lustrous, and will repel most household stains, making Oxford Plank a perfect choice for any residential room, including the kitchen. Oxford Plank is available in three colors: Desert, Chestnut and Ivory White.

Bruce's Oxford Plank is truly a DIY product. The 1/2"-thick oak planks can be quickly glued down over concrete, plywood, old wood floors and resilient floors. The tongue-and-groove construction of Oxford Plank locks each individual plank in place and assures easy installation.

As with Bruce's hundreds of other hardwood flooring products, Oxford Plank can be easily installed with a few basic tools: a tape measure, broom, chalkline and chalk, hammer, hand or electric saw, Bruce trowel, and a rubber mallet. A 150-pound roller from a rental service will also be required to make sure the planks are firmly embed-

MANUFACTURED SPECIFICALLY FOR THE DO-IT-YOURSELFER looking for elegance and beauty, Bruce Hardwood Floors' no-wax Oxford™ Plank flooring also offers easy installation and care. The urethane finish repels most household stains, making Oxford Plank a perfect choice for any room in the home, especially the kitchen. SH916304 ded in the adhesive.

By carefully following the instructions packed in each carton of the flooring, even homeowners with basic DIY skills will find the installation of Oxford Plank to be fairly simple. Generally, flooring for an average size room can be installed in a day, and furniture can be moved back in after 24 hours.

Regardless of the decision to DIY or BIY, the result is the same: a beautiful, warm and durable hardwood floor that will enhance your home for many years.

DPW Open House May 21

In observance of National Public Works Week, the Quincy DPW will hold an Open House Tuesday, May 21 from 1 to 7:30 p.m. at 55 Sea St.

"Quality of Life Through Public Works" is the theme of the week, which is dedicated to recognizing public works engineers and administrators as resourceful, effective professionals. DPW workers strive to provide clean, safe and well-lit streets' sanitary disposal of solid waste and sewage, safe water for drinking and firefighting, and effective snow and ice removal.

The open house will include tours of the DPW facility, graphic displays of recent projects, a leaf composting demonstration, an equipment show and other educational activities.

The event is designed to increase citizens' understanding of public works, promote the need for public works professionals and their contributions to the public's health, safety and comfort, inspire excellence and dedication in public service by recognizing public works professionals and their achievements and encourage young people to prepare for public works careers.

All interested individuals and groups are invited. Mayor James Sheets and Public Works Committee Chairman Peter Kolson, Ward 1 Councillor, will present awards to deserving DPW employees.

Groups of 10 or more are asked to contact Kathryn McAlduff at 773-1380 ext. 493.

$417,670 In Wire Permits Issued In April

The Quincy Wire Department issued 144 permits for an estimated cost of $417,670 in wiring in April, reports Wire Inspector Thomas Purpura.

The major project for which an electrical permit was issued last month was for a 52-unit multi-dwelling at 99 Granite St.

In addition, there were 49 certificates of approval to the Massachusetts Electric Company and $5,347 in permit fees.

There were 508 inspections, 57 defects noted, 38 reinspections and one fire call.

designated "Poppy Days" by the Morrisette American Legion Auxiliary Unit #294 in Quincy.

Our Home Equity Line of Credit is more about saving than spending.

Save on monthly loan payments.

With a Bank of New England Home Equity Line of Credit, you can pay off current auto loan, department store and credit card balances now, and save. Because you'll reduce your monthly credit obligations to a single payment, and could cut your finance charges almost in half.

Save on taxes.

Federal tax laws have completely eliminated deductions on credit card, auto loan and other unsecured loan interest. The Home Equity Line of Credit, however, is the exception to the rule—with interest still 100% deductible in most cases.

Save on major expenses.

The low interest and tax savings that make our

Home Equity Line of Credit a cost-effective way to pay off your debts also make it a smart way to borrow for such expenses as college tuition and home improvement.

Save on closing costs.

At other banks, you'd probably pay closing costs on a new Home Equity Line of Credit. At Bank of New England, we'll save you at least $200 by waiving those costs if you apply by June 30, 1991.

Stop by any Bank of New England office, or call toll-free for more information or an application for a Home Equity Line of Credit today. And start saving.

Mother's Day Theme At Squantum First Church

The congregation of the First Church of Squantum celebrated Mother's Day this week with a service that focused on parenting.

The Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor, preached on the subject, "Toward Better Parenting."

After the children of the church gave "Three Cheers for Mother," the congregation heard four readings from the Bible on the Mother's Day theme read by Patti Hurd, Roberta Taylor, Barbara Walter and Marci Hurd.

The Chancel Choir sang and pianist Janet Williamson and organist

Craig Zaehring accompanied the hymns sung by the congregation.

Greeters were Ann Wallin and Del Dougherty. Ushers were Stewart Nelson and Katrina Sorrentino. Ruth Lagh and Doris Longmire hosted the Fellowship Hour.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

What a difference a few words can make ... Even the most frustrating day, the most tiresome duty, the most uncomfortable weather can be eased or at least made lighter by a cheerful

D. Scott Deware

"Good Morning"; a cheerful "Thank You." It works both ways ... A similarly light-hearted "You're Welcome," can make the day for another person.

The reasons these similar expressions can have such a dramatic effect is that, sadly today, they have fallen into general disuse. Oh, yes, a bored "Thanks" or "Welcome" is heard from time to time, but usually with as much enthusiasm as an observation about the weather ...

It has been noted by optimists that a smile employs fewer muscles and less energy than a frown, but there are those who insist upon doing things the hard way!

All of us could use an uplift of spirit from time to time, and the quickest way to bring it about is to invite it from others.

Remember CHEERFULNESS is contagious - and a lot more fun!

MAY 16, 17 and 18 has been proclaimed VFW "Buddy Poppy" Drive Days in Quincy by Mayor James Sheets. With him are Joseph Sullivan, commander of the George F. Bryan VFW Post, and his wife, Vera.

Bryan VFW Post Buddy Poppy Drive May 16-18

The George F. Bryan Veterans of Foreign Wars Post, 24 Broad St., Quincy, will conduct its annual Buddy Poppy Drive Thursday, May 16 through Saturday, May 18 from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Rain dates are May 23-25 from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Since 1922, Veterans of Foreign Wars have been selling "Buddy" Poppies. Proceeds from "Buddy"

Poppy sales are used exclusively to assist disabled and needy veterans and the widows and children of deceased veterans.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars maintains a nationwide system of "Veterans' Service Officers trained to help veterans obtain "veterans benefits," and to assist in establishing disability claims. The service is provided free of charge and a portion of the cost comes from poppy drive proceeds.

The sale of "Buddy" poppies preceding Memorial Day is the traditional way to bring attention to the sacrifices made by the nation's war dead in their struggle to keep America free. A poppy displayed on the lapel shows concern about the welfare of the less fortunate.

Parker School Wins Literature Contest

The Francis W. Parker School won the Quincy Public Schools Children's Literature Contest for the third straight year recently.

The 10th annual contest was held for the first time in conjunction with the Arts Festival at the Galleria at President's Place.

Parker School edged Montclair School in a two-round runoff. All 10 elementary schools participated.

Each school fielded a team of five who answered questions about book titles, characters, authors, and types of children's literature.

Two preliminary rounds of five teams each were held. Parker won its round with Squantum second. Montclair broke a threeway tie with Snug Harbor and Point-Webster to win its round.

Parker took the early lead in the final round but Montclair drew close. Parker hung on to capture the new silver trophy presented by Catherine Roeder, head of the Department of Library/Media Services.

Members of the Parker team were Billy Deshler, captain; Miranda Bohl, Billy Connolly, Laurna Copson and Karl Ehrens.

"This is one of the best contests we've ever had," said moderator Ted Clarke. "Every question was answered by someone."

Quincy Puts It Together For Win

Quincy's baseball team, which has had a rough season, put things together Monday for a 10-5 victory over Silver Lake, making the Presidents' record 3-13.

Quincy hosted Weymouth Tuesday, will be at Old Colony League-leading Taunton Monday and will be host to Bridgewater-Raynham next Thursday at 3:30 at Adams Field.

Chad McMahon pitched all the way for Quincy in the win over Silver Lake and he received plenty of batting support for a change.

Tom Balzano, who earlier had hit one of the longest home runs ever seen on the South Shore, hit another far over the left field fence at Adams Field.

Freshman Steve Miller had a big day with a two-run triple and a single and Paul Fahey, brought up from the junior varsity, made a key catch in the outfield and also had a single.

Last Friday the Presidents lost to Plymouth, 7-1, despite a creditable pitching effort by sophomore Dewey Holmes, a surprising pitching find starting his first game. He was relieved by Joey Crespi. Quincy was held to five hits.

Earlier in the week Quincy lost to North Quincy, 5-3, evening their series and giving the Presidents a share of this year's city title.

Sophomore Robbie Kane, the number two hitter in the OCL with a .447 average, and Mike Malvesti had two hits each for the Presidents. McMahon pitched another fine game for Quincy in defeat.

In its previous game Quincy bowed to Barnstable, 7-3, despite a fine pitching effort by Crespi. Balzano and Noel DiBona had key hits for the Presidents.

Taunton Too Tough For North Quincy

The North Quincy baseball team, which last week defeated Quincy, 5-3, to even the season's series and give the Raiders a share of the city crown, continued to find rough going Monday as it lost to Old Colony League leader Taunton, 9-3, dropping its record to 3-13.

The Raiders played at Silver Lake yesterday (Wednesday), will host Bridgewater-Raynham today (Thursday) and Weymouth Monday, both games at 3:30 at Adams Field. One bright spot in the loss to Taunton was a long home run by Ron Boudreau, who has had a fine season at bat. Mike Patch was the starting and leading pitcher, going five innings.

North, which was blanked by Brockton, turned in an excellent two-way performance in defeating Quincy.

Sophomore Liam Higgins pitched a fine game in notching his first varsity win.

Pat Shea highlighted a four-run sixth inning with a two-out, two-run double. Pat O'Donoghue and Ed Rizzitano each drove in runs and George Rozantitis, Mark Kelleher and Shea had two hits apiece.

Higgins allowed only five hits, struck out six and walked four.

"We put things together in this game and Liam did an excellent job," said coach Leo Donovan. "It is always nice to beat Quincy."

Triple A Baseball

Dodgers Win Slugfest

The Fernald Plumbing Dodgers outslugged the Local 2222 White Sox, 13-11, in Quincy Triple A Baseball League action.

John Parastedes was the winning pitcher, giving up four hits, striking out six and walking two. Billy Nelson got the save in his first pitching assignment, striking out five and allowing six hits, while surviving eight walks. He struck out the side in the fourth inning. The losing pitcher was Pat McDonough, who struck out 13 but gave up 14 hits and 10 walks.

For the Dodgers Chris Ricupero had three hits including a double and four RBI. Mike Russo had three hits including a triple, Mike Shaw three hits and James Callahan two. Rob Blaikie, Russo and Chris Wilkie played strong defense.

For the White Sox McDonough had three hits including a double and Dave Para two hits including a triple. McDonough and John McCue had fine defensive games.

The Dodgers also edged the Flavin & Flavin Yankees, 14-13, scoring five runs in the bottom of the sixth.

Parastedes was the winning pitcher, improving to 3-0, in relief of Nelson. Ryan Catarius was the loser.

For the Dodgers, Charlie Doherty went 4 for 5, Shaw 4 for 5 including a double, Ricupero 3 for 5 and the winning RBI, Russo 2 for 4, Matt Allen a double and Blaikie and Nelson a hit each. Shaw, Blaikie, Ricupero and James Callahan had fine defensive games.

For the Yankees Peter Donnelly had two triples and a single, Nick Hanratty a double and single, Kerry Ginty and David Klingenstein two hits each, Catarius a triple and Shawn Slattery a double.

The Papa Gino's Tigers edged the IHOP Orioles, 9-8, with Ken O'Connell the winning pitcher with five strikeouts. Bill O'Neil had the game-winning hit and Ryan Grant had a double and a single. Dan Collins played fine defense.

from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Perkins Field.

All coaches are asked to attend and bring their goalies with them.

Girls Softball

North Edges Quincy

It took a long time but the North Quincy girls' softball team finally gained its only win of the season last week, edging Quincy, 17-16, after losing its first 12 games.

The victory was the first for North's first year coach, Elva Hazelton, who had taken over the reins from Barbara Webster.

"It definitely made the win more special because it was over Quincy," said the North coach. "And it certainly made it a lot more fun for the girls."

Cindy Mitton had three hits and two RBI and Mei

Lee had two hits and two RBI. Shana Cobban pitched all the way for North.

For Quincy, Amy Baker returned for her first game since being hurt in a car accident and contributed a single. Chris Barrett had two hits for Quincy.

Quincy had won the earlier game with North, 18-10, and the rivals share the city championship.

The North Girls (1-14) followed up with another excellent game but bowed to Brockton, 13-10, as a seventh inning rally fell short after the team scored four runs.

Eileen and Noreen McDonough combined for four hits and three RBI for North. Amy Bergeron had two hits and an RBI.

Quincy also followed up with a fine game against Plymouth, but lost 10-6, after leading by five runs after the second inning. Plymouth scored seven runs in the fourth inning.

Jen Steen led Quincy (3-11) with a triple and a single and two RBI.

Monday the Quincy girls had one of their best games of the year as it defeated Silver Lake, 21-13.

Youth Soccer Travel Teams Doing Well

The Quincy Youth Soccer League has 19 teams playing in the South Shore League this season and most are having excellent seasons.

In boys Division I, the under 19 team, coached by John Murphy, is 3-0-1; the under 12 team is 3-2 with coach John Downey; the under 16 team is 2-1 with Barry Austin; the under 14 team coached by Lou Cellucci is 1-3-1; the under 10 team coached by Jim O'Mahoney is 1-3-1 and the under 19 team coached by Alex Coutis is 0-3-1.

In Division 2 the under 12 team coached by Paul Bregoli is 5-0; the under 12 team coached by John Doyle is also 5-0; the under 10 club coached by Bob Wise is 4-0; and the under 14 team coached by Mike Stone is 3-2.

In girls Division I the under 14 team coached by Tom O'Toole is 4-0-1; the under 10 team coached by Debbie Williamson is 3-1; the under 19 team is 2-2 coached Karen Howard; the under 12 team is 2-3 coached by Art Linehan; and the under 16 team coached by Polly Ziniti is 0-4-1.

In Division 2 the under 10 team coached by Tom Satkevich is 5-0; the under 12 team coached by Nancy Stone is 3-1; the under 12 team coached by Greg Mooter is 0-2-2; and the under 14 team coached by Paul Scofield is 0-5.

The Division 2 boys under 10 team improved to 4-0 with a 4-2 victory over Sharon. Paul Wise had two goals and Freddie Butts and Mike Whalen one each.

The strong defense, anchored by goalies Billy Meade and Rick Loughmiller and defensemen Mike McLaughlin, T.J. Bell, Chris Roach, Dave Kusy and Peter Kinnecom, has held the opposition to four goals.

Midfielders Quentin Lam, Andy Chiachio and P.J. Leth have played strong two-way games and the forward line of Mike Welch, Mark Giese, John Gavin, Billy Martin, Wise, Butts and Whalen have averaged four goals a game.

This team will face Holbrook Sunday at Perkins Field at 3 p.m. (more to come Tuesday a.m.)

St. John's Baseball

Mets, Indians Win Openers

The St. John's Little League opened its season with the Mets blanking the Red Sox, 3-0, behind the one-hit pitching of Ryan Ploof and Billy Robinson. Ploof struck out eight and Robinson six. Steve Maze was the loser.

The Indians scored five runs in the fifth to edge the Red Sox, 6-5, with Mike O'Connell the winner and Maze the loser. O'Connell and Shawn McDonald each had a triple and an RBI, Ronnie DiNapoli a double and Brendon McNiff a two-run single.

For the Sox Maze twice stole home and drove in a run. Bill Calhoun pitched two scoreless innings. Lauren Lumaghi walked twice and scored a run.

The Indians walloped the Padres, 14-5, with O'Connell the winner and Colin Kearney the loser.

O'Connell had two triples and McDonald had a three-run homer.

The Mets edged the Indians, 4-3, with Robinson having a key hit as the Mets scored the winning run in the seventh after pitching three innings of one-hit ball.

Babe Ruth

Elks Win Pair

The Quincy Elks won their first two Quincy Babe Ruth League games and lead the American League.

The Elks shelled Local 1139, 24-5, and topped Morrisette, 14-7. Mark Cahill was the winning pitcher and struck out 10 while having three hits against the Local team and went 4-for-4 in the win over Morrisette.

Bryan Post VFW defeated Sons of Italy, 10-8, behind the fine pitching of Michael Koski and George Wirtz. Koski was outstanding going into the fifth inning, giving up two hits, when Wirtz took over and pitched well in relief.

Catcher Bill Morrissey was outstanding and outfielders Jeff Breslin, Rich Gorman and Paul King played outstanding defense. Sean Skehan, Dan Donoghue, Matt McSweeney and David Rowell steadied the infield.

Breslin and Wirtz led the offense with two hits including a long double by Breslin. Gorman also had a hit. King and Morrissey had long sacrifice flies. Robbie Callow, Rob Churchill, Jeremy Nielson, Scott Piper and Bob Shaw contributed to the win.

S of I collected six singles, two each by Steve Rayne and Jim Malone.

Steve Manning and Bill Coughlin each had a hit.

Golden Print bombed Poland Springs, 18-7, with Steve Miller pitching five strong innings with six strikeouts. Greg Pinkham pitched the last two innings. David Reinhart went 4-for-5 with a ground rule double and a home run onto Hancock Street.

Quincy PAL Sponsoring Regional Round Of 3 On 3 Hoop Tourney

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Basketball players--get "pumped"--the Coca-Cola/Reebok "Coup De Hoop" National 3 on 3 Basketball "Blacktop" Championship is coming to Quincy.

The Quincy Police Athletic League will sponsor the local and state finals of the double elimination tournament May 18, 19, 25 and 26 at the Tent in Marina Bay and the Fenno St. basketball courts, Wollaston.

For sponsoring the event, Reebok is donating $2,000 to the Quincy PAL. In turn, the league will use the money to resurface and reline the Fenno St. basketball courts.

Crime Prevention Officer Robert Hanna, who is president of Quincy PAL, said the resurfacing and repair project will cost $3,530. The league hopes to raise $1,530 from private donations to cover the balance.

The Fenno St. courts are the only courts lighted in Quincy. Hanna noted the courts are very popular during the summer months, with pick-up games practically around the clock from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. The electric bill for the courts is paid by Quincy Atty. George Burke, a former basketball standout at the University of Massachusetts and Boston Celtic.

Hanna thanked Frank Barrett, owner of the Tent and Amelia's Restaurant in Marina Bay, for coordinating the league's sponsorship with Reebok. He noted Barrett organized a similar 3 on 3 basketball tournament last year at the Tent on behalf of the Quincy PAL.

Tournament officials have named Brian Buckley of Boston College High School as its tournament director. Buckley is the assistant executive director of Park, Forestry and Cemetery in Quincy.

The regional round in Quincy is open to male and female players from Worcester to Boston, north to Manchester, N.H. and south to Providence, R.I. There are seven amateur divisions: age 10-13; 14-17; 18-20; 21-29; 30-39; 40-49; and 50 and over.

There are men divisions and women divisions but no co-ed divisions.

Fee is $48 for teams with players 17 and under and $55 for squads with players age 18 and over. There is a corporate division; fee is $100 per team.

Coup de Hoop is extending a 20 percent discount to all Quincy residents under 18 who sign up.

Several hundred teams are expected to compete. There will be a wheelchair division if there is enough participation.

Reebok is also planning to hold slam-dunk and three-point shot competitions.

For competing, Reebok will give every player a t-shirt and each team a four (three players and one alternate) a basketball.

Registration forms are available at Reebok retailers, Purity Supreme, Store 24, Quincy Police Station, South Shore YMCA, the Clam Box, the Tent, Amelia's and McDonald's on Southern Artery. A registration party will be held Friday, May 17 from 6 to 9 p.m. at the Tent. May 17 is the last day to register.

Players can also register by calling 262-3734.

Games will consist of one 25-minute period with a running clock. Each basket is worth one point; baskets beyond the "three-point" line will be worth two points.

First team to score 15 points or has the most points at the end of the 25-minute period will be the winner. In the case of a tie, there will be sudden death. Teams must win by two points (unless time expires.)

Players on the winning teams in Quincy will receive a free pair of Reebok basketball sneakers and apparel. Winners will go on to compete in the regional championship in New York the first week of June.

The national championship will take place June 14-16 at the Excalibur Hotel in Las Vegas. The championship will be taped and edited into a one-hour program to be shown on CBS Sports June 23.

Other events Quincy PAL is planning are a Handicapped Kids Sports Day June 7 at the Tent; PAL Sports Day June 15 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Palmer Park in Germantown; PAL Night featuring Herb Reed and the Platters at Braintree Sheraton Tara, June 30 from 8 to 11 p.m. ($30 per couple); and a Field Day in conjunction with the Quincy Recreation Department July 16, 23, 30 and Aug. 6 at Pageant Field.

JOSEPH BURKE, right, was recently honored for 25 years of service on the Quincy Park and Recreation Board. Burke, who lives in Quincy, is moving to Houston, Texas, and will step down this month. Mayor James Sheets, left, Council President Ted DeCristoforo and Park and Recreation Board Chairman Howard Crowley made presentations to Burke at a recent meeting. Park, Forestry and Cemetery Executive Director Raymond Cattaneo and Recreation Director Barry Welch also thanked Burke for his support and service over the years. Appointed to the board by the City Council in 1966, Burke served under six mayors: James McIntyre, Walter Hannon, Joseph LaRaja, Arthur Tobin, Francis McCauley and Sheets. He also served as board chairman for seven terms from 1972 to 1978.

Men's Softball

Washington Sweeps

Washington Tap of Quincy improved its record to 8-0 by sweeping a doubleheader from the Boxers and leads the South Shore Men's Softball League by one game.

The Tap walloped the Boxers, 19-13 and 18-3, with Bob Hennesley (4-0) and Chuck Sullivan (2-0) the winning pitchers.

Al Freeman hit three home runs, including a grand slam, and drove in nine runs. Mike Bates, Hennesley and Sean Gately also had home runs.

Sullivan had five hits and Joe Godfrey five and Steve Thurston, Mike Ash, Dave Tocchio, John McManus, Matt Marks, Dan Trabucco and Bob St. John all had hits and played good defense. Pinch hitter Elvis Fabello had another hit and is batting 1.000.

In its previous games the Tap, which has outscored its opposition, 130-41, swept a doubleheader from Perkins Paper, 16-7 and 14-1. Hennesley and Marks (2-0) were the winning pitchers.

Gately drove home seven runs and had six hits. Sullivan and Tocchio had six RBI each and Godfrey, Freeman and Bates each had five. Marks, Marty Tolson, Hennesley, Trabucco, McManus and Fabello all had hits.

St. John had the defensive gem of the game, stabbing a fast, one-hopper and throwing out the runner.

This Sunday the Tap will face the Hockey Hut of Hingham at 9 a.m. at Fore River Field.

Barrett Grant At St. Bonaventure

Christine Barrett, a standout in volleyball, basketball and softball at Quincy High School, has accepted an athletic grant-in-aid to attend St. Bonaventure University.

Barrett, a 5-9 outside hitter in volleyball, was named to the Globe, Herald and Patriot Ledger all-scholastic teams as a junior and senior. An Old Colony League all-star, Barrett had a 96 percent serving accuracy (220/230) with 33 aces and 179 kills last season.

During her junior year, she had a 94 percent serving accuracy with 41 aces and 102 kills. She was a four-year letter winner and was named to the Boston Globe and Patriot Ledger second team all-scholastic squads as a sophomore.

Last spring she was also named to the Old Colony League all-star team in softball.

Barrett is among the top students in her class and is a member of the National Honor Society. The daughter of J. Chris and Doreen Barrett, she plans to major in liberal arts.

 "Legislators need to hear how the local aid cut is going to affect their communities. They should really know what it means at home," Sheila Cheimets of the Massachusetts Municipal Association told the City Council at a recent meeting.
 Cheimets presented an update to the council on what to expect as far as local aid and the status of last fall's ballot Question 5.

 The MMA was a driving force behind Question 5 which passed by a landslide. The initiative is supposed to regulate the distribution of local aid money to cities and towns to ensure a consistent level of funding from year to year.
 The measure also calls for quarterly payments instead of biannual.

cities and towns will be happy with and others which they will be unhappy with.
 "This is a picture which changes on a daily basis," Cheimets said.
 An increase in highway money can be expected and an increase in local aid through lottery money can also be expected, Cheimets said. The Dukakis administration had put a cap on distribution of lottery money to municipalities which Weld has removed.

difference in the governor's local aid cut, she said.
 "People who use the services which will be affected should contact their local legislators and let them know how they feel," she said.
 She also told the council her group is working to repeal a state law which requires municipalities to pay employees on a weekly basis. She said cities and towns would see a tremendous savings if allowed to pay every other week.

So far, however, the state legislature has been circumventing the new law during the current budget process.
 Cheimets told the councilors that so far, Gov. William Weld's administration has proposed some things Cheimets said the MMA will lobby to prevent any new cap on lottery money distribution.

 However, the new funds will not make up the

There is not a good chance of local relief from any changes in Proposition 2 1/2 or the auto excise tax, Cheimets said.

Six Proposals Before Traffic Commission

The Quincy Traffic Commission met Wednesday to consider six proposals.
 They are:

- Install no parking area at the corner of Watkins/Labadine and Patten Sts. The area is directly behind Tony's Clam Box parking area.

- Change the direction of traffic to allow two-way traffic on Fayette St. on the block between Newport Ave. and Holbrook Rd.
- Install traffic light at the intersection of Liberty/Centre Sts., as well as the need of a crossing guard in the same area in the interest of public safety.

- Install stop sign at the intersection of Ratchford/Winthrop Sts.
- Study the feasibility of creating Gardiner Rd. into a one-way extension.
- A request to install handicap parking space at 26-30 Town Hill St.

Sheets Optimistic On Getting Lexington

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

As the competition for the custody of the soon-to-be decommissioned U.S.S Lexington heats up, Mayor James Sheets is confident all the pieces of the application puzzle, especially funding the acquisition, will soon fall into place.

One of those pieces is gaining the support of Gov. William Weld. Sheets had planned to meet with Weld last week but the governor cancelled. His appointment has been rescheduled for June 4.

When he meets with Weld, Sheets said he will discuss possible options to fund the expense of bringing the famous aircraft carrier to Quincy and converting the Quincy-built ship to a museum at the former General Dynamics shipyard in Quincy Point.

The mayor hopes to persuade Weld to support a move which would create a nongovernmental, non-profit agency to float bonds to finance the ship's towing and renovations. Navy officials have stipulated financial well-being of the applicants, and the ability to care for the ship, is an important factor in their determination of who gets the ship.

Other cities mounting movements to gain the ship include Mobile, Alabama;

Corpus Christi, Texas; and Pensacola, Florida.

In fact, two of the three cities have acquired state funding to help their efforts.

According to Sheets, the Texas state legislature passed a $1.9 million appropriation for the Lexington May 16. He said the Alabama legislature passed a $1 million package earlier this week.

In addition, a group in Pensacola has reportedly raised $1 million from the private sector. However, Sheets said he has heard conflicting reports stating the group has not raised $1 million.

The mayor said he was

Quincy is receiving nearly $2 million in federal aid which will be used to fund housing rehabilitation, downtown revitalization and the city's community centers.

City Planner Kevin Shea outlined how the money will be earmarked Monday at a City Council Finance Committee meeting.

The biggest chunk of the Community Development Block Grant money, $600,000 will go towards housing rehabilitation including rental rehabilitation, five percent loans, deleasing programs, deferred payment loans and handicapped loans and grants.

Shea also said the city will continue its downtown improvement project with $321,500 to be used to expand the historic-style street lights and brick-trimmed sidewalks in Quincy Center to the Dimmock Street and School Street areas.

McIntyre Mall and the Hancock Cemetery would also be lighted, Shea said. "I think the commitment to downtown is there," said Ward 5 Councillor Chuck Phelan. "These are hundreds of thousands of dollars going to the downtown."

Nearly $300,000 will help fund the community centers and the Elderly Outreach Program.

About $400,000 will go towards planning and administration and $43,000 will be used for handicapped accessibility.

Fabrizio Seeks Study Of Zero Based Budget

Ward 4 City Councillor Thomas Fabrizio would like the city to study the possibility of changing the budget process.

Fabrizio introduced a resolution at Monday's City Council meeting seeking to study the feasibility of a zero-based budget for Quincy.

The matter was referred to the Finance Committee for discussion and Fabrizio will prepare a report on the idea.

"A zero-based budget lists an inventory of what's in the budget and each item must be justified," Fabrizio said.

"It would be a lot of work but we should start looking at next year's budget now," he said. "I'm not sold on the idea (of a zero-based budget) but it's something we should look at to see if it could help us."

Mayor James Sheets said he supports Fabrizio's proposal.

"I welcome any suggestions that city councillors have to help with the budget," Sheets said.

"This is the second budget I have constructed and in both cases we have had to make cuts.

Philosophically we have tried to construct a zero-based budget. In a sense we have done that the past two years," Sheets said.

The mayor pointed to the Department of Public Works budget as an example.

"With the DPW we literally built from scratch and came up with a reorganization of the department," Sheets said.

Fabrizio said the current budget process makes it difficult for councillors to know specifically what they are approving.

Because of the Memorial Day holiday Monday, there is an early news deadline for next week's issue of The Quincy Sun. News, sports and church releases from organizations should be in the Sun office, 1372

Hancock St., Quincy Square, by 5 p.m. tomorrow (Friday) to assure publication in the May 30th issue.

14 DPW Employees Honored For Service

Fourteen Quincy Public Works employees with 30 or more years of service were honored at an awards ceremony Tuesday in the lobby of the Public Works building.

Highway department workers honored were:

Joseph Clare, 34 years, laborer; James Higgins, 43 years, working foreman; David Pirriah, 32 years, laborer; Thomas Roust, 35 years, MEO foreman; and John Ventosi, 36 years, MEO.

Sewer, Water and Drain department employees recognized were:

George Clark, 30 years, superintendent; Paul DiSalvio, 39 years, working foreman; William O'Connell, 36 years, meter reader; Joseph Paradise, 36 years, laborer; and William Reid, 35 years, working foreman.

Public Buildings employees honored were:

Mildred Kusser, 37 years, switchboard; Tony Pascarelli, 34 years, custodian; and Angelo Piccarini, 40 years, custodian.

Bruce Randall, an engineer for 35 years, was also recognized.

In recognition of the many years of valued and dedicated service to the department, each of the 14 employees received a gold lapel pin. The pin has the letters "DPW" across the top with the number of years below the three letters.

Each pin is valued at $30. The money for the pins was taken out of the DPW budget.

DPW Commissioner David Colton said the pins are a small yet appreciated token of appreciation for the dedicated employees. "It's something we feel shows our appreciation. A lot of businesses do that," he said.

Among the officials who attended the ceremony were Mayor James Sheets, Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson and Colton.

Officials plan to make the employee recognition ceremony a DPW tradition. Kolson suggested each employee with 30 or more years of service in the DPW be honored.

The awards presentation will take place each year during National Public Works Week.

Joanne Condon Walsh Ward 6 Council Candidate

JOANNE CONDON WALSH

Former Ward 6 Councillor Joanne Condon Walsh announced her candidacy for the upcoming election at a function attended by more than 200 people at Walsh's Restaurant in North Quincy.

Condon Walsh said she is seeking election because "Now, more than ever, Ward 6 needs a councillor who will meet the challenges of the times with experience, enthusiasm and a proven record of results. Ward 6 needs a councillor whose record demonstrates strong leadership and concern for its residents. A councillor who is responsive and accessible with an ability to communicate with people and work towards solutions with leadership."

"Instead of endlessly discussing what we have to eliminate because of budget constraints, it is vital that we work together to develop innovative methods to preserve and enrich the quality of our basic public services without overburdening the taxpayer. Our future depends upon our ability to maintain a school system that is competitive as well as a public safety force that is equipped to handle the daily as well as emergency needs of the community," she said.

"We must also realize that our business district is an integral part of our neighborhood and it is important that we work with and support our business leaders for the preservation of these important services."

During her 25 years of community service, Condon Walsh has been a Ward 6 councillor (eight years); founder and past president of the Atlantic Neighborhood Association; founder of the Atlantic Neighborhood Center and the Squantum Community Center; founder of the Atlantic Self-Help Home Improvement program; and initiator of the North Quincy Business District Revitalization Project.

In addition, she was responsible for:

- Installation of the "buzzers for the blind" at busy intersections throughout the city.

- Adoption of the "smoke detector ordinance" in the city for residential homes.

- Rollback of closing hours of liquor establishments at 1 a.m. in Quincy.

As a Ward 6 councillor,

Condon Walsh was a president of the Massachusetts City Councillor Association; member of the Local Government Advisory Committee to the governor; member of the National League of Cities Community Development Committee; chairman of the Quincy City Council Ordinance and Rules Committees; and chairman of the Health and Hospital Committee.

A long-term North Quincy resident, Condon Walsh graduated from North Quincy High School and attended Quincy Junior College. She is the wife of Deputy Fire Chief Joseph Walsh and mother of three children: Michael Condon, Susan Condon Beagle and Christopher Condon.

Condon Walsh said her experience and sensitivity to the community would enable her to represent the people of Ward 6 effectively.

"Now, more than ever, I look forward to the opportunity to serve you again as your Ward 6 councillor and work with you in the solutions to your concerns and the challenges of these economic times.

"Quincy is our home and we must not compromise this great historical city, but instead promote it as a place everyone would want to live. Together, we can accomplish this goal."

Council Cold To Closing Community Centers

By STEVE KAVANAGH

A suggestion to consider closing some of the city's community centers met with sharp opposition during Monday's City Council Finance Committee meeting.

During a review of the Community Development Block Grant budget Ward 3 City Councillor Larry Chretien said seven community centers in Quincy are being funded in part by Block Grant money.

The centers are Adams Shore, Atlantic, Beechwood, Germantown, Houghs Neck, Quincy Point and Squantum.

"The funds are not distributed fairly," Chretien said. "We could use the money for citywide programs and I think we can provide better services to the entire city."

"I think we have to consider mothballing or cutting community centers," Chretien said.

He said he would rather close a community center than a school or fire station.

"I think the community centers are doing fine the way they are. I have visited several and they are outstanding," said Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro.

Ward 6 Councillor Thomas Nutley agreed with DeCristofaro.

"Community centers are just that. We don't need one center in the middle of Quincy to serve people from Houghs Neck and North Quincy. The centers are where they are to serve the people in those neighborhoods," DeCristofaro said.

There is not a community center in Chretien's ward.

"Are people in Ward 3 being excluded?" Chretien asked. "I'm not asking for a Ward 3 community center but I'd like to know if people in my ward are getting access."

Chretien asked for a breakdown on which ward residents are from who use the community centers.

SEN. PAUL HAROLD inspects the new roof being constructed on the Dorothy Quincy Homestead on Butler Rd. The new split cedar shingle Mansard roof is being constructed by Christopher Paine and Richard Paine of A.W. Paine Construction Corp. of Marshfield. Harold had $100,000 added to last year's state budget to fund the new roof. Owned by the MDC, the homestead is maintained by the New England Society of Colonial Dames. The roof repair and restoration should be completed in July.

Chretien Calls Meeting On Long-Term Plan For City's Schools

Ward 3 City Councillor Larry Chretien, chairman of the Education Committee, has called for a committee meeting June 17 to discuss a long-term plan for Quincy schools.

Chretien said he wants to make it clear that he is not proposing that schools be closed. Chretien said that any proposals to close or consolidate schools should come from the School Committee without "undue interference" by the City Council.

"If the School Committee thinks closing a school is the right thing to do--that's okay with me," Chretien said.

School Committee members have been invited to address the council's Education Committee as has Joseph Mazzarella, director of the Center for Technical Education.

Chretien said that the purpose of the meeting is to provide councillors with information about enrollment and capacity.

MWRA Project May Lower Water Pressure, Cause Rusty Water

The Massachusetts Water Resources Authority's Waterworks Division will continue its project replacing manual air valves in Quincy May 27 through June 21.

In order to replace air valves, main line valves are operated by work crews. Turning the valves may create a decrease in water pressure and rusty water in some neighborhoods for as long as four weeks.

"Rusty water does not create a health hazard," said William Brutsch, director of the MWRA Waterworks Division.

Bottle, Can Drive To Benefit Bangladesh Famine Relief Fund

A redeemable bottle and can drive has been organized in Quincy to help aid the devastated survivors of the cyclone that struck Bangladesh leaving 137,000 dead and millions homeless and without food and water.

Proceeds from the drive will benefit Oxfam America, one of the agencies aiding Bangladesh.

Founded in England in 1942, Oxfam America is 100 percent privately funded. Like the American Red Cross and Unicef, Oxfam will give 100 percent of the collected money to the Bangladesh Fund.

Oxfam hires locals within the country they are assisting to do the building of homes and businesses.

Donations can be made to Oxfam Committee for Famine Relief, 115

Broadway, Boston, MA 02116.

Residents who would like to participate in the drive are asked to save their redeemable bottles and cans in plastic bags or their original containers. Donations are being accepted at all Quincy fire stations, seven days a week.

There will also be a city-wide pick up drive Saturday, June 22 and Sunday, June 23 at most churches, synagogues and places of worship. People are asked to return their donations when attending their place of worship on these dates. Trucks and volunteers will be there to receive them.

The drive will continue through Sunday, July 7, where residents are again requested to leave their donations off at their nearest fire station.

A Tribute To Tommy

A "Who's Who" in Quincy politics turned out the other night to honor retired Asst. City Clerk Tom Burke. There hasn't been so much political power in one place in Quincy for many, many years.

"It would be a great night to launch a political campaign," someone mused.

"How about launching Tommy for the City Council," suggested another.

Any chance, Tommy was asked later.

"Oh, no," he said. "Not at my age. Politics is a young man's game. I had my time."

Tommy's time was back in the early 1950's when he was one of the scarce Democrats in a Republican stronghold.

He helped found the Young Democrats Club and three times ran for state representative, the last time missing election by a mere 100 votes.

He and his long-time friend City Clerk John Gillis, used to manage each other's campaign. Gillis ran twice for the City Council and lost.

Can you imagine either one of them running today and losing?

Tommy was a political pioneer and a number of Democrat office holders attending the dinner at the Morrisette Legion Post paid tribute to him for blazing the political trail for them.

But the night was also a non-partisan and semi-roast salute.

Tommy's 31-years as assistant city clerk spanned the terms of seven mayors -- four of whom were on hand for the tribute.

Present Mayor James Sheets and former Mayors Francis McCauley, Arthur Tobin and Walter Hannon issued a joint "Executive Declaration" making Tommy "Honorary Mayor of Quincy."

The document is sprinkled with tongue-in-cheek "Whereas" here and there. Like:

"Whereas, he surprised everyone by convincing a lovely girl named Connie to marry him (he said he needed someone to cut the grass) and they have a wonderful child named Marilyn who luckily resembles her mother.

"Whereas Tom is manager of Little City Hall at the corner of Copeland and Common Streets" (Rouillard's).

And, on a more serious side:

ECONOMY CLASS SYNDROME

Flying may be the quickest way to get from one place to another, but it may not be the healthiest. Cramped conditions and long periods of immobility can be very hard on bad backs, and can lead to circulatory problems. Researchers have noted a higher than expected incidence of airline passengers developing blood clots in their legs. Those at greatest risk are people over age 40 with a previous history of phlebitis or blood clots in the leg, and those who take advantage of the free drinks usually available on overseas flights. Drinking alcoholic beverages can cause dehydration, especially in the dry air of a pressurized cabin, and dehydration causes the blood to clot more easily.

Those who may be at risk are advised to avoid alcohol while flying, to drink plenty of water and soft drinks, and to walk up and down the aisle at least every two hours.

P.S. Leg stretches, toe wiggles, and ankle rotations while seated will help prevent cramping and maintain the circulation.

If you would like more information on this topic or related conditions, don't hesitate to call our office. We believe that preventive health care begins with a lasting partnership between physician and patient. Let us help you become heart-smart. Call COMPREHENSIVE CARDIAC CARE at 472-2550. We're located at 101 Adams Street, Suite 24 in Quincy. Hours are by appointment.

"Whereas, Tom has won the affection and acclaim of everyone who knows him. Tom's work with the Young Democrats and as Assistant City Clerk for 31 years, his involvement with the Bocce Club, the Knights of Columbus, and the Quincy City Club has made Quincy a better place to live and City Hall a great place to work."

The four mayors presented him with a blue jacket, with his name, city seal and "Honorary Mayor" on it.

McCauley, a history buff, noted that Tommy served during the terms of seven mayors: "Democrats Jim McIntyre, Joe LaRaia, Tobin and Sheets. Republicans Amelio Della Chiesa and myself."

He then turned to Hannon and asked: "And what were you, Walter?"

"It all depended on which way the wind was blowing?" quipped Hannon.

(Hannon was a Republican when he entered office and a Democrat when he left.)

That political "Who's Who" on hand to pay tribute to Tommy included in addition to the four mayors, City Clerk John Gillis and Asst. City Clerk Joseph Shea, committee co-chairmen, Sheriff Clifford Marshall who was the toastmaster and this lineup:

State Senator Paul Harold, Reps. Robert Cerasoli, Michael Morrissey and Steve Tobin, Dist. Atty. William Delahunt, City Council President Ted DeCristofaro, Councilors Tim Cahill, Mike Cheney, Larry Chretien, Tom Fabrizio, Peter Kolson, Tom Nutley, Charles Phelan and Pat Toland; Mary Collins, Norfolk County Commissioner and Quincy school committee woman, School Committeemen Steve Durkin and Ron Mariano; Dan Raymond, former school committeeman, councillor and Norfolk County treasurer; former Councilor Leo Kelly, former Councilor Joanne Condon Walsh, former County Commissioner-Councilor George McDonald, Tom Koch, Mayor Sheets' executive secretary, City Solicitor and former Councilor Steve McGrath, former School Committeeman Charles Sweeney, former Councilor Charles Shea and former Councilor John Koegler.

Sure would have been a good night to launch a political campaign.

Sure you're not interested, Tom?

WE NOW HAVE a "Cleaner, Greener Quincy." - especially in the downtown area -- thanks to Mayor James Sheets. And we have a "Lighter, Brighter Quincy" with the new historical type lights in Quincy Center.

Now, how about a "Whiter, Safer" Quincy? The pedestrian walks starting at the Granite St. and Chestnut-Maple St. areas and going south on Hancock St. need to be repainted.

The long-time traditional crosswalk across Hancock St. from the Sun to Photo Quick and Phase II, still hasn't been marked. And is still being used as a U-turn for traffic going both south and north on Hancock St.

It's amusing (??) to see cars making illegal U-turns there right in front of meter maids busy tagging cars at meters.

MAYOR JAMES SHEETS, who came into office during tough times, seems to be doing pretty well coping with the financial and other municipal problems.

But one of the hardest things about being mayor, he confides, is trying to attend all the social-civic functions to which he is invited.

He says he could be out almost every night of the week -- and often is.

But the toughest part of it all is to sit down at dinners and not put on the pounds. Actually, he has managed to shed a few, and looks trimmer than when he took office nearly a year and a half ago.

DeCristofaro Keynote Speaker

Memorial Day Parade, Ceremonies Monday

City Council President Ted DeCristofaro, a U.S. Navy veteran of World War II, will be the keynote speaker for the Memorial Day Parade ceremonies sponsored by the Quincy Veterans Council Monday, May 27.

Marching units for the annual parade will assemble on School St. and Charles A. Ross Parkway at 9:30 a.m. and step off at 10:30 a.m.

The parade route is School St., Hancock St., Washington St., Coddington St., Sea St. to Mount Wollaston Cemetery where the chief marshal and honor guests will review the parade.

The parade will rest at Quincy Square where wreaths will be placed on the tombs of John Adams and John Quincy Adams.

Memorial Day service will be held at the World War II podium, Mount Wollaston Cemetery, where DeCristofaro will speak.

TED DeCRISTOFARO

Ward 2 resident, joined the U.S. Navy after graduating from Quincy High School in 1941. He served as gunner's mate first class and received an honorable discharge in November, 1946.

Active in civic and community causes, he has served as a committee member and treasurer in War II podium, Mount Wollaston Cemetery, where DeCristofaro, a lifelong Veterans Council, Morrisette American Legion Post, Quincy Park and Recreation Board and the Sons of Italy.

He was one of the original founders of the Ward 2 Civic Association and the Ward 2 Civic Center. He also was instrumental in bring the Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services to Quincy Point.

First elected to the City Council in 1982, DeCristofaro was elected City Council president in 1990 and 1991.

He has received awards from St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Quincy Point Congregational Church, Disabled American Veterans, Jewish War Veterans and Quincy Veterans Council.

Earlier this year, DeCristofaro was selected as a member of Who's Who in Government Services.

As Ward 2 councillor, he has been diligent regarding zoning and licensing board hearings in an effort to protect the quality of life in the community. He was an early opponent of the siting of a sludge plant at General Dynamics and continues to mitigate the problems with the MWRA.

He and his wife, the former Betty Petzoldt, has four grown children.

Before Monday's parade, the Bryan Post will hold memorial exercises at 7 a.m. at the George F. Bryan Square, Franklin and Water Sts., Fr. Tierney Square, George F. Bryan Memorial at Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Also at 7 a.m., the Wollaston American Legion Post will decorate the graves and hold memorial exercises at the National Sailors Home Cemetery. At 8:30 a.m., a short memorial service will be held the Post Home.

At 8 a.m., William R. Caddy Detachment, M.C.L., will decorate the William R. Caddy Memorial at Caddy Park, Wollaston, John Jackson, Paul Grasso and James Cavicchi Memorials.

Also at 8 a.m., veterans of all wars will assemble at the Morrisette Post and proceed to Hall Place and conduct services at G.A.R. Memorial, and a detachment will place a wreath at the Morrisette Memorial at Pine Hill Cemetery.

At 8:30 a.m., Houghs Neck American Legion Post will hold memorial exercises and decorate O'Hare Square, Adams Shore Memorial, Houghs Neck Memorial and Frederick C. Murphy Memorial and Houghs Neck Memorial Park.

Also in the morning, the Robert I. Nickerson American Legion Post will decorate Nickerson Beach, Gilbert Memorial and Bayfield Memorial.

At 10 a.m., a short memorial service will be held at Christ Church Burial Grounds.

Woodward Considers Non-Quincy Born Girls

Trustees of the Woodward School for Girls met to discuss the possibility of admitting girls who were not born in Quincy in order to increase the student body.

Rev. Charles A. Wing, minister of the First Parish Church and chairman of the board, said that no definite action was taken at the meeting.

May 22-28 1949
42 Years Ago

Attorneys told the board that court action would have to be taken to secure a change in entrance requirements and much action probably would be contested by Dartmouth College.

Under the terms of the will of Dr. Ebenezer Woodward, who founded the school, the property would be turned over to Dartmouth if the trust were dissolved.

PR VOTE COUNT SLOW GOING

The results of the Student Council elections at North Quincy High School indicated that it would take 11 days to count the votes in Quincy's first proportional representation Plan E election in the fall.

It took two hours to count 815 ballots cast at North Quincy, leading to the assumption that it would take 11 eight-hour days to count the 36,000 ballots expected to be cast in the fall.

Or, said an optimist, less than four days if the counters worked around the clock.

NEW TEACHERS CHOSEN

The School Committee elected 11 new teachers, 10 for the elementary schools and one for the high school, and Supt. Dr. Paul Gossard said that about 20 more were needed.

Chosen were Jacqueline Bragg, Elizabeth Grandfield, Anne Connolly, Kathleen Tivnan, Eunice Chatterton, Constance MacKin, Pearl McKenney, Phyllis Gallagher, Rosella Mitchell, Priscilla Darling and Joseph Bennett.

Virginia Southern Quincy Hospital Employee Of Month

Virginia Southern of Quincy, a nurse tech, has been named Quincy Hospital's Employee of the Month for March.

Southern, who began working at the hospital as a nursing assistant three years ago, became a nurse tech when the nurse tech training program was first offered. She says working with patients is the best part of her job. She enjoys caring for them and seeing them get well enough to go home.

"I'm from the old family, where I learned to do a job to the best of my ability, to the point where I am proud to put my name on it," Southern says.

He co-workers agree. Eight people submitted Southern's name for recognition as employee of the month. They cited her

Rev. Doe West Named Pastoral Care Director At Quincy Hospital

Rev. Doe West, a former associate pastor at Fort Square United Presbyterian Church in Quincy, has been named director of pastoral care and education at Quincy Hospital.

"It is my heart's cry to assure that Quincy Hospital has a fully functional interfaith chapel and comprehensive pastoral care services that will allow Quincy's medical and spiritual communities to work together for the health and well being of our residents," West said.

Her responsibilities include providing for the spiritual needs of patients and their families, as well as for Quincy Hospital physicians, nurses and support staff; coordinating the three community chaplains at the hospital; administering the hospital's Interfaith Chapel; and facilitating communication with members of the clergy in the larger community.

She is design a set of innovative programs that will put a new level of service into the pastoral care program and for the community.

Hospital Director Ellen Zane said, "We consider our department of pastoral care to be an essential hospital service. The members of the department are vital in helping us to address the needs of the patients as a whole human being and in providing support for family members."

West serves as a liaison in all severe medical emergencies. She consults with the patient and family in times of crisis, and contacts the clergy of their choosing for follow-up care. She is fluent in sign language, and is able to serve as interpreter for hearing-impaired patients at the hospital.

Community chaplains are Rev. Kathy Graves (Protestant), Fr. Ted. Fortier (Roman Catholic), and Rabbi Jacob Mann (Jewish). The Protestant Social Service Bureau donates Rev. Graves' time and Fr. Fortier's and Rabbi Mann's congregations donate their time.

Ordained at Fort Square United Presbyterian Church, West was an assistant pastor there. She previously served as commissioner of Handicapped Affairs in Boston where she established policy and procedures for the department to ensure equal access for citizens with disabilities to city agencies.

She authored, lobbied and monitored enforcement of equal opportunity legislation and planned and coordinated community outreach and service delivery programs at city, state and federal levels.

West is a member of the board of the Interfaith Sheltering Coalition and national co-chairperson for the Network for the Homeless and Missing of the Alliance for the Mentally Ill. She is a PhD candidate in law, policy and society program at Northeastern University.

Youth Sunday At Good Shepherd Church June 2

Sunday, June 2 will be Youth Sunday at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, 15 Harvard St., North Quincy.

The 10:30 a.m. service will feature three young people speaking on "What it means to be a Christian in today's world." June 9 will be the first Sunday of the summer schedule with worship beginning at 9 a.m. The summer schedule will continue through August.

The Rev. Ross Goodman is the pastor.

Bishop John Mulcahy To Celebrate Italian Mass At St. John's

The Most Reverend John J. Mulcahy, D.D., will be the principal celebrant of a special Italian Mass to be held Saturday, June 15 at 4 p.m. in St. John's Church.

The Mass is in honor of St. Anthony of Padua, patron saint of Italians everywhere, and is being celebrated in conjunction with the 16th annual St. Anthony's Festival to be sponsored by St. John's Parish June 14 and 15 on the church grounds.

Following the Mass there will be a procession during which the statue of St. Anthony will be carried by members of the Holy Name Society.

Ornella Sweeney, wife of Richard T. Sweeney, will give the Scripture readings during the Mass in Italian.

Words of welcome will be delivered by Fr. William McCarthy, pastor. Bishop Mulcahy joins a long line of Diocesan officials and Monsignors who have presided at this special liturgy honoring St. Anthony the past 16 years. Cardinal Bernard Law and the late Cardinal Umberto Medeiros have also

MOST REV. JOSEPH MULCAHY officiated at the Mass.

Bishop Mulcahy is Auxiliary Bishop of Boston and Regional Bishop for the North Shore. He was ordained to the priesthood May 1, 1947 and elevated to Bishop Feb. 11, 1975. He has served as Rector of Pope John XXIII Seminary, Spiritual Director of Cardinal O'Connell Seminary and Archdiocesan Master of Ceremonies.

The festival attracted more than 12,000 people last year. Proceeds benefit St. John's charitable programs including a homeless shelter for men and a home for single pregnant young women.

Pentecost Service At Squantum First Church

"Whatever Could Have Happened?" was the title of a sermon by the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin Sunday at the First Church of Squantum.

Scripture readers were Tom Williamson, Barbara Walter and Tom Klock.

The Chancel Choir sang and the congregation was accompanied by Mary Ruth Scott on the organ and Janet Williamson on the piano.

Sunday was the final day of Sunday School this spring and Dr. Langevin thanked all who taught this year including Kim Olsen, Krista Olsen, Lori Oglivie, Beth Harper, Blythe Bumpus, Kathy Sullivan-Moran, Patti Hurd, Marci Hurd and Dr. Langevin.

The children participated in special fun activities planned for the final day of the term.

The service concluded with a special Pentecost benediction. Greeters for the morning were Jack and Ruth Westerbeke. The ushers were Janet Sumner and Katrina Sorrentino. The fellowship hour after the service was hosted by Del Dougherty and Barbara Walter.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

SOMETHING TO THINK UPON ...
JUST FOR TODAY

D. Scott Deware

Just for today, I will try to strengthen my mind reading something that requires effort, thought and concentration.

Just for today, I will do somebody a good turn and not get found out ...

Just for today, I will do a task that needs to be done but which I have been putting off. I will do it as an exercise of will power ...

Just for today, I will try to exert patience with people and things and especially have patience with myself ...

Just for today, I will look upon the present as the past of my future ...

Just for today, I will aim to praise not criticize ...

Just for today, I will do all the good I can willingly and "save my indignation by thinking pleasantly" ...

Just for today, I will be unselfish. Especially, I will not be afraid to be happy, to enjoy what is beautiful, to love and to believe that those I love, love me ...

Sheets Optimistic On Getting Lexington

not surprised by the funding packages in Alabama and Texas. "We expected them to sweeten the pot. We'll sweeten the pot a little more ourselves."

The mayor estimates $5 to 7 million is needed to tow the ship from Pensacola to Quincy, position it at the shipyard and operate the ship as a museum the first year.

He does not expect the state to put a "line item" in next year's budget to fund the acquisition. Instead, Sheets said the state could float a bond for the carrier, thereby making an investment in the carrier as a tourism booster for Quincy and the state.

"(The bond) would probably be paid back over 10 years. This would be an investment for the state. For every dollar spent on tourism, $7 or $8 is returned," Sheets said.

The mayor estimates the Lexington would attract "well over 500,000 tourists" to Quincy a year. Besides giving Quincy tourism a major shot in the arm, the mayor said the foot traffic created by the museum would stimulate the surrounding business districts.

Sheets said he is planning to submit the city's application for the Lexington in July. According to the mayor, the three most important elements in the application are:

- Does Quincy have the capability to bring the ship back to the city?

- Is there money to position the ship (build new ramps and piers) and operate it as a tourist site?

- How will the ship be maintained through the years?

The custody decision will be made by Navy Secretary Garrett H. Lawrence III.

Ed Lynch Commended By City Council

The City Council presented a commendation Monday to Ed Lynch who retired last year after 30 years with the City of Quincy.

Lynch first served as a police officer and later as Superintendent of Traffic and Signals.

Ward 5 City Councilor Chuck Phelan presented the commendation on behalf of the council.

"Ed was always there for the citizens of Quincy,"

In terms of towing, Sheets said his administration has begun seeking estimates from East Coast towing companies with experience towing large Navy ships. Officials in South Carolina, who converted the U.S.S. Yorktown aircraft carrier into a museum, have estimated a towing charge of $250,000 to $350,000.

The mayor also plans to include in the city's application a provision for funding ship maintenance after it is berthed. Sheets noted maintaining large ships after they are decommissioned has been a financial burden for some museum groups, including Battleship Cove in Fall River.

Under the provision, a certain amount of money from tourism receipts would be set aside each year for ship improvements.

Although the stakes are getting higher, Sheets remains confident.

"Sometimes in this profession, you have to go with your gut feeling. It doesn't always work but my gut feeling is we have an excellent chance because the Lexington was built here.

"I don't think it's a long shot for Quincy. I believe we'll see the Lexington come back here."

What are the rules for Funeral Traffic?

Traffic rules for funerals differ sometimes from those governing other traffic. These tips may help if you are in a funeral procession
 - or if you encounter one.

1. Use the windshield sticker and keep your headlights on.
2. If the procession is crossing an intersection while the traffic light turns red, continue through. The funeral procession has the right-of-way. The lead car will stop and obey all posted signals. DO NOT CROSS OR JOIN A PROCESSION.

Poor Defense Quincy's Downfall

Poor defense play cost the Quincy baseball team another win Monday as the Presidents handed Taunton several unearned runs as Taunton scored in the bottom of the seventh to win, 9-8.

The loss was Quincy's fifth by one run and dropped its record to 3-15 in its first Old Colony League season.

The Presidents host Bridgewater-Raynham today (Thursday) at 3:30 p.m. at Adams Field and will finish the season next Tuesday at Stoughton.

Tom Balzano, one of the top five hitters in the league, had a double and single against Taunton, Mike Malvesti and Neil DiBona had two hits each and sophomore Robbie Kane, another in the league's top five, went hitless but did walk twice.

Last week Quincy was bombed by Weymouth, 13-3.

Balzano had two hits and drove in two runs.

North Ends Season At Barnstable Friday

The North Quincy baseball team will complete one of its most frustrating seasons Friday at Barnstable.

The Raiders made one of their better showings Monday but dropped a 6-3 11-inning decision to Weymouth, dropping their record to 4-15 in their first Old Colony League season.

Scott Dunn pitched the first eight innings Monday and did well and Liam Higgins pitched the last three and was the victim of the three winning runs in the 11th.

George Rozanitis had a double and single and Pat O'Donoghue two singles for North.

The Raiders were bombed by Bridgewater-Raynham, 15-1, last Thursday but the day before put everything together for a 9-1 victory over Silver Lake.

Sean Donovan and Dunn combined for a six-hitter, Donovan going the first four innings and Dunn the last three.

Mike Patch paced North's offense with three hits and O'Donoghue, Serge Belcastro and Rozanitis had two hits each.

BoSox Club Scholarships Available For Mike Andrews Baseball Camp

The BoSox Club is sponsoring 15 baseball players for a week at Mike Andrews Baseball Camp at Brandies University July 21-27, announces Tom Feenan of Squantum, BoSox Club president.

Players between the ages of nine and 17 are urged to write a letter in their own words telling why they would like to be selected for one of these BoSox Scholarships.

The BoSox Club is the official booster club of the Boston Red Sox. It is a non-profit organization working to promote interest in baseball at all levels of play.

Deadline is June 7. Letters should be mailed to; BoSox Club Baseball Camp Contest, c/o The Boston Red Sox, 4 Yawkey Way, Boston, MA 02215.

The camp is managed by former Red Sox second

Babe Ruth

Koski Hurls No-Hitter For Bryan Win

Michael Koski pitched a no-hitter as Bryan Post VFW defeated Local 1139, 5-3, in the Quincy Babe Ruth League.

Bryan took a 1-0 lead in the first inning on hits by Bill Morrissey, Sean Skehan and Jeff Breslin.

Local 1139 took advantage of Bryan's unsteady defensive play and took a 3-1 lead in the bottom of the first. Breslin made a fine play on Jim Sapienza's long sacrifice fly to prevent further damage. This was the only ball hit to the outfield against Koski.

Bryan regained the lead, 4-3, in the third on hits by George Wirtz, Morrissey and Koski (a long double) and Paul King's sacrifice fly.

Bryan added an insurance run in the fifth on Morrissey's double and singles by Skehan and Breslin.

Koski struck out eight and struck out the side in the sixth. He also struck out the final batter. Morrissey stood out defensively behind the plate.

Infielders Skehan, Bob Shaw, David Rowell, Wirtz, and Dan Donahue played well for Bryan. Matt McSweeney chipped in with a hit and Scott Dyer, Rob Churchill and Robbie Callow also contributed to the win.

Mal Higgins and Michael Santoro pitched well for Local 1139 and Sapienza made several fine plays at shortstop.

Poland Springs came from behind to edge the Elks, 4-3, and also defeated Barry's Deli, 12-5.

The winning pitcher, 13-year old J.J. Farrell, pitched well against the Elks and didn't walk a batter. Joe Manton, Matt McGowan, Terry Manning, Martin Shields, Joe Renzi and Mike Kenny all had hits and John McLoughlin and Mike Gibbons played strong defense.

Another 13-year old, Kenny, pitched well against Barry's and struck out nine.

McLoughlin, Manton, Manning and Shields all had two hits and McGowan, Adam DeBoer, Brian Whalen and Renzi had one each.

Sun Sports

Tigers, Mets Win

Papa Gino's Tigers defeated Local 2222 White Sox, 20-10, in Quincy Triple A baseball action.

Bill O'Neil was the winner and Billy Deshler relieved. Mike Whalen had a home run and single, O'Neil three singles, Dan Collins three singles, Steve Ford two singles, Ryan Grant two singles, and Bill Norris a double. Whalen and Norris had strong defensive games.

The Mets defeated the Pirates, 12-9, with Justin Bernier the winning pitcher and Dan Macheras the loser. Each had eight strikeouts.

Justin Doty had a triple and single, Bernier a double and single, Mike Markham two singles, Mark Belanger a triple and Joshua Straughn a double. Doty, Bernier and Straughn stood out on defense.

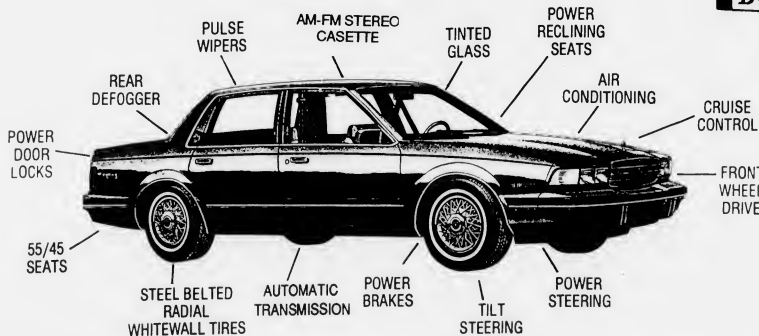

For the Pirates, Chris Hall had two hits, Chris

Sweeney a double and Steve Gilday played strong defense.

The Mets buried the Padres, 21-6, with Bernier the winner and Belanger pitching well in relief. Doty had a homer and single, Bernier a triple and single, Jason Snaith a double and single, Jason Dunbar, Nick Tarr and Mike Mulvey two hits each and Mark Hawes a double. Doty and Bernier played fine defense.

Volleyball

Quincy Boys Win Seven Straight

The Quincy boys' volleyball team has won seven matches in a row and must win three of its final four matches to make the Eastern Mass. tournament for the first time ever.

Quincy started out by losing its first six matches but defeated North Quincy, 2-0 (15-10, 15-8) to launch its seven-match win streak.

The streak includes another win over North Quincy and victories over Xaverian, Lincoln-Sudbury, Somerville, Newton South and Brockton.

Capt. Yiannis Kalaitzidis has led the President's attack and leads the league in kills. Sophomore Victor Ornelas has been strong at the net and senior Kheang Seak has been the setter all season and is playing as well as any setter in the league.

Juliano Rosas has been a formidable block for opponents and Andre Ornelas ranks as the league's top passer and defender. Claircent Demesier is a front-court player who plays equally as well on the left and right and Roberto Bagu is a digging specialist with a strong serve. David Palmiero is becoming a serving machine with numerous aces.

"The improvement of this team has been outstanding," said coach Jim Rendle. "Since the boys learned what it takes to win, they have been unstoppable. If we could have won some of our earlier matches there is no limit to what we could have done."

Men's Softball

Washington Wins Pair

Washington Tap of Quincy continued to roll along in the SS Men's Softball League with a double win over the Hockey Hut, improving to 10-0.

The Tap rolled, 27-6, in the opener, taking a 27-0 lead. Joe Godfrey and Al Freeman each drove in three runs as the Tap erupted for 17 runs in the second inning. Dave Tocchio went 3-for-3, John McManus, Sean Gately, Bob Hennelly, Mike Bates, Lee Sullivan and Steve Thompson had two hits each and Matt Marks had a hit and three RBI.

The Tap won the second game, 12-6, as Gately had four hits, including a mammoth home run, drove in three runs and scored twice. McManus went 3-for-3, Tocchio also had three hits, Hennelly a home run and four RBI, Marks two hits and Mike Ash and Sullivan one each.

Hennelly (6-0) was the winning pitcher in both games.

Sunday the Tap will face the Weymouth Tigers at Lovell Park, Weymouth in a doubleheader at 9 a.m.

Junior League

VFW Wins 3

The VFW improved its record to 5-2 in the Quincy Junior Baseball League with three wins in a row.

The VFW edged Keohane's, 6-5, in its latest game with winning pitcher Eric Wirtz striking out 12. Sean O'Toole had a double and two singles, Todd DeBoer two hits, Mike Sheffer a home run and Matt Norton and Richard Rose a single each.

The team blanked Rotary, 9-0, with Sheffer pitching a no-hitter and striking out 16. Norton made a fine one-handed catch of a line drive to end the game and preserve the no-hitter.

DeBoer had two doubles, Wirtz a double and single, Sheffer two singles and Nick Shea, Rose, Norton and Paul Hussey a single each.

The VFW also blanked Quincy Police, 9-0, with DeBoer the winning pitcher. O'Toole had two doubles and a single, Sheffer two home runs, DeBoer a double and two singles and Wirtz a single. For the Police John Downey and Mike Regnor had hits.

Rotary defeated Quincy Cable, 11-1, with Erik Goodrich the winning pitcher. He struck out six.

Goodrich had three doubles, Chris Brundage three singles, Chris Eriker two singles, Brian Shields a triple, Mike Eddy two doubles and a single, Billy Connolly two singles and Mike McLaughlin and T.J. Wilson a single each.

John Sullivan, Mike Powers, Chris Bregoli, Chad Fitzpatrick and Ron Gamel had hits for Cable and Kevin Walsh, Mike Green and Mike Travers played well on defense.

The standings:

American League: South Shore Bank, 7-0; Foley Chrysler, 6-1; VFW, 5-2; Kiwanis, 5-2; Cable, 2-5; Burgin Platner, 0-7.

National League: South Shore Buick, 4-3; Elks, 4-3; Rotary, 3-4; Keohane's, 3-4; Colonial Federal, 2-5; Quincy Police, 1-6.

Farm League

Egan Wins 2

The Egan Sunoco Yankees continued their winning ways in the Junior Farm League with victories over the Orioles and Cubs.

Adam Goodrich, Brian Kalil, Dave Riley and Bill Miller led the offense with Goodrich hitting two home runs, including a grand slam. He also turned four double plays.

Matt Joyce played well behind the plate and Kalil and Chris Lee played strong defense.

Historical Society Day Trip Planned For May 29

The Quincy Historical Society will sponsor a day trip to the Hartman Herb Farm in Barre, Mass. and the Willard House and Clock Museum in Grafton, Wednesday, May 29.

Participants will tour the gardens and attend lectures and demonstration, and will also have a chance to visit the farm's shop which sells a variety of herb plants, scented geraniums, perennials, annuals, and shrubs.

The group will have lunch at Franklin Manor Restaurant in West Boylston where the menu will be chicken pot pie or baked filet of haddock.

After lunch participants will travel to the Willard House and Clock Museum for a guided tour and a view of period clocks made by the four Willard brothers between 1743-1757. The museum includes a gift shop of antiques.

The coach will leave Adams Academy, 8 Adams St., at 8 a.m. and will return at approximately 6 p.m.

The price for the trip is $38 for members and $40 for non-members, and includes all taxes, gratuities, transportation costs and admission costs.

Reservations, with check and preference of luncheon entree, are required by May 25.

For further information call the Historical Society at 773-1144.

Bruce Ayers Candidate For Ward 6 Council Seat

BRUCE AYERS

Bruce Ayers announced his candidacy for Ward 6 councillor at a recent complimentary canopy luncheon on the grounds of the Ayers Bros. Company which celebrated its 10th anniversary.

More than 100 people attended the celebration to meet the new candidate and show their support.

Ayers, a North Quincy businessman and lifelong Ward 6 resident, emphasized the importance of utilizing our own resources in wake of the state's fiscal crisis as one of his chief concerns. He noted budget cutbacks threaten public safety with layoffs of police and firefighters. He pointed out education will perhaps be the hardest hit.

"We must meet the educational obligations our children deserve," Ayers said.

If elected, he said "I will work closely with you to find solutions to our problems." Citing his recent co-chairmanship of the American Cancer Society's Jail and Bail event which raised more than $25,000, Ayers said, "People working together can make the difference in the lifestyles of many. This is what we must put back into local government."

"I am very fortunate and proud to be a Quincy native. I was born here, went to school here, my business is here in Ward 6. I plan to remain here. Quincy was a great place to grow up. Now I want to give something back to my city," he said.

Ayers, an active member in various charitable, business and community organizations, is a life-long Quincy resident. He is a licensed community access monitor for the State Office of Handicapped Affairs. He is involved with the American Cancer Society, March of Dimes, Special Olympics and Special Needs Boy Scout Troop 51 in Quincy.

He is also a member of the Lodge of Elks, Sons of Italy, American Legion Post (associate member), Quincy Toastmasters, South Shore Chamber of Commerce, Quincy Business and Professional Association and Ward 6 Democratic Committee.

Educated in Quincy public schools, Ayers also attended Quincy Junior College, Northeastern University and Boston College's Small Business Development Center.

"People can't feel ignored by local government today. I will serve to listen to the people of Ward 6 and be responsive to their needs," Ayers said.

200 Attend Kabilian Kick-Off

Approximately 200 people attended a kick-off fundraiser at the Morrisette Post recently for School Committee candidate Toni Kabilian.

A lifelong Quincy resident and political activist, Kabilian told supporters the time has come for change on the School Committee. Judging by the support her candidacy has received, she said she is not alone in her desire for change.

She also noted many Quincy public school staff were in attendance.

"Historically Quincy has always stood for excellence," Kabilian said, adding she feels Quincy's children deserve and should have the best.

She and her husband, Arthur, have three children enrolled in Quincy public schools.

Memorial Day Men And Women Who Made Ultimate Sacrifice 'Must Never Be Forgotten'

"We gather today to pay tribute to brave American men and women who gave their 'all' so that you and I can enjoy our freedom. Too often we Americans take freedom for granted," said Council President Ted DeCristofaro at the city's Memorial Day exercises Monday at Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

About 400 people, including city officials, residents and veterans of U.S. wars attended the ceremony. Before his address, color guards, veterans units, auxiliary groups, high school bands and a unit from the Patriots Trail Girl Scout Council marched in a parade from St. John's Church to the cemetery.

DeCristofaro, a lifelong Ward 2 resident and Navy veteran of World War II, said the United States has deeply believed in the ideals of peace and freedom throughout its history. When peace and freedom is threatened by countries and factions, U.S. servicemen and women have made the ultimate sacrifice to preserve those ideals.

"Memorial Day 1991 is a time for Americans to remember the price paid by

Sheets Willing To Call Special Board Meeting

2,500 Petition To Have God At H.S. Graduations

By JANE ARENA

Petitions containing 2,500 names were presented to Mayor James Sheets Tuesday calling for a reversal of the School Committee vote to ban God at high school graduation ceremonies.

Prior to receiving the petitions from Marilyn Cadogan and Carole Danckert who circulated them at Quincy churches, Sheets said he would be willing to call a Special School Committee meeting before the June 3 and 4 graduations to consider a change in the vote. The Special Meeting would only be called though, if one of the four members who voted for the ban said they would vote differently.

However, there was no indication Tuesday that any of the four, (Stephen Durkin, Mary Jane Powers, Margaret Nigro and Mary Collins) would be willing to do so.

Cadogan and Danckert say they began the petition in response to a recent Quincy Sun editorial, "God's Not Invited."

The two women, both members of the Star of The Sea Church in Squantum collected 2,500 signatures by leaving the petition in nearly every church in the city as well as some senior citizen facilities.

The petition reads as follows:

"We the undersigned citizens of Quincy, hereby register our protest to the School Committee, School Administrators, and City Officials for the decision which has been made to eliminate any invocation or blessing at our high school graduation ceremonies. It is our wish to see this long-standing tradition continue."

Although they had at first hoped to get the decision reversed before this year's graduation June 3 and 4, they realize that time limitations may prohibit that.

Because the School Committee is not scheduled to meet again until June 5, after the June 3 and 4 high school graduations, a Special Meeting and a reversal of the vote is the only way prayer would be allowed at graduation this year.

The School Committee, on the advice of attorneys, voted 4-3 May 15 to eliminate prayer from graduations. Sheets, along with committee members Frank Santoro and Ronald

$19,859 Out Of CDBG Funding City Hires Professional Consulting Service To Promote Lex Bid

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

The city has hired a professional consulting service to "plan, promote and coordinate a vigorous marketing and fund raising program" to help Quincy acquire the soon-to-be decommissioned U.S.S. Lexington.

Quincy will pay Norman Forde and his consulting service, Sales and Marketing Consultants of North America, based in Quincy, $19,859 out of the city's Community Development Block Grant to coordinate the city's effort to get the Lexington, Mayor James Sheets announced Tuesday.

The mayor said the CDBG money is set aside for planning economic and development studies. CDBG funding cannot be used for capital outlay or to fund municipal salaries.

Under the agreement, SMC will "provide its professional services on a consistent and regular basis" now through next April.

Forde, who is the president of SMC, said his service will coordinate all the data accumulated by Sheets and his administration on the Lexington. A strategy to gain the ship will be devised soon and a state-wide committee will be brought together.

The committee, which will include representatives from Gov. William Weld and Senate President William Bulger, will be chaired by John (Jake) Comer of Quincy, past national commander of the American Legion.

Quincy and three other cities, including Mobile,

Alabama, Corpus Christi, Texas; and Pensacola, Florida, are mounting major campaigns to acquire the famous aircraft carrier which was built in Quincy during the early 1940s.

The secretary of the Navy will recommend to Congress which city will get the Lexington after the ship is decommissioned in November. On Tuesday, Sheets said the final decision may not be made until after the first of the new year.

The hiring of SMC puts a full-time worker on the Lexington campaign. Forde said one of the first objectives is to adopt a state-wide slogan for the Lexington bid. It will likely be "Bring Back the Lex."

Police Chief Suggests Video Cameras For Pawnbrokers

Police Chief Francis Mullen said Tuesday he would like to see the city's pawnbrokers adopt a videotaping system to protect themselves and victims of robberies.

Mullen said he will present his idea to the Quincy License Board next Tuesday.

Many of the city's jewelry stores have applied for Pawnbroker License's in the past few months.

Mullen said he will suggest that each pawn shop have a video camera to film customers and the merchandise they are pawning.

The chief referred to the recent house break case in Milton which was solved because the robbers were filmed selling the stolen property in a Boston pawn shop.

"It (video camera) protects the pawnbrokers and the victims of robberies," Mullen said.

"The city pawnbroker laws were written a long time ago," Mullen said. "This is the nineties. We should bring them up to date. To be effective we have to change with the times."

License Board Briefs

The City of Quincy License Board took the following action at its meeting Tuesday:

•Granted a request from the South Shore Yacht Club for a permit to hold a fundraiser "A Nite At The Races" for its Junior Sailing Program, June 7 from 7:30 p.m. to midnight at the Town River Yacht Club.

•Granted a request for a One-Day Liquor license for a 25th Wedding Anniversary Party (John Murphy) June 15 from 2-8 p.m. at St. Ann's Youth Center.

•Granted a request from the Laborer's International Union of North America Local 133 for permission to solicit funds for Dollars Against Diabetes (DADS Day), Saturday, June 15, and Sunday, June 16.

•Granted a request from LeDisco (Baja Beach Club), 79 Parkingway, for a change of managers from Patrick Gibbons to James M. Lee.

•Granted a request from Cash for Gold, 441 Quincy Ave., (Michael DiTullio and Charles Hajjar) for a Second-hand Gold and Silver license and a Second-hand Furniture license.

•Granted a request from Barrett's (The Tent at Marina Bay) for an extension of the premises' license for two days, June 22 and 23 for the purpose of running a Michelob Light Pro Volleyball Tournament.

•Granted a request from the North Quincy Business & Professional Association (Joseph Doran) for permission to hold its annual Sidewalk Sale June 21 and 22.

Durkin Urges Ricci To Invite Clergy To Commencements

Although religious prayers will not be part of commencement programs due to a recent federal court ruling, Quincy School Committeeman Stephen Durkin has written to School Supt. Dr. Robert Ricci urging him to allow members of the clergy to participate in high school graduation ceremonies this year.

In his letter to Ricci, Durkin wrote, "While the School Committee did vote to follow the federal court ruling banning prayer at public school graduations, nothing in the court's decision prevents our high schools from inviting members of the clergy to address the graduates and their families. The court decision simply prohibits benedictions or invocations which mention a deity or discuss specific religious principals.

"Accordingly, I urge you to advise the high school principals that invitations may appropriately be extended to the clergy to participate in the commencement programs. "Further," Durkin continued, "It should be made clear that nothing in the court's decision prevents us from having a moment of silence so that graduates, families and guests may pray according to their beliefs.

"Once again, I feel strongly that members of the clergy, who have traditionally participated in our graduation ceremonies as community leaders, should be invited to speak to the graduates," he added.

agreement's main objective, Forde said, "We want to put together a package so that when it's presented, it's so dynamic that it will make it very difficult to turn it down. We want it to be as professional as anything we have ever done before."

On Wednesday, Forde was to set up an office on the second floor of the Burgin Platner building near City Hall on Hancock St. A 24-hour telephone answering service (with the number 479-8615) will be maintained. The office will also be equipped with a fax machine and a micro computer.

Key data, including all mailing and contributor lists, will be maintained on the computer system.

The $19,859 package includes $2,400 for rent and utilities; $3,600 for telephone calls and $2,500 for a fax machine, micro computer and telephones.

In addition, the CDBG package will fund $1,000 worth of office supplies (stationary, postage and printing) and pay Forde a salary of $7,080.

The remaining $3,280 will go toward travel. According to the agreement, $1,050 has been earmarked for three trips to Washington at $350 each; $750 for three trips to New York City at $250 each; $900 for food and lodging (six nights); and $580 for auto mileage.

In the event money is generated by licensed souvenirs and products, any profits from the sales would be forwarded to the city.

SMC will be allowed to submit revised cost estimates to the city if the need for additional funds becomes necessary.

Sheets sees the hiring of a consulting service as "another step on the ladder to get the Lexington."

"It's going to be a major factor in getting the Lexington. We're in a battle but the most compelling argument is (the ship) was built here.

"It's hard to make a decision and ignore that. Those other cities can get other carriers."

Joan Schwartz Named Quincy Hospital Public Relations Specialist

Joan Schwartz of Milton has been appointed public relations specialist at Quincy Hospital.

Public Relations Director Renee Buisson said Schwartz will address the hospital internal and external communication needs. Her responsibilities will include media relations and the design, editing and publishing of written materials and advertising.

Previously, Schwartz was a research financial manager with Children's Hospital in Boston. She provided liaison and administered research funds for a multi-site study funded by the Department of Education.

She is also a former general manager of Innovative Moves, a real estate company with offices in Jamaica Plain and Milton.

A visual artist and theatre designer, Schwartz received a bachelor of arts degree in psychology degree from the City College of New York.

She was the founder and artistic director of the Loon and Heron Theatre for Children in the Boston area, and director of Visual Arts for Summer Arts at Derby in Hingham. She has received commissions and grants for her work from the National Endowment for the Arts, the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities, the Cambridge Arts Council, Boston First Night and the Arts Lottery Commissions in Milton and Boston.

A Gravestone And History Lesson Lincoln-Hancock Students In Special Tribute To Civil War Veteran

By STEVE KAVANAGH

A broken Civil War grave stone turned into a special history lesson for students in Stephen Cantelli's fifth grade class at Lincoln-Hancock School.

The students worked to repair the stone which had fallen at St. Mary's Cemetery.

The stone belonged to the Ryan family of West Quincy and marked the grave of Jimmy Ryan, 17, who was killed at the battle of Newbern (N.C.) by a rifle ball which struck him in the head.

Jimmy had lived in the same house on Common Street where members of the Ryan family still reside.

After the students located the Ryan family, they proceeded to work on the repair of the stone. They dug it out and washed it and had it delivered to Monti Granite Co. where Linda Montilio supervised its repair.

On April 12, the 130th anniversary of the start of the Civil War, the stone was reset in its original base.

Students wrote letters to Newbern to learn more about the battle. Jerry Ryan provided the boys and girls with a copy of a letter written by William Jones, a Quincy comrade of Jimmy Ryan's, that described how Jimmy was killed in battle on March 14, 1862.

celebration at St. Mary's poems were read and a large spray of flowers and a flag were placed on the grave. Students then walked to Jimmy Ryan's yard on Common Street and planted a peace rosebush in his memory. The boys and girls also made cards for each Ryan family member.

Also at the ceremony, a letter was read from Ken Burns, producer of the Civil War series for WGBH-TV. Mr. Burns was unable to attend the ceremony but said he was honored to be invited.

Burns thanked the boys and girls for their work in repairing the stone and praised Cantelli for making the study of history come alive in a new and exciting way.

Burns wrote that he would be with all the people in Quincy in spirit and that what they had done on Jimmy Ryan's behalf was exciting and important work.

those who died in all America's wars for the privileges we enjoy in this country.

"Memorial Day speaks out to all Americans. It is a constant reminder of the price and pain that has been paid so many times for the freedom enjoyed by all Americans. It is a day to remember, it is a day to honor these men and women that paid the ultimate sacrifice.

"They must never be forgotten," DeCristofaro declared.

A gunner's first mate during World War II, DeCristofaro pointed out the United States has had an all volunteer military force since 1973. In recent months, American forces have been deployed to stop various threats, including Saddam Hussein in Iraq.

"Our men and women were not forced to go over 'there' to fight--they went of their own free will. They went because they believed in the United States, and the ideals this country stands for.

"They went because they believe peace and freedom is worth fighting for."

Although there are several versions on how Memorial Day began, DeCristofaro noted it wasn't until Gen. John Logan called upon the Grand Army of the Republic to observe a day "designated for the purpose of strewing with flowers or otherwise decorating the graves of comrades who died in the defense of their country," that Decoration Day was "truly born."

"Since that day in 1968 when General Logan ordered the graves of the soldiers decorated, this country has lost thousands of American troops to the horrors of war.

"Like so many have done over the past 120 years, we are here to remember those who have sacrificed their lives for our freedom. As we remember our comrades today, we must also remember those who did not return home...the prisoners of war and missing in action. We must not rest until a complete accounting of those missing in action is complete," DeCristofaro said.

"Our brothers and sisters in the military, over the past few months, have witnessed an outpouring of patriotism across this great nation like few have seen before. As we celebrate our troop's return home, let us not forget to honor those who gave their lives for a caring nation."

Quincy Partnership Planning Flag Day, Welcome Home Parade

The city of Quincy and the Quincy Partnership, Inc. invites all veterans of Operation Desert Storm who are residents of Quincy to be honored participants in this year's Flag Day/Welcome Home Parade Friday, June 14.

There will be a special segment of the parade set aside for these veterans to march. They will be preceded by a Welcome Home float bearing a Patriot Missile on loan from Raytheon.

Veterans interested in marching should contact Hank Bradley for further details at 773-1380 ext. 275.

The parade will step off at 6:30 p.m. from the area of Veterans Stadium and proceed down Hancock St. to the Thomas Crane Public Library.

3 Quincy Students Nominated For Leadership Seminar

Three high school sophomores from Quincy have been nominated to participate in the 14th Annual Massachusetts Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation Leadership Seminar.

Erin Pelletier of Woodward School, Lisa Chenette of Quincy High School and Luke Sheets of North Quincy High School have been invited to the four-day seminar June 6-9 at Bentley College.

The conference provides students an opportunity to interact and discuss the American Incentive System with prominent leaders from business, government, education and the non-profit sector.

The Foundation challenges students, the leaders of tomorrow, to make critical decisions about society and formulate strategies to improve for the future.

HEARTBURN

Heartburn, despite its name, has no relation to the heart. It is a burning sensation which arises in the region of the sternum or breastbone and may travel upward to the throat or mouth. Heartburn is caused by the backup or "reflux" of stomach acid into the esophagus. Heartburn is often brought on by lying down after a meal, but the underlying reason for it is a weakness in the sphincter muscle which opens to allow food to pass into the stomach. Stress, obesity, pregnancy and swallowing air while eating also can cause heartburn. Some foods seem to trigger an attack or make it worse. Among these are coffee, tea, alcohol, and citrus fruits. Foods such as beans and cabbage which generate intestinal gas should also be avoided when heartburn is a problem. Eating frequent small meals instead of two or three large ones may relieve symptoms.

P.S. The use of antacids to neutralize excess stomach acid will help simple heartburn, but the doctor should be consulted if symptoms are frequent and severe.

If you suffer from these nagging and uncomfortable symptoms, perhaps you should consult with your physician. While many conditions have a very simple explanation, any discomfort that persists for an extended period of time should not be ignored.

For heart-smart professional health care, contact COMPREHENSIVE CARDIAC CARE at 472-2550. We're located at 101 Adams Street, Suite 24 in Quincy. Hours are by appointment.

A Council At-Large Primary?

Most political observers have written off a possible City Council at-large race this year.

It would take seven to tango with three seats at stake.

But now, some are taking another look at the picture and think it might be a possibility.

TOLAND

Incumbents Tim Cahill, Mike Cheney and Pat Toland are certain candidates for re-election. So, there's three to start with and four more needed.

Former Ward 1 Councillor Leo Kelly insists he is going to run despite some speculation he might change his mind. The speculation is hanging over him because although he says he will run, he hasn't made an official announcement yet.

"I'm running," he says. "But I will pick the appropriate time to make an announcement. And this is not the appropriate time."

So, number him 4.

Dan Raymond, former city councillor, former Norfolk County treasurer and former school committeeman has been leaning toward a run for the school committee this fall.

But don't bet on that -- not just yet. He might just hit the city council at-large campaign road instead.

Asked if he has decided between the two and he replied: "No, not yet."

Number him possible 5.

And, don't look now, but is that Joe LaRaia, former mayor and councillor, circling the potential field?

LaRaia had indicated he has no plans to run this year. But now the Speculation Corps thinks he is reconsidering and might just get in.

LaRaia, whose name recognition is as high as a kite on a windy day, doesn't have to make an early announcement. And he usually has an estimated 5,000 votes built in to use whenever he runs.

LaRaia also likes to surprise. He has, in the past, walked into City Hall at the final moment to file nomination papers.

Number him possible 6.

If Kelly, Raymond, and LaRaia become official candidates, just one more would be needed for a preliminary run-off.

Like in last year's state elections, there are still voters out there who line up as anti-incumbent.

Whether the feeling is as strong in Quincy this year, only the results of this year's election will tell for sure.

KELLY

LaRaia

Could be a good year, though, to be a challenger.

FORMER MAYOR Frank McCauley was honored the other night at a reception at the Marriott Hotel, in Newton, for raising $4,215 in the Jimmy Fund Marathon Walk. It was the second highest amount among 110 walkers designated "Pace Setters" who raised $500 or more for the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute. The top amount was $5,011 -- a two-way tie.

McCauley

The walk covers the same route as the Boston Marathon. All together, $290,000 was raised.

Carolann Speranzo of Quincy, owner of "Second Sight" was also designated a "Pace Setter" for raising over $500.

McCauley, who is now executive director of the State Retirement Board, has raised over $6,300 for the Jimmy Fund in the past two walkathons. An earlier walk raised $21,000.

Receiving his award this year from Mike Andrews, former Red Sox infielder and now executive director of the Jimmy Fund, McCauley vowed he will raise "at least $5,000" in the next walk this October.

CALLING ALL YAKOO'S friends: Supporters of Yakoo, the North Quincy High School symbol of pride and school spirit, plan to be at the June 5 Quincy School Committee where a final vote on Yakoo's fate is expected to be taken.

Students, parents, alumni and other interested residents are being urged to attend, wearing "Save Yakoo" T-shirts.

School Supt. Robert Ricci has recommended that Yakoo be banned from the high school gymnasium floor, official documents, athletic uniforms and other school property on the grounds the symbol is offensive to American Indians.

School Principal Peter Chrisom recommended Yakoo be retained. Students overwhelmingly favored keeping Yakoo in a referendum vote and an ad hoc committee voted to retain him.

Supporters are also calling members of the School Committee urging them to vote for Yakoo.

AN ANNOUNCEMENT-Fundraiser for Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson is set for tomorrow night (Friday) from 7 to 11 p.m. at the Bryan VFW Post, Broad St. Tickets are $15 per person or $25 for two.

QUINCY'S STEVEN LISS has four photos of former Senator Paul Tsongas in the May 27 issue of People Magazine. They illustrate a feature "Testing The Waters" on Tsongas' bid for the Democratic Presidential nomination.

Liss got his start as a photographer with The Quincy Sun in the 1970's. We thought he was good then, too.

Officers Commended For Holdup Arrests

Quincy Police Chief Francis Mullen has commended five officers, investigative units and the "entire platoon on duty" for apprehending three armed suspects who robbed the Star Market on Granite St. Sunday evening.

At approximately 8:20 p.m., three men armed with a fully-loaded automatic Uzi-type machine gun and a loaded 9 mm. handgun held up the supermarket near Quincy Square.

While masked, the suspects forced the manager to open the safe and empty its contents into a green duffle bag. They then fled in a stolen motor vehicle and were pursued until they crashed into a tree at 372 Granite St., police said.

At Water and Granite Sts., Officer Stephen Kring came face to face with the suspect carrying the automatic machine gun. The suspect dropped the weapon after drawing on Kring. The suspect was subsequently arrested. King also retrieved the cocked 9 mm pistol from the stolen motor vehicle.

Officer Mark Foley apprehended a second suspect after he observed two feet under a porch of the South-West Community Center.

Officer Francis Barnes and Officer David Coletti continued to search the area after these two suspects were apprehended. Constantly on alert, they were able to spot the third suspect hiding underneath a car in the driveway of 51 Brook Rd. He then was placed under arrest without any trouble.

During the course of the robbery, the pursuit and search, at least 10 Quincy Police cruisers became involved, at one time or another. State Police and MBTA units also responded to assist. During the dangerous episode, QPD Dispatcher Joseph Murphy accurately and professionally coordinated the movements of all the officers.

"For their courage, professionalism, dogged pursuit and successful conclusion, I hereby commend all of the above-mentioned officers, the investigative units, and the entire platoon on duty, as they apprehended these dangerous culprits without injury.

In God We Trust Or Do We?

Editor, The Quincy Sun:
Well over 200 years ago this nation was founded on very strong Judeo-Christian principals. Our fore fathers in writing the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence made many and frequent references to the creator. Our national currency has the words, "In God We Trust" printed on it and when we pledge our allegiance to the flag we say the words one nation under God.

Recently I have had to ask myself if indeed we are one nation under God and if indeed we trust in God. The city of Quincy certainly seems to have serious doubts. The school committee voted to ban all prayer and references to God from the high school graduations this year. What a sad commentary on our city and on those who voted that way.

If there is anything that is needed in the lives of these young people as they commence their adult lives it is the grace and blessing of Almighty God however, they may choose to worship Him. What will the future of this city and this state and this nation be as a Goddess, prayerless society. Surely we have seen what is happening all over this country. The violent crime rate is flying high, the abuse of drugs and alcohol in our society, the decay of our moral code are all indicators of how very much we need God in our lives and in our nation. How can we in truth deny these young people, the graduates of 1991 the grace of a prayer and a blessing as they become the future of this country. Are we not saying to them, God is fine, just don't mention Him out loud.

As an educator in the city of Quincy, I do pray for all our graduates and ask that God will bless them now and in the future I pray that they themselves will not be afraid to witness to their Faith and that they may realize as I hope we will.

Without God, we can do nothing.

Feels School Committee

Editor, The Quincy Sun:
Apparently, to avoid any personal liability, the Quincy School Committee voted on May 15 to follow a federal court ruling banning invocations or benedictions that, aghast, mention the word "God."

The whole issue stems from a lawsuit filed in Providence by a parent who questioned the constitutionality of God becoming a part of high school graduation ceremonies.

A federal judge in Rhode Island agreed with the father and so too did the 1st Circuit Court of Appeals. However, the City of Providence has taken the question to the U.S. Supreme Court for final adjudication.

As a resident, taxpayer and parent in Quincy, I am appalled by the action taken by a four-member majority on the school board afraid to stand up and be counted. The entire issue is still pending and could, very well, be decided in favor of the city officials in Providence. And what of all this high principle talk of following the law? It's a good thing these four school committee members who voted God out of high school graduations weren't at Valley Forge or we would all, probably, be saluting the Union Jack today.

I agree with City Councillors Ted DeCristofaro and Tim Cahill. On this one, the School Committee has officially "wimped out" to quote Cahill. Kudos to school board members Ron Mariano and Frank Santoro as well as Mayor Jim Sheets for showing the courage to stand up and be counted.

Santoro's comments were right on target. "We should have taken a stand and lived by it whether it goes to court or not."

Wouldn't it be funny if the U.S. Supreme Court puts God back into the nation's high school graduation exercises? After all, God is right there in the U.S. Congress up on Capitol Hill, not to mention right here in the Great and General Court on Beacon Hill. Personally, I never thought the courts were a legislative branch.

Isn't that why we elect legislators to write the laws that we supposedly follow? Watch and see, the U.S. Supreme Court will, probably, wimp out on this one just like the school board in the City of Presidents, except when they'll do it, it will be in favor of God at public ceremonies.

'Wimped Out' On God

Wimping out on making important decisions on issues is nothing new. Many polls have been doing that for years using whatever they can do to rationalize their decisions.

Hopefully, Quincy voters will remember this school committee vote when they go to the polls in September and "retire" those members suffering from liability phobia. We need leadership on the school board and on this issue, the City of Quincy got fowlship!

A Commendation For Officer Doherty

Editor, The Quincy Sun:
Lately, there has not been too much complimentary print about our civil servants. Therefore, I could not let a recent experience I had go unnoticed.

On Friday, May 16, my husband and I were riding on Quarry St. in Quincy when our car stalled. Under ordinary circumstances this would have been just an annoyance but since my husband had just been released a few days before from Quincy Hospital and was on his way to an oncologist's appointment, it was an unnerving one to me.

There were no public telephones in view and I was reluctant to approach any of the homes in the area. In a matter of minutes, a police car was seen coming down Quarry

St. My husband flagged it to stop. When the officer got out, I hastened to tell him of our predicament and he immediately wanted to know where the doctor was located. He suggested that we take my husband to the doctor and then he would take me to a garage for towing service so that I would not have to wait for a tow truck.

This was my first ride in a police car. At first, I felt rather uncomfortable. So, I decided to tell the officer that I had served as secretary to Mayor McCauley for his first two terms in office. I expressed the hope that no one would recognize me and wonder why a policeman had picked me up! What appeared at first to be a catastrophe turned out to be a very enjoyable experience. I want to publicly thank Officer Doherty for driving me to the towing garage. This may have been all in the line of duty for Officer Doherty but his obvious concern upon learning of my husband's physical condition was very reassuring to us.

I hope Officer Doherty found it one of the most pleasant duties he was called upon to perform on that Friday morning. He really made us feel he was glad to be of service to us!

Rice Eventide Home Holds Volunteer Appreciation Day

The William B. Rice Eventide Home in Quincy recently honored their volunteers with a "Volunteer Appreciation Day" reception.

Eventide residents Helen Cole, Josephine Decelle, Frederick Gilmore, Ella Knapp, Eileen McCarthy, Ambrose McGilvary, Marion Reinhardt, Sybill

Smith, Ada Stevenson and Bertha Whidden were honored for their support of volunteerism in helping others at the home.

Also honored were Esther Beach, Frances Blair, Tammy Christiana, Frances Craig, Jeff Gibson, Barbara Kemp, Evelyn Kilbourne, Ruth MacLeod, Shirley MacLeod, and Wendy

Moody all of Quincy; Phyllis Noterman and Nancy Wise of Hingham; Gayle Davis of Milton; Marion Worden of Rockland; and Dorothy Brown of Braintree.

The Eventide Home offers retirement living and nursing care to elders from Quincy and surrounding towns.

Volunteers Recognized By South Shore Elder Services

South Shore Elder Services Inc., recently honored its hundreds of volunteers by holding Volunteer Recognitions.

The hours donated to the various programs totalled 85,152.

Without the volunteers some of the programs would not exist, for example the Meals on Wheels program. Volunteers who provided packaging and delivery of meals to isolated elders contributed 68,334 hours of service.

The cost of that service would have been $290,419 to the agency.

The SSES is a private, non-profit agency providing services to elders in 10 towns and the city of Quincy.

Anyone wishing to volunteer should call Joyce Birks Fallon at 848-3910 Monday-Friday, 8 a.m. - 4 p.m.

QUINCY SUN PUBLISHER Henry Bosworth, center, receives the First Annual Community Service Award from The Salvation Army. On hand for the occasion, from left, are: Charles Simpson, Vice Chairman of the Salvation Army Advisory Board, Captain James LaBossiere, Arthur Whish, Advisory Board Chairman, and Lt. Col. H. Douglas Lowman, Division Commander of the Salvation Army of Massachusetts.

Sun Publisher Receives Salvation's Army's First Community Service Award

Quincy Sun Publisher Henry Bosworth was honored recently as the recipient of the 1991 Community Service Award from The Salvation Army, the first such award ever presented in the Salvation Army's nearly 100 years in Quincy.

The award was presented by Captain James LaBossiere, head of the Quincy Chapter Salvation Army, at a dinner held at the Neighborhood Club.

The plaque reads: "The Community Service Award is presented to Henry Bosworth in recognition of his efforts to promote the programs of the salvation Army and countless other community organizations in the City of Quincy."

Also honored during the event were Chris and Dave Galbraith, long time employees of the Salvation Army, who were presented with surprise awards in recognition of their efforts and dedication since 1972.

"Since that time," LaBossiere said, "one or both of them has given their time to the programs of the Salvation Army in the community of Quincy."

Bosworth was selected for the award by the Advisory Board of the Salvation Army. Vice Chairman Charles Simpson spoke of Bosworth's contributions to the Quincy community.

In addition to the Community Service Award, Bosworth was also presented with a citation from Governor William Weld in recognition of the honor.

The citation, presented by Bernie Reisberg, reads: "From the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, William Weld, Governor, to Henry Bosworth, on the occasion of being named Man of the Year with the First Annual Community Service Award for your dedicated service and support of the Salvation Army and other organizations though your newspaper, The Quincy Sun, which is deserving of recognition by all citizens of Massachusetts."

Mayor James Sheets, who presented a Proclamation in recognition of National Salvation Army Week May 13-19, congratulated Bosworth on the award.

"I don't know of anyone who is really more deserving of this award than you," he said, "for your many years of service to the people of the City of Quincy in so many areas."

Council President Ted DeCristofaro presented Bosworth with a commendation from the City Council. The commendation reads, in part:

"We congratulate you on this honor and commend you for the dedication and hard work you've always been willing to put forth for the community. You have earned the respect and admiration of all who have known you through your exemplary lifestyle."

In addition, Bosworth was presented the first ever Certificate of Recognition from The Quincy Partnership.

That award, presented by Mark Bertman, was made "in special appreciation for making a positive contribution to enhancing the quality of life in the City of Quincy."

In accepting the Salvation Army Award, Bosworth spoke of the initial difficulty he faced in establishing a community weekly in a city which had been reared on a daily newspaper.

"When we used to call people on the telephone and say 'I'm so-and-so from The Quincy Sun,' they'd say to us, 'Whose son did you say you are?' And that's no exaggeration," Bosworth said.

After nearly 23 years, The Sun has gained a strong reputation as Quincy's source for community news.

"What is a community newspaper," Bosworth asked. "Well, if you want the latest on Elizabeth Taylor, you don't read The Quincy Sun. If you want to know who saw Elvis where, don't read The Quincy Sun. If you want to know what new act Madonna is cooking up to shock you, don't read The Sun. But, if you want to know what's going on in City Hall, read The Quincy Sun. If you want to know what's going on in the schools...and in various service organizations in the city, read The Quincy Sun."

Bosworth also noted that the role of his newspaper is to highlight the positive elements of the community.

"We believe, at The Sun, in accentuating the positive. Our stories are not about kids on drugs, not about kids and violence, not about kids committing murders, but about kids making the honor roll, kids on the dean's list, kids graduating from college, kids in youth sports...kids with a purpose in life. There are a lot of nice people out there we keep reading about the other kind and we sometimes forget that there are more good people than there are of the other kind. We try to accentuate the positive.

"We can't eliminate the negative," he added, "that wouldn't be fair if we did, but we downplay it. We feel that our role and we try to do the best we can and we'll continue to do so."

Bosworth also noted that, in a city of firsts, he feels especially honored to receive the first Community Service Award from the Salvation Army.

"I'll cherish this award," he said. "I'll cherish this evening and I'll cherish all the nice things that were said, and I'll try to live up to them in the future."

Our Home Equity Line of Credit is more about saving than spending.

Save on monthly loan payments.

With a Bank of New England Home Equity Line of Credit, you can pay off current auto loan, department store and credit card balances now, and save. Because you'll reduce your monthly credit obligations to a single payment, and could cut your finance charges almost in half.

Save on taxes.

Federal tax laws have completely eliminated deductions on credit card, auto loan and other unsecured loan interest. The Home Equity Line of Credit, however, is the exception to the rule—with interest still 100% deductible in most cases.

Save on major expenses.

The low interest and tax savings that make our

Home Equity Line of Credit a cost-effective way to pay off your debts also make it a smart way to borrow for such expenses as college tuition and home improvement.

Save on closing costs.

At other banks, you'd probably pay closing costs on a new Home Equity Line of Credit. At Bank of New England, we'll save you at least $200 by waiving those costs if you apply by June 30, 1991.

Stop by any Bank of New England office, or call toll-free for more information or an application for a Home Equity Line of Credit today. And start saving.

Environmental Workshops Continue At Quincy College

Quincy College is continuing its series of free afternoon and evening workshops on environmental issues through today (Thursday).

In recognition of May as Environmental Month in Quincy, the workshops follow the Quincy Evergreen Program during which some 2,600 people recycled their Christmas trees and received in return Scotch pines for planting.

The workshops are divided into three groups. The first afternoon series will focus on regulations on drinking water, hazardous waste, air pollution, recycling and other issues, and is intended for municipal officials including planners and conservation board members.

The second, also an afternoon series, is a set of education workshops which offers new ideas and materials for the classroom, and is offered for teachers and parents.

The third series are separate sessions, offered in the evening, for citizens interested in learning more about recycling, household hazardous waste and other at-home environmental concerns.

All workshops are free and open to the public. Environmental activist Leo Kelly urges anyone interested to attend.

"Some of these will help officials and board members know what the new laws are," he said. "There are also programs like the Mass Bays program, that will have funds to help communities design and implement their plans. With money so tight right now, every city and town in the region should be sending people to these workshops."

Workshops will be lead by government or private environmental experts. Those who pre-register will be entitled to a free lunch on the night or nights they attend, courtesy of the J. Cushman Company. For further information on the schedule, call 984-1655.

NQHS Celebrates Annual Pride Week

North Quincy High School students and faculty recently celebrated the school's second annual Pride Week and recognized deserving people.

Highlights of the week included a flag raising ceremony, the observance of "Secretaries, Aides and Nurses Day," and cleanups by various student organizations.

For instance, the gymnasium was cleaned by captains of the sports teams and the cafeteria and atrium were cleaned by the Spirit Committee and SADD Committee.

In addition, students wore certain clothing as a part of the festivities.

To celebrate "Patriots'-Dress-Up-Dress-down Day," students and faculty had an option. One could wear red, white and blue or the students could dress up, and the faculty could dress down.

Some people were also recognized. For example, on "Principal, Vice-Principal, Deans and Security Guards Day," volunteers helped these people throughout the day in their various tasks and duties.

The week ended with "Student Appreciation Day." There were no clean-ups and everyone was asked to wear black and red.

During the last two periods of the day, a rally took place. Winners from a talent show contest performed at the rally. Some individuals were recognized for their dedication, talent and spirit.

Atherton Hough Students Raise $ For Easter Seals

Students at the Atherton Hough School recently participated in the Easter Seal Hop-N-Ing which teaches children about disabilities and gives them a chance to help.

The program teaches children about the causes of disabilities and their effects on everyday lives. Children also learn how wheelchairs, crutches and other special equipment work.

The students then hop as many times as they can in three minutes and earn money pledged by family and friends for each hop.

Last year more than 9,000 children participated and raised $225,000. The funds provided Easter Seal services including summer camp, therapy programs, equipment loans, health care, support groups and referral services.

Bragg Unveils School Maintenance Report

JoAnn (Grazio) Bragg, a candidate for school committee, submitted the Citywide Parents' Council Maintenance Subcommittee report at a recent school committee meeting.

As subcommittee chairperson, Bragg met with Mayor James Sheets last fall to lobby for bond money to repair Quincy public schools. A $1 million bond was recently approved by the City Council.

Last December, the committee reported the public schools did not have valid public safety occupancy certificates. Earlier this month, Bragg met with Jim Wilson, director of plant operations, and discussed the maintenance status of each school.

After the meeting, Bragg said all schools, except the high schools, have such certificates and repairs have been made to all buildings to bring them up to code.

Bragg said the necessary repairs should be made at the three high schools before the new academic year begins in the fall.

North Quincy High School will receive their certificate as soon as the fire B label doors are installed. The Center for Technical Education also needs fire doors and some roof work before a certificate is issued. Quincy High School needs repairs to the roof, the heating system and some general maintenance repairs.

"Since Mr. Wilson was hired much progress has been made with limited funds to improve the maintenance situation but further progress needs to be made," Bragg told the school committee. She thanked Wilson and the maintenance and custodial staff for their efforts.

Bragg's report included every public high school in Quincy and Veterans' Memorial Stadium. Although some repair has been done, Bragg said much more needs to be done.

"Additional funds need to come forth from the city to properly fix our schools," she said, but because of the financial situation of the city, Bragg added she does not want to see school closings or layoffs of city employees as a means to receive funding.

"The most crucial problems are with our roofs and boilers," she said, adding she will continue to seek out funding. She suggested the school committee also seek avenues of funding.

Bragg has chaired the maintenance subcommittee since its inception during the 1988-89 school year. Its function is to document the day-to-day maintenance problems affecting the students and staff members in the Quincy public school system.

Her sources of information for her report were parents and staff members as well as personal observation and maintenance reports.

AARP Chapter To Install On June 5

The Quincy Chapter of AARP will close its season with a luncheon and installation of new officers Wednesday, June 5 at the Barnside Tavern in Hanover.

There will also be a presentation of a scholarship to a Quincy graduate at this time.

Entertainment will be by Frances Craig and Company.

Sheets Tells ENC Graduates: 'Take The Road Less Traveled'

Quoting Poet Robert Frost, Mayor James Sheets encouraged 176 graduates of Eastern Nazarene College to take "the road less traveled" at the college's 69th annual commencement Monday.

Sheets, a 1958 graduate of ENC, told the graduates "If you choose (the road less traveled), you must dare to dream and dare to fail. You must dare to lead, and you must dare to risk while you exercise your faith.

"Remember, the goals you set are the goals you get," he said, while recalling personal experiences.

The mayor first arrived in Quincy in 1953 from Clarksville, Pa. where his father was a coal miner, to attend the Christian, liberal arts college on East Elm Ave.

After graduating from ENC, he joined the teaching staff of Quincy Junior College, and served as a Quincy city councillor from 1973 to 1987. He was elected mayor in 1989.

During his 27-minute address, Sheets also spoke on the theme "Something is impossible only until it is accomplished." He cited various examples, including the United States' moon landing as well as his own dream to become a congressman.

When he arrived in Quincy 38 years ago, Sheets said he had "three suitcases in my hands, $37 in my pocket and a dream--to be elected to the Congress of the United States."

His dream began 1973 when he was first elected to the City Council. Two years later, Sheets won both the Republican and Democratic primaries and swept to a two-to-one margin victory for the Massachusetts House of Representatives.

"When the United States Congressional seat opened several years after that, I knew I was going to reach out and touch my dream."

Over the next 18 months, Sheets and his wife, Joann, knocked on 10,000 doors. Wading through snow in the winter and braving 100 degree temperatures in the summer, they encountered every imaginable political experience.

"We just knew we were going to win. But, when the votes were counted, we were third of seven--not good enough.

"I had learned that when we choose the road less traveled--when we dare to dream--we must also be prepared to fail," he said.

"I still have my dream," Sheets continued. "Only a few short weeks ago, on a cloudless and beautiful 80-degree day, I looked up at the majesty of our nation's capital, and I felt anew the pain of that defeat back on the cold, November day in 1978.

"Walking the road less traveled, I have learned that opportunity and failure are constant companions. There are no guarantees of success on this pathway. But, who could we recognize success, were it not for failure?"

At the end of his address, Sheets offered these words of advice:

"If we choose the road less traveled--there are those burdens placed on us by God which he does not intend to lift. But, remember, God is wisdom to the mighty, he is honor to the brave, and the world is his footstool, and the soul of wrong, his slave.

"If you are willing to get your life chewed up in a cause greater than yourself, if you are willing to dream, if you are willing to fail, if you are willing to lead, if you are willing to risk, then your life will make a difference and you will never be numbered by those cold and timid souls who know neither victory nor defeat.

"Young people--dare to dream, dare to fail, dare to lead, and dare to risk--dare to challenge your faith."

42 NQHS Inducted Into Foreign Language Honor Society

Forty-two students were recently inducted into the Foreign Language Honor Society at North Quincy High School for achieving academic excellence in their language studies.

To be eligible, a student must maintain a 90 average or over at least three years in the same language.

New inductees are:

French: Meredith Ford, Christopher Hill, Winifred Lee, Florence Tse, Cheryl Vickers, Amy Wong, Edward Wong and Michael Yee.

Italian: Melinda Guarino.

Latin: Amy Czarnowski, Mai Ng and Cindy Tse.

Spanish: Robin Backman, Susan Byrne, Robert Cady, Jenny Chan, Edwin Chin, Melissa Costales, Tricia Curran, Jeannette Currie, Cara DiMattia, Katherine Doherty, Sean Donovan, Joanna Dyer, Kathleen Groom, Tara Guarnieri, Kathy Kabilian, Erin Kinnally, Tanya Kutasz, Dixon Lee, Suzanne Lewis, Angela Marinilli, Jennifer Masters, Regina Murphy, Dorothy Ngutter, Nicole Ormon, Kevin Price, Voula Regas, William Sit, Christopher Sullivan, Cindy Wan and Jennifer Whalen.

An induction ceremony was held in the NQHS Media Center. The ceremony opened with a French selection, sung by the North Quincy High School Choir under the direction of Catherine Carnabuci.

NQHS Principal Peter Chrisom and Vice Principal Eileen Feeney presented the newly inducted members with certificates of achievement.

After a variety of international songs performed by the choir, the society's two advisors, Foreign Language Department Head Nan Martyak and Spanish teacher, Maria D'Arcangelo, recognized students who scored highest among NQHS participants in the 1991 National Spanish Exam.

Honored in their respective levels were: Level 1, Kelli Choi; Level 2, Nicole Perona; Level 3, Angela Marinilli; and Level 4, Julie Marinilli.

Estenio Gonzalez, a Flubright exchange teacher from Chile who spent the past year teaching Spanish at NQHS, was also recognized.

Guest speaker was Martha Whitman, the senior training for International Business at State Street Bank in North Quincy. She addressed the importance of foreign language in the business world.

Ethnic refreshments were provided at the end of the ceremony.

FRANCIS BELLOTTI, center, former Massachusetts lieutenant governor and attorney general, receives an honorary degree from Quincy College at the school's recent honors convivium. Bellotti received the degree of associate of public service in recognition of his more than 40 years of contributions to the Massachusetts legal and political communities. From left, Supt. Dr. Robert Ricci, School Committeeman Frank Santoro, Bellotti, School Committeeman Ron Mariano and College Presidents Dr. O. Clayton Johnson.

Karen Munkley Receives Simmons College Degree

Karen Munkley of Quincy was among the students receiving degrees from Simmons College in Boston during recent Commencement Exercises.

She was awarded a master of science degree in health care administration.

She received her bachelor of science from

Two Quincy Cable TV Programs Nominated For National Awards

Two community cable TV programs produced for Continental Cablevision in Quincy have been nominated for national awards in the Hometown USA Video Festival, the 14th annual competition sponsored by the National Federation of Local Cable Programmers.

The Continental nominees were "A Tapestry of Names," a September, 1990 AIDS special produced by Marie Diaz of Continental; and "Holiday Greetings From Quincy Churches," a Christmas 1990 postcard TV greeting card produced by longtime Continental volunteer John Lyons and Darlene Mendoza of the Continental local programming staff.

The two Quincy finalists were selected from among 2,063 entries submitted from 437 communities in 38 states, according to Ed Fiddler, Continental's Quincy programming director. They are in the running for two of the 30 awards, to be announced July 25, that recognize community volunteers and cable company producers who create outstanding local cable TV programs.

"The Hometown USA competition is the only national award program created specifically by and for community cable programming professionals and volunteers, and all of us at Continental Cablevision are proud that our Quincy team has been recognized with two nominations," Fiddler said.

"A Tapestry of Names," a year in the making, featured the final display of the national AIDS quilt in Washington, D.C., in October 1989, as well as the AIDS march on the Ellipse in front of the White House and interviews with Quincy-area participants.

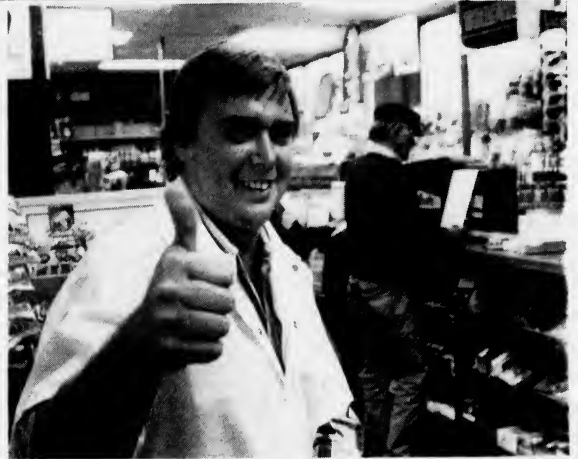

Diaz, with financial support of Quincy Community Television Council, took a cablevision crew to Washington to chronicle the coming together of individual quilt panels commemorating thousands who have died of AIDS from all over the country. Continental began following the quilt story when the Quincy AIDS Consortium stitched a quilt panel in honor of an AIDS victim from the city.

"Holiday Greetings from Quincy Churches" was a special, expanded edition of programming volunteer John Lyons' "Rhymes of the Times" series, which has led off the community programming on Continental's Quincy Channel 3 every night since 1982.

The 15-minute production featured video footage on the holiday decorations at each of the city's churches accompanied by Lyons' poetry.

Lyons' "Rhymes of the Times" was also nominated in 1983, 1986 and 1989.

STEVE WESTGATE, an employee at Charlie's Mini Market in Quincy, sold a winning Megabucks ticket to Thomas McNamara who won $942,210 in a recent drawing. McNamara was one of two winners who split a $1.8 million jackpot.

Crane Library Tutors Recognized By Literacy Volunteers Of America

Literacy Volunteers of America, Quincy, recently held its annual recognition at the Thomas Crane Public Library. About 70 people attended the reception which featured music by the ENC Handbell Choir.

Four tutors were honored with special awards. Lyle Kanter and Priscilla Abate were recognized for their commitment to the program, and the progress their students have made. Bette Jenneman and Laurie Shalla were thanked for their contributions to program management and tutoring.

Special messages of thanks were conveyed by Fairlie Kinnecorn and Tina Kluetmeier. Students from the reading program thanked tutors for the encouragement and help they received.

Conversational English students were grateful for their tutors' friendliness and teaching.

All who attended the reception were given a copy of "Voices of Literacy." It is a newly published journal of writing by students in the Quincy program and is dedicated to all the tutors in the program.

10 Quincy Students Film History Video At Don Bosco

Ten Quincy students at Don Bosco Technical High School were part of a class which participated in a "Video Pen Pal" program with high schools from Philadelphia and Iowa.

The U.S. history class students filmed a walking tour of Boston's historic sites, videotaping and narrating at each location.

Copies of the video were sent to St. Hubert's

Catholic High School for Girls in Philadelphia and St. Albert's Catholic High School in Council Bluffs, Iowa.

The Quincy students are William Knox, 180 Billings St.; James Ford, 20 Edgeworth Road; Kevin Mantville, 51 Forbes Hill Road; Matthew Collins, 90 Bromfield St.; Mark Aylward, 144 Connell St.;

Russell Conley, 15 Connell St.; Michael Lyons, 40 Virginia Road; Christopher Mazzini, 164 Samoset Ave.; Brian Sullivan, 191 Samoset Ave.; and Christopher Zaniboni, 68 Piermont St.

'Dance For Heart' Aerobathon To Benefit American Heart Assn.

World's Gym, 95 Holmes Ave., North Quincy, will hold a "Dance for Heart" Aerobathon to benefit the American Heart Association Saturday, June 1 from 9 a.m. to noon.

In memory of her parents, who died of heart attacks, Aerobics Director Kathy Hassan is hosting World Gym's first aerobathon on what would have been her parents' 43 wedding anniversary. She is asking members to collect pledges, based on the number of minutes they dance, or workout.

Proceeds will help support the American Heart Association's programs of heart research, public and professional education and community services.

Registration starts at 9 a.m. with kick-off at 9:30 a.m.

There will be a DJ mixing music for the aerobathon which will include periods of high and low impact aerobics and funk classes. Children are welcome and will be able to participate in their own Kiddie Aerobathon at 11:30 a.m. There will be balloons, prizes and lots of fun.

T-shirts, sweatshirts, water bottles and funny packs will be awarded to participants based on the amount of money they raise.

There will be also a drawing featuring other prizes.

The event is open to the public. For more information, contact Kathy Hassan at 472-9525.

North Ends Frustrating Season

By TOM SULLIVAN
The North Quincy baseball team finished a frustrating season with a 4-12 Old Colony League record and an overall 4-16 mark, but coach Leo Donovan saw some bright spots.

The Raiders lost their season's finale to Barnstable, 9-2, last Thursday with Ron Boudreau, who made the league all-star team, driving in both runs with a single.

"We lost virtually all our players from last year's team, which made the Eastern Mass. tournament for the second year in a row, and most of our players this year were playing their first year of varsity ball," said Donovan. "Most of the teams in the Old Colony League were much more experienced than we were. We will have several players back next year and should do better."

Taunton won its second straight league title last Bridgewater-Raynham was runnerup.

Several North players had good seasons with Boudreau, Pat O'Donoghue, and George Rozanitis all hitting well.

Scott Dunn pitched well and Mike Patch did some good pitching and filled in well at shortstop late in the season. Both catchers, Serge Belcastro and Mark Kelleher, played well.

Most of the Raiders will be playing Legion ball this summer and the team should fare better next year in its second Old Colony League season.

QUINCY RESIDENTS Chris Kesler and Brian DeCelle joined hundreds of bicyclists recently for the fourth annual Springfield-to-Boston Olympic Pride Bike Ride, sponsored by Blue Cross and Blue Shield. Former and future Olympic hopefuls made the 100-mile charity ride to help support the 1992 U.S. Olympic Team.

Quincy Shelled By B-R

The Quincy baseball team finished its first Old Colony League season on the wrong foot, losing to Bridgewater-Raynham, 14-4, last Thursday.

The Presidents finished at 2-14 in the league and, with a 3-16 overall record, were scheduled to wind up the season at Stoughton on Tuesday.

Quincy, with only three seniors, fell behind, 8-1, in the second inning and never had a chance against B-R. Sophomore Dewey Holmes drove in junior Steve Loud with one run and Tom Balzano, who had an outstanding season, scored a run.

"It hasn't been our year, but a lot of young kids got needed experience," said coach Bob Sylvia. "Freshmen and sophomores can't play with such experienced teams as Taunton, Bridgewater-Raynham and Barnstable."

Balzano, an excellent catcher, was one of the top hitters in the league and finished among the top five hitters with a .430 average.

Another bright spot for the Presidents was sophomore Robbie Kane, a fine second baseman who was also among the top league batters with an average over .400.

With the youngest team in the league, the Presidents lost five games by one run and poor defensive play in many games handed the opposition a large number of unearned runs.

Balzano, Kane and most of the other players will be playing Legion baseball this summer and this added experience should help the team next season.

Balzano and pitcher-infielder Chad McMahon, the co-captains, and outfielder John Fahey were the only seniors on the squad.

Taunton won the league title with B-R runnerup.

St. John's Baseball

Indians, Mets, Red Sox Win

The Indians defeated the Red Sox, 5-1, in St. John's Little League with Mike O'Connell the winning pitcher and Chris Polini the loser.

O'Connell had a triple and an RBI and Shawn McDonald had a three-run homer for the Indians. For the Red Sox Bobby Harvey walked twice and scored, Polini had two hits as did Mike Aniolowski.

The Mets outslugged the Yankees, 15-11, with Ryan Ploof the winner and Frank Maloney the loser. Mike Balducci had two hits including a homer and drove in five runs and also pitched three innings, striking out six. Tim Doyle had two hits and did a fine job catching and Adam DiGiusto and Jason Crossman had key hits.

The Indians topped the Padres, 8-6, with O'Donnell the winner, relieved by Ruben Austria and Colin Kearney the loser. Ronnie DiNapoli had an inside the park homer and two RBI, Greg Purcelli a triple and an RBI and Adam Tiros a double. O'Connell stole second, third and home. For the Padres Peter Hogan had a double and two RBI and Chris Haidul a triple and an RBI.

The Red Sox defeated the Yankees, 9-7, with Bill Calhoun the winning pitcher, Polini had a save. Mike Centrella went 3-for-3, Jonathan Gosselin had a two-run single and catcher Steve Maze threw out two men stealing.

McNeill, 41, and Doris Brady and Laura Lynch, tied at 43.

The 'blind hole' tournament was won by Carlton with net 38, followed by Michaels, 44, and Dot Pitts, 45.

Mets Bomb Yankees, Pull Triple Play

The Mets defeated the Yankees, 15-8, in the Quincy Junior Farm League with Jesse Wither the winning pitcher over Adam Goodrich.

The Mets pulled off a triple play in the fourth inning. Jason McCarthy, Winter, Didier Alther and Sean Fitzpatrick all had hits for the Mets, while Brian Calil, Matt Joyce and Goodrich had hits for the Yankees. Joyce played a fine game behind the plate.

The Yankees bombed the Braves, 28-10, with Joe Tower the winning pitcher, striking out 10. David Riley had two home runs and Brian Call one. Goodrich, Riley, Tower and Joyce had hits.

The Tigers rolled over the Astros, 27-0, getting eight hits in a row in the second inning. Matt McGann and Matt Holt had three hits apiece, T.J. Bell, Bob Woods and Brendan Bowes two each. Alexis Miranda and Paul Skreanski had fine defensive games. Danny Long paced the Astros offensively.

The Orioles topped the Pirates, 18-6, with Frank McNamara, Andrew Currie and Joe O'Connell leading the way.

The Pirates edged the Giants, 14-12, with Brian Steadman the winning pitcher and Brian Nolan the loser. Steadman aided his own cause with an RBI double and Billy Logan had a base-clearing triple.

Andy Mannix pitched well in relief. Steadman had a double, Logan a triple and John Kisielius a triple. Defensively Brent Austin, Mannix and Pasquel Roosa stood out. For the Giants, Joe Ardhera had a home run and double, Ryan Kruger a double and Chris Lumaghini played strong defense.

The Angels got by the Giants, 14-13, with Denis Murphy the winning pitcher. Murphy helped his own cause with a two-run homer. Matt O'Mahoney and Jason Lisowski had hits and O'Mahoney and Mativa Tupe shone defensively.

Babe Ruth

Granite Electric In Hot Streak

Granite City Electric has won its first six games in the Quincy Babe Ruth League.

In its latest game Bob Verney pitched a two-hitter and struck out seven in an 11-2 win over Local 1139. Justin Ackerman had two doubles and two singles and Verney had a triple and three singles. Defensively, Kevin Boylan, Rob Guarnieri, Steve Tangney and Don Burke were outstanding.

Granite City also rolled over Morrisette, 13-2, behind the three-hit pitching of Andy Joyce, who struck out 11. Guarnieri had a 350-foot home run and a triple. Jeff Burrell, Boylan, Matt Beston and Ryan Bell also hit well. Tangney, Bill Dunn, Ryan Ackerman and Jason Healy played strong defense.

Play Ball Camp for Girls Opens June 18

The third annual Play Ball Camp for girls grades 4 to 12 will be held June 18-22 at the Braintree High School softball and tennis facilities. The camp is conducted in conjunction with the New Agenda Northeast project geared to the advancement of the role of women in sports.

"A unique feature to last year's sessions to be repeated this year will be the inclusion of tennis into the afternoon program," said co-director Mary Pratt, one of New England's top female athletes and long time coach and physical education instructor in the Quincy schools.

"So many of the basic skills of softball and tennis are similar that it was decided to focus the emphasis on the commonalities that do exist between the two sports."

Another feature of this year's program will be the inclusion of current high school and college players on the staff. One of the goals of the New Agenda project is to introduce young girls into the coaching and officiating aspect of girls' sports in order they may in turn become more involved in the conduct of these programs in their future roles of coaches, officials, teachers and parents.

The morning program from 9 a.m. to noon will include the teaching of the basic skills of softball and the practical application of these skills in game situations. Basic rules of the game and an introduction into beginning officiating will also be included in the morning program.

The afternoon sessions from 12:30 to 3 p.m. will follow the same format but applied to the game of tennis.

The fee is $30 for one session or $50 for both.

Flyers are obtainable at the girls' athletic office at Braintree High. Further information can be obtained by contacting Pratt at 1428 Quincy Drive, Quincy 02169 or co-director Barbara Mahar at 28 Carriage Way, Braintree.

Wollaston Nazarene Wins Church Crown

Behind the fine all-around performance of Matt Beston, the Wollaston Nazarene Goliath basketball team won its second straight South Shore YMCA Church title by defeating St. Boniface, 23-22, in the finals. Brad Gray and William Gnutter had outstanding offensive games. Brendon Ridge and Steve MacDougall played strong defense.

In the semifinals, Wollaston Nazarene edged Sharray Shalom of Hingham, 32-31, with Beston scoring 28 points. Gray, Gnutter, Jim Rendle, Ridge, Brad Curry, Chris Erier, MacDougall, Eric

White, David Scott and Jeremy Nielson all contributed to the team's fine 15-1 season.

8 Inducted Into QHS Hall Of Fame

By PETE ZOIA

Eight new members of the Quincy high Basketball Hall of Fame were inducted at recent ceremonies at the Sons of Italy Hall, bringing to 43 the number in the Hall.

The latest inductees were Robert Mattson, 1930; Andy Pasquale, 1947; Larry Doyle, 1951; Bill Donovan, 1962; Mike Jordan, 1966; Jim Rendle, 1966; Mike Cullen, 1974, and Steve Priscella, 1981.

Guide 'Buddy' Pettinelli was the master of ceremonies and said that Mattson, who was unable to attend, introduced the one-hand shot at Quincy.

Pasquale was known for his many steals and scoring the winning points during the final seconds of games. "Handy Andy" thanked all for being selected.

Doyle said that his teammates were responsible for his being selected. He introduced his former teammates.

Donovan praised his junior high coach, Mike Casale, saying he received the important basics from him. He also thanked his teammates "for making me into a better person."

Jordan thanked the committee for honoring him. "This is a big thrill for me," he said.

Rendle, who coached the North Quincy girls' volleyball team to the state title three years ago, also credited Casale for having a big influence on his left.

Former Quincy coach and former Boston University assistant Joe Amoroso, introduced two of his former players, Cullen and Priscella.

Cullen, who now coaches in Pittsfield, said Amoroso was a coach who taught one to work hard and be disciplined. He was a Greater Boston League all-star.

Amoroso said he saw greatness in Priscella when he was a 25-year-old sophomore and went up against the great Patrick Ewing, now of the New York Knicks, when he was at Cambridge Rindge and Latin. Priscella scored 794 points in 63 games for Quincy and went on to Boston University where he played well.

Among those present at the induction dinner were former Quincy great Bo Page, school committeemen Frank Santoro and Ron Mariano, former city councillor Dan Raymond, former North coach LaRoy 'Curley' Rogers, former North Quincy coach and present Marshfield coach Ed Miller, North assistant coaches Gus DeBoer and Jed Phelan, City Council president Ted DeCristofaro, Roger Barry of the Patriot Ledger and ardent Quincy fans Dr. Sid Cutler and Vin Moscardelli.

Hall of Fame members introduced were Ellie Hughes, Jim McGuinness, Ralph Graham, John Joyce, Bob Pettinelli, George Burke, Fred Greer, Bob Mina, Bill Nolan, Paul Beston, Paul Fitzpatrick, John Reggiannini, Steve Connelly and Mike Lamie.

Coordinator of athletics and former Quincy coach Martin Finnegan spoke of the great tradition at Quincy and praised coach John Franceschini for making the Eastern Mass. Tournament for the first time in 10 years.

Special awards went to Robert Cochrane, who created Quincy's youth program, Ray Papile, Sr., an ardent Quincy Booster.

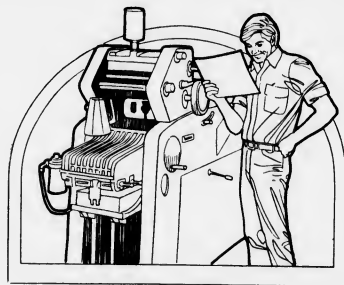

Rick DeCristofaro introduced the guests and Rev. Mr. Joseph Pile offered the invocation.

Wilhelmina Harris, 95 Former Superintendent Of Adams National Historic Site

A funeral service for Wilhelmina (Sellers) Harris, 95, of Quincy, was conducted Saturday at Bethany Congregational Church. Burial was in Arlington National Cemetery, Virginia.

Mrs. Harris died May 21 at home.

She was the superintendent of the Adams National Historic Site (Adams Mansion) from 1950 until her retirement in 1987. She was the National Park Service's first woman superintendent.

She served longer than any superintendent in the department's North Atlantic Region and was the oldest superintendent at the time of her retirement.

Mrs. Harris also presided over the restoration of the birthplaces of President John Adams and President John Quincy Adams on Franklin Street in the 1980s when the buildings were taken over by the National Park Service.

She joined the National Park Service in 1948 as a historical aide at the Adams Mansion.

In 1970, she received the Distinguished Service Award from the Department of the Interior for her management of the historic site.

Mrs. Harris had worked at the mansion from 1920-27 as a social secretary to Brooks Adams, the last Adams family member to reside at the mansion.

She gave a series of

public lectures about the Adams Mansion and outlined her personal experiences in "The Brooks Adams I Knew"—a piece she wrote for the Yale Review in 1969.

Mrs. Harris was a native of Franklin, Ala., and graduated from Montevallo Women's College before moving to Boston and later to Quincy.

She married Army Col. Frank E. Harris in 1928. He died in 1947.

Mrs. Harris was a member of the Massachusetts Historical Society and the Adams Memorial Society. She helped form the Adams Street Association, with neighbors of the Adams Mansion to keep the character of the neighborhood consistent with the historic site.

She is survived by three sons, Frank Harris Jr., George S. Harris and A. Brooks Harris; 11 grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were by the Hamel, Wickens & Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

We're sure many of you can recall the two world wars; the Korean War; the Viet Nam conflict. There is no doubt that during these times, Memorial Day was a day to recall the sacrifices so many made to maintain the freedom of our United States of America.

A freedom, so valiantly fought for by those still with us and by those who paid the supreme sacrifice ... their lives.

Even with all the distractions of our current fast-paced society, Memorial Day survives. Certainly a day to remember those who paid the supreme sacrifice and a day to remember the past. But let us not forget those who are still with us who certainly sacrificed years of their lives, as did their families, so that all of us may enjoy the freedoms of the greatest country in the world ... So that all of us have the right to live our lives under the flag of freedom we revere.

Let us, on this Memorial Day, pause and reflect upon these thoughts ...

John V. Kenney, 51 NQHS Security Director

A funeral Mass for John V. Kenney, 51, of Quincy, was celebrated Wednesday at St. Mary's Church. Burial was in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Mr. Kenney died May 25 at home after a short illness.

He was director of security for North Quincy High School for the past 15 years and was president of the Quincy Public Schools Security Union. He previously had worked for White Brothers and Hood Milk companies.

Mr. Kenney was born in Quincy and graduated from North Quincy High School.

He served in the Army and was stationed in West Germany during the Vietnam War.

Mr. Kenney is survived by his wife, Patricia (O'Gorman) Kenney; two sons, Robert Kenney and John S. Kenney, both of Dorchester; a brother, James P. Kenney of Wollaston; four sisters, Mary Lou McCracken of Norwood, Gertrude Bezaris and Helen T. DeLano, both of Falmouth, and Joan Chrisom of Milton; and four grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were by the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St.

Donations may be made to the American Cancer Society, 247 Commonwealth Ave., Boston, 02116.

Arthur D. Clemens, 92 Operated Arthur's Market For 20 Years

A funeral Mass for Arthur D. Clemens, 92, of Quincy, who operated Arthur's Market at School and Hancock Sts. across from Firestone from 1948 to 1968, was celebrated Tuesday at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, Quincy.

Mr. Clemens died May 23 at Quincy Hospital after a long illness.

His grocery career began in his native South Boston when he was 13 years old. One of his early jobs was driving a horse and buggy to Faneuil Hall Marketplace to pick up produce for the store where he was working.

He met Kathryn Riordan when she went into a grocery store he worked at in Medford. They married in 1923 and were together 68 years, 66 in the same Merrymount home. Mrs. Clemens survives her husband.

Mr. Clemens worked at Gambles Market, next to Quincy Fair on Hancock

St., for 25 years before opening his own shop. When he retired he was employed at Foy's Market.

He enjoyed playing cribbage, filling out crossword puzzles and watching race horses.

He also entertained his family and friends with his singing. He sang for the nurses at Braintree Hospital, where he spent several months, and for the nurses at Quincy Hospital.

Besides his wife, he is survived by his daughter, Constance Mele of Quincy; eight grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. He was the father of the late Arthur R. Clemens.

Burial was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were by the Lydon-Russell Funeral Home, 644 Hancock St., Quincy.

Donations may be made to the Jimmy Fund, 44 Binney St., Boston, MA 02115.

Sheets Asking Businesses To 'Adopt-A-Sidewalk'

As part of the city's Cleaner, Greener campaign, Mayor James Sheets has initiated an "Adopt-a-Sidewalk" program in an effort to keep the city's business districts clean.

The mayor's office has sent 2,500 letters to local businesses asking them to "adopt" the sidewalk in front of their business. By "adopting" the sidewalks, businesses are responsible for keeping the area free from litter.

"Because the city doesn't have the personnel to clean the sidewalks, we're hoping businesses adopt the sidewalks and keep them clean. It's important to have business cooperation. We look forward to developing a large membership," Sheet said.

As of Friday, the mayor's office had received letters from 14 businesses stating they will join the effort. Several other businesses had called to relay their intentions to join.

Businesses which "adopt" a sidewalk will receive a sign declaring their participation. The sign is suitable for placement on a lawn or in a business.

In other Cleaner, Greener news, the second annual city-wide cleanup is underway with various city departments including the Department of Public Works, Park and Forestry, Traffic and Parking, School Department and Public Libraries working to clean-up city roadways, parks and buildings.

Last year's campaign was a tremendous success due to the volunteer participation of the community. Citizens, community organizations, churches and businesses are again invited to play a major role in making the City of Presidents a clean and more beautiful place to live.

The cleanup will take place Saturday, May 4. Meeting time for the following locations is 9 a.m.

Ward 1, Adams Shore Library; Ward 2, Fore River Club House; Ward 3, Wollaston School; Ward 4, Lincoln-Hancock School; Ward 5, Beechwood

Community Center; Ward 6, North Quincy High School.

Under the mayor's direction, city personnel will provide rakes and brooms, bags, gloves and heavy equipment to assist the community groups.

After the cleanup, a cookout will be held at Pageant Field for all participants beginning at 1 p.m. Hot dogs, hamburgers and cold drinks will be served. Activities for children will be held.

Council Votes For Quarterly Tax Bills

By STEVE KAVANAGH

With mixed emotions, the City Council voted 7-2 Monday, to implement a quarterly tax billing system. Residents can expect to see their first bill in July.

Council President Ted DeCristoforo summed up the general feeling of the councillors.

"I'm not happy to do it. But it will save a half-million dollars and I will support it," he said.

Ward 4 Councillor Tom Fabrizio, who voted against the proposal along with Councillor-at-Large Tim Cahill, said there has not been adequate time to study the system since it was proposed.

"In the long term there is probably a better way.

Also, I have a problem with the timing of it. I think it is something we should have been discussing back in January," Fabrizio said.

"It will be irritating to people in the short term to receive quarterly bills," said Ward 6 Councillor Thomas Nutley. "But the state has transferred the burden to us."

Nutley calculated that while the city will save an estimated $500,000 the average Quincy homeowner will pay an extra $14 per year.

Cahill said the idea of a quarterly tax system passes the buck to the taxpayer.

"We are not simply saving interest payments to the banks we borrow from, but we are taking interest away from citizens. And just like the state is putting the burden on us (Quincy), we are putting the burden on the taxpayer. And if citizens have to borrow money to pay their taxes they have to borrow at a higher rate than the one afforded the city," Cahill said.

Cahill said he realizes the city has a cash flow crunch but argued that a quarterly tax billing system is just a "quick fix."

"We are forced to do this because the state will no longer make quarterly payments to cities and towns," Councillor-at-Large Michael Cheney said.

Quincy Mutual Would Double Size Insurance Firm Unveils $7M Expansion Plan

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

The Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Company is planning to double the size of its facility at 57 Washington St., putting as many as 100 union employees to work and boosting the site's property value.

"We have a lot of faith in downtown Quincy and we've made the decision that this is where we're going to stay," said Harold Gerbis, president of the 140-year-old company.

The insurance company, which has been in continuous operation in downtown Quincy since 1851, is expanding to accommodate a growing business operation employing more than 125 people.

Once the project is complete, company officials said some new jobs will be created over a period of time. "Our growth will be steady," Gerbis said.

"We're thrilled that Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Company is not only staying in Quincy but expanding. It's a very significant occurrence, given today's economy," Mayor James Sheets said. Plans for the project were unveiled in his office at a press conference Tuesday morning.

"This project is an important benchmark. It sends a message that we are a dynamic city and will continue to grow and provide greater opportunities for businesses in Quincy," Sheets added.

The conference was attended by officials from the insurance company, Quincy-South Shore Building Trades Union and John A. Sheskey and Associates of Quincy, the architect designing the expansion.

Plans call for a three-story, 27,000-square-foot addition at the rear of the 30,000-square-foot headquarters. The addition will measure 64 feet by 140 feet.

In addition, the present building, which the insurance company has used since 1931, will undergo extensive renovations.

According to Sheskey, the new addition will have the same Williamsburg design of brick and sloped slate shingle roofing as the original building. Noting that the front of the building will stay essentially the same, Sheskey said, "Hopefully, in the end, you won't know where the new building is from the old."

The $7 million project on company-owned land also includes the construction of a three-level parking garage. Two levels will be underground.

The 124-space parking garage will be built on the present lot which has 90 spaces. All parking in the garage will be private.

Construction is slated to begin next month and continue for 20 months. Word of the expansion was greeted enthusiastically by union workers who have been hit hard by the recession.

Some 100 union workers from the 14 unions affiliated with the Quincy South Shore Building Trades Union will be employed at the site. Officials also noted the project will put other "off-site" workers, such as those in the material fabrication field, to work.

Thomas Broderick, president of the Q.S.S.B.T., pointed out the union has experienced 50 to 70 percent unemployment the soft

Firefighters Help Save Young Boy From Choking

Quick action by two Quincy firefighters and a South Quincy mother helped save the woman's three-year-old son from choking Sunday.

According to Deputy Fire Chief Joseph Walsh, Mrs. John Mitchell of 49 Pleasant St. called shortly after 7 p.m. Sunday for help. She told Firefighters Stephen Walsh and Joseph Paccorette, who were both working on dispatch, that her son, Robert, was choking on food.

Walsh and Paccorette are both graduates of the fire department's emergency medical technician program.

"They calmed the woman down, determined what the situation was and coached the Heimlich Maneuver to the mother so that she could perform it on the child," the deputy chief said.

Walsh explained the maneuver over the phone. Paccorette assisted and dispatched Rescue One to the home. Within three minutes, Rescue One was at the home. Quincy Police and an ambulance also responded.

Mrs. Mitchell was able to dislodge the food by using the Heimlich Maneuver. The boy is doing well, Walsh said.

"It was very fortunate. (The firefighters) made sure the steps were followed the right way," the deputy chief said.

"The guys did a great job. They showed their skill and stayed calm. They ought to be commended."

Council Urges New Health Care Plan For City

By STEVE KAVANAGH

The City Council voted unanimously Monday to urge city employees to develop a new health care plan which could save Quincy upwards of $2 million-possibly $4 million-each year.

Councillor-at-Large Michael Cheney introduced the resolution asking the Health Insurance Advisory Committee to develop a health plan for city employees using Quincy Hospital as the preferred provider facility.

The committee, established by state law last year, is made up of representatives from all of the unions who have collective bargaining agreements with the city. "The unions could design their own plan, taking the best benefits from each of the present available plans," Cheney said.

Cheney said the purpose of the idea is to reduce the costs of health care to the city while maximizing health benefits to city employees.

"It's a win-win situation," Cheney said. The hospital, which is owned by the city but managed by Hospital Corporation of America, would also benefit by increased growth which, Cheney noted, could result in lower costs for providing health care which would benefit all users of the hospital.

Ward 3 Councillor Larry Chretien noted that the city's health insurance budget has increased by about $2 million the past two years.

"This increase is putting people out of work," Chretien said. He agreed that the present system needs an overhaul and said money for insurance is coming from other city budgets which causes layoffs.

"It's time to tackle this 'budget buster,'" Chretien said.

Cheney said a $2 million savings is a conservative estimate and that $4 million may be a more realistic figure.

Presently there are about 12 health organizations which city workers utilize including a few which do not allow members to use Quincy Hospital.

"I think it's ridiculous that health organizations which we contract do not utilize Quincy Hospital," said Councillor-at-large Patricia Toland.

"We're looking at a lengthy process," Cheney said. He said health care is a very sensitive and complex issue but that with hard work something could be put together in time for next year's budget.

Ward 6 Councillor Thomas Nutley, chairman of the council's Public Health & Hospital Committee, said he will consider calling a meeting to allow city employees a chance to discuss the idea.

"Some individuals have unique needs and care for those needs is not available at Quincy Hospital. I believe that city employees should have every opportunity to voice their concerns," Nutley said.

Cheney said a new plan would allow city employees to retain their current doctors and Quincy Hospital would allow doctors not presently affiliated with the hospital to become affiliated.

economy. "Hopefully, this will be the first of many projects that will get our workers back to work," Broderick said.

Once complete, the new building should help the city's tax rolls. The present building and land is assessed at $1,789,850. One city official said the $7 million price tag for a new 27,000-square-foot addition indicates Quincy Mutual Fire is "going first class all the way."

"They want to do it right," Planning Director Richard Meade said.

According to Meade, the company still needs some city approval before building the addition but he added the project appears to comply with the city zoning codes. As a result, the outcome of the project is up to the historic district commission and the building inspector, who issues a building permit.

City Of Quincy
Loan and Grant Programs Offered through the Office of Housing Rehabilitation

At the present time, the following loan and grant programs are offered through the Office of Housing Rehabilitation, a line office of the Department of Planning and Community Development.

Housing Rehabilitation Loan Program:

The program is intended to eliminate substandard living conditions by making necessary home improvements in accordance with program guidelines.

The program offers loans of up to $10,000. per dwelling unit with a maximum of $20,000. for two to four units. The interest rate is fixed at 5% and the terms of the loan can be up to 15 years. Owner-occupied one to four unit dwellings are eligible dwelling types. Owners of these dwellings must meet the moderate income guidelines of the program.

De-leading Loan Program:

This program offers 5% loans to all Quincy residents to remove lead paint from one to four unit dwellings. There are no income guidelines and the property does not have to be owner-occupied. The maximum loan allowed and terms are the same as the Housing Rehabilitation Loan Program.

Housing Rehabilitation Grant Program:

The objective of this program is the same as the Housing Rehabilitation Loan Program. This program however, is open to only those homeowners meeting the low income guidelines of the program. Grants (No repayment.) up to $7,500.

All programs offered through the Office of Housing Rehabilitation comply with the City of Quincy's policy on Fair Housing ...

"The City of Quincy hereby states that it is the policy of the City to ensure that each individual shall have equal opportunity in the access to all housing within its boundaries, and to prohibit discrimination in housing on the grounds of race, color, national origin, ancestry, age, religion, marital status, sex, income, or handicap."

If City Loses $2 Million More In State Local Aid Sheets May Call Emergency Council Meeting On Budget

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

If the city loses another $2 million in local aid for FY 92, Mayor James Sheets said Tuesday he will take immediate action and call an emergency City Council meeting.

Under the House version of the FY 92 state budget, Quincy would lose approximately $2 million more in state aid. Compared to FY 91, the city has already lost $2.7 million.

The House budget package awaits action by the Senate and conference committee. Sheets calls the $2 million cut "a very fluid figure" but added the cut could climb to $2.5 million.

"We won't know what the real numbers are until the budget is explored thoroughly. Certainly we expected the governor to cut local aid but we did not expect the legislature to go beyond the governor's position and cut $115 million more," the mayor said.

An additional $2 million cut in local aid would send city officials, especially the mayor, scurrying to make up for that lost revenue.

FY 92 will begin July 1.

There is a chance the state's spending package for the next fiscal year will not be signed into law by Gov. Weld until the last week of June or even the first week of July.

In any event, if the $2 million cut in local aid to Quincy stands, Sheets said he will compile a list of cost-saving measures and send his recommendations to the City Council before the next regularly scheduled meeting in September.

"I would act immediately. I would not wait until September," Sheets said.

A $2 million reduction in local aid would likely result in as many as 50 to 60 layoffs in the school, police and fire departments since those three departments represent 81 percent of the discretionary budget, the mayor said.

For now, the mayor is not concentrating on consolidating schools or fire stations in an effort to save money. He has also dismissed the notion of ordering city workers to take a five percent pay cut as proposed by the Quincy Citizens Association.

According to Auditor Robert Foy, the city is spending approximately $60 million on salaries this year to municipal employees in all departments except Quincy Hospital and Quincy College. The hospital and college operate on enterprise accounts.

A five percent cut would save the city $2,950,000.

Commenting on the five percent pay cut idea Tuesday, Sheets said, "I'm not considering that as an option. Most of the unions have been very cooperative this year in terms of no pay increases.

"We have a good relationship with the unions and we will continue that relationship," he said.

After the QCA's recommendation was made public, John Keefe, executive director of the Hospital Library and Public Employees Union, told Sheets in a letter that lowering wages would hurt the local economy, not help the city's budget problems.

Since 1980, Keefe noted the city's work force has been reduced by an estimated 40 percent through layoffs, retirement, incentive programs and attrition. "After the 40 percent loss of personnel, city workers continue to do an effective job carrying the extra burdens without complaining.

"City workers also heeded the mayor's call for frozen wages in 1991 and have absorbed the 5.5 percent increase in the cost of goods and services.

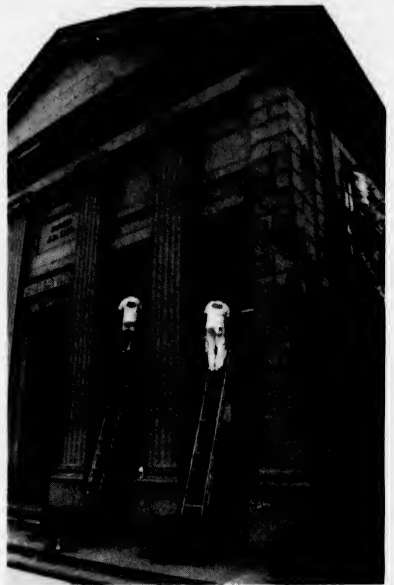

"We want to point out that city workers are doing their share and should not be singled out to solve what is the entire community's burden," Keefe said, adding he supports the mayor's attempt to boost tourism in Quincy.

As for consolidating schools, Sheets said, "We hope to keep any cuts at a level to allow us to keep all schools functioning so that we have an opportunity to look at the study being done."

The mayor said the study will "look at everything," including reorganization.

As for closing a fire station, Sheets will make a decision on whether to appropriate $25,000 to $30,000 for a fire study within the week. Sheets said the study would "give some indication of where we're going with our fire capabilities."

The mayor also said he is still firmly against a Proposition 2 and a half override. "It's too regressive."

A NEW COAT--Pickering Painting Company employees, from left, Donny Pickering, John Pickering and Mike Edgren, paint the trim of the James R. McIntyre Government Center (Old City Hall). The Quincy-based company is donating labor and materials as part of the city's Cleaner, Greener Quincy campaign. The project, which will take approximately two weeks to complete, is valued at $5,000. The color of the new trim, called "historical sand gray," replaces the dark gray color and blends in with the building's granite. The trim was last painted about 10 years ago.

Foy Reappointed City Auditor

The City Council unanimously reappointed City Auditor Robert Foy III to another term Monday.

Foy has been auditor in Quincy for the past 19 years.

The council praised Foy and the job he has done and wished him continued success.

"Bob Foy is a tremendous watchdog for the city and he runs his department in a professional manner," said Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan.

"We are fortunate to have a man of your caliber as auditor," Council President Ted DeCristofaro told Foy.

Ward 6 Councillor Thomas Nutley said that in every case of dealing with Foy he has been "A competent, objective professional."

Vandalism To Be Discussed In Ward 6

Ward 6 Councillor Thomas Nutley and Robert McCauley, president of the Atlantic Neighborhood Association, have scheduled a community meeting Thursday, June 13 at 7:30 p.m. at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center, 12 Hunt St., North Quincy.

"We have received many complaints about burglaries and vandalism throughout North Quincy," Nutley said.

"There is also concern in the North Quincy community regarding the conduct of some of the people playing ball on our fields and the abuse of those parks and the nearby homes by the ball players," he added.

For those reasons, Nutley and McCauley have asked Officer Bob Hanna of the Quincy Police Department's Crime Prevention Unit, and Ray Cattaneo, director of the city's Park Department, to speak and answer residents concerns on both subjects.

"We have also invited our state legislators," Nutley said. "We hope to see a large turnout of concerned Ward 6 residents to express their thoughts regarding these two important issues."

"On a happier note," Nutley said, "We have also asked Mayor James Sheets to join us in presenting a 'community volunteer award' to a very popular Quincy resident who is long deserving of such recognition."

God Campaign Issue?

The School Committee race -- in which God could become a campaign issue -- is just one candidate shy of a preliminary election field.

Six candidates have nomination papers out and if they all file only one more is needed to set the stage for a preliminary runoff.

The six are: incumbents Steve Durkin and Mary Jane Powers, JoAnne Bragg, Toni Kabilian, former teacher Margaret King, and Linda Stice.

Dan Raymond, former Norfolk County treasurer, school committeeman and city councillor, has been leaning toward a School Committee bid.

But he hasn't definitely made up his mind. He could switch to the city council at-large field.

If he decides on a School Committee run and none of the other six candidates drop out, there will be a preliminary election.

The School Committee's 4-3 vote to ban God at high school graduation ceremonies could be a factor in this year's campaign.

Durkin and Powers -- two of the four who voted to eliminate prayers at the graduation ceremonies -- could run into a backlash at the polls.

Despite the fact that they (and Mary Collins and Peggy Nigro who are not up for re-election) stress they voted the way they did on the advice of attorneys.

But despite that advice it didn't stop Mayor James Sheets, Ron Mariano and Frank Santoro from lining up on God's side and voting to keep the prayers.

Over 2,500 names have been collected on petitions calling for a reversal of the School Committee vote.

The ban on God and prayers came as a result of a Providence, R.I. father who complained that having a member of the clergy deliver an invocation and benediction at his daughter's middle school graduation violated the Constitutional separation of church and state.

A federal judge, ruled that God cannot be mentioned at public school graduation ceremonies. His ruling was upheld by the Circuit Court of Appeals in Boston.

But the Providence School Committee has appealed the case to the U.S. Supreme Court which plans to hear it this fall.

The Supreme Court could uphold or overturn the two rulings so far and with that court leaning conservative, God could win.

Other school districts near Quincy have refused to be intimidated by possible legal action and planned to continue the tradition of prayers at their graduation exercises this year.

Here in Quincy, many of those who signed the petitions to reverse the School Committee vote, feel the local board could have let the Class of 1991 have its prayers and then wait for the Supreme Court's decision.

They think the Quincy School Committee acted too hastily and could have waited it out like some of the other school districts are doing.

Will God be an issue in this year's School Committee race?

Well, it may only be a coincidence, but it is interesting to note that School Committee candidate Toni Kabilian's congratulatory ad in this week's Quincy Sun high school graduation section reads: "God Bless Our Graduates."

IF YOU ARE thinking of running for office this year, you have until Aug. 9 to take out nomination papers. And they must be filed by 5 p.m., Aug. 13.

Tuesday, Sept. 17 is preliminary election day and Tuesday, Nov. 5 final election day.

THE CITY COUNCIL at-large picture is one more candidate closer to a preliminary election. Latest to take out nomination papers is Louis Zagami of Furnace Brook Parkway.

A FUNDRAISER FOR Mayor James Sheets is on tap for Tuesday, June 11, 6 to 8 p.m. at the Common Market, 97 Willard St., West Quincy. Tickets are $100 per person.

NORTH QUINCY'S Howard MacKay has been elected commander of the Nickerson Legion Post in Squantum. MacKay, who lives on Ardell St. twice ran for the Ward 3 City Council seat, losing first to John Lydon and then to Larry Chretien.

Distressed Over Conditions At Historic Hancock Cemetery

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

On Sunday May 26, members of the American Legion and children from United First Parish Church School held the traditional Memorial Day ceremony in the Hancock Cemetery, honoring the Revolutionary and Civil War veterans buried there.

We were greatly distressed, when the children fanned out to place their flags in the bronze markers identifying the veterans' graves, to find that a great many of those markers were missing and that several of those still in place had been broken so they no longer can stick into the ground and be used. Alas, since we had no way of knowing which graves were the veterans', many went undecorated--and will continue to do so unless someone can get a map of the cemetery, locate the graves, and replace the markers.

We had a gentleman from another country with our group, and he was appalled that someone would destroy memorials in a cemetery that way, especially memorials to those people whose sacrifice made the very existence of our country possible.

"Why would someone do such a terrible thing?" he asked. "When you do not respect the dead, the heroes, you respect nothing."

I'm afraid he was right. If someone can replace the markers, perhaps the situation can be rectified next Memorial Day. If not, the graves will never again be properly decorated. Barbara Wiggin, from our church, suggested that you might be the person who could get this problem solved. I hope she was right!

SUNBURN

Summertime is the season when many of us shed as much clothing as our inhibitions and local laws allow, and spread ourselves out to roast on the beach or in the backyard. Tanning, we believe, makes us look better. Most physicians would certainly agree the point. Skin exposed to the weather becomes "leathery," wrinkled and prematurely aged. Fair-skinned, blue-eyed blonds and redheads are most at risk, but anyone can burn if exposed to too much sun. Mild sunburns will heal without treatment, but a sunburn that has blistered, or one that brings with it chills and fever, nausea, or a rash, needs medical treatment. Sun-induced skin damage is cumulative and irreversible. Aside from cosmetic considerations, sun exposure increases the risk of skin cancer. Sunscreens and sun blockers offer some protection, but avoiding the midday sun is the best protection.

P.S. Sunblockers are thick, white opaque creams which may contain zinc oxide.

It is hard for many of us to believe that "once upon a time" pale, protected skin was the fashion rage. However, the dangers of skin cancer may at least redefine what we have called the "healthy bronzed" look. Don't over-expose your skin; pale means both younger and healthier. For more information, call COMPREHENSIVE CARDIAC CARE at 472-2550. We're located at 101 Adams Street, Suite 24 in Quincy. Hours are by appointment.

Durkin Explains School Committee Vote On Banning Prayer At Graduation Ceremonies

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

As reported recently in the media, the Quincy School Committee by a vote of 4-3 decided to follow a federal appeals court ruling which bars prayers or benedictions at public school graduation ceremonies. Following the vote many citizens, including certain city officials, voiced their criticism. I trust that the following will serve as a satisfactory explanation of the School Committee's vote.

We were advised by our attorneys, who are experts in school/education law, that disregarding the Court's decision would expose the City of Quincy to a potentially costly lawsuit. Thus, while it was a difficult decision to ban prayer at the graduation ceremonies this year, I believe that the Committee was acting in the best interests of the City in upholding the law which, as elected officials, we are sworn to uphold.

It is true that the School Committee received an opinion from the City Solicitor, whom I respect as a lawyer, advising us that we could safely disregard the Court's decision because it was in the words of the Solicitor, "murky" and "confusing." The Solicitor did not have the benefit, however, of having reviewed the Federal District Court's decision, about which the Appeals Court simply stated: "We are in agreement with the sound and pellucid (very clear) opinion of The District Court." Indeed, even the dissenting judge in the 2-1 appellate Court vote agreed that the district court's opinion was clear, and in keeping with the Supreme Court's view of the Establishment Clause. Thus, the court's decision really couldn't have been more clear.

My personal view is that over the years the Supreme Court has taken the Establishment Clause--the constitutional provision which preserves the separation of church and state--too far. I think most of us would agree that generic prayers, with uplifting words that have meaning for virtually everyone, are a positive thing to have at school graduations. Such non-sectarian prayers are probably offensive to very few. In fact, to quote Judge Campbell (who wrote the dissenting opinion), "if one were to ask people what are the problems of our times, they would hardly respond to our youth...are being corrupted by overexposure to religious and moral principles." To the contrary, we have many critical problems to worry about concerning our youth, who may actually benefit from further moral and religious instruction.

Many citizens have pointed to the inconsistency of not allowing prayer in public schools, yet having for example, a Nativity Scene in Quincy Square and allowing prayers to be said at the start of legislative sessions. The reason for this discrepancy, in the view of the Supreme Court, is that Courts have traditionally applied the Establishment Clause more strictly in the case of young people in a school setting.

Does all this mean that we should not have prayers at graduations? It is my hope that the Supreme Court, which has agreed to review the above discussed issues, will create an exception for non-denominational and tolerant prayers, and allow them to be said at graduation ceremonies. In the meantime, the Quincy School Committee has an obligation to adhere to the law as it now stands. To casually disregard the law, I believe, would be irresponsible and would set a poor example for our young people. This does not mean that we are prevented from inviting clergy to graduations, nor does it mean that we are prevented from having a moment of silence when graduates and their families may pray according to their own beliefs.

Pending the Supreme Court's decision, I hope that we can put this issue aside and focus on providing the best possible educational and recreational programs for our children, now and in the future. And to our graduates, I wish you much success and happiness and may God bless you and guide you as you embark on your new journey.

On Separation of Church And State

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Amid all the fuss over prayers at high school graduations in Quincy, I'd like to point out the historic importance of the separation of church and state. And I'd like to argue for this separation from a slightly different angle: the absolute importance in this day and age for all churches and religious communities to be free to play their prophetic role in calling the rich and powerful to task.

Rather than being expected to sprinkle holy water on the actions of political leaders, from their petty vanities to acts of war and genocide, communities of believers must be free to challenge and even condemn hypocrisy and injustice, and be able to point toward a vision of wholeness and humanity.

Is this real freedom of religion better served from the podium or from the bleachers? You decide.

Contends Home Depot EIR Is Missing Information

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

In addition to our quality of life being threatened by the understated traffic reports from Home Depot, another issue must be addressed.

Where is the missing information in Home Depot's Final Environmental Impact Report? Home Depot was ordered to prepare a solid waste and hazardous materials impact report for their proposed facility on Willard St., West Quincy. This site, formerly Antonelli Iron Works, has been operated for the past 50 years by a metal fabricator or foundry facility and there are at least (6) six abandoned underground storage tanks on the premises. We are told that they did, in fact, conduct extensive subsurface investigations. yet there is no report of this in the Final Impact Report. It seems to us that if an investigation was ordered and one was conducted it would naturally follow that a report would be forthcoming. Where is it? Why isn't anyone worried about it and why it may contain? Is it too much for concerned citizens of West

Quincy to ask for a report to be made public?

With Home Depot's attempt to underestimate the traffic reports, has the thought occurred that they may attempt to hide or down-play the solid waste and hazardous waste reports also.

Hindsight is too late; foresight is not soon enough.

Fashion Show Raises $7,000 For Cerebral Palsy

Little girls dressed in soft pastel dresses and little boys dressed in tuxedos strolled down the runway at the Braitree Sheraton Tara with their parents to the delight of 350 guests at the 11th annual Fashion Show and Dinner for Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore.

Hit Or Miss of Quintree Mall in Braitree sponsored the women's clothing and Bernie's Modern Formal Shop of Quincy donated the tuxedos for the evening.

More than $7,000 was raised for the Children's Developmental Disabilities Center of PPSS located at 195 Adams St. in Quincy. Janice Walsh, chairperson of the fashion show, said, "The Center provides a haven of hope for the parents and a place where their children can receive the best care to maximize their potential."

Other committee members are Donna Elam, Shelia Gerety, Evelyn Greene, Barbara Hunt, Karen LaFond, Anna Mae Norton, MEG KERN and her daughter, Katie of the Children's Developmental Disabilities Center, walk down the runway during the recent Cerebral Palsy Fashion Show. More than $7,000 was raised for CP of the South Shore.

Kerri Kelly To Compete In National Pre-Teen Pageant

Kerri Kelly, 12, of Wollaston, has been selected as a finalist in the 1991 Miss Massachusetts National Pre-Teen pageant, to be held June 29 and 30 in Springfield.

This is the official state pageant for the Miss National Pre-Teen Pageant to be held in Orlando, Florida in the fall.

The winner of the pageant will receive a U.S. Savings Bond, the official crown, sash and trophy, along with her sponsorship and flight to represent Massachusetts for the title of Miss National Pre-Teen 1991.

Contestants will be judged on poise and appearance, a personal interview with the judges, academics, achievements and personality. There will be a talent contest for the title of Miss Massachusetts Talent National Pre-Teen.

Kerri is a 6th grade student at St. Ann's School where she is on the honor roll and is her class representative to the Student Council.

She was the second place winner in her school's Science Fair for her project on "Mosquito Control and Encephalitis."

KERRI KELLY

She also studies piano and voice, and for the past five years has danced with The Crystallettes at Pegge Parker's Dance Academy.

In April Kerri received a scholarship from the Dale Carnegie Institute and will attend their leadership class this summer.

In addition she participated in the "Swim For Sight" program in March to benefit the Eye Research Institute of Boston. She swam 100 laps and raised nearly $12,000 for the cause.

Kerri is being sponsored in the pageant by the Ground Round, Inc. and Legal Seafoods, Inc.

NQHS Student Group Receives Human Rights Award

By STEVE KAVANAGH
"It's ironic," said North Quincy High School principal Peter Chrisom.

In a year when the high school and North Quincy community has been labeled racist because of its mascot, the Yakoo, a human rights organization has presented an award to a North Quincy student group, the Alliance Against Racism.

The award, from the Human Rights Coalition sponsored by state District Attorney Scott Harshbarger's office, was presented to Alliance Against Racism advisor Marie D'Arcangelo, a NQHS teacher, for "recognition of leadership."

The presentation was held Tuesday at State Rep. Michael Morrissey's State House office. D'Arcangelo was accompanied by student Nollaig Morris an officer of the Alliance.

The group works against racism through a number of activities, Chrisom said.

"They have done a lot of work with the Asian community in North Quincy," D'Arcangelo said.

The Alliance Against Racism also had a member on the Ad-Hoc Committee on the Yakoo which voted to maintain the Indian mascot earlier this year.

The group was formed through Norfolk County District Attorney William Delahunt's office and competition for the award was state-wide.

The NQ students received training from the District Attorney's office through two conferences earlier in the school year.

Chrisom agreed that it is ironic that North Quincy High School receive an award for work against racism while at the same time it is accused of being racist. North Quincy students made a presentation Wednesday (last night) to the School Committee in an attempt to maintain the Yakoo as the official school symbol.

Chrisom said he expected the students to mention Tuesday's award during the presentation to the School Committee.

Superintendent of Schools Dr. Robert Ricci has ruled that the mascot be eliminated from school property including school stationary, documents and the gym floor.

Sections Of Quincy Ave., Washington St. To Get New 12-Inch Water Mains

Construction work on two water main projects in Ward 2 is expected to begin by the end of next month, Councillor Ted DeCristofaro announces.

The Department of Public Works project calls for water mains to be installed along sections of Quincy Ave. and Washington St. The purpose of the project is to increase the capacity of the current water system, by replacing existing eight-inch water mains with new 12-inch water mains.

Once construction begins, it will take approximately one year to complete the project.

Traffic on both Quincy Ave. and Washington St. will be maintained under an approved plan which will reduce the number of functional traffic lanes without totalling closing the roads to traffic.

On Quincy Ave. between Faxon Park Rd. and Howard St., approximately 4,270 feet of water main will be installed. An estimated 1,300 feet of this section has already been completed.

On Washington St. between Elm and South St., approximately 6,220 feet of water mains will be placed.

The project is jointly funded by the city of Quincy and the state Dept. of Environmental Protection, Bureau of Municipal Facilities.

The project was advertised and the three lowest bids being evaluated are: MPF Corporation at $1,111,360.50; Silva Construction Co., Inc., $1,148,773.; and Fiore Construction Co., Inc., $1,170,683.71.

DeCristofaro congratulated DPW Commissioner David Colton on taking action to evaluate the needs of the community and on implementing the improvements of the existing water system.

Soviets Judges At Central Science Fair

SOVIET SCIENTISTS Volodya Gecshenzon, center, and Tatyana Rudchenko, third from right, were among the judges at Central Middle School's recent Science Fair. The Soviets visited the school's Global Lab which has computers linked to computers in the USSR, enabling students to exchange information and idea. With the scientists are, from left, students Meghan Shea, Meghan Herford and Kate Bellanich; Principal Louis DiMartinis and Science Dept. Head William McWeeny.

CENTRAL MIDDLE SCHOOL seventh grader Jessie Barnes poses with her project, "A Toil With Soil," her study of soil and various effects the environment has on it. This was one of the many displays at the school's recent science fair. Jessie's project was one of the Global Lab studies in which some data was exchanged, via computer, with students in the Soviet Union.

'Church School Sunday' At Quincy Point

Church members, friends and visitors are invited to "Church School Sunday" at the Quincy Point Congregational Church Sunday at 10 a.m.

Church School children and young people will conduct the morning worship service on the theme "Spreading God's Word." Each class will follow the congregation in something they have learned during the past year.

All students will enter the sanctuary singing with the congregation, "All Things Bright and Beautiful." Infant and very young children will have their own processional into the church.

On Sunday, the church will honor Betty DeCristofaro who is celebrated her 50th year as a member of the church this year. The Sacrament of Christian Baptism will be administered to Marc Raymond Mullen, son of Marc and Sandra Mullen. Godparents are Thomas Dwyer and Kathleen Donovan.

One of the highlights of the service will be a variety of presentations and awards, including Perfect Attendance Pins, Certificates of Promotion, Children's Bibles to the second graders, adult Bibles to the sixth grade students and potted geraniums to all children attending the service.

The service will be followed by refreshments and fellowship in the social hall of the church. The service marks the conclusion of Church School classes until school reopens in early September.

Sunday services are telecast on Quincy Cable Channel 3 each Sunday at 8 a.m. and Wednesday at 11 a.m. for those physically unable to attend Sunday services.

Pastors are Revs. Fred and Carol Atwood-Lyon. For more information about the church, call 773-6424 Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., or leave a recorded message at any time day or night.

The church is located at the corner of Washington St. and Southern Artery.

Church School Celebration At Bethany

The 10 a.m. worship service at Bethany Congregational Church will celebrate the closing of Church School for the summer.

Children of the Church School will serve as greeters and ushers and Scripture readers will be John Leuchte and Sharon Capobianchi. Recognition of the Church School staff will be given by Gerry Capobianchi, superintendent.

Brian Capobianchi will play a trumpet solo and the kindergarten and first grade classes will sing.

The Chancel Choir, directed by organist Gregory Flynn, will also sing.

The Rev. Luther Durgin, interim minister, will have a children's story.

Joanne French, a member of the Christian Education Committee, will present scholarships to several graduates.

Gerry and Donna Scampoli and Paula Aluisi will host the Fellowship Hour in the Allen Parlor following the service.

An All Church Bake Sale will be held with proceeds going to the sanctuary carpet fund.

An All Church Picnic will be held Saturday, June 8 at Camp Heritage, Pembroke from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Participants should bring their own food and a beverage and a dessert for the Dessert Table for all to share.

Flower Festival Service At First Parish

United First Parish Unitarian Church, 1306 Hancock St., will hold the traditional Flower Festival for the June 9 10:30 a.m. Children's Sunday Service.

The Festival was originated in Czechoslovakia nearly 70 years ago by Unitarian minister Norbert Capek. He was arrested for speaking against Hitler in his sermons and organizing a Resistance Committee to help Czechs escape the Gestapo.

He was interred in the prison camp at Dachau where he was killed in a medical experiment. After his death, the Flower Festival spread to Unitarian churches throughout the world.

Everyone attending the service is asked to bring a flower which will be exchanged during the service for another person's, symbolic of the fellowship shared by the church family.

Rev. Sheldon Bennett will read Capek's Prayer and Consecration of the Flowers.

The choir will be under the direction of organist Norman Corey and soloist Eleanor McGourty will perform.

Certificates of Appreciation will be presented to the Church School teachers and Participation Certificates to the children.

Church School members Marc and Justin Adams will usher; Bethany Savelle, Marisa Ross, Elizabeth Bennett and Caitlin Sullivan will present the flowers. Children from the Level 1 Class will light the Flaming Chalice and lead the Unison Affirmation.

Confirmation At Covenant Congregational

The 10:45 a.m. worship service of the Covenant Congregational Church, Whitwell and Granite Streets, will be a service of Confirmation.

Pastor Kathleen Graves and Pastor Kirk Johnson will officiate. The ceremony is the culmination of two years of study for the eight confirmands.

Being confirmed are: Pamela Francoeur, Amanda LaCoste, Harry LaCoste, Rachel Lovendale, Wendy Lovendale, Sarah Nelson, Derek White and Beth Wynne. All will be presented with imprinted Bibles and certificates.

ENC Professor Wins Teaching Excellence Award

DR. JAMES CAMERON

Dr. James Cameron of Quincy, head of the history department and Chairman of the Division of Social Science at Eastern Nazarene College, was awarded a 1990-91 Sears Roebuck Foundation Teaching Excellence and Campus Leadership Award.

The Foundation recognizes resourcefulness and leadership in independent college educators.

Each award winner receives $1,000 and their institution receives a grant ranging from $500 to $1,500.

The program is administered nationally by the Foundation for Independent Higher Learning in Connecticut, and locally by Harry Herrick, Director of the New England College Fund.

Dr. Cameron received the award in recognition of his dedication to excellence in the classroom and for the individual attention he gives to each of the students he teaches and advises.

He has served on various ENC committees and as advisor to several student organizations, and has also been instrumental in groups revising ENC's general education curriculum.

6 High School Graduates Recognized At Squantum First Church

Six high school graduates were recognized Sunday at the morning worship service at the First Church of Squantum.

The six are Kimberly Olsen, Lori Ogilvie, Blythe Bumpus, Kristen Reister and Amanda Young of North Quincy High School and Marci Langevin-Hurd of Chapel Hill-Chauncy Hall School in Waltham.

The Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor, invited the graduates and their parents to the front of the sanctuary where he spoke to them about their experience in the church, Sunday School class, church youth group and various choirs.

Choir Director Mary Ruth Scott sang a special solo for the graduates and Beth Harper, chairman of the Board of Christian Education, presented each of the graduates with a gift from the church.

The sermon was entitled "Guidelines for a Happy Life."

Music was by the Chancel Choir and congregational singing was accompanied by Scott on the organ and Janet Williamson on the piano.

Special prayers were offered for Katie

Crossman, Cliff Mason, Grace Holmes, Fred Josslyn, Stewart Scott, Bill Barnes, Helen Miller, Eva Martin, Carrie MacIntyre, Skit Mayne, Dave Mildram, Paul Giachetti, John Sumner, Richard Williams, Rick Stohberg and Roger Hartwell.

Greeters were Hazel Mayne and Gretchen Bumpus, ushers were Katrina Sorrentino and Roberta Sheehan and the fellowship hour was hosted by Sandra Stohberg and Pat Sorenson.

The Bible Study group continues its study of the gospel of Mark Wednesday nights at 7:30 p.m. Sunday morning worship is at 9:30 a.m. this week. Child care is available.

This week's service is Graduation Sunday for graduates of college and grad school.

Following the service the Church Council will meet in the parlor.

The Way Up, a group for teenagers, meets Sunday from 7-9 p.m.

The annual Church Flea Market will be June 15 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Table reservations can be made by calling Hazel Mayne at 328-4367.

HEALTH CARE PROXIES

Have you considered what your rights as a patient are to make medical decisions for yourself?

Have you considered what could happen if you were ill and not able to decide what type of medical treatment you wanted?

The Massachusetts Legislature passed a bill which states that health care providers must honor Health Care Proxies.

A "HEALTH CARE PROXY" names a person, called an "agent," who will make medical decisions for you. These medical decisions are decided by you before you lack the capacity to act or make decisions on your behalf.

Beechwood Center Offers At-Home Vacations

Because the current economy is causing many families to forego summer vacation plans, the Beechwood Community Life Center, 225 Fenno St., has expanded its summer offerings for children and adults to provide at-home vacations. Throughout the entire summer Beechwood will offer full day summer camp and "Special Interest Clubs" for elementary school children, as well as "Nature Capers" and full Day Care for preschoolers and a full time Summer Kindergarten.

Also planned are summer music lessons and classes, individual tutoring and academic review classes and part-time camps for art, theatre, music, photography and computers.

The once-a-week clubs will focus on science, photography, guitar and "Music Madness."

The After School and Summer Camp Program for elementary school children has also been expanded to a full ten weeks.

The Elder Action Program will also continue throughout the summer months, with a senior drop-in center three days a week, volleyball, line dancing and a community garden.

For information and registration for any program or class at Beechwood, call 471-5712.

Mary Schiarizzi Wins Third Emmy

Mary Schiarizzi, daughter of Vincent and Phyllis Schiarizzi of Wollaston, recently won her third Emmy Award for sports.

Schiarizzi is a freelance producer in television promotions. Her work as an associate producer in promoting ABC's Monday Night Football was commended at the 12th annual ceremonies at the Marriott Marquis Hotel in New York.

The campaign was entitled "All My Rowdy Friends II" and featured country singer Hank Williams Jr.

Schiarizzi is a 1980 graduate of North Quincy High School and graduated from Boston University.

She is currently in Nashville filming a third series of promotions for the ABC Monday Night Football program.

Alumni Band Concert At Beechwood June 15

The Beechwood

Community Life Center, 225 Fenno St., will present an "Intergenerational" concert and dance Saturday, June 15 at 1 p.m.

Entertainment will be provided by The Alumni Band, a group of former Quincy and North Quincy High School Band members and friends, under the direction of George Vallatini. Their music will include big band, jazz and popular selections.

Special guests will be The Feeley Sisters who will sing in the style of the Anaews Sisters. They will perform several Andrews Sisters selections as well as other songs from the 1940's.

The concert is free and open to the public.

St. Anthony's Fiesta At St. John's June 14-15

St. John's 16th annual St. Anthony's Festival will be held Friday, June 14 from 6 to 11 p.m. and Saturday, June 15 from noon to 11 p.m. on the church grounds, 41 School St.

Proceeds will benefit the Parish charitable programs including a 20-bed shelter for homeless men, a home for single pregnant young girls, and the parish needy.

The Most Rev. John Mulcahy, Auxiliary Bishop of Boston, will concelebrate a special Italian Mass honoring St. Anthony Saturday (June 15) at 4 p.m. A procession will follow the Mass.

New features for the two-day celebration include a baby booth, a kiddies carousel, music by a disc jockey and live band for singing and dancing, and other special events and games.

Last year, a record 12,000 people from the Quincy-South Shore area attended the celebration.

The festival has become a major religious, social and cultural attraction of the spring in the Quincy area.

There will be many types of food and delicacies available as well as games, booths, clowns and prizes for both children and adults.

A large corps of parish volunteers serve on the planning committee with

ST. ANTHONY'S FESTIVAL Committee members include, front row, from left, Hazel Nostroangelo, John Taglieri, Joe Zacheo, Joe Ilacqua. Second row, Irene Murphy. Third row, Lee Todd, Patsy Nostroangelo, Joyce Acorn. Back, Bill Robinson, Sherri Robinson

St. Mary's School Students Raise $241 For Easter Seals

Youngsters from St. Mary's School in West Quincy recently hopped to help people with disabilities, raising $241 in an Easter Seal HOP-N-ING.

Children spent the previous week learning about disabilities--what causes them, how disabilities affect people's everyday lives, the equipment used to cope.

After that, they were ready to help.

Each child secured pledges from family and friends for every hop performed during a three-minute HOP-N-ING. Funds raised help provide Easter Seal services for men, women and children with disabilities.

Services include summer camp, therapeutic swim programs, home health care, physical and occupational therapy, speech therapy, equipment loan, and support groups for people recovering from strokes and information and referral services.

Bookmaking Charge Heard, Liquor License Transferred

By STEVE KAVANAGH

The License Board postponed for two weeks any action against Brannigan's, 226 Water St., regarding charges of illegal bookmaking.

Despite the possible suspension or revocation of Brannigan's license the board also approved the transfer of the Common Victualer-All Alcohol license held by Brittany's, 214 Washington St., to Mark DiBona, owner of Brannigan's.

DiBona has denied any knowledge of bookmaking activities at Brannigan's.

The board placed strict conditions on the transfer including prohibiting DiBona's father, Robert DiBona Sr., who was recently convicted on bookmaking charges, from visiting or working for the establishment which will be called Cagney's.

Prior to the hearing on the Brittany's transfer, a hearing was held regarding illegal bookmaking activities at Brannigan's. Owners Mark DiBona and Edward Maloney were summoned before the State Board to answer charges of allowing illegalities (gaming) to take place on the premises.

The board voted to take under advisement for two weeks a disposition on the matter. The board could suspend or revoke Brannigan's license or take no action.

DiBona Sr., a bartender at Brannigan's, was convicted earlier this year in Dedham Superior Court of being an accessory before the fact of registering bets. Additional charges were placed on file.

DiBona Sr. was sentenced to three months and jail and ordered to pay a $10,000 fine.

Assistant City Solicitor James Timmins explained the city's position on the matter to the board.

"A recent investigation resulted in convictions in an elaborate gaming operation done in part at Brannigan's. The standard is 'did the owner know or should he have known?' what was going on in the establishment," Timmins said. He also said the Mark DiBona was informed of his fathers previous gambling history.

DiBona Sr. was convicted on gambling charges in 1986 and 1987 and had several charges dismissed in the early 1980s.

Attorneys for Maloney and Mark DiBona argued that the owners had no reason to believe anything illegal was going on at the bar and that the wiretap of Brannigan's came up empty because the convictions in the case were based on other wiretaps.

Flag Day/Welcome Home Parade To Be Held June 14

A Flag Day/Welcome Home Parade, which organizers say will be one of the largest parades of its kind in the state, will stop off Friday, June 14 at 6:30 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The parade, organized by The Quincy Partnership, Inc. and the city of Quincy, will proceed down Hancock St. to the Thomas Crane Public Library.

In celebration of Flag Day, the nine Gettysburg Peace Flags will be displayed. Also, Memorial Flags for deceased veterans from a number of wars will be prominently displayed along the parade route.

Returning veterans from the Persian Gulf will march and other veterans group will be represented. Raytheon Co. has provided a Patriot Missile that will be included in the parade. Many other military groups and bands will participate.

Grand Marshal will be Presidential Aide Ron Kaufman.

The parade will culminate in the lighting of the exterior of the library. There will also be a flag raising ceremony with Rene Rancourt of the Boston Bruins singing the National Anthem. There will be additional musical entertainment.

Refreshments for all have been donated by various local businesses.

This year's parade will also honor the late Dick Koch, founder of the Koch Club in Quincy. For many years Mr. Koch organized Quincy's Flag Day parades. There will be a float in his memory and members of the Koch family will march.

Council Votes For Quarterly Tax Bills

The city wants to save money on short term borrowing costs. The city borrows money occasionally during the course of a year to meet various costs such as payroll. Short term borrowing is dictated by the city's cash flow. In recent years the city has had to borrow when local aid payments from the state have been delayed.

Under the current twice-a-year billing system, the first payment is not due until the end of November even though the city is up and running beginning July 1. The city generates some revenues before November through fees, auto excise taxes, sewer and water bills, parking fines, etc.

"I think the citizens of Quincy are willing to cooperate," said Councilor-at-Large Patricia Toland. "They realize the situation we are in and I think they want to help keep the city solvent."

Four Residents Receive UMass/Boston Senior Awards

Four Quincy residents were recently presented awards at the University of Massachusetts at Boston.

Jacqueline McKean of Royal St. received a senior award in chemistry.

Marianne Murphy of Hamilton St. accepted the Dean's Award for Service. The award recognizes a graduating senior whose leadership and service have improved college life for all College of Management students.

Diane Murray of Davies St. received a distinction in biology award.

Mary Wrinn of West Squantum St. won a seniors award in biology.

The four students were among the graduates who received diplomas at the college's recent commencement.

Dean Tantillo Wins Merit Scholarship

Quincy High School senior Dean Tantillo has been selected as a winner of a National Merit Scholarship.

The prestigious scholarship is awarded on a representative basis, with winners named in every state. Winners are chosen by a committee of college admissions officers and secondary school counselors.

Tantillo, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Tantillo Jr.

of West Quincy, will attend Harvard College in September.

Three other QHS students, John Daley, Michael Donnelly and Terry McCann, are eligible for the 1992 Merit Scholarship program. The three students were selected based on their scores of the 1990 P.S.A.T./N.M.S.Q.T.

More than one million high school students took the exam last fall.

Quincy Ends Sad Season With 8-7 Loss

The Quincy baseball team finished a sad first season in the Old Colony League by dropping an 8-7 non-league decision to Stoughton last week.

The Presidents, who opened and closed the season with losses to Stoughton, finished at 3-17 (2-14 in the OCL). Quincy had the youngest team in the league with only three seniors.

A squeeze bunt in the ninth inning gave Stoughton its win last week and handed the Presidents their sixth one-run loss of the year.

the three seniors and a co-captain, completed an outstanding season with a triple and double and co-captain Chad McMahon, another senior, also had two hits. The only other senior was John Fahey.

"It was a frustrating season but our young players gained a lot of much needed experience," said coach Bob Sylvia. "It is very tough to ask freshmen and sophomores to face far more experienced teams as Taunton, Falmouth, Barnstable and Bridgewater-Raynham. "Balzano had a tremendous year for us. Last year he made the Suburban League All-Star Team and this year is an Old Colony League All-Star. He had the misfortune of having his career intertwined with a school that had fallen on hard times. He would have had far greater exposure if he played elsewhere. I can't imagine what we would have done if he wasn't here. When our sophomores and juniors become better players next year, it will be because of what Tommy did this season."

Balzano, an excellent catcher, hit over 430 and finished among the top batters in the league. He hit for the cycle in one game, including a home run which traveled over 400 feet over the fence at Adams Field and earlier he hit one at Weymouth estimated to have traveled 500 feet.

An excellent player for Morrisette Legion's Zone 6 champions last summer, he should be one of the outstanding players in the zone this summer.

He plans to play baseball for Massasoit Community College in Brockton and hopes to some day play for a Division I program in the South.

--TOM SULLIVAN

FORMER QUINCY MAYOR Francis McCauley, a "pacesetter" in last October's second annual Boston Marathon Jimmy Fund Walk, was honored recently by Dana-Farber's Jimmy Fund. He was among 110 pacesetter who raised at least $500 each to support cancer research and treatment at Boston's Dana-Farber Cancer Institute. Pacesetters walked the 26.2 mile route of the Boston Marathon and raised a third of the total $290,000. McCauley is pictured with Mike Andrews, a pacesetter himself and executive director of the Jimmy Fund.

Triple A

Fernald Defeats Hurley, 8-6

The Fernald Plumbing Dodgers defeated the Hurley Insurance Padres, 8-6, in Quincy Triple A Baseball League action.

Mike Shaw struck out seven in three innings, Mike Russo, in his first pitching assignment, struck out six in two innings and John Parastatedes struck out two in one inning as the trio combined for a four-hitter. Losing pitcher Chris Duffy went the route and struckout eight.

For the Dodgers, Charlie Doherty, batting .889 in his last four games, went 4-for-4; Russo, batting .722 in his last five games including home runs in his last three, went 3-for-4; Mike Shaw went 3-for-3 and Billy Nelson went 2-for-2. Russo's hits included a home run and triple and one of Doherty's was a triple.

Matt Allen played fine defense and 15 of the 18 outs were strikeouts.

For the Padres, Jacob Flemming and Matt Gibbons went 2-for-3. Gibbons, Chris McLean and Duffy played strong defense.

The Padres topped the A's, 10-8, with Brad Brooks the winning pitcher in his first pitching appearance. He struck out 12.

Flemming had three hits and McLean had a three-run homer for the Padres. Flemming also had a fine game on defense.

Sports

Connolly Golf All-Star

Brian Connolly of Quincy, a student at Don Bosco High School, has been named to the Catholic Conference golf all-star team and placed fifth in the conference championship tournament at the Thomas Country Club, North Reading.

It is Connolly's first year as a player in competitive golf.

Other Don Bosco students who took part in the tournament included Brian's brother Patrick.

Soccer

Colonial Clinches Eastern Division

Colonial Federal, Quincy's entry in the South Shore League Div. 2 boys under 12 division, clinched the Eastern Division title with an 8-0 decision over Braintree.

Jeff Verlicco scored six goals, giving him 27 with one regular season game left. Also scoring were Sean Slattery and Nick Bissanti. Joey Vallatina, Steve Clarke, Jerry Mulcahy, T. J. Wilson and Verlicco had assists. Playing well were Mike Trayers, Eddie Smith, Dan Kinnecom and goalie Scott Staiti, who recorded his fifth shutout.

Track

North Girls Finish Best Season In 7 Years

North Quincy girls' track has been steadily improving over the past three years and in the recent state championships in Reading coach Jeff Hennessy's team finished sixth in Class B with 24 points, the best showing since 1984.

Hennessy's plan when he took over the coaching reins five years ago was to downplay the league championship in favor of the states. His plan paid off.

Sophomore Suzanne Lewis ran a picture perfect race enroute to a second place (11:52.2) behind Lincoln-Sudbury's super talent, Diana Bowser, in the two-mile.

Ever-improving junior Amy Wong placed a surprising third in the 100 meters and Tricia Hughes, disappointed at missing the finals of the 300 hurdles by two-tenths of a second, went out and smashed her school record in the triple jump, jumping 35-10 for third place behind vastly more experienced jumpers in what Hennessy called "The most talent-laden event of the meet."

Five girls had jumped 36 feet this season and Hughes was jumping 32 feet three weeks ago.

Senior Tristen Mastrogiacomio, out of the lineup for two weeks with a back sprain, made a fine comeback to place fourth in the shot put at 32-5 1/4 to qualify for the all-states (only the top four in each event move on).

"I give her a lot of credit," said Hennessy. "She had a bad day for her in the conference meet (second at 30-7), but I told her she needed to get back and go for broke. Two weeks out of action is a lot of time. She can't lift, can't hurdle and can't do plyometrics. She's done so much for this team, it would have been a shame for her not to go out with a bang."

Senior Tara Miles made it to the finals in the javelin and placed seventh, one place away from scoring. She turned in a personal best of 99-3.

North placed second among Old Colony League teams behind league champion Falmouth, with 74 points.

North Quincy finished its first Old Colony League season tied for second place with Weymouth, each with a 6-2 record.

In its final meet North topped Barnstable, 74-62.

Tara Miles won the javelin at 92-2 with Debbie Ramos third, Maureen McCarthy won the discus at 75-10 with Trish McNamara second and Jen Santry third, Voula Regan was second in the long jump and triple jump, and Heather Rendle won the high jump at 4-10.

The 4x100 relay team of Wong, Suzanne Hamilton, Jen Nutley and Jenny Marks won in 55.1, Lewis won the 800 at 2:30.2 with Melanie Gaziano third, Wong won the 100 in 13.3 with Hamilton third, Hughes won the 300 hurdles in 50.6, Rendle was third in the 400, Nutley was second in the 200, Lewis won the mile in 6:01 with Jenn Flynn second, Flynn was second in the two-mile with Julie Tangney third and the 4x400 relay team of Kerry Evans, Karen Leary, Rendle and Gaziano won in 4:49.3.

In their previous meet the North girls lost to Weymouth, 78-56. Ilana Cobban was second in the 400, Miles won the javelin at 97-8 with Ramos second, Barry won the shot at 27-11 1/2 with Regas second and McNamara third, Hughes was third in the long jump, Rendle third in the high jump, Hughes second in the triple jump and McCarthy second and Regas third in the discus.

Aimee Chin was second in the 100 hurdles, Wong second in the 200, Lewis second in the 800, Kristy Kabilian third in the mile, Lewis won the two-mile in 12:30.1 with Flynn second and Tangney third, Hughes won the 300 hurdles in 50.0 and Wong was second in the 100.

In the junior/senior division of the Falmouth Invitational Meet, Wong was fifth in the 100 in 13.1 and also ran 12.9 and 13.0 in the preliminaries; Tangney was sixth in the mile in 5:57.4, her personal best; Flynn was fourth in the two-mile in 12:39.8, Hughes was third in the 300 hurdles in 48.3 - a new school record; and Ramos was fourth in the javelin at 91-7.

In the freshman/sophomore division Lewis won the two-mile in 11:51.7, a meet record, and Barry was fifth in the shot at 29-11, a personal best qualifying her for the state meet.

Lewis was fifth in the two-mile at the state coaches meet in 11:51.2.

In the South Shore Principals Meet North competed in Class A and finished sixth with 21 points. Wong was fourth in the 100, Hughes second in the 300 hurdles, Miles sixth in the javelin, Hughes second in the triple jump at 34-6 1/2, a school record.

In the Old Colony League championships North finished fifth with 57 points, most of the points coming in the field events. North led after the field events. North rested many of its runners with the states coming.

Wong was second in the 100 at 13.0, running 12.8 in the trials, Hughes was second in the 300 hurdles, Lewis was third in the mile, Hughes won the triple jump at 35-4 1/2, her personal best, a school record and the best in the league this year; Rendle was fourth in the high jump at five feet, a personal best and the first North girl to hit five feet since 1985; Mastrogiacomio was second in the shot with Regas fourth at 28-3 1/2, a personal best; McCarthy, a freshman, was sixth in the discus at 49-10, a personal best, and Miles won the javelin at 93-7, a major upset.

To Our Brother Timmy

June 7, 1965 - June 7, 1991

Today you would have been 26 years. We wish we could be together with you to celebrate your birthday. Since we cannot, we are sending this birthday message to you, with thanks for the many happy years you gave to us while you were here. Even though we can no longer see your smiling face, we have all those happy memories we will never erase.

Timmy, you are always in our thoughts and deep inside our hearts. We miss you so very much.

Love, Kevin and Terry

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

On Flag Day, June 14, let us fly 'Ole Glory' proudly. Let us take pride in the knowledge that when OUR flag was born it brought into the world a new concept of government.

A government OF THE PEOPLE, BY THE PEOPLE, and FOR THE PEOPLE. That concept could be based on no other principle than that of which our flag is the symbol; the PRINCIPLE OF FREEDOM. Let us prove our loyalty and appreciation by believing, loving and maintaining in our minds and hearts that founding principle of our great and precious symbol, The LAW OF HUMAN FREEDOM.

Let us salute that flag, and pledge allegiance to it; let us never fail to remember that fundamental and universal principle of Freedom, of which our symbol is: THE STAR-SPANGLED BANNER

What Does A Funeral Cost?

We get many calls asking us this question. We're pleased to give price information but the problem is that funerals are very personal. So, each one is slightly different. Asking "what does a funeral cost?" can be like calling a nice restaurant and asking what a meal costs.

To help our customers make informed choices we now offer a new service — the free funeral cost analysis. By answering a few simple questions we can tell you exactly what your funeral will cost. We can even help you lock in today's prices so you can fight against inflation.

Call or write us today for a free, no obligation funeral cost analysis.

A Few Words on FUNERAL SERVICE

Free literature on funerals

Many residents of our community have found our literature helpful in learning more about funerals and pre-planning. Why pre-plan a funeral? First, you can make decisions and choices, yourself, with full composure instead of during grieving and emotional stress. Second, you need not "overspend." You should select only that service, casket, and those touches which you feel are important.

That hushed Scripture passage or special hymn, the minister whose understanding and compassion you so admire — all can be part of your service.

CITY OF QUINCY
IN COUNCIL

ORDER NO. 373 OF 1990
ORDERED:

November 19, 1990

Chapter 9 of the Ordinances of the City of Quincy is hereby amended by striking out said chapter in its entirety and inserting in place thereof the following:

CHAPTER 9

Section 1 - License Required. It shall be unlawful for any solicitor or canvasser as defined in this ordinance to engage in such business within the City without first obtaining a license therefor in compliance with the provisions of this ordinance. The provisions of this ordinance shall not apply to any person exempted under Chapter 101 of the General Laws, or to any person duly licensed under Chapter 101 of the General Laws, nor shall this ordinance be construed to prevent route salesmen or other persons having established customers to whom they make periodic deliveries from calling upon such customers to solicit an order for future periodic route deliveries. The provisions of this ordinance shall also not be construed as to apply to any person engaged in the pursuit of soliciting for charitable, benevolent, fraternal, religious or political activities.

Section 2 - Definition. A solicitor or canvasser is defined as any person who, for himself, or for another person, firm or corporation travels by foot, automobile or any other type of conveyance from place to place, from house to house, or from street to street, taking or attempting to lease or take orders for retail sale of goods, wares, merchandise, or services, including without limiting, the selling, distributing, exposing for sale or soliciting orders for magazines, books, periodicals or other articles of a commercial nature, the contracting of all home improvements, or for services to be performed in the future whether or not such individual has, carries or exposes for retail sale a sample of the subject of such sale or whether he is collecting advance payment on such retail sales.

Section 3 - Application. Applicants for a license shall file with the Chief of Police, on a form issued by the Police Department, a written application signed under the penalties of perjury, containing the following information:

- (a) Name of applicant.
- (b) Address of applicant (local and permanent home address).
- (c) Applicant's height, weight, eye and hair color.
- (d) Applicant's social security number.
- (e) The length of time for which the right to do business is desired including the days and hours during which such solicitation is requested to occur.
- (f) A brief description of the nature of the business and the goods to be sold.
- (g) The name and home office address of the applicant's employer. If self-employed, it shall so state.
- (h) A photograph of the applicant which picture shall be submitted by the applicant and be 2" x 2" showing the head and shoulders of the applicant in a clear and distinguishing manner.
- (i) If operating a motor vehicle: the year, make, model, motor number, registration number, State of Registration, vehicle's owner and address.

At the time of filing the application, each applicant shall pay a fee of Fifty ($50.00) Dollars.

Section 4 - Investigation and Issuance.

1. Upon receipt of the applicant, the Chief of Police shall investigate the applicant's reputation as to morals and integrity.

2. After an investigation of the applicant's morals and integrity, but within 7 business days of the filing of the applicant, the Chief of Police shall endorse on such application his approval or disapproval. Failure of the Police Chief to act on said permit within 7 business days of the applicant's filing shall constitute approval. If disapproved, the applicant shall have the right of appeal to the City Council in writing within 7 days of the denial by the Chief of Police. The City Council must act upon the appeal at one of their next two regularly scheduled meetings. Failure to so act shall be deemed approval.

3. Such license when issued shall contain the signature of the Chief of Police and shall show the name, address, and photograph of said licensee, the date of issuance and the length of time the same shall be operative, as well as the license number. The Police Department shall keep a record of all licenses issued for a period of six (6) years. Solicitors and canvassers when engaged in the business of soliciting or canvassing are required to display an identifying badge issued by the Police Department, by wearing said badge on an outer garment. Each licensee is required to possess an individual license.

Section 5 - Duty of Police to Enforce - Transfer. The police officers of the City shall enforce this ordinance. No license shall be transferred.

Section 6 - Revocation of License. The Chief of Police is hereby vested with jurisdiction over the revoking of licenses. Any person aggrieved by such revocation may appeal to the City Council within 7 business days, and a hearing will be scheduled for one of the next two regularly scheduled meetings of the City Council.

Section 7 - Expiration of License. Each license issued under the provisions of this ordinance shall continue in force from the date of its issue until the thirty-first day of December following, unless sooner revoked.

Section 8 - Renewal of License. A license issued under the provisions of this ordinance may be renewed by the Chief of Police. An applicant requesting a renewal of a license must apply in person for such license renewal, and provide such information as is required to obtain an initial license.

Section 9 - Misrepresentation.

1. No solicitor or canvasser, licensed or exempted from license, may misrepresent, in any manner, the buyer's right to cancel as stipulated by Chapter 93, 93A and 255D of the General Laws.

2. No solicitor or canvasser, licensed or exempted from license, may use any plan, scheme or ruse which misrepresents the true status or mission of the person making the call in order to gain admission to a prospective buyer's home, office, or other establishment with the purpose of making a sale of consumer goods or services.

Section 10 - Trespassing. It shall be unlawful for any canvasser or solicitor to enter the premises of a resident or business who has displayed a "no trespassing" or "no soliciting" sign or poster. Further, it shall be unlawful for canvassers or solicitors to ignore a resident or businessperson's no solicitation directive or remain on private property after its owner has indicated that the canvasser or solicitor is not welcome.

Section 11 - Penalty. Any person violating any provision of this ordinance shall, upon conviction thereof, be punished by a fine not to exceed Fifty ($50.00) Dollars for each and every offense. Any person convicted of a second or subsequent violation, shall forthwith have his license suspended by the Chief of Police.

Tough Door-To-Door Salesmen Ordinance Passed

The City Council Ordinance Committee approved a measure Monday placing more control on door-to-door salesmen.

The council briefly debated the ordinance, which does not apply to non-profit or religious canvassers, before passing it.

The measure was introduced by Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson as a way of helping the police department gain better control over con artists and other criminals who pose as salesmen.

Councillors agreed that there might be some loopholes in the ordinance but decided to pass the measure now and make amendments later.

"Let's pass it now. This is the season (spring) when this type of solicitation starts. We can amend it as necessary as we go along," Councillor-at-Large Tim Cahill said.

"It could have flaws but it's better than what we have now," said Police Chief Francis Mullen.

"Milton recently passed a similar bylaw," Mullen said. "I believe we need some control over this activity."

The ordinance requires companies wishing to door-to-door canvassing to apply for a permit with police. The application would include thorough information about individuals who would be selling. Salesman would be required to wear a photo identification badge.

The police department will also conduct a background check on the applicant.

Ward 4 Neighborhood Association To Meet June 11

The South and West Quincy Ward 4 Neighborhood Association will meet Tuesday, June 11 at 7 p.m. at the Faith Lutheran Center, 65 Roberts St.

Dr. Brigida Tironese-Call will be guest speaker. She is on the staff at Quincy Hospital and is a specialist of internal medicine and diabetology.

The newly formed association recently elected its officers. They are:

Ernest Aristide, president; Norman Govette, vice president; Miriam Luoma, secretary; Claire O'Brien, treasurer, and Leo Capobianca, assistant treasurer.

Ward 4 Councillor Thomas Fabrizio will discuss the proposed traffic rotary at Fort Square intersection. Atty. Thomas N. Byrnes Jr., has been retained as the legal consultant for the association.

Door prizes and refreshments will be served. The public is invited.

Atlantic School Oil Tank Leaks 3,800 Gallons

Monday morning.

Koch said the problem does not pose any health threats.

Wilson said a decision to install a new oil tank or convert to gas will be made soon. Before the city could convert, he pointed out the gas company would have to conduct a study to determine whether it can supply the required amount of gas needed for the boiler at the school.

Wilson said the study would take between two and four weeks.

In any event, the plant director said the situation would be resolved before the start of the new school year in the fall.

Storage tanks will also be tested at the other 10 schools with underground oil tanks. In all, there are 11 school buildings with 13 underground tanks in Quincy.

Fabrizio Announces Bid For Second Term

Ward 4 Councillor Thomas Fabrizio recently announced his bid for a second term before 200 supporters.

Calling his first 18 months in office a learning process, Fabrizio said he would continue to work hard as Ward 4 councillor if re-elected.

In addition, Fabrizio said he has listened carefully to people and their concerns and has worked with them to find solutions. Examples include filing over 17 neighborhood traffic requests in an effort to improve public safety; bringing six business establishments before the license board for action in response to complaints and attending all Zoning Board of Appeals meetings involving Ward 4 issues so that the view of the neighbors could be heard and addressed.

He also noted his work to complete financial approval of the $7 million West Quincy relief interceptor sewer project. Once complete, the project will eliminate sanitary sewer overflows in the existing outdated system currently servicing the West Quincy area.

His other accomplishments include: updating the security system at the Lincoln Hancock Community School; working with federal and state agencies to provide noise barriers along Route 3 subject to final approval by neighbors in the area; and introducing an ordinance which calls for Vietnam veterans be hired according to the Affirmative Action process.

Fabrizio has also begun the process of rezoning sections of Ward 4 to planned unit development (PUD) to provide citizen input in the planning process of any development project and protection for the neighborhoods by imposing orders and conditions on developers in response to neighborhood concerns and problems.

"I have learned that a ward councillor is the closest part of government to the people and I would welcome an opportunity to continue to serve the people of Ward 4 while continuing to strive towards improving the quality of life in our neighborhoods," he said.

License Board

The Quincy License Board took the following action at its meeting Tuesday:

•Granted a request from the Quincy Bar Association for a One-day

Liquor license for its annual outing, Wednesday, June 19 from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. at Presidents Golf Course.

•Granted a request from the North Quincy High School girls volleyball team for permission to conduct a canning drive Sept. 26, 27 and 28.

•Granted a request from the 92 Club, 92 Liberty St., for a One-day Wine and Malt license for the South Quincy Italian Festival September 7.

•Granted a request from the South Quincy Bocce Club for a one-day extension of its Wine and Malt license for the South Quincy Italian Festival, September 7.

•Postponed, for one week, a request from the D&D Deli, 101 Liberty St., for a one-day extension of its Wine and Malt license for the South Quincy Italian Festival.

Ward 6 Meeting On Burglaries, Vandalism, Water Program Tonight

Ward 6 Councillor Thomas Nutley, in conjunction with the Atlantic Neighborhood Association, has scheduled a community meeting for Ward 6 residents tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center, 12 Hunt St. (behind North Quincy High School) to hear presentations on three issues of importance to area residents.

"This meeting will focus on the community problems of numerous burglaries recently throughout the North Quincy area, vandalism in the parks and playgrounds and a presentation on 'Operation Water Sense,' and MWRA program that will help residents reduce their use of water and thereby lower their combined sewer-water bills," Nutley said.

"There has been a slew of house burglaries in the North Quincy area recently," Nutley said, "and Robert Hanna of the Quincy Police Department's Community Relations staff will address that issue, Ray Cattaneo, Quincy parks director, will speak on vandalism in the parks." In addition, Nutley will explain the new MWRA program whereby MWRA representatives will visit Ward 6 homes from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays, June 12 through July 13.

"Operation Water Sense" is a one-time opportunity for residents to reduce their water usage by having faucet aerators, low-flow showerheads and toilet dampers installed free of charge. Our sewer-water bills are rising dramatically," Nutley said, "and the only way to moderate those increases is to reduce our use of water.

"MWRA representatives will carry identification when they visit area homes and residents are urged to look closely at that identification before admitting the MWRA rep into their home.

"I strongly urge every Ward 6 homeowner and renter to take advantage of this no-cost program," Nutley said. "The installation of these appliances will save us all many dollars on our sewer-water bills."

Also at the meeting, two long-time Ward 6 residents will be honored for their dedicated volunteer service to the community.

Mayor James Sheets, Sen. Paul Harold and Rep. Michael Morrissey have been invited to join Nutley in presenting community volunteer awards to Gretchen Bumpus and Elvira DeYoung. Bumpus has conducted free blood pressure tests at the Atlantic Center at no charge for more than 10 years. DeYoung, 78, is an outstanding community worker at the Ward 6 annual cleanups.

"We look forward to a large turnout of interested citizens," Nutley said.

BROAD MEADOWS Middle School eighth graders received special achievement awards at a recent honors night. From left, James Lencki, Principal's Award; Kevin Nichol, Broad Meadows Pride Award; Scott Dunn, American Legion Award; Desiree Livingston, Altha P. State Backs Funds To Bring Lexington Home work with the city's legislative delegation in drafting the legislation. In addition, Tucker and Beagle, a Boston law firm, will donate their services.

Sheets emphasized funding for the Lexington's return and tourist site start-up and maintenance would be funded by a state-back bond.

"There is no state or city budget money in this. It will not be borne by the taxpayer," he said.

The agency would use a percentage of the revenue generated by the tourist site to pay off the bond over a 20 year period.

Sheets said he is pleased the state supports the initiative.

"All the lights were green that we stopped at today. It's full speed ahead," he said.

Since beginning the Lexington campaign earlier this year, Sheets has maintained state support is crucial to get the Lexington. Five other cities are competing for the ship which will be decommissioned in the fall.

Several of those cities, including Mobile, Alabama and Corpus Christi, Texas, have received state funding for their efforts.

Vandals Cause $50,000 Damage At Monument Firm

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Quincy police are still investigating an apparent vandalism spree which caused an estimated $50,000 in damage to a West Quincy monument firm.

Police believe beer drinking teenagers knocked over 115 granite headstones behind Quincy Memorials, Inc. at 18 Willard St. sometime last Friday night or Saturday morning. Five empty beer bottles were found near the overturned stones.

As of Tuesday afternoon, police had no suspects.

More than half of the headstones were chipped or broken beyond repair, said owner Yves Poirier.

"It's very discouraging," Poirier said Saturday morning shortly after discovering the damage. He said he believes drinking teenagers caused the damage because he has spotted youths consuming alcoholic beverages near his businesses before.

"The kids are out here drinking. They just decided to knock them over. Every one of them. There's a large parking lot (next to his business). They hang out and drink.

"When they have a few beers, they feel a little strong. It's just malicious damage," he said.

Poirier, a Brockton resident who has managed the monument firm located near the Milton line for 12 years, said he stopped work at 5 p.m. Friday. When he returned at 9 a.m. Saturday, he discovered the vandalism.

The headstones weight about 800 pounds each and cost about $1,500, Poirier said. He said it could have taken three or four people 10 to 15 minutes to topple them.

Three of the headstones had been sold but had not yet been engraved. He said he will check with his insurance company to see whether the damage is covered.

Quincy detectives removed five empty beer bottles from the site Saturday morning. No finger prints have been found on the bottles, police said Tuesday.

Anselmo Returns With Criticism

graduation ceremonies following a Rhode Island federal court judge's ruling that such prayers violated separation of church and state.

The complaint was brought by the father of a junior high school student. The Providence School Committee has appealed the ruling to the U.S. Supreme Court which is scheduled to hear it this fall.

The four Quincy School Committee members who said they voted for the ban on the advice of attorneys were Mary Collins, Steve Durkin, Margaret Nigro and Mary Jane Powers.

Durkin and Powers are up for re-election this year. Nigro is leaving the School Committee.

Voting to keep the prayers were Mayor James Sheets, Ronald Mariano and Frank Santoro.

Anselmo whose School Committee service spans nearly 30 years, said he would have also voted to retain Yakoo, the North Quincy High School symbol and mascot.

"That was more stupidity than a trivial matter," Anselmo said.

Anselmo has been a critic of School Supt. Dr. Robert Ricci who ordered Yakoo banned from school property and athletic uniforms and documents as being offensive to American Indians.

Anselmo's entrance into the School Committee race virtually assures a preliminary election in September.

Anselmo is the seventh candidate needed to force a preliminary election. The other six are incumbents Durkin and Powers, and Challengers JoAnne Bragg, Toni Kabilian, Margaret King and Linda Stice.

If all seven stay in the race, there will be a preliminary runoff Sept. 17.

Daniel Raymond, former school committee member, city councillor and Norfolk County treasurer, has been considering entering the race.

Yakoo And God

Yakoo has been rescued from banishment, and maybe God still has a chance, too.

Yakoo's vindication at last week's School Committee showdown hopefully will put an end to an issue that shouldn't have been one in the first place.

And, hopefully, the U.S. Supreme Court this fall will allow God to be present again at high school graduation ceremonies.

A federal court judge in Providence, R.I. ruled against God on the complaint of a father, that prayers at public school graduation was a violation of separation of church and state.

The matter has been appealed to the Supreme Court.

The Quincy School Committee, on the strength of the Providence ruling voted 4 to 3 not to allow prayers at this year's Quincy and North Quincy High School graduation ceremonies.

The majority of people were on Yakoo's side and are certainly on God's side.

We hear a lot about minority rights but we seldom hear anything about majority rights.

Isn't the majority entitled to a few rights, too? Like being able to go to a high school graduation and hear a traditional prayer from representatives of the various faiths? What harm does a prayer do?

Unfortunately, it's not very difficult these days to create an issue like calling Yakoo a racist and getting people riled up over it.

It seems that if someone doesn't like something, he or she can easily get a lot of others not to like it, too.

Stand back! Give them room to jump on the bandwagon.

Yakoo was saved by a 4-3 School Committee vote that overturned School Supt. Robert Ricci's ruling that banned the North Quincy High School symbol and mascot from school property, athletic uniforms and school documents.

The swing vote was cast by Steve Durkin, a 1974 graduate who said: "I don't think the Yakoo symbol represents any intention of racism in any way."

Mayor James Sheets, Committee members Ronald Mariano and Frank Santoro had earlier indicated they would vote for Yakoo and did.

Committee members Mary Collins, Mary Jane Powers and Margaret Nigro voted against Yakoo.

YACUBIAN

American Indian with headband feathers, carrying a stone hammer and NQHS pennant.

Critics claim the stone hammer is a tomahawk and see Yakoo projecting a fighting stance.

Dr. Yacubian, who is Armenian-American, sees Yakoo differently.

"The hammer denotes hard work. His look is that of determination and perseverance. Critics have miscalculated that whole image."

Yacubian notes that there were a number of Quincy High School graduates at the meeting in support of Yakoo.

"This wasn't just a North Quincy area feeling," he said. "It was city-wide."

The NQHS students went through the Democratic process in determining Yakoo's fate. They invited representatives of both sides to speak to them on the issues. These included American Indians who spoke both for and against Yakoo.

Then they took the question to the ballot box. And an overwhelming 88 percent taking part in the referendum voted to keep the Yakoo the way he is.

An ad hoc committee comprising students, parents and alumni voted to recommend that Yakoo be kept as the school Mascot and symbol.

And, Principal Peter Chrisom recommended that Yakoo be allowed to stay.

Despite all this support for Yakoo, Ricci went against him.

Ed Grogan, an Atlantic Middle School teacher, stands with Ricci. Or, Ricci stands with Grogan, who triggered the furor and apparently isn't about to surrender.

"I see it as a racial stereotype, period," he says. "This should not be allowed in the public school systems. It's dangerous and wrong."

A proposal to ban all racial and ethnic stereotypes from school symbols is before the state Department of Education for consideration.

With the mess this state is in today, there must be some more important matters to be concerned about than telling kids what they can wear on their football uniforms and taking traditional team nicknames away from them.

There are a lot of good kids around today like there always has been. NQHS certainly has its share.

For example, a student group at the school, the Alliance Against Racism was presented an award last week by the Human Rights Coalition sponsored by State Atty. Gen. Scott Harshbarger's office.

The student group was recognized for its works against racism through various activities.

"It's ironic," Principal Chrisom observed.

Ironic indeed. Considering all the hula baloo about Yakoo being a racist symbol and then the student group receiving an award for its work against racism.

It's too bad that groups like the Alliance Against Racism doesn't get as much headline recognition as those who would make a racist out of Yakoo.

COMPUTERS AND YOUR HEALTH

"To err is human, but to really foul things up takes a computer," reads the sign over a friend's workstation. Computers have been blamed for everything from hemorrhoids to the National Debt. The reality is, many workers do suffer ill-effects from long hours at the computer screen. Although the National Institute for Occupational Health and Safety (NIOSH) has recently stated that they see no evidence of harm to pregnant women from computer exposure, there are some health problems which can be directly traced to using the computer. Correct positioning and proper computer desks and chairs can do a great deal to resolve these problems. The keyboard should be no more than 26-28 inches off the floor, while a normal desktop is 30-32 inches high.

P.S. NIOSH recommends that operators take a fifteen minute break every two hours to work on other tasks.

If you work in an office and in front of a computer screen, be sure to take the necessary steps to avoid health complications. We believe in preventive care here at COMPREHENSIVE CARDIAC CARE. For more information, please call 472-2550. We're located at 101 Adams Street, Suite 24 in Quincy. Hours are by appointment. I maintain staff privileges at Quincy, Milton, Carney and South Shore Hospitals.

Have you considered what your rights as a patient are to make medical decisions for yourself?

Have you considered what could happen if you were ill and not able to decide what type of medical treatment you wanted?

The Massachusetts Legislature passed a bill which states that health care providers must honor Health Care Proxies.

A "HEALTH CARE PROXY" names a person, called an "agent," who will make medical decisions for you. These medical decisions are decided by you before you lack the capacity to act or make decisions on your behalf.

Open House For Free Veterans Services Tonight

The American Legion and the Massachusetts Department of Employment and Training will hold an open house today (Thursday) from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Cyril Morrisette Post, 54 Miller St., Quincy.

Florian Weissenborn, job specialist for the DET will speak on how to apply for different types of federal jobs. The program is being organized by John Mulken of the National Executive Office of the Jobs for Veterans Committee and Maria White, employment director for the Quincy area Department of Employment and Training. White said she expects many veterans will need DET service now that Operation Desert Storm and the Cold War have ended.

Dial 328-4527 To Report Drug Abuse In Quincy

Quincy Police Chief Francis Mullen requests citizens who suspect drug abuse call the Quincy Police Drug Unit Hotline at 328-4527 anytime, day or night.

required to identify themselves, Mullen said.

Perpetrators of crime are often under the influence of drugs and/or alcohol and are trying to get money to support their drug habits.

Mullen asks that citizens work together with the police department by calling 328-4527 to report any suspected drug abuse. The department appreciates all the public support it can get in the fight against drugs.

Readers Forum

Responds To 'Distressed' On Conditions At Historic Hancock Cemetery

Editor, The Quincy Sun; In response to "Distressed" (Reader's Forum, 6-6-91), concerning the conditions at the historic Hancock Cemetery, had Ms. Chin contacted Veterans Services, she would have discovered the following facts.

Firstly, graves registration officer Robert "Bob" LaFleur has volunteered well over 200 hours of his own time trying to accomplish a nearly impossible task of marking the graves of the veterans and listing the war they served in, (Revolutionary, Civil or the War of 1812).

Further, through his own initiative, Bob had the large cemetery maps reduced at his own expense so that he could use them more efficiently to locate the graves. This job was accomplished by the work of the previous graves registration officers.

Most recently Larry Carnali who held the position for several years, and kept good records.

It is unfortunate that those who find fault with the cemetery would rather complain about its condition rather than volunteer their services to improve it. Indeed, our Patriots' final resting ground deserves to be recognized far more often than just one day a year.

Moreover, a most calamitous incident last year involved a misguided individual who ripped up and burned the flags and destroyed the markers, headstones and other cemetery adornments. This incident was a great setback to the project of the proper marking of the grave sites.

Veterans Services has rededicated its commitment to our fallen warriors by ordering new markers for our Revolutionary and Civil War veterans as well as those from the War of 1812. This task is a difficult one as the older markers have deteriorated due to age and vandalism.

Another volunteer, Olin Taylor, has saved the city many dollars by repairing, when possible, these markers free of charge. But he can not do this massive task alone and budget constraints prevent hiring people to help lighten the burden. Again, volunteerism is the perfect way to demonstrate our commitment to our veterans.

It is our hope to have all veterans graves in every cemetery in the city to be properly marked and "flagged." If in the future, one finds a problem during a visit to the cemeteries, please contact my office.

However, since my office staff has been reduced from 16 employees a few years ago to its present three employees, it is impossible for us to handle all problems all of the time. By volunteering, we can all show appreciation to those who made the ultimate sacrifice for our beloved country. Henry P. Bradley, Director, Quincy Veterans Services

Quincy's Yesterdays

McGrath, Council Deadlock Broken On New Streets

A deadlock between Mayor Thomas J. McGrath and the City Council was broken when the Mayor submitted an order for $2,500 to make possible passage of the annual appropriation for new streets.

The hassle started at a previous meeting when McGrath refused to accept the proposed figure of $256,500 for 46 new streets. The Council finally reduced the total to $232,500.

McGrath said he was concerned that borrowing such a sum would so cut into the city's borrowing power that it would be unable to build needed schools in Adams Shore, Merrymount, Montclair and Houghs Neck.

HOD CARRIERS STRIKE

Brick-carrying members of the Hod Carriers Union were out on strike seeking a 5-cent hourly wage increase that would bring them to 90 cents an hour. Said one unidentified Quincy contractor: "Local labor doesn't seem to realize how slack are conditions in many other cities and towns where workers are either looking for jobs or taking work at 40 to 50 cents an hour."

NO LOW FLYING

Harold T. Dennison, head of the Dennison Aircraft Corp. of Atlantic, issued an order prohibiting his pilots from flying at less than 1,000 feet altitude over residential areas of Quincy.

The airport reported that during the first week of June its planes had made 44 flights lasting 799 minutes.

Quincy Rotary Club Inducts Nine New Members

The Quincy Rotary Club recently inducted nine new members, the largest number joining the service club at one time in the last two decades. The group has also granted more than $12,000 in scholarships and awards to local students.

New members include Robert Downey Jr. of Quincy College; Lynne Davis of Industrial Heat Treating Co.; Quincy Hospital Administrator Neil Stroman, Mary Orlando of O'Connell Management Co., Inc.; John Shary of South Shore Bank, Rev. Fred Atwood-Lyon of Quincy Point Congregational Church; Norfolk County Commissioner Mary Collins, Timothy Vickery of Vickery Associates; and Margot Vickery of Quincy Oil Company.

Club membership stands at 110, noted Club Secretary Paul Baharian.

In its annual scholarship and awards program for local students, Club President James Chicchio said this year's contributions amount to $12,100, the largest amount ever committed to education by the Quincy Rotary Club.

Four Quincy College students, Deborah Ryan, Laurie Craig, Larissa Chorney and June Thornton received $250 scholarships.

North Quincy High School graduates Annmarie Montgomery, Julie Ferrado, Michelle Walsh and Mary Anne McDonagh were each awarded $1,000 scholarships.

Quincy High School graduates Jennifer Richmond, Dean Tantillo and Julie McCloskey also received $1,000 scholarships. An $800 scholarship was awarded to Amy Chenette. Scholarships of $700 each went to Li Jie Tan, Christine Barrett and Maureen Cully. Scholarships of $500 each went to Steven DiTunno and Patrick Neal.

The scholarships to Richmond and Tantillo are part of the club's Fred E. Bergfors, Sr. Memorial Awards program.

Good Citizen Awards were given to two high school juniors. Cara DiMattia of North Quincy High School was given the Steven C. Ricciardi Good Citizen Award; and Judith Goodman of Quincy High School was presented with the Larry Antonelli Good Citizen Award. Both received a $100 savings bond.

Erinn McCarty Graduates From Mount Holyoke College

Erinn C. McCarty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McCarty of Marshfield and formerly of Quincy, recently graduated from Mount Holyoke College with a bachelor of arts degree in geology.

A designated Mary

Lyon Scholar, she has been elected to the Sigma Xi Scientific Research Society for her work in Quaternary Paleogeography in the North Atlantic.

Miss McCarty spent a semester at S.E.A. in Woods Hole where she studied oceanography aboard a 125-foot schooner in the Caribbean.

She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Coletti of Quincy and Mr. and Mrs. John McCarty of Stoughton.

Gretchen O'Hare Participates In UMass Teaching Celebration

Gretchen O'Hare, a teacher at North Quincy High School, recently participated in "A Celebration of Teaching" held at the University of Massachusetts in Boston.

O'Hare was nominated by teacher Katherine Kittredge. The program, sponsored by the university's Teacher Education Programs, recognized the work of teachers in state public schools and emphasized the need for bright, talented young people to enter the profession.

Kids' Fair At Jack 'n' Jill June 22

Jack 'n' Jill Kindergarten and Child Care Center, 39 Station St., will sponsor a Kids' Fair, Saturday, June 22 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

All proceeds from the fair will benefit the Whale Adoption Project of North Falmouth.

The event will feature pony rides, face painting, games and prizes, crafts tables, a bake sale and other foods and treats.

Admission is free and there is a small charge for each event.

Patient Appreciation Day a Success

Milton Chiropractic, sponsored Patient 111 Willard St., recently Appreciation Day to thank current patients and introduce new patients to the natural benefits of chiropractic health care.

All patients that day received treatments and new patients received examinations and x-rays for a $10 donation.

The proceeds of Patient Appreciation Day were donated to the Foundation for Chiropractic Education and Research to help them in their efforts to fund scientific research in such areas as low back pain, headaches and sports injuries. This research will result in better health care for all chiropractic patients.

Dr. Steven Windwer expresses thanks to all his patients that participated in making Patient Appreciation Day a success.

On one afternoon in 1935, in the space of 45 minutes, Jesse Owens, the famous track star, established records in four separate events.

Chiropractic Update

by Mark C. Jaehnig D.C.

WHAT IS A "SLIPPED DISC"?

The term "slipped disc" has been used commonly by doctors and patients alike, to generally describe an injury to one of the 23 "jelly-like" shock absorbers found between each of the bones or vertebrae of the spine. These intervertebral discs are ligaments which actually consist of a "jelly-like" middle surrounded by rings of fibrocartilage. While these discs do not actually "slip" from between the spinal bones, they can be worn, compressed, bulged, or ruptured, causing pressure on the adjacent spinal nerves. It is this bulged or ruptured disc that pressures or "pinches" the nerve which actually causes the severe back and/or leg pain that may result. Often times, muscle spasms will accompany a disc injury as the body attempts to stabilize or splint the damaged lower back or neck.

While the intervertebral discs may lose some of their height, and resiliency and dry out slightly over the years, the final straw of a disc injury may be a sudden twist or slip, an improper lift, or a seemingly minor accident.

Chiropractors are well qualified in the prevention and/or treatment of disc injuries and often employ the modern technology of M.R.I. or Catscan to ensure accurate diagnosis. Chiropractors use a drugless, non-surgical approach which may include manipulation, forms of therapy, proper exercise and bed rest.

If you have any questions or would like to make an appointment, please call Dr. Mark Jaehnig, a lifelong Quincy resident, at Quincy Chiropractic Office, 440 Hancock St., N. Quincy -- 773-4400.

Stepping Out For Summer

By STEVEN BUNICK and THOMAS R. LIBBY
Spring is a wonderful time to enjoy outdoor activities. Many new products are available for those who have difficulty getting around on their own.

Getting up and out can start with electric lift chairs that tilt forward or electric beds that can be lowered to make it easy to get out of bed.

Stair Glides are chairs on a track running up and down a staircase. Portable Ramps are light enough to take along with and enable a wheelchair to roll over curbs and steps.

Once out of the house, there are many styles of wheelchairs, walkers, canes, crutches and accessories to keep us on the move. Pogo transporters are lightweight, but have to be pushed; wheelchairs come in standard lightweight, ultra-lightweight and heavy duty models.

Wheelchairs with desk arms allow a person to pull right up to a table or desk making it easier to eat or write. Removable arms make it possible for a person to slide themselves in and out of their chairs more easily.

Removable foot rests or leg rests make the chair lighter and more portable. For those who want to zip around the neighborhood motorized scooters and power wheelchairs are available.

Many people can walk on their own but need help with balance, tire easily or have an injury. For those individuals ambulatory aids are helpful. Canes and walkers are available in a wide range of colors. Folding canes can be stored until needed and seat canes or seat walkers provide a place to sit and rest while waiting.

Quad canes have four points to assist those unsteady on one cane point. Large base quad canes provide a person with more support, while small base quad canes are helpful on stairs.

Aluminum canes, quad canes, crutches and walkers are adjustable by height and should be fitted. Hemi-walkers are appropriate for people with strength in only one arm. Folding walkers are easy to store and are portable.

Walkers with wheels (usually on the front legs) roll easily, needing only a slight lifting of the back legs to get started. This is of great help for the person unable to pick up a walker and move it forward.

Rollators resemble a small cart with handbrakes, usually having three or four wheels. Crutches and forearm crutches can be used for weight-bearing injuries.

Sponge rubber underarm pads and hand grips make crutches more comfortable to use. Replacement tips are available for canes, crutches and walkers. These should be checked for wear every few months. Special ice gripping tips can be of help in the winter.

Pouches, baskets, backpacks, cup holders and other devices attach to walkers, crutches and wheelchairs to transport items easily. Reaching aids help to bring things within arms length and can also be easily attached.

The array of products available to enable a person to travel out of the home safely and comfortably is overwhelming. Many other products in addition to those mentioned exist. Consult your pharmacist or medical equipment supplier for advice and assistance.

With spring in the air, it's time to get out and enjoy the good weather.

Thomas R. Libby, R. Ph., and Steven M. Bunick, R. Ph., are the owners of Baxter Pharmacy and Quincy Medical and Surgical Supply, 385 Washington St.

Our Home Equity Line of Credit is more about saving than spending.

Save on monthly loan payments.

With a Bank of New England Home Equity Line of Credit, you can pay off current auto loan, department store and credit card balances now, and save. Because you'll reduce your monthly credit obligations to a single payment, and could cut your finance charges almost in half.

Save on taxes.

Federal tax laws have completely eliminated deductions on credit card, auto loan and other unsecured loan interest. The Home Equity Line of Credit, however, is the exception to the rule—with interest still 100% deductible in most cases.

Save on major expenses.

The low interest and tax savings that make our

Home Equity Line of Credit a cost-effective way to pay off your debts also make it a smart way to borrow for such expenses as college tuition and home improvement.

Save on closing costs.

At other banks, you'd probably pay closing costs on a new Home Equity Line of Credit. At Bank of New England, we'll save you at least $200 by waiving those costs if you apply by June 30, 1991.

Stop by any Bank of New England office, or call toll-free for more information or an application for a Home Equity Line of Credit today. And start saving.

Communion Sunday At United Parish Church

Dr. Sheldon Bennett, minister, will give the sermon "A Covenant for Living" on Communion Sunday at United Parish Church-Unitarian Universalist, 1306 Hancock St., Quincy Square.

After the sermon, members and friends of the congregation will celebrate a communion service.

The service is at 10:30 a.m. All are welcome and are invited to participate in the communion service if they wish.

Norman Core, music director, will play organ pieces. Soloist will be mezzo soprano Wendy Greene.

Mark and Joyce Sullivan and Bill and Nancy Westland will serve communion. Ushers will be Matthew Malloy and Marion Cramer.

Visitors are welcome and are invited to the social hour following the service. There is no Church School but child care will be provided for this final service of the church year.

After the service, a church picnic will be held at the waterfront home of one of the church families.

Regular Sunday services will resume Sept. 8 at 10:30 a.m. The church office will open during July and August on Wednesdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

For more information, call 773-1290.

'Good Grief' Sermon At Quincy Community United Methodist Church

Rev. Harry Soper Jr. will deliver a sermon entitled "Good Grief" at the 10 a.m. worship service Sunday at Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., Wollaston.

There will be also a dedication of third octave set of handbells which were donated by Margaret Buckley in memory of her parents. A special offering will be taken for the scholarship fund for Methodist students in the southern New England area.

Lois Davis and Kay Little will serve as greeters and hostesses for the fellowship hour which will be Helen Bailey, Sally Weston, Virginia Turner and Lillian Warner.

On June 16, the United Methodist Boston District, which has been divided into north and south districts, will celebrate the termination of the old combination of churches, and celebrate the new divisions.

In anticipation of summer vacations, the pastor announces a parishioner's donation of two half scholarships to United Methodist camps at Rolling Ridge and Camp Alderogate.

Events for the week of June 17 include:

Monday from 7 to 8:30 p.m. open recreation in the church gym and a meeting at 7:30 p.m. of the Committee on Missions and Christian Outreach.

On Tuesday, the Red Sox-Seattle game will be attended by local and N.E. United Methodists.

The pastor's Bible Study class meets at 10 a.m. Thursday.

On Saturday, Liz Buccella and Paul Mulrey will represent the church at a Laity Conference at Merrimack College, North Andover.

Fathers Day Lay Service At Covenant

Various members of the congregation will participate in the 10:45 a.m. worship service of the Covenant Congregational Church, Whitwell and Granite Sts. The focus of the service will be the contributions of men of the church. Pastors are Rev. Kathleen Graves and Rev. Kirk Johnson.

The choir, directed and accompanied on the organ by Richard Smith, minister of music, will sing an introit and two anthems. A nursery is available for children age four and younger. The attendant will be Wendy Lovendale.

After the service, coffee will be served in the fellowship hall downstairs. Volunteers are needed to sign up for the summer months.

Activities for the week are: choir rehearsal on Thursday at 7 p.m. Rehearsals will continue through the end of June, as the choir will sing until June 30.

Coming events include: Ladies Aid meeting Wednesday, June 19 at 1:30 p.m.; Star Share days for Quincy Crisis Center June 18-20 and for the Naomi Society June 25-27; and Sea Sunday, sponsored by the New England's Seamen's Mission July 7.

Bottles and cans saved for the Bangladesh fundraiser will be collected at the church Sunday, June 23.

For more information, call 479-5728.

College Grads Recognized At First Church Of Squantum

Graduates of college and graduate school were recognized Sunday during the worship service at First Church of Squantum.

They are: Scott Catton, Northeast School of Broadcasting; Dore Klock, Lesley College (master's degree); and Sarah Midram, Connecticut College.

The pastor, the Rev. Gene Langevin, spoke to the graduates and others in the congregation about their accomplishments and about what they might do next. Representatives from the congregation were Mary Ruth Scott, Patti Langevin-Hurd, Tom Klock, Janet Williamson, May Lewis and Hazel Mayne.

Dore Klock gave special prayer of thanksgiving in word and song and the pastor prayed for the graduates and their loved ones. Beth Harper, chairman of the Board of Christian Education, presented each graduate with a gift from the church.

Dr. Langevin's sermon was entitled, "On the Condition of Your Faith." The scripture lessons were read by Roberta Sheehan, Tom Williamson and Louise Randall.

The Chancel Choir and congregation sang. The congregation was accompanied by Mary Ruth Scott on the organ and Janet Williamson on piano.

Greeters were May Lewis and Ruth Lagh, ushers were Katrina Sorrentino and Roberta Sheehan and the fellowship hour was hosted by Dore Klock and Cynthia Stanton.

The Bible Study group meets each Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. The Sunday worship begins at 9:30 a.m. Child care is available for younger children. The Way Up, a group for teens, meets Sundays from 7-9 p.m.

The annual Church Flea Market will be Saturday, June 15 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Call Hazel Mayne, 328-4367, for table reservations.

Dr. Donald Young Dean Emeritus At ENC

DR. DONALD YOUNG

After serving 24 years as the academic dean at Eastern Nazarene College, Dr. Donald Young of Quincy received the status of dean emeritus at the college's recent commencement.

Dr. Young first came to Quincy and the ENC campus as a boy in 1940, when his father, Dr. Samuel Young, became the pastor of the Wollaston Church of the Nazarene and head of ENC's theology department. His father served as president of the college from 1945 through 1948, when he was elected a general superintendent of the Church of the Nazarene.

Dr. Young returned to ENC in 1949 as a student, and received a bachelor of arts degree in English in 1953. In 1954, he received a master of arts degree in English from Boston University, and in 1960, he received his doctoral degree in English from BU. From 1966 to 1967 he pursued higher education post-doctoral study at the University of Michigan, and in 1977 he received a Higher Education Certificate from Harvard University.

Before returning to ENC as an assistant professor of English in 1958, he was a teaching fellow at Boston University from 1955 to 1958. From 1960 to 1963, he was an associate professor of English and chairman of ENC's department of English. In 1963, he left the college to serve as an associate professor of English and chairman of the Division of Letters at Pasadena College in California until 1966.

When he returned to ENC in 1967, he was named academic dean of the college and professor of English.

In Quincy, he served on the board of directors of the city's Rotary Club from 1982 to 1984, on the South Shore Mental Health Association Board of Directors, and as the chairman of the Human Rights Committee, Cerebral Palsy on the South Shore.

He is a member of the Modern Language Association, the National Council of Teachers of English, the Conference on Christian and Literature, the American Association of University Professors, the American Conference of Academic Deans, and the American Association for Higher Education.

Campus Kinderhaus Youngsters Raise

$407 For Easter Seals

Youngsters from the Campus Kinderhaus/Eastern Nazarene College in Quincy recently hopped to help people with disabilities, raising $407 in an Easter Seal HOP-N-ING.

The children spent the previous week learning about disabilities--what causes them, how disabilities affect people's everyday lives, the equipment used to cope. After that, they were ready to help.

Each child secured pledges from family and friends for every hop performed during a three-minute HOP-N-ING. Funds raised help provide Easter Seal services for men, women and children with disabilities.

Sheets, DeCristofaro To Attend Mayors' Conference In San Diego

Mayor James Sheets and Council President Ted DeCristofaro will attend the U.S. Summer Conference of Mayors Monday, June 17 through Friday, June 21 in San Diego, Ca.

Sheets is a member of the Community Development, Housing and Economic Development Committee which deals with community block grants, housing issues and public-private partnerships.

The mayor said housing will probably be the dominant topic for the committee as well as the conference.

In addition, Sheets said there will be a number of workshops by the National Park Service relating to funding for urban parks and recreation recovery programs. The workshops discuss what funding is available to rehabilitate parks as well as how to prepare applications for federal grants.

Recycling will be also be a dominant theme at the conference, he said.

In addition, former Massachusetts senator and Democratic presidential candidate Paul Tsongas will address the conference.

While Sheets and DeCristofaro are away from Quincy, Councillor Patricia Toland will be the acting mayor.

After the conference, Sheets may remain on the West Coast for a week's vacation. If so, DeCristofaro would be acting mayor until Sheets returns.

Since the mayor does not have a travel expense account, his trip to the conference trip is being funded by the city's community block grant. Air fare, hotel and expenses will total approximately $1,200, he said.

Correction

A story in last week's Quincy Sun incorrectly reported that Robert Foy III has been auditor of the City of Quincy for 19 years.

Foy has been auditor for nine years and previously served as Quincy's treasurer for 10 years. The Sun regrets the error.

After You Read About Our Doctors, We Hope You'll Say Ahhhhh.

There are many places you can read about the doctors at Quincy Hospital besides this ad.

For instance, there's Boston Magazine. Their recent Nurses Poll named Dr.

Peter Ambrus as one of the top Ear, Nose, Throat specialists in the area. And if you haven't heard by word of mouth, you can have your surgery performed by Dr. Ambrus and his associates right here.

There are always newspapers, too. Dr. Walt Kagan, an oncologist, and Dr. Halbert Miller, a psychiatrist specializing in issues of aging, were both highlighted in recent feature stories. And don't forget cardiologist Dr. Alan Berick's weekly Ask The Doctor column in the Patriot Ledger.

In our Physicians Directory, you can read all about the training our doctors have received. As graduates of such fine medical schools as Harvard, Tufts, and Boston University, our doctors are some of the most respected in the area. Which is why many of them also practice at such prestigious hospitals as Mass. General, Beth Israel, and the Lahey Clinic.

It all leads Dr. Charles Rippberger, the President of our Medical Staff, to point out, "Why would anyone bother going to one of those downtown hospitals when there's an outstanding medical staff right here in Quincy?" Good question.

So, if you're interested in finding your own doctor or want more information about our exceptional medical staff, call our Doctor Referral Line at 786-0005. After all, if reading this has touched you, maybe our stethoscopes will, too.

The Germantown Children's Chorus will perform a program of choral selections, skits, dance and sing-alongs at Pagnano Towers, 109 Curtis St., Saturday at 4 p.m.

The Chorus, directed by Kathy Hogan, had its "debut" on a float in the 1990 Christmas Parade, and is now taking it's show on the road.

Hogan developed the Chorus as a creative outlet for the children of Germantown and invites the public to enjoy the song and dance revue.

Admission is free. For further information call Kathy Hogan at 773-5673.

LATOYA CHANDLER

LaToya Chandler In Pre-Teen Pageant

LaToya Chandler, 13, of Quincy, is a state finalist in the America's Favorite Pre-Teen Pageant which will be held June 23 at the Springfield Marriott Hotel.

Chandler is a seventh-grade student at Central Middle School.

She qualified for the competition based on a written application. Scoring is based on poise, personality, academics, written application and a personal interview with the judges. The top five state finalists become eligible for the National Competition in Orlando, Fla.

She is the daughter of Pamela Chandler.

Gello Jump To Benefit Leukemia Society June 21

The Greater Boston Gello Jump, to benefit the Leukemia Society of America, will be held at the Tent in marina Bay Friday, June 21 at 6 p.m.

The event, which will be hosted by Judy Paparelli of Radio Station Kiss 108 and Susan Warnick of Channel 5, is one of the Leukemia Society's biggest fundraising events of the year.

Participants will collect pledges from sponsors by sliding into a pool filled with 1,100 gallons of gello. The minimum pledge amount is $250.

The prize for the top fundraiser will be a trip to a surprise destination. In addition there will be a special prize for the most creatively costumed jumper.

All proceeds from the jump will support the Leukemia Society in seeking the cause and cure for leukemia and its related diseases. The funds that are raised will be used for research, patient assistance and education.

Sponsor sheets are available at the Tent and at the Leukemia Society in Dedham. For further information, call 329-9944.

Quincy City Festival Continues At Marina Bay

Special promotions, a petting zoo filled with exotic animals, circus performers and magicians highlight the second annual Quincy City Festival continuing now at Marina Bay through Sunday, June 16.

The festival opens at 6 p.m. weekdays and at noon Saturday and Sunday. The local sponsor for the event is the Quincy Police Athletic Association.

Fiesta Shows, a Salisbury Beach-based carnival, will provide the midway of rides, games, food and concessions. The show includes a 100-foot Giant Gondola Wheel. This year the show has also added two new rides, the Fiesta 500 and the Sea Dragon.

The Sea Dragon, created from 40 tons of steel and aluminum, sways back and forth like a giant cradle beneath its 60-foot high towers. The ship rises and falls 35.7 feet per second.

The Sea Dragon accommodates 40 adults or 60 children.

The carnival offers reduced priced rides on June 12, June 13 and 15 feature "pay-One-Price" ride promotions. Patrons purchasing a wristband from the 6 p.m. opening to 10 p.m. on Thursday can ride unlimited rides until closing.

On Saturday, wristbands for unlimited rides will be sold from noon to 5 p.m. and are good on all rides until 6 p.m.

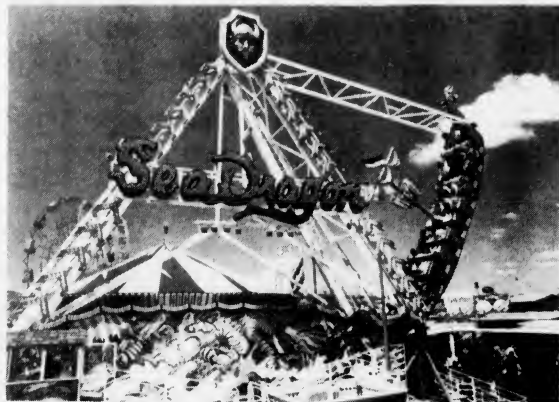

The discount plans do not include the Fiesta 500 and the live animal rides. Further money saving coupons can be found in the Quincy City Festival ads in this week's Quincy Sun.

In addition to Fiesta Shows' rides, games, and concessions, the Commerford Petting Zoo of Goshen, Conn., will also be featured. Under a circus tent, patrons will find exotic animals, several varieties of birds and barnyard animals. The petting zoo is the largest portable show of its kind in the country, with pony and elephant rides available.

Other free events and attractions include performances by the Stebbing Family Circus and the magic of Gifford and Roy. A free money give-away, the "Grab For Cash" will also be held throughout the event.

Fireworks are scheduled for Friday night with a rain-date of Saturday night.

Admission is $1 and parking is free. Partial proceeds from the festival will benefit the Quincy Police Athletic League.

THE SEA DRAGON, one of the many thrill features at the Quincy City Festival continuing through Sunday at Marina Bay, Squantum.

Bamidele Dancers To Perform At Thomas Crane Library June 18

The Thomas Crane Public Library, Quincy Square, will present a performance by the Bamidele dancers and Drummers Tuesday, June 18, at 7 p.m.

The concert is intended for children over five and for adults.

Bamidele means "dancers and drummers borne away to bring us home." The musicians, attired in colorful costumes, use authentic instruments to bring to life the musical traditions of Brazil, the West Indies, and Africa.

The concept of the performance is for the dancers to bear us away to another culture to show us something on our own culture.

The concert is part of the library's summer cultural series of storytelling concerts which are partially funded by the Family Reading Project Grant.

The programs will continue Tuesday evenings at 7 p.m. from July 16 through August 20.

The summer series will include the following performances:

Aili Paal Singer, "Dragons of Asia" Doug Lipman, "Jewish Stories and Songs;" Diane Edgecomb, "Native American Stories;" The Gerwick Puppets, "Aladdin's Lamp;" Ellen Block, "Multi-Cultural Stories;" and The Shirim Klezmer Orchestra with music from the Middle East and Eastern Europe.

Memorial Mass At Sons Of Italy

A Memorial Mass in honor of all deceased members of Quincy Men's Lodge 1295, Order Sons of Italy, was held recently at the Social Center.

Earlier a ceremony was held at the memorial in Wollaston Cemetery. The Mass was celebrated by the Rev. Vincent Maffei, Chaplain of the State Lodge. Assisting were servers Michael Pellegrino and Jeremy Udden, Eucharistic Ministers Cyndi and Raymond

REV. VINCENT MAFFEI

Papile, and Cantor Moe Morad.

Readings were given by President Michael Capone and Vice President Frank Ruscio.

Rev. Maffei spoke of the need for all mankind to unite for the good and welfare of all. He urged those in attendance to carry on the spirit of fraternalism as was exemplified by our departed Brothers.

More than 100 attended the Mass which was followed by a breakfast prepared by members. A. Mario Salvatore and Edmund Coletta served as chairmen.

Legion Baseball

Morrisette Off To Good Start

By TOM SULLIVAN
The Morrisette Legion baseball team is off to a good start in defense of its Zone 6 championship with wins in its first two games. Morrisette handed Weymouth its first loss in three games, 7-5, Monday night after a 4-3 decision over Randolph in its opener.

Meanwhile, Wollaston opened its season Monday with an 8-6 win over Milton.

Morrisette faced Wollaston last night (Wednesday), will host Braintree Friday night at 8:30 at Adams Field and will be home to Canton next Monday at 8:30 at Adams.

Wollaston will meet Quincy Saturday night at 8 at Adams and will play at Randolph Monday at 6 p.m.

Morrisette trailed, 4-1, Monday against Weymouth going into the fifth against Weymouth's standout pitcher, but it put together three hits and a costly error to tie the score. Mike Baylis opened the inning with a single, Tom Balzano singled, Pat Clifford drove in a run with a double, Mark Kelliher's sacrifice fly scored Balzano, Serge Belcastro walked and a throwing error scored Clifford.

Gary Rawdon walked

the first two batters in the sixth by survived and Morrisette scored three runs in the sixth to put the game away. Robbie Kane walked, Baylis beat out a bunt and Balzano hit a long triple to right center and scored the final run on a sacrifice fly by Clifford.

Rawdon went the distance, allowing three earned runs, giving up eight hits, striking out eight and walking two to improve to 2-0.

Balzano went 4-for-4, a triple, double and two singles and three RBI, Baylis had two hits and Rawdon and Belcastro one each.

Morrisette also had to come from behind to edge Randolph with Bill Warren hooked up against Randolph ace Curt Romboli, who pitched a no-hitter for Randolph High this year.

Morrisette scored a run in the first on a Kane single, an error and Balzano's ground out. Randolph scored twice in the second but Morrisette tied it in the third on Kane's double and Rawdon's single.

In the seventh, Rawdon relieved Warren and a two-base error and a balk put the runner on third with no outs. A single drove in the go-ahead run. Rawdon struck out the next batter but walked two to load the bases. He got out of the inning by striking out the final batter.

Trailing, 3-2, in the bottom of the seventh, Tom Malvesti hit a pinch hit double and Noel DiBona ran for him. He took third on a wild pitch, Rawdon struck out, Balzano hit a towering fly ball to left which was dropped and he reached third, Kelliher was walked intentionally and Liam Higgins singled in the winning run.

Warren pitched well, allowing five hits in six innings, striking out five and walking two.

Morrisette, with several 16-year-olds, has Balzano, DiBona, Kane, Mike Malvesti and Tom Malvesti from Quincy High; Baylis, Mike Kenney and Jay Schanbel from B.C. High; Belcastro, Adam Calvert, Sean Donovan, Higgins, Kelleher, Mike Patch, Rawdon (now at UMass), Pat Shea and Warren (now at Bentley College) from North Quincy; Clifford and Matt O'Toole from Archbishop Williams.

"We are very young but we will be competitive and have fine pitching," said coach Dave Perdios. "The experience the young players will get should stand us in good stead when we host the Northeast Regional tournament next year."

Tom Malvesti is back as assistant coach, Ray Cattaneo is manager, Frank Osborne athletic officer and Berger Ryan scorer and statistician.

Scott Dunn pitched five innings for Wollaston in the opener against Milton and Steve Loud pitched the final two innings.

Bob Fitzpatrick had a two-run homer, two singles and three RBI, Fred Regan a three-run homer, Pat Gallagher a double and Jeff Craig and Marc Swirbalus a single each. Dave Gamsby had a hit and threw out two runners at third base from center field.

The Wollaston roster includes Dunn, Gamsby, Chris Peck, Tom Brenner, Mark Taylor, Scott Kohler and Charlie Rozanitis from North Quincy; Loud, Regan, Gallagher, Craig, Chad McMahon and Duane Holmes from Quincy; Swirbalus from Catholic Memorial; Fitzpatrick and Chris Cunio from Archbishop Williams; and Tony Bianco from B.C. High.

Coach Mike Gormley is assisted by Steve Buckley, Mike Dracchio and newcomer Ron DiNardo.

"We have some outstanding players and I think we should have a successful season," said Gormley.

DOMINIC DELGARDO, 5, of Quincy, was one of more than 150 youngsters who took part in the South Shore Baseball Club's headstart camp in Hingham.

Sports

Youth Baseball Camp June 24-28

The All-Scholastic Baseball Camp will be held June 24-28 at Eastern Nazarene College's Bradley Field under the direction of Dave Perdios and Paul Beston.

The camp will be divided into an instruction camp and a hitting camp.

The instruction camp will be held daily from 8 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. for ages 9-12. The program will include instructions on hitting, bunting, base running, sliding, position play, fielding and defense.

The hitting camp for those 13-16 will be held from 1-4 p.m. It will stress the basic fundamentals in the art of hitting. There will be five hitting machines operating with instructors.

Perdios, head coach of Morrisette Legion team and assistant coach at North Quincy High, starred at Archbishop Williams High and Brandeis University. He was a three-time All-New England player and two-time All-American.

Beston has coached at the Farm League, Little League and Babe Ruth League levels. He is a former Quincy High player and a member of the Hall of Fame. He is a teacher in the Milton school system.

Further information can be obtained by calling Beston at 471-1846 or Perdios at 328-7176.

Triple A

Hurley And Padres Win

The Hurley Insurance Padres edged Papa Gino's Tigers, 15-14, in Quincy Triple A Baseball League action.

Chris Duffy and Chris McLean pitched for the Padres, Duffy striking out seven and McLean two. Jacob Flemming had two singles and a triple which drove in the three winning runs in the fifth inning. Don Sylvia had a double and single and Brent Dennis a triple and single.

The Padres also got by the Local 2222 White Sox, 10-9, with Matt Gibbons the winning pitcher with eight strikeouts. For the Padres, Dennis had two singles, Tim McAdams a triple and single and Pat Stedman two singles. Gibbons had a double and Sylvia played outstanding defense at first base.

For the White Sox Brendan Donovan had a double and single, David Para two doubles and a triple, Mike Cossaboom a triple and single and Jarad Decelle two singles and a double. John McCue stood out on defense.

Junior Farm

Dodgers, Orioles Hot

The Dodgers continued to roll merrily along in the Junior Farm League and defeated the Mets, 12-5, and the Indians, 12-6, to improve their record to 11-1.

Chris Griffin, Sean Garvey, Freddie Butts and Tommy Gouthro paced the offense against the Mets and Paul Wise, Brian Radell and Mike Biller played strong defense. The winning pitcher was Chris Walsh (5-0) with strong relief from Steve Rochon.

Against the Indians Rochon had three hits, including a home run, and he made several fine defensive plays. Jessica Linskey, Billy Davis and Gregg Walsh also had key hits. Rick Loughmiller caught another fine game, including a key rundown play to end the first inning. Radell pitched his third win with no losses and struck out 12.

The Orioles walloped the Athletics, 13-2, with Frank McNamara the winning pitcher. McNamara also had three hits. Lee Kenny had four hits and Mike Gavin had a double and single. Martin McDonagh had a homer.

For the Athletics Paul Lentini pitched well, Pat O'Donnell played strong defense and John Fish scored both runs.

The Orioles also topped the Braves, 15-7, with Jeff Peterson on the winning pitcher.

Jonathan Healy had a triple and single and Adam Smith and Joe O'Connell had key hits. Tom Slowe had a triple and double, Andrew Currie two doubles and Scott Coleman, Gavin and Kenny had doubles.

For the Braves, Sean Hanratty, Mick Peponjovic, Steve LoPiere and Mike Fiener had hits.

The Orioles kept rolling with a 12-8 win over the Cubs with McNamara the winning pitcher.

Currie had three hits including a homer, Slowe a triple and single, Paul Burke a double and John Gavin, Smith, McDonagh and Mike Gavin all had hits.

For the Cubs Mike Welch and Jan McDonagh had hits and Dan O'Toole pitched well.

Junior League

Meade Hurls No-Hitter, S.S. Bank Takes Top Spot

South Shore Bank took over first place in the Quincy Junior Baseball League's American League with four wins in a row to improve to 11-2. The record is the best in either division.

Geoff Meade pitched a no-hitter as the team blew out Quincy Police, 15-0. Meade struck out 10 and allowed only a walk to Betsy Stone. Jonathan Haddad drove in three runs with two hits, Tim Kenerson, John Manning and Brian Ross had two hits each and Mike Doyle, Meade, Steven Ryan, Brian Doyle and Billy Walker one apiece.

Manning and Ross pitched well in an 11-2 decision over Foley Chrysler. Doyle had three hits and three RBI, Ross had three hits, Meade two and Eric Wood, Tim Wood, Manning and Walker one each. Joey Walsh, Sean Harvie, Robert McDonough and Rickie Harvie played well defensively. Brian Beaton had three hits and Paul Marnikovic two for Foley.

South Shore Bank also defeated South Shore Buick, 4-0, with Manning allowing seven hits. He had nine strikeouts and didn't walk a batter in improving his record to 5-1.

Eric Wood had a two-run double and Meade, Doyle, Ross, Tim Wood, McDonough and Walker all had hits.

Meade pitched a one-hitter in an 11-1 win over Keohane's. Ryan Herlihy had the only Keohane hit, a double. Meade struck out eight and didn't issue a walk. Haddad had a three-run triple, Doyle, Meade and Tim Wood had two hits each and Ricky Connolly, McDonough, Manning and Eric Wood one apiece.

During this stretch Meade hiked his batting average to .698 and dropped his ERA to 0.59. In 34 innings he has struck out 65 while walking just eight.

Burgin Platner defeated Quincy Police, 8-5, with John Laukkanen the winning pitcher. He also went 2-for-3 including a triple. Billy Barron went 2-for-2 and had a walk and Jason Chagnon, Jim Cunio and John Barron had solid singles.

Willie Tracey, Kevin Sullivan and Luke Donaher all reached on walks. Devin O'Brien, Mark Driscoll and Judson Rose played strong defense.

The annual 12-year-old All-Star game will be played Saturday at 7 p.m. at McCoy Field.

The standings:

AMERICAN LEAGUE: South Shore Bank, 11-2; VFW, 9-4; Foley, 9-4; Kiwanis, 9-4; Continental Cable, 4-9; Burgin Platner, 2-11.

NATIONAL LEAGUE: Elks, 9-4; South Shore Buick, 7-6; Rotary, 6-7; Keohane's, 6-7; Quincy Police, 4-9; Colonial Federal, 3-10.

Men's Softball

Washington Sweeps Doubleheader

Washington Tap of Quincy continued to dominate the South Shore Men's Softball League by sweeping a doubleheader from the Weymouth Heat, improving its record to 14-0.

The Tap won the first game, 11-0, and the second, 12-0. John McManus went 6-8 in the twinbill and had six RBI. Dave Tocchio, Al Freeman, Matt Marks, Joe Godfrey and Mike Ash had two hits each and Marty Tolson, Bob St. John, Bob Hennesly, Sean Gately, Steve Thurston and Jim Wyllie each had a hit. Hennesly (8-0) and Marks (3-0) were the winning pitchers.

Earlier, the Tap had defeated the Norwell Rebels, 13-1 and 18-7, as Dan Trabbucco slammed three home runs and drove in seven runs.

Mike Ash had two homers and went 6-8 for the day. Mike Bates, Hennesly and Marks all had homers, Charlie Gates was 5-8 and Godfrey 4-4. Bob Bubencik had two hits as did Lou Gates and Tolson, Gately, McManus, St. John and Elvis Fabello had one each. Hennesly and Charlies Gates, who picked up his first win, were the winning pitchers.

For Heart Association

World's Gym in North Quincy helped to raise over $2,000 for the American Heart Association in a recent Dance for Heart Aerobathon.

Local participants raised the money to benefit the American Heart Association's programs of research, education and community service.

World's Gym aerobics director, Kathy Hassan, called the fundraiser "a great way to promote cardiovascular awareness and fitness."

Quincy Photographer's Photos In New Book On Ted Williams

By TOM SULLIVAN

A new book, "Ted Williams, A Portrait in Words and Pictures," has hit the bookstores and it is one of the finest books ever written on an athlete.

The book, published by Walker and Company of New York, is edited by Dick Johnson, associate director and curator of the Sports Museum of Boston, and the text is by Glenn Stout, librarian at the Boston Public Library and a freelance sportswriter, historian and researcher.

The book covers the former Red Sox star's life and career from the time he was born in San Diego to the present time.

It is replete with numerous photos, including several by the late Patriot Ledger, Boston Herald and Quincy Sun cameraman, Laban Whittaker, Jr., who lived in Wollaston and graduated from North Quincy High School.

Whittaker covered the Red Sox for many years for the Ledger and Herald and was friendly with Williams, one of his favorite players.

His widow, Carol, formerly of Quincy and now a Braintree Highlands resident, loaned the pictures to Johnson, who had them on display for some time at the Sports Museum. She is among those acknowledged in the book for their contributions.

"I was thrilled that they wanted some of his pictures for the museum and for the book," she said. "I was very happy to let them use the photos."

Whittaker's photos include one of Williams on deck in the 1946 All-Star game just before he hit his home run off Luke Sewell's "eephus" pitch; another of Williams signing a contract for the remainder of the 1953 season in the presence of owner Tom Yawkey and Joe Cronin, after he returned from his second tour of duty in the Air Force in the Korean War; one of the slugger laughing in the dugout when, at age 37, he hit .356 with 28 home runs in 98 games; and still another showing him displaying his good looks at spring training. He was approached to appear in a Hollywood western but never made the movie.

ONE OF Laban Whittaker's photos in the new book on Ted Williams shows Ted signing a contract for the rest of the 1953 season after returning from his second tour of duty in the Air Force. Shown with him are owner Tom Yawkey and Joe Cronin.

Included in the book are chapters by several writers including retired Boston Herald columnist Tim Horgan, David Halberstam, author of 11 books including the highly acclaimed best seller "The Summer of '49"; George V. Higgins, who has written 22 books including "Victories" and "Progress of the Seasons," his best-seller on life as a Red Sox fan; and Bud Leavitt, who, with Williams, has fished the North American continent for more than 40 years.

The book comes out on the 50th anniversary of Williams hitting .406, the last man to hit .400, and Joe DiMaggio's historic 56-game hitting streak.

The book winds up with the most complete and comprehensive statistics on a player compiled by the late Boston Globe columnist, Harold Kaese. The appendix includes 25 different statistical sections. They include the number of home runs he hit against every pitcher, his All-Star game summaries to his batting averages on holidays and season openers. They take up 33 pages.

The book is must reading for any follower of the Red Sox and the amazing Ted Williams.

Babe Ruth

Bryan, Golden Win

George Wirtz placed Bryan Post VFW to an 8-7 Babe Ruth league victory over Poland Spring with two hits, several fine plays at shortstop and an excellent relief stint in the last inning to save the win for starter Bill Morrissey.

Morrissey was effective through six innings, striking out seven and allowing three hits.

Bryan led, 5-2, after six innings and added three in the top of the seventh on hits by Wirtz, Dan Donahue and Rich Gorman.

Trailing, 8-2, PS staged a furious rally in the bottom of the seventh. Joe Manton, Matt McGowan and Terry Manning had key hits as the Bryan lead was cut to 8-7. Bryan second baseman Bob Shaw made a spectacular backhand stab to rob Mike Kenney and first baseman Matt McSweeney competed the play with a smooth scoop of Shaw's throw.

With the tying run on second, Wirtz struck out the last two batters to preserve the win.

Donahue caught a fine game and made several excellent plays, including a double play as he caught a foul pop near the backstop and rifled a throw to second base to nail the runner trying to advance.

Mike Koski had two hits and Jeff Breslin and Morrissey one each for Bryan, while Robbie Callow, David Rowell, Scott Pyer, Jeremy Nielson and Rob Churchill all played well.

For Poland Spring Manton and Kenney had two hits apiece. Kenney pitched well, striking out 10.

Golden Print improved to 7-3 with wins over

Local 1139, 15-4, and Morrisette Post, 3-1.

Dave Reinhart pitched four-hit ball and struck out nine against Local 1139. Craig Pinkham had a two-run double, Tom Bianco, Steve Miller, Reinhart, Jamie Schatzl and Jimmy Smith had two hits each and Chris Klier one.

Against Morrisette, Miller pitched a three-hitter and struck out 16. Golden came from behind late with Bianco having a two-run double in the sixth and John Riley drove in an insurance run in the seventh.

Two Share Brill Scholarship

The Robert P. Brill Jr. Baseball Scholarship was presented to John Duffy and Tom Hawes at the Houghs Neck Community Center recently.

The scholarships will pay for a week at the Mike Andrews Baseball Camp held at Brandeis University, Waltham.

This is the eighth year that boys have been awarded trips to the Andrews Camp under the name of Brill, a standout for Quincy High School and Quincy Legion Post who played in the Milwaukee Brewers and St. Louis Cardinals organizations in 1972 and 1973. Brill died of cancer in 1983.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

D. Scott Deware

Although Father's Day was not officially proclaimed a national holiday until former President Richard Nixon signed a congressional resolution in 1972, fathers have been honored in June since the early 1900's.

Mrs. John Bruce Dodd of Spokane, Washington is generally thought to have done more to originate Father's Day than any other American. She became known as the "Mother of Father's Day." The idea occurred to her in 1909 when she was living in Spokane. In June, 1910, the first observance was held in Spokane and slowly the day came to be recognized in other cities, some thinking they were the first to do so. Many Presidents through the years helped observe the holiday and The National Father's Day Committee furthered the holiday when it was created in 1935. They dedicated the day "to building a democratic world through wholesome child upbringing."

Through the years Mrs. Dodd was approached many times to endorse many gifts and products for Father's Day, but she refused. She had very definite ideas how the day should be observed. "It should include family attendance at church, a little gift for Dad and some tender words you've always longed to say to him," she said in 1953.

Chinese Folk Dance At NQHS Saturday

The Chinese Language School of Quincy will sponsor a Chinese Folk Dance Saturday, June 15 beginning at 2 p.m. in the Sacred Heart School auditorium, Hancock St., North Quincy.

The performance, which will celebrate Dragon Boat Festival and Father's Day, will include 10 different styles of folk dance performed by Chinese Folk Dance class members.

The class was formed last August by the Chinese Language School. It began with a children's section and in March, a teenage section was added.

The dance class has produced three public performances which have been well received. The class hopes to continue to promote Chinese culture through future folk dance performances.

Admission is $2 and all fees collected will be used for the purchase of dancing materials and costumes.

NOTICE OF FIDUCIARY'S ACCOUNT

To the Attorney General's Office of said Commonwealth and to all persons interested in the estate of Susan L. Martz late of Quincy, in said County, deceased.

You are hereby notified pursuant to Mass. R. Civ. P. Rule 72 that the first and final account(s) of Agnes Vitullo of Barrington, RI as Executrix (the fiduciary) of said estate has been presented to said Court for allowance.

If you desire to preserve your right to file an objection to said account(s), you or your attorney must file a written appearance in said Court at Dedham on or before the tenth day of July, 1991, the return day of this citation. You may upon written request by registered or certified mail to the fiduciary, or to the attorney for the fiduciary, obtain without cost a copy of said account(s). If you desire to object to any item of said account(s), you must, in addition to filing a written appearance as aforesaid, file within thirty days after said return day or within such other time as the Court upon motion may order a written statement of each such item together with the grounds for each objection thereto, a copy to be served upon the fiduciary pursuant to Mass. R. Civ. P. Rule 5.

Witness, Robert M. Ford, Esquire, First Justice of said Court, this 30th day of May, 1991.

Flag Day Parade Returns In Style Friday

this year and that his father will be recognized.

"(My father) said it many times that even though the Koch Club sponsored it for many years, the Quincy Flag Day parade belongs to all people and it was his hope the parade would continue in some fashion.

"I'm thrilled that some folks have come together and are pulling their resources to put the parade down the street," Koch said while giving special thanks to Edward Keohane and Mike McFarland of the Quincy Partnership.

Koch is the executive secretary for Mayor James Sheets.

At a flag raising ceremony following the parade, Fr. Cornelius Heery, pastor of Sacred Heart Church, will praise Mr. Koch during his invocation. A float honoring Mr. Koch will also travel the parade route.

A trademark of past Quincy Flag Day parades will also return in splendid fashion.

According to Koch, the Koch Club will distribute 2,000 small American flags to Quincy youngsters in various activity organizations. The youngsters will wave the flags while marching down Hancock St.

Adding a musical touch to the parade with patriotic songs will be several marching bands, including Canton Legion Post Band, Menotomy Drum and Bugle Corps, Fort Devens Army Band, Quincy High-North Quincy High Band and Marshfield High School Band.

Among the specialty units to be featured are a U.S. Air Force jet, two Army jeeps and weapon carrier, Red Cross ambulance and an antique fire truck.

A large gray-colored float depicting the Quincy-built U.S.S. Lexington will also travel the route on a flat tractor trailer-bed.

Color guards include Civil Air Patrol, Quincy Fire Department, Navy/Marine unit, Quincy Police, Norfolk County Sheriff's Office and Morrisette Post.

Among the organizations carrying the Gettysburg Peace flags will be the George F. Bryan VFW Post, Morrisette Legion Post, Houghs Neck Legion, Marine Corps League, Sons of the American Legion, Adams Heights Men's Club, and Quincy Kiwanis, Rotary and Lions Clubs.

Parade dignitaries include national, state and city officials as well as Uncle Sam portrayed by Sandy Rounseville of Quincy. Persian Gulf veterans will be joined by their families and the Quincy Support Group.

There will also be militia units from Hingham, Charlestown, Ninth Regiment Volunteer Infantry, ROTC, Civil Air Patrol and a full color guard and marching unit from Concord and Lexington.

The parade will culminate with the outside lighting of the Crane Library at 7:45 p.m. Ed Keohane, chairperson of the Quincy Partnership, will be master of ceremonies.

Council President Ted DeCristofaro will introduce dignitaries and welcome the public at 7:50 p.m.

At 7:55 p.m. there will be a flag raising ceremony with Rene Rancourt of the Boston Bruins singing the National Anthem. There will be additional musical entertainment.

At 8 p.m., Quincy's John (Jake) Comer, past national commander of the American Legion, will welcome Persian Gulf veterans.

At 8:10 p.m., Mayor James Sheets will deliver an address followed by a Mount Rushmore Flag Plaque presentation to Marc Valentine, custodian of the flag.

Kaufman, who is the White House political director, will then speak. The official lighting of the library will follow.

Because of the parade and lighting ceremony, there will be no parking starting at 4 p.m. on both sides of Hancock St. from Standish Ave. to Temple St.; both sides of Temple St.; both sides of Coddington St. from Spear St. to Washington St.; and both sides of Washington St. from Foster St. to Coddington St.

Public parking will be available at Pageant Field on Southern Artery, Upper Merrymount Park, Central Middle School, Dimmock St. at Adams Academy, UDAG garage, Burgin Parkway and Presidents Place parking garage.

Dignitaries and public officials will park at Quincy College; buses will park at the Center for Technical Education and the news media will use the rear of the Crane Library.

Flag Day And:

A Rousing 'Welcome Home'

NINE GETTYSBURG PEACE flags were carried along the Flag Day-Welcome Home Parade. The 20 by 30 foot 1863 flags were dedicated on the battlefield of Gettysburg July 2, 1888 as part of the exhibit at the National Military Park there.

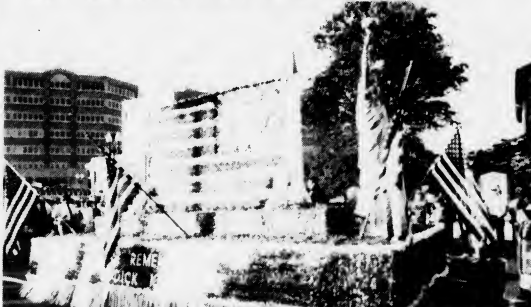

MAYOR JAMES SHEETS, Ron Kaufman, aide to President George Bush and American Legion Past National Commander John (Jake) Comer carry flags in the Quincy Flag Day-Welcome Home parade sponsored by the Quincy Partnership and the City. Behind them are former Mayors Arthur Tobin and Joseph LaRaja.

PERSIAN GULF VETERANS got a rousing "Welcome Home" during the parade viewed by a crowd estimated at 50,000 or more.

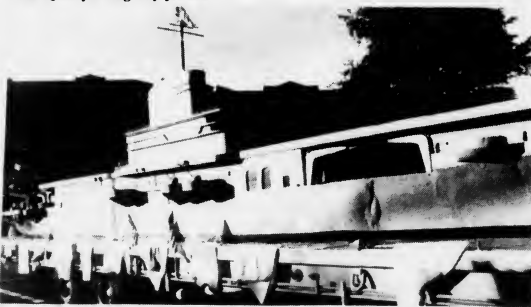

AN IMPOSING PATRIOT missile -- the real McCoy -- got a lot of attention from all ages.

THE DICK KOCH Memorial Float with American flags and the Statue of Liberty was an appropriate tribute to the late founder of both the Koch Club and Quincy's Flag Day parade.

Council On Aging To Meet June 27

The Quincy Council on Aging will meet June 27, at 2 p.m. in the second floor conference room of the City Hall Annex.

All members are urged to attend the meeting which is the last formal meeting before the summer recess.

The License Board Tuesday told the owners of Board Bans 4 On Bookmaking

Brannigan's, 226 Water St., that they must ban from the establishment all of the four people convicted on illegal bookmaking charges, one of which is Robert DiBona Sr., father of owner, Mark DiBona.

The board took the action two weeks after a hearing concerning the charges of illegal bookmaking at the establishment.

Mark DiBona and co-owner Edward Maloney maintained Tuesday that they had no knowledge of the illegal bookmaking activities at Brannigan's.

DiBona, Sr., a bartender at Brannigan's convicted earlier this year at Dedham Superior Court of being an accessory before the fact of registering bets. Additional charges were placed on file.

He was sentenced to three months in prison, which he is currently serving, and was fined $10,000.

The convictions were the result of a lengthy investigation involving extensive wire tapping of telephones on the premises.

The License Board was told to determine whether the owners knew about or should have known about the illegal activities at Brannigan's.

DiBona and Maloney had been summoned to the License Board to answer to charges that they knew about and allowed the illegal activities to take place on the premises.

The board, after deliberation, could have suspended, or revoked the license or taken no action.

After brief discussion Tuesday the board voted to prohibit the convicted persons from entering or working in the establishment.

Attorney Thomas Largey, representing Brannigan's and Attorney William Sullivan, representing the owners individually, expressed to the board that the owners did not know about the illegal activities and requested that no action be taken.

"The evidence was very weak, if it existed at all, of the owners having any knowledge (of the activity) at all," Atty. Largey said. "I am requesting that the board take no action. Robert DiBona, Sr. has been convicted of bookmaking and has been punished...that is a just punishment and should not be exceeded by this board."

Attorney Sullivan noted that during the investigation on the matter, Quincy Police Detectives stated that the only way they could have known about the evidence of illegal bookmaking was to have placed a wire tap on the telephones. He argued that, because the owners did not have access to the wire taps they could not have known about the bookmaking.

Boardmember Matthias Mulvey as well as Police Chief Francis Mulligan, argued that the owners should have known about it.

"There is no way you can run an operation and be totally oblivious to someone running to the phone every twenty minutes," Mulvey said.

Atty. Largey maintained that there was not sufficient evidence that there were illegal phone calls made every twenty minutes.

Boardmember Tom Gorman agreed that it is in the best interest of the owners to prohibit the convicted persons from entering the establishment.

"You have a nice business there," he said, "it is 100 percent better than what it was before...but these elements there taint your business...if I owned the place I know I wouldn't want that element in there, even if it was family...it is up to you to police that property and make sure that element doesn't get in there."

Mayor, Council Back Plan $1.3 M To Overhaul City's Sewer System

By STEVE KAVANAGH
Public Works
Commissioner David
Colton unveiled a $1.3 million project to begin an overhaul of the city's sewer system.

The plan is in response to tests which show that sewage is leaking into the city's storm drain system and contaminating
Wollaston Beach.

The project received a favorable reaction from the City Council Monday and has the backing of Mayor
James Sheets.

"Mayor Sheets is committed to solving the problem because he believes residents are not satisfied with conditions at city beaches. He believes residents will be rightfully irate if the beaches continue to be contaminated after Nut Island (sewage treatment plant) goes off line," Colton said.

Wollaston Beach was closed more often than any other MDC beach last year because of unsafe bacteria levels.

Colton's plan calls for a thorough cleaning of storm drains and sewer pipes, the replacement of malfunctioning tidegates, and a comprehensive search for cracks and leaks in pipes.

Ultimately, the project will cost much more. "This $1.3 million is for work which needs to be done before a single shovel goes into the ground to begin replacing pipes," Colton said.

The DPW chief said he could not estimate a final cost because at this point there is no way of knowing how many pipes will have to be replaced.

Phase I of the project will encompass 1,300 acres including Wollaston Beach from East
Squantum St. to Rice
Road and inland through North Quincy along
Hancock St. and as far west as the Milton border near Montclair and Wollaston Hill.

The MWRA will assist the DPW with manpower and equipment including special television cameras which can detect cracks in pipes, leaks and illegal sewer connections.

City workers will also use dyed water to detect leaks.

David Standley, an environmental consultant, said that no illegal hookups were found during preliminary work at streets near the beach on Colby and Milton Roads and at

The Strand.

Colton said he expects to find few, if any, illegal hookups in the course of the project and said that it is not a significant contributor to the problem as had been speculated previously.

"The contamination of storm drains is somewhat filtered," Standley said. He noted that there was no evidence of large debris such as tampon applicators and other "floatables" meaning that many of the leaks are from small cracks.

Colton said he will ask the council for $433,000 this fall to get the project started. The target date to have the problem corrected is July of 1995-- the same time the Nut Island Sewage Treatment Plant is scheduled to go off line.

A $35,000 federal grant from the Environmental Protection Agency is expected to be awarded to Quincy and will be used for repair of tidegates, Colton said. He said his department will aggressively pursue other grant money to help pay for the project.

Other sources of funding will include low and no-interest loans.

Mayor Explains Quarterly Tax Bills

Mayor James Sheets has sent a letter to city residents explaining why Quincy has adopted the quarterly tax payment system.

"By adopting quarterly payments, we will save $500,000 since the City will not have to borrow $18 million to meet operating expenses,"

Sheets wrote.

Sheets blamed the state for not making local aid payments to cities in towns in a timely manner.

The mayor said it has cost the city $750,000 in interest this year for borrowing to meet operating expenses.

Sheets stressed that property taxes do not increase because of the new system but that the bill is divided into four payments instead of two.

The first quarterly bill will be mailed by July 1 and will be due August 1.

Medical ID Program For Senior Citizens

The Mayor's Commission for Handicap Affairs, in conjunction with the Quincy Housing Authority and Quincy Police Department, is sponsoring an identification program for all senior citizens.

All participants will receive a medical ID bracelet displaying an ID number, "Quincy Police Dept." and the police telephone number.

The application will include the name, address and telephone number of a contact person who will be able to provide identifying information if the bracelet wearer is unable to do so. The information will be kept in a sealed file at the police station and will only be opened if a call is received on the corresponding ID number.

Bracelets are available at the Manet Community Health Center, 1193 Sea St., and the Beechwood Community Life Center, 225 Fenno St.

A $6 donation is requested if possible to defray the cost of providing the bracelets. Further inquiries can be directed to William Murphy, chairman, Mayor's Commission for Handicap Affairs, 471-3733.

Initial funding for the program is being provided by the Quincy Police Patrolmen's Association.

South Shore Lender-Owned Property List Now Available

A South Shore Property Availability List is now available from the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, Quincy.

The list contains available lender-owned commercial and residential real estate on the South Shore, arranged by category (commercial or residential), community and price.

The Chamber's Real Estate Committee and South Shore Economic Development Corporation combined forces to publish the list.

The cost for the list is $8. Copies are available by calling the Chamber at 479-1111, or copies can be picked up at the Chamber office, 36 Miller Stile Road.

TRAVELER'S TUMMY

There is a long list of humorous nicknames for the intestinal infections developed from exposure to unfamiliar local organisms. About half of those who go to Mexico are likely to develop "la Tourista," and our troops in the Middle East are all too familiar with the F.G.I. Trots. The condition is no laughing matter, sending many victims to bed and forcing others to curtail their activities. The major symptoms are cramping and diarrhea, which may last for three to five days. To avoid it, stay away from the local drinking water, including ice in drinks. Wine, beer and carbonated sodas are safe. When ordering bottled water, ask to have it brought unopened. Dishonest restaurants and hotels may refill empty bottles from the faucet. Avoid raw, unpeeled fruits and vegetables, and don't eat undercooked poultry or shellfish. Dairy products may also be risky.

P.S. Ask your doctor about medication for prevention as well as treatment of symptoms of "Montezuma's Revenge."

LaRaia Warming Up?

From a patriotic standpoint, Quincy's stirring Flag Day-Welcome Home Parade was really something to behold.

The returning Persian Gulf veterans, the military bands, the imposing Patriot missile, the 40-foot model of the carrier Lexington, the Koch Club and other kids waving hundreds of flags and the crowd -- estimated at 50,000 or more -- applauding and cheering made it a day to go down fondly in Quincy's history.

And, from a political standpoint, there was also something to behold.

There, marching side by side were two old arch rivals -- former Mayors Arthur Tobin and Joseph LaRaia -- who have slugged it out politically on many occasions down through the years, especially in the 1977 mayoral brawl when Tobin ousted LaRaia in one of the bitterest campaigns in the city's history.

LAIRAIA

They've both taken a few puffs on the peace pipe since then.

Officially, Tobin and LaRaia were part of the mayoral contingent in the parade along with present Mayor James Sheets and former Mayors Walter Hannon and Frank McCauley.

Politically, LaRaia's presence triggered a little speculation: Is he warming up to a run for city council at large this year?

LaRaia, after leaving office, traditionally disappears from the public scene and then when he begins to turn up at political functions or special municipal events, it is usually a prelude to a campaign announcement.

So, we tried to pin him down while waiting for the lighting ceremonies at the Thomas Crane public library.

"Any political significance to you marching in the parade, Joe?"

"Maybe."

"Are you considering running for councillor at large?"

"Yes."

"Are you really thinking of running?"

"Well, I have been doing some thinking since people have been asking me to run."

"How many people?"

"Quite a few."

LaRaia said if he did become a candidate it wouldn't be to run against any one of the three incumbents -- Tim Cahill, Michael Cheney and Pat Toland.

It's not like running one-on-one. The voter has three votes and sometimes likes to give one of those three votes to a candidate who is a little different than the other candidates." LaRaia has been a sort of Lone Ranger -- or a maverick -- in past City Councils which seems to appeal to a lot of voters.

LaRaia used to be conceded an estimated 5,000 loyal votes whenever he ran.

"Well, I don't know if there are 5,000 out there now," he says. "But I know there are some out there."

There weren't 5,000 votes out there in his last campaign. He got only 3,121 votes and finished last in the four-man race for mayor in the 1989 preliminary election.

But a council at-large contest is a different ball game.

LaRaia sounds like he is warming up to another campaign.

Will he run?

"I'm leaving the door open. I never close it."

The most common first name of U.S. presidents is James.

RAYMONDI

DAN RAYMONDI, who also marched in the parade carrying two flags, is still leaning toward a run for School Committee.

But he has been looking over the city council at-large field.

Raymond isn't too happy with some of the recent voting by the School Committee or with School Supt. Robert Ricci and that might be the deciding factor in which race he will enter.

FRANK ANSELMO, who will be 93 Sept. 22 -- five days after the Sept. 17 preliminary election -- says he is in the School Committee race all the way.

He was the first to file his nomination papers -- just two days after he took them out. And had them certified by Asst. City Clerk Joseph Shea.

Only 50 names are required but Anselmo turned in 88. Interestingly, 82 of the 88 names were those of residents at 1000 Southern Artery. It's a safe bet to say he'll carry that precinct.

Incidentally, if Anselmo hadn't resigned his seat when he wasn't feeling well last January, there would have been prayers at this year's high school graduation ceremonies.

Peggy Nigro, who was elected by a joint session of the School Committee and City Council, to fill the open seat, was one of the four that voted 4-to-3 to ban the prayers this year because of a federal court ruling the prayers violate separation of church and state.

If Anselmo hadn't resigned it would have been a 4-to-3 vote to keep the prayers.

The vote banning prayers, is one of the main reasons Anselmo has returned to the campaign trail.

"It got my dander up" he says.

RON KAUFMAN came home from Washington to serve as grand marshal of the Quincy Flag Day-Welcome Home Parade.

KAUFMAN

Kaufman, a close friend of Mayor Sheets who was one of his teachers at then Quincy Junior College, and now director of the White House, was asked how he liked the job.

"It is like I have died and gone to heaven," he smiled.

Kaufman told of being with President George Bush and his wife, Barbara recently in their living quarters at the White House and together looking out at the Washington scene -- the Washington monument, Jefferson and Lincoln Memorials, etc.

"It's still hard to believe," he said. "Here was a poor boy from Quincy standing with the President of the United States in the White House. It's a thrill."

Kaufman played a key role in Bush's election and is expected to be a major player in the 1992 campaign.

Return Granite Ball And Fountain To City Hall

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The sculpture does not represent the three men, John Adams, Samuel Adams and James Bowdoin, drafting the Massachusetts Constitution. The only way that could have been done was in "base-relief" in a form of a panel.

The plaque at the Constitution Common should have no reference to the sculpture. The sculpture should have a plaque of Quincy granite with the name of the artist and the sculpture.

All the forms in the sculpture (14) were cut from large granite blocks and shaped to such irregular forms without a point mark and a smooth finish. Ed Monti did an outstanding job.

We are in an era of arts innovation, in wood, bricks, metal and stones. In Boston Government Center, a large metal display; at the MBTA Quincy Adams Station, overhead at the boarding platform are large sheet metal plates.

In Quincy we have the sculpture in granite in the arrangement of the stones the artist Jerome Reicher has given a touch of architecture, which may be unique in granite modern arts.

I noted in the news in connection with the sculpture, that Mayor Sheets would like a pretty fountain in the area of City Hall. We had a granite fountain at one time at Quincy Square. It had a similar fate as the granite ball, but not as good, as it was relocated to Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

The area at City Hall could have outstanding craftsmanship in different forms of Quincy granite by relocating to the area the granite ball and the fountain to the front of City Hall to go along with the four large granite columns at the First Parish Church and the entrance to the South Shore Bank—all in polished granite with four large columns and the sculpture.

Yakoo Committee Was Fair To Media

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

In a recent addition of the Patriot Ledger, columnist Katy Corneel wrote that the Ad Hoc Committee on Yakoo prohibited the press from attending meetings and interviewing participants. The impression was given that clandestine matters were being discussed behind closed doors.

As a result, many people who were unfamiliar with the proceedings were unable to make a fair evaluation of a problem which was extremely important to the North Quincy High School students and the community at large.

Statements were made by some members of the media that they were allowed to attend meetings only when members of the "Pro" group were in session.

Two press conferences were set up for members of the Anti-Yakoo group. Eleven speakers for this side were invited to discuss the issue and were given the opportunity to meet with students in open classroom discussion. The Native Americans requested its meetings with the media be held only after discussions had ended for the day.

Dr. Ricci was deeply concerned about the issue, although he had strong personal feelings regarding it. He was extremely fair with members of the committee and did not interfere in any way with the democratic objectives established.

Schools have been severely criticized in recent months throughout the state and country. It has been argued that pupils are unable to read and write and do not know how to think.

The Yakoo affair

presented a problem in minority relationships. It was a model workshop on "Democracy In Action" in the debate over the symbol of the Yakoo. Students took a current social problem and worked on it in a democratic way. This was not something out of a book. They demonstrated by their actions that they know how to think, how to act, and how to handle an emotional issue in a mature, professional manner.

Josiah Quincy House Now Open For Season

The historic Josiah Quincy House, at 20 Muirhead St., Wollaston, has opened for the summer season.

The Quincy House is one of 23 historic properties owned and operated by the Boston-based Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities, SPNEA.

Built in 1770 by Colonel Josiah Quincy, a leader of the American Revolution, the country house was owned by several generations of the Quincy family, including Josiah Quincy III, the second Mayor of Boston and president of Harvard.

The house is decorated with Georgian paneling and fireplaces with English tiles. The rooms contain English and American furniture from Colonel Quincy's time and objects added by later generations of his family.

Much of what is known about the house today is due to the preservation efforts of family historian Eliza Susan Quincy in the 1800's.

Admission to the Quincy House is $3 for adults, $2.50 for seniors and $1.50 for children. The house is open until October 15 on Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday from noon to 5 p.m. Tours are available on the hour with the final tour of the day at 4 p.m.

For further information call SPNEA at 227-3956.

School Children Permitted To Aid War Paper Drive

Mayor Charles A. Ross issued an emergency order overriding the School Committee's refusal to permit school children to take a morning off to help in the city's wastepaper drive for the war effort.

The youngsters were needed to pick up bundles of paper in front of homes and deliver them to the Granite St. railroad siding where 15 freight cars were waiting to take them to Boston.

June 10-25

"The Mayor's order undoubtedly prevented the success of the residential drive from being imperilled," said Clarence L. Edwards, chairman of the salvage drive.

"As we see it a war emergency must take precedence over everything else and this is one of those situations."

HOUGHS NECK MEMORIAL

Six Gold Star Mothers were given the places of honor and former State Auditor Thomas H. Buckley of Abington was the speaker at the dedication of the Houghs Neck World War II Memorial.

Honored were the mothers of Sgt. John A. Wood, Pvt. Anthony E. Dalton, all of whom had died for their country.

South Shore Bank To Modernize, Streamline Branch System

South Shore Bank plans to streamline and moderate its branch system throughout Norfolk County.

Fifteen of 31 branches, including three in Quincy, will be directly affected. The three:

- Wollaston branch, Clay and Chapman Sts., will be upgraded and expanded.

- North Quincy branch, 409 Hancock St., will be consolidated into upgraded and renovated Wollaston branch.

- Quincy Point branch,

Washington St., and Southern Artery will be converted into a self-service branch with 24-hour ATM.

Bank President Forrest R. Cook, Jr., who made the announcement, said the new system is based on the results of a comprehensive study of the bank's retail services delivery system.

The new branch service system, he said, will include the renovation and expansion of several branch offices, and the consolidation of a number of branches into larger, more modern, more accessible, and more centrally located facilities throughout Norfolk County. Portions of the program are subject to the approval of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Commissioner of Banks.

Cook made particular note of customer demand for easier access.

convenient parking, drive-up windows and 24-hour ATM service.

The reconfiguration of South Shore Bank's branch banking system will directly affect 15 of the 31 existing branches.

"Some of our branches will be renovated and expanded, some will be moved to new locations and a number will be consolidated into nearby branches that are more readily accessible to the public in terms of adequate parking, drive-through and ATM capabilities," Cook said.

Other branches affected:

- Wellesley Lower Falls, Wellesley Office Park and Norwood will undergo renovation and expansion.

- Stoughton and three Weymouth branches (East Weymouth, North Weymouth and Weymouth Landing), will be relocated into newer, expanded facilities with more consolidation expected.

- South Braintree, Westwood, Wellesley Square, Canton and Wellesley Hills will be consolidated into nearby existing or newly renovated branches.

Cook expects up to 40 full-time employees to be affected by the change. The bank hopes to be able to offer affected employees positions within the branch system.

South Shore Bank filed a petition on June 15, 1991, with the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Commissioner of Banks for permission to close those branches which will be consolidated into newly renovated or existing branches. Upon approval of the petition, actual consolidations will begin in September, 1991.

ENC Group To Dedicate Chapel To Linda Whitting

A group of 16 Eastern Nazarene College students are building a chapel in Tamazunchale, Mexico this summer which will be dedicated to the late Linda Whitting of Quincy, ENC's dean of women until last August when she died in a boating accident in New York.

The group is building the chapel through the Colleges and Universities Sharing Experience group, (C.A.U.S.E.), with which Miss Whitting had been involved.

Last June Miss Whitting lead a group of ENC students to Costa Rica with C.A.U.S.E. to do community service work. She had also been to Belize and Guyana with C.A.U.S.E. and had been planning to be part of this summer's trip to Mexico.

ENC's dean of women since 1982, Miss Whitting was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Whitting of Port Allegany, Pa. Her parents are also members of this year's C.A.U.S.E. project in Mexico.

A 1978 graduate of ENC, Miss Whitting also held a master's degree in social work from Ohio State University and worked for some time in Ohio with the mentally retarded.

SGT. FRED ABDALLAH, right, of Quincy, receives a plaque from Norfolk County Sheriff Clifford Marshall after being selected the "Correctional Officer of the Year."

Fred Abdallah 'Correctional Officer Of The Year'

Sergeant Fred Abdallah of Quincy was recently named "Correctional Officer of the Year" by Norfolk County Sheriff Clifford Marshall.

Abdallah, an employee of the Sheriff's Office since May, 1985, was chosen by a committee of his peers as an individual who "displays exceptional dedication to the philosophy, mission and goals of the Sheriff's Office in the execution of his duties."

Marshall presented a certificate of achievement to Abdallah during the first week of May which was proclaimed "National Correctional Officers Week."

"Sergeant Abdallah has shown courage and good judgement during times of crisis. His character exemplifies the values we all hope to share as professionals in the field of corrections," Marshall said.

Abdallah's name will be the first to appear on a permanent plaque to be placed at the new Norfolk County Sheriff's Office Correctional Center at the Route 128 Median, Dedham. Names of future award recipients will be added to the plaque each year.

The Massachusetts Sheriff's Association recognized Abdallah's achievement during a recent meeting in Worcester County.

Steven Wildes Receives Degree From Babson

Steven Wildes of Quincy received a bachelor of science degree during recent commencement ceremonies at Babson College, Wellesley.

Wildes is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wildes of Faxon Road.

Local Hypnotherapist Teaching His Trade

Armand Sticco, a registered hypnotherapist, has open an office at 1073 Hancock St., Quincy.

Sticco was recently certified as an instructor in the field of hypnotherapy by the National Guild of Hypnotist, a professional organization of more than 3,000 hypnologists and hypnotherapists.

He completed a specialized course of study developed for qualified guild members with input from professional hypnotherapists practicing throughout the United States and 10 countries. He will teach core curriculum for basic certification to those interested in pursuing a career in hypnotherapy.

Sticco is holding a free introduction each Thursday in June from 7 to 8 p.m. in his Quincy office. By learning self hypnosis, Sticco said participants will enhance their creativity, improve grades/concentration and control pain.

In addition, students are taught how to hypnotize others to stop smoking, control weight and improve athletic performance.

Course completion includes a one-year membership with the National Guild of Hypnotherapists.

Sticco will attend an international convention and educational conference Aug. 16-18 in Nashua, N.H. The conference is said to be the largest of its type and also features annual awards for education, research, achievements and excellence in the practice of hypnotherapy.

MARCI HURD of Squantum, daughter of Patricia Langevin-Hurd, was recently elected to the National Honor Society. Hurd graduated from the Chapel Hill-Chauncy Hall School in Waltham and will attend the University of Massachusetts, Amherst in the fall.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

OUTLETS ... Webster's Dictionary defines the word "outlet" as a passage or way out; an exit; a vent; an opening.

We all know a body of water must have outlets or it becomes stagnant. Palestine's Dead Sea was probably named so because it has no outlets.

Let's think about this word "outlet" in relation to people ... People must have outlets for their energies, their interests and their talents ... A person who buries himself in his business to the exclusion of everything else will himself wither away. Would businessmen throughout the world prosper if they didn't have outlets for the distribution of their products? Would nations prosper without outlets for what they produce?

All interesting hobbies are outlets. The artist paints a picture; it is then an outlet from himself. It's the same with a book that a writer creates. Think about how a great baseball game furnishes an outlet for the pent-up enthusiasm of thousands of fans!

These outlets are actually essential to our well-being. They give tonic to the mind, tone the nerves into rest and peace. Whether big or small, we must all have outlets to keep us well balanced and strong.

Leslie M. Brierley, 81

Banker, Organist, Yachtsman

A funeral service for Leslie M. "Les" Brierley, 81, of Wollaston was held Wednesday in Quincy Community United Methodist Church. Burial was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

A Masonic service was held Tuesday at Deware Funeral Home.

Mr. Brierley, who served as vice president of the Hancock Bank and Colonial Federal Bank, died Sunday at Presidential Nursing Home.

Mr. Brierley had studied in Allentown, Pa. to be an organist for silent films. Just after he completed his training, however, talking film was introduced and the theater organist was no longer in demand.

He moved to Quincy where he was a part time organist for the Central Baptist Church and studied at the Bentley School of Accounting and Finance in Boston. He graduated from Bentley in 1930.

After working briefly in the Fore River Shipyard, he started his own accounting firm.

He later took a position with the Quincy Trust Co., where he became treasurer and was elected to the position of treasurer at the Hancock bank in 1972. He later became Vice President of the bank.

A year after retiring from that position, he was offered a part-time position as Assistant Vice President of the Colonial Federal Bank. He retired in full in 1987.

Mr. Brierley was Chairman of the Quincy City Hospital Board of Managers in 1973. He was a Paul Harris Fellow of the Quincy Rotary Club and past treasurer of the Red Cross. He was a longtime volunteer for the March of Dimes.

He was past commodore of the Wollaston yacht Club and past Commodore of Quincy Bay Race Week. He was a member of the

LESLIE M. BRIERLEY

Commodores Club of America and the Coast Guard Auxiliary.

He played organ at the Central Baptist Church and was organist at the Wollaston United Methodist Church for over 30 years.

He was an active Mason and was past grand organist for the Grand Chapter of Massachusetts of the Order of Eastern Star, past member of the former Manet Masonic Lodge (now the Quincy Lodge), past patron of the Quincy Chapter of the Order of Eastern Star, past Dad-Advisor for the Wollaston Rainbow Assembly, and a member of the Taleb Grotto of Quincy.

He is survived by his wife, Dorothy (Nicholl) Brierley; a son, Russell L. Brierley of Hanover a daughter, Diane I Rogers of South Weymouth and five grandchildren.

Donations may be made to the scholarship fund of Quincy Rotary Club, P.O. Box 346, Quincy, 02269, or to the organ fund at Quincy United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., Quincy, 02170.

A funeral service for William F. Anderson, 92, of Quincy, will be held at 10 a.m. today (Thursday) at the Hammel, Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St. Burial will be in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Visiting hours are Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m. at the funeral home.

Mr. Anderson, a retired self-employed painter, died Sunday at Quincy member of the Wessagusset Chapter of the Order of Eastern Star and a past matron and district deputy.

She is survived by her husband, Renaldo W. Mauritson Jr.; a son, Danny E. Mauritson of Whitman; a daughter, Donna J. O'Brien of Kingston; a brother, Willie Drew Spell; and three sisters, Beatrice Bolton, Elizabeth Faircloth and Shirley Boles, all of North Carolina; and two grandchildren, Tyler J. Mauritson and Garret D. Mauritson, both of Whitman.

Donations may be made to the Hospice of the South Shore, 400 Franklin St., Braintree 02184.

Hospital.

He was born in Boston. Mr. Anderson was a member of the Taleb Grotto and of Rural Masonic Lodge.

He was a former seaman in the merchant Marine.

He is survived by a friend, Irvne Childs of Plymouth. He was the brother of the late Theodore Anderson.

Mildred L. Duggan, 71

Fomer Pneumatic Scale Employee

A funeral Mass for Mildred L. Duggan, 71, of Quincy will be celebrated at 10 a.m. today (Thursday) in St. John the Baptist Church. Burial will be in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Visiting hours are Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave.

Miss Duggan, a longtime employee of the former White Brothers Milk Co. and of Pneumatic Scale in Quincy, died Monday in Quincy Hospital after a long illness.

She was a native of Quincy and lived in the city all her life.

She is survived by two brothers, William L. Duggan, who is retired from the Quincy Police Department, and Paul E. Duggan, both of Quincy; and many nieces, nephews, grandnieces and grandnephews.

Donations may be made to charity.

Health Fair At Marina Bay Saturday

Marina Bay, in cooperation with Carney Hospital, will present the annual "Salute To Life" Health Fair" Saturday from noon to 4 p.m. at Marina Bay, 500 Victory Rd., Squantum.

Physicians Teresa Boyle, M.D. and Robert Weinberg, M.D. of Wollaston medical Associates, will be on site with Carney Hospital personnel to provide free health screenings including a no fast cholesterol screening, a blood pressure screening and diabetes testing. There will also be free consultation and information on skin care and hypnosis (for fear of flying, smoking, stress etc.).

The health screenings will be held at the gazebo at Marina Bay.

In the event of rain, the Health Fair will be held Saturday, June 29.

For those times when the darkness lingers

With the loss of a loved one through death, it is helpful to be able to share the feelings and emotions which we all experience.

For most of us, there are family members, clergy, and friends who are ready to listen in a caring way.

Yet, there are those who find it helpful to share their grief with someone outside their immediate circle of support.

Because of our continuing commitment to the families we serve, Keohane Funeral Service is pleased to announce that Dr. Sherry Johnson has joined our staff as a Grief Counselor. Her educational background, professional experience and understanding manner can be particularly helpful.

We are the first funeral home in New England to offer the service of a Grief Counselor.

Wesley Bell Ringers At

Community Methodist Church June 27

The Wesley Bell Ringers of Salt Lake City, Utah, will perform in concert at Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., Thursday, June 27 at 7:30 p.m.

The group, based at the Christ United Methodist Church in Salt Lake City, will visit Quincy as part of its 26th annual tour.

The bell ringers perform using 197 English hand bells, 25 melody bells, 74 hand chimes, 25 Whitechapel cup bells, a 25 note carillon, 20 Chinese saucer bells, orchestra chimes, tone bars and bass boom-a-gong.

Their repertoire includes both sacred and secular music.

The concert is free and open to the public and a free-will offering will be taken.

Continental Cable To Broadcast Flag Day Parade

Quincy Community Television, Cable Channel 3, will broadcast coverage of Quincy's Flag Day parade and the lighting ceremony at Thomas Crane Library Monday, June 24 at 6:30 p.m.

The broadcast will be repeated Tuesday, June 25 at 9:30 a.m. and Wednesday, June 26 at 1:30 p.m.

The Flag day parade, dedicated to Dick Koch, founder of the Koch Club, also gave area residents a way to show gratitude and support to veterans returning from Operation Desert Storm.

Highlights of the parade included a Patriot Missile on loan from the Raytheon Company; the Gettysburg Flag, which was carried by the 9th Regiment of the Massachusetts Voluntary Infantry during the Civil War; and a float in honor of the Quincy-built USS Lexington.

Grand Marshall of the Flag Day parade was Presidential Aide Ron Kaufman, political director for the White House.

The lighting ceremony at the library featured a special flag raising with Rene Rancourt of the Boston Bruins singing the National Anthem.

Flag Day Celebrated At Lincoln-Hancock

Lincoln-Hancock Community School held its annual Flag Day Celebration which featured veterans of the Persian Gulf War this year.

Nearly 600 flags were waved by the students during the program which featured patriotic poems and songs.

Members of the Morrisette American Legion Post also participated in the ceremonies. The Morrisette Post Color Guard led the students in a march around the school to culminate the celebration.

N.Q. Crane Library Branch Awarded Library Of America Set

The North Quincy branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library has been awarded a 60-volume set of the Library of America, the series American Heritage called "the most ambitious effort ever undertaken to put the best of American literature into the hands of the general reader."

The North Quincy branch

submitted an application after obtaining a pledge of $350 from the Friends of the Thomas Crane Library. The pledge was match by $350 from the Massachusetts Foundation for the Humanities and by $500 from the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation.

The offer, in Massachusetts, was promulgated by the Mass. Board of Library Commissioners.

About 30 volumes will be received soon. The remaining volumes will be sent over the next three years.

The branch was selected on the basis of its statistics which fell within the grant's guidelines.

Philip Adams Wins First Place In Billboard Song Contest

Philip Adams, 42, of Quincy has won first place in the Pop category in the 1990-91 Billboard Magazine Song Contest presented by Kentucky Fried Chicken.

As a first place winner, Adams was awarded $5,000 cash and is a contender for the grand prize, which includes $25,000 cash, a trip to the Montreux International Festival in Switzerland where the grand prize song will be performed, a signed Gibson Les Paul reissue gold top guitar and a Dean Markly amplifier.

Adams' song, entitled "Keep The Love Alive," is his observation of social conscious songs and world crisis.

The contest, co-sponsored by nearly 500 radio stations nationwide, drew more than 50,000 entries in categories including rock, pop, country, gospel, Latin, rap and jazz.

The contest is judged by a panel of recording artists and, as the songs continue through the screening process the judges become more and more prominent in their respective categories.

The grand prize and first place winners are selected by a panel of 22 artists including Peter Ceterra, Roy Clark, Heart, Frank Zappa, Lou Rawls, Amy Grant, Julio Iglesias, and Deniece Williams.

The grand prize winner is scheduled to be selected within two weeks.

Art Association Offers Ventures For Children

The Quincy Art Association will offer a six week Art Venture for children beginning the week of July 8. The course will be offered Monday or Tuesday from 10 to 11:30 a.m. and will include mixed media and fun projects for children of all ages. The cost is $55.

In addition, the following two day workshops will be offered Monday and Tuesdays from 1:30 to 3 p.m.

Tie-Dye: July 8 and 9. Bring a T-shirt and rubber gloves, $25.

Paper Mache: July 23 and 24, $22.

Clay workshop: Aug. 5 and 6, $22.

The instructor for all classes will be Margaret Claffey. For further information and registration call 770-2482.

Wollaston Tied For Second

Morrisette Takes Over Top Spot

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Morrisette Legion baseball team improved to 4-1 and took over first place in Zone 6 with a 9-4 victory over Canton Monday night.

Wollaston remained tied for second place with Randolph, Braintree and Weymouth, each with three wins. Wollaston suffered its first loss Monday, bowing to Randolph, 3-1.

This season three Zone 6 teams will make the state tournament. The standings are based on a point system with two points for a win and one for a tie. This does away with the necessity of having to replay tie games.

Morrisette will face Quincy tonight (Thursday) at 8:30 p.m. at Adams Field, will host Holbrook Friday at 8:30 and will play at Milton Monday at 6 o'clock.

Wollaston will be at Weymouth Friday at 6, will play Braintree Monday night at 7:30 and will host Canton Wednesday night at 8:30 at Adams Field.

Gary Rawdon was credited with his third win in the Morrisette win over Canton, but had to leave the game in the fifth when he developed soreness in his pitching hand. Matt O'Toole relieved and struck out four batters he faced.

Mike Patch received some much-needed work as he pitched the final inning and allowed one hit. Rawdon allowed one earned run on three hits, struck out nine and walked four.

Mike Baylis went 3-for-4, driving in two runs and scoring two. Rawdon had two hits and an RBI, Tom Balzano had a hit and two RBI and Robbie Kane had a hit, two walks, drove in a run and scored three.

Last Friday Morrisette, seeking its second straight zone title, edged Braintree, 4-3, with Baylis pitching all the way for his first win. He allowed two earned runs, six hits, struck out six and walked only one.

Morrisette got off to a fast start with three runs in the first inning on singles by Kane and Baylis, a two-run single by Balzano, and singles by Pat Clifford and Serge Belcastro.

Braintree tied it in the fourth on four hits and an error. Pitcher Dave Federico had a long triple. He settled down after the first, putting down 15 of the next 16 batters, with only an infield hit.

In the seventh, with one out, Mark Kelleher led off with a double. Adam Calvert grounded out moving pinch runner Noel DiBona to third, Kane was walked intentionally and Baylis won his own game with a single. Liam Higgins also had a hit for Morrisette.

Earlier Morrisette suffered its only loss to Wollaston, m 2-0, as Wollaston's Chad McMahon pitched a three-hitter, struck out five and walked one.

Wollaston scored in the first and second innings off starter and loser Billy Warren. In the first Dave Gamsby reached on an error, went to third on Jeff Craig's single and scored on Pat Gallagher's sacrifice fly. In the second Marc Swirbalus walked, advanced on a passed ball and scored on McMahon's single. Warren and reliever Matt O'Toole had to pitch out of several jams as Wollaston stranded 13 runners.

Balzano, Rawdon and Belcastro had the only Morrisette hits.

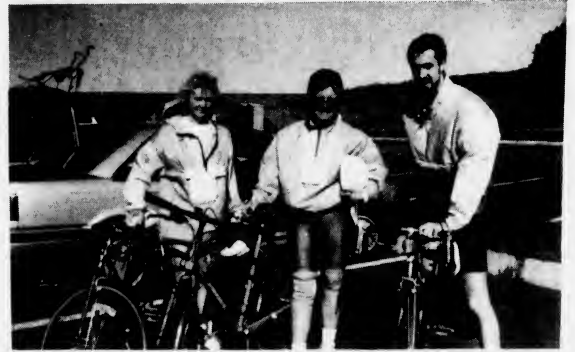

The key play came in the second inning when Gamsby threw Kelleher out at the plate from center field, Bob Fitzpatrick making a fine play at the plate.

Wollaston followed up the Morrisette win with a 15-0 romp over Quincy. Scott Dunn pitched five innings, giving up six hits and striking out two. Mark Taylor pitched the final inning.

Gallagher had a double and single, Steve Loud a base-clearing triple, and Chris Cunio and McMahon two singles each.

In Monday's loss at Randolph, Duane Holmes pitched the first 4 1/3 innings, allowing four hits and striking out three. Dunn finished up. Wollaston's only run came in the first on a walk to Craig and a double by Gallagher.

Cunio had a double and Craig a single for Wollaston. Randolph scored two runs on squeeze bunts.

QUINCY RESIDENTS Beverly McEvoy, center, and Douglas Murphy, and friend Marji Durkin prepare to take off on the Clean Air Challenge Bike Trek sponsored by lung associations in Massachusetts. They were among 300 participants in the recent trek which began and ended at Hopkinton State Park. Funds raised by the bikers help finance programs in the Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association's prevention and control of lung disease.

Sun Sports

Triple A

Tigers, Dodgers Win

The Papa Gino's Tigers defeated the Local 2222 White Sox, 18-11, in Quincy Triple A Baseball League action.

Joe Miller was the winning pitcher and struck out four. Miller also had a triple and two singles and Stephen Ford a double and single. Defensively Ken O'Connell at second base and catcher Pat O'Neil had fine games.

The Fernald Plumbing Dodgers defeated the Jarvis and Alexander Mets, 7-3, with John Parastatedes, the winning pitcher, allowing five hits, striking out nine and walking four. The loser, Mark Belanger, struck out three and walked four in relief of Justin Bernier, who struck out six and allowed no hits, but did walk seven.

Rob Blaikie had two singles for the Dodgers and also played well at first base. Mike Mullen, Mike Shaw and Matt Allen also played strong defense.

For the Mets Justin Doty had two singles and Belanger, Bernier, Doty and Jason Newhall played fine defense.

Quincy PAL Golf Tourney June 24

The Quincy Police Athletic League will hold its annual ADS Invitational golf tournament Monday, June 24 at the Country Club of Halifax, starting at 12:45 p.m.

ENC's Bradley Head Basketball Coach At Radford

Quincy's Ron Bradley, who had a fantastic career at Eastern Nazarene College and then was a highly successful coach at ENC for five years, has been named head basketball coach at Radford University in Radford, Va.

RON BRADLEY

Bradley, son of former longtime ENC coach and athletic director Carroll Bradley, succeeds Oliver Purnell, who resigned to take the head coaching job at Old Dominion University.

"I'm thrilled to be offered this opportunity," said Bradley. "I've waited for a long time to have a chance to be a Division I head coach and I can't wait to get to work. It's a great situation to be moving into and I'm looking forward to building on what we started last year. We've got a great group of players coming back and I believe we have a bright future ahead of us."

Bradley went to Radford last year as Purnell's top assistant and played a key role in the Highlander's turnaround from the previous year. Radford was 7-22 in 1989-90 and 22-7 last season, a 15-game reversal cited by the NCAA as the best in the nation. All but one player returns from last year's squad.

"I'm extremely pleased that Ron will be representing the Radford basketball program," said athletic director Chuck Taylor. "He is highly regarded within the basketball community and drew overwhelming support from a wide variety of people in Radford."

"He is a proven head coach and administrator, he is committed to the principle of the student athlete, and he ensures us a smooth transition. We felt like we had the right man right here on campus and we're happy that he chose to accept our offer."

Following an outstanding career at North Quincy High (he is a member of the NQ Hall of Fame), Bradley was a four-time letterman at ENC, scoring 2,649 points and averaging 24.8 points a game over his four-year career. He was sixth in the nation in scoring in the NAIA as a sophomore and 15th as a junior. He was All-New England and honorable mention NAIA All-American for three straight years.

He was drafted by the New York Nets out of college and played three years of semi-pro ball in the Boston area and one year with the Boston franchise of the U.S. Basketball Association before returning to Eastern Nazarene as head coach.

With Bradley at the helm, the Crusaders ran up a five-year record of 96-51 from 1976-81 and won three Naismith Conference titles, four district crowns and one regional championship. He twice exceeded 20 wins in a season and was twice named conference coach of the year. He also served at athletic director at Eastern Nazarene in 1980-81.

Before going to Radford, Bradley was an assistant coach at the University of Maryland, joining the staff first as a volunteer under Lefty Driesell in 1981 and being promoted to a full-time position in 1983. He remained as a top assistant after Bob Wade took over as head coach and worked as an assistant athletic director in 1989-90.

He received his bachelor's degree in psychology and history from ENC in 1974, earned a master's in physical education from Bridgewater State College and is working on a Ph.D in sport psychology at the University of Maryland.

Bradley is married to the former Denise Smith and they have two children, Brad, 13, and Kaitlin, 6.

ATLANTIC MIDDLE SCHOOL'S seventh graders recently returned from Boston University Sargent Camp in Peterborough, N.H. The outdoor environmental education program included an activity-base approach to different environments designed to increase awareness, knowledge and appreciation for the natural world. Students, such as Steven Cannon shown above, participated in outdoor adventure-challenge exercises which developed teamwork, trust, communication and group problem-solving.

Soccer

Colonial Bows In Playoffs After 9-0-0 Regular Season Finish

Colonial Federal, Quincy's entry in the South Shore League boys under 12 division 2, finished the regular season with a perfect 9-0-0 record, but dropped a tough decision to Weymouth in the league playoffs.

Quincy and Weymouth were tied, 101, at the end of regulation play, but Weymouth outscored Quincy, 3-2, in a shootout as a shot by Quincy's Chris Bregoli was tipped off the crossbar and Nick Bissante's shot hit the post. Mike Fitzpatrick and Jeff Verlicco had the Quincy goals.

Quincy dominated play early, missing several good scoring chances by Fitzpatrick, Eddie Smith and Bissanti. Excellent midfield play by Kevin Cellucci, Joey Vallatina, Bregoli and Jerry Mulcahy kept Weymouth from crossing midfield. However, with six minutes left in the half Weymouth scored. Thirty seconds later Verlicco scored his 29th goal of the year.

Quincy, coached by Paul Bregoli and Alex Coutts, finished the regular season with a 5-1 victory over Raynham.

Raynham took an early lead, the only time all season Quincy was behind. However, Quincy came right back as Fitzpatrick took a pass from Bregoli and scored. Verlicco then scored the winning goal with Fitzpatrick assisting and Mike Sullivan made it 3- with an assist for Bussante.

Goalie Scott Staiti made two fine saves early in the second half and Fitzpatrick scored his second goal with Verlicco assisting. Eddie Smith closed out the scoring, taking Bregoli's pass.

Also playing well for Quincy were Cellucci, Jimmy Hasson, Danny Kinnecom and Valatina. Verlicco, Staiti and Kinnecom were selected to play in the Friendship Tournament in Abington this weekend.

Sterling Captures Boys', Girls' Titles

The Sterling Middle School boys' and girls' track teams won the city-wide championships, the boys for the third year in a row and the girls for their second time in three years.

The boys meet was exceptionally close with Sterling scoring 36 1/2 points, Atlantic 36, Central 35 1/2 and Broad Meadows 23.

The Sterling girls had a much easier time with 43 points to 28 for Atlantic, 24 for Central and 16 for Broad Meadows.

The Sterling boys were led by Paul Robinson, Jim Huntington, Russ Salerno, Mike Gibbons and Mike Sheffer.

The girls were paced by Susan Sweeney, Kerri Connolly, Suzie Civitarese, Megan Marini, Angela Martinson and Katie Gallagher.

Robinson was the Sterling boys' top scorer this season with 43 3/4 points followed by Huntington with 24 1/4; Quincy earlier defeated Easton, 3-1.

D'Arcangelo's Present $200 Gift For Veterans Stadium Fund

The City Council Monday accepted a gift of $200 from Domenic and Connolly led the girls with 31 1/2 points, followed by Civitarese, 30; Sweeney, 28 3/4; Gallagher, 25; Marini, 22 1/2; Martinson, 18 3/4; Melissa Link, 18; My Ngu, 9; Jennifer Shaughnessy, 4 3/4; Michelle DeMaggio, 3 1/4; Stephanie Powers, 2; Liza Iandolo, 2; and Michelle Walsh, Ann DePolo, Toni Kabilian and Melissa Christopher, all with 1.

The Sterling teams are coached by Ralph Koelsch.

D'Arcangelo's Present $200 Gift For Veterans Stadium Fund

The fund has been established to help maintain the stadium and make repairs including replacement of bleachers which were condemned earlier this year.

Ron Hunt, an infielder who played with various National League teams holds the record for getting hit by pitched balls.

Under 10 Team Moves Toward Title

The Quincy Youth Soccer League's boys under-10 travel team, coached by Bob Wise, took another step toward the South Shore League title with an impressive 10-0 victory over Raynham.

John Gavin, Chris Roach, and Paul Wise had two goals apiece and T.J. Bell, Quentin Lam, Andy Chiachio and Mark Giese one each. Mike McLaughlin, Mike Whalen, Billy Meade and Mike Welch played strong games.

Quincy finished in a tie with Easton at 6-2 in its division and the tie will be broken tonight (Thursday) at 6 p.m. at Whitman. Quincy earlier defeated Easton, 3-1.

The winner moves on to the league championship game.

Correction

In the story in the June 13 edition of The Quincy Sun on the new book on Ted Williams, it was stated that he served in the Air Force in the Korean War.

Actually, Ted served in the Marine Air Corps in World War II and the Korean War.

Junior League

Burgin Bounces Back

Burgin Platner has had rough going in the Quincy Junior Baseball League, but won its last two games over Colonial Federal and Continental Cable.

In defeating Colonial Federal 13-6, Billy Barron was the winning pitcher and Mark Driscoll pitched well in relief.

Barron also led the offense with a triple and three singles and three RBI and Driscoll had an RBI single. Jason Chagnon drove in four runs with two bunt singles and received the game ball. Will Tracey had his first hit of the year, a double to center field. Jim Cuneo, Judson Sherman Rose and Kevin Sullivan had doubles and Luke Donaher, John Laukanen and Mike Pringle had singles.

Sullivan turned in an unassisted double play and John Barron made a fine sliding catch in center. Donaher, Rose and Carl Eherens also played strong defense.

BP edged Continental Cable, 12-10, with Driscoll the winner with fine relief from Jason Chagnon and Tracey.

Devin O'Brien and

Driscoll had doubles and O'Brien, Driscoll, Eherens, Jim Cuneo, Pringle, Luke Donaher and Barron singles. Eherens, Cuneo, Barron and Sullivan all walked.

The standings:

American League: South Shore Bank, 13-2; VFW, 10-4; Foley, 9-5; Kiwanis, 9-4; Continental Cable, 4-11; Burgin Platner, 3-12.

National League Elks, 10-4; South Shore Buick, 7-8; Keohane's 7-8; Rotary, 6-8; Quincy Police, 5-9; Colonial Federal 4-11.

Tennis

North Girls Close With 9-9 Record

The North Quincy girls' tennis team recently completed one of its best seasons in several years with a 9-9 record.

Under first-year coach Doug MacFarlane, the North girls missed the state tournament by just two wins. With only two seniors among the 20 girls on the squad, it appears they will be very competitive for the next several years.

"Freshman Pam Trafton was our number one player, going undefeated in match play and not losing a set all season," said MacFarlane. "She was voted the number one singles player in the Old Colony League by the league coaches."

Playing second singles was sophomore Min Nam, who has a 6-10 record as did senior Allison Hurley at third singles.

Jann Murray and Stephanie Olsen had a fine season at 7-4 at first doubles, as did the second doubles team of Erin Duffy and Julie Feurtado.

Rounding out the squad and playing junior varsity were juniors Maria Mattson and Nollaig Morris, sophomores Patty Meighan, Kelly Meade, Kim Chin, Melissa Costales, Gina Climo, Elizabeth MacLean, Meighan McBride and Krista Olson and freshman Wendy Zhu. Laura Li, Amh Ho and Samantha Chin.

-- TOM SULLIVAN

A.L. All-Stars Win, 7-1

The American League defeated the National League, 7-1, in the annual Quincy Junior Baseball League 12-year-old all-star game. Geoff Meade, Mike Doyle, John Manning, Paul Mamikovic and Jeff Feiner pitched well for the winners.

Feiner and Mike Sheffer had home runs over the left field fence and William Barron, Mike Greene and Doyle had hits. Defensively, John Laukanen, Mike Pringle, John Ryan, Lee Shaw and Sean O'Toole stood out.

For the National League Chris Erler, Mike Hannon and Sean Tirrell led the hitting. Tirrell, Jared Downey, Eric Goodrich and Jeurrick Samborski played strong defense and Tom Bowes, Robbie Winer, Brandon Pickney, Dave Keddy and Mike Johnston played well. Mark Glynn pitched well, striking out four in two innings.

Also playing for the American League were Eric Wood, Todd DeBoer, Brian Beaton, Bob Walsh, Michael Travers and Steve Verlicco. The team was coached by Bob Croke.

Others playing for the National League were Mark Glynn, John Breska, Andy Byrne, Mike Eddy, Pat Cummings, Chuck Feeley, Aaron Marshall and Kevin Sullivan. Garry Tirrell was the coach.

Feiner was named the American League Most Valuable Player and Glynn the National League MVP.

Each participant may compete in up to three events, if three events are chosen, one event is required to be a field event.

Welch noted: "The philosophy of this program is to stimulate participation of all eligible children, it is in no way to be construed as an All-Star Program. This event is run in cooperation with the National Recreation and Park Association, and the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sport. I encourage our residents to take advantage of this excellent program."

Members of the Quincy Track Club will assist in conducting local meets.

For more information, call the Recreation Dept. at 773-1380, ext. 204.

Montclair Men's Club Gives City $45,000

The Montclair Men's Club presented $45,000 to the city Monday to be used to pay athletic fees for North Quincy High School students, maintain Bishop Field and for a historic-style lamp post.

The club, which has a long history of community service, recently closed its doors. It was chartered in 1946-47 but financial difficulties forced members to sell the Holbrook Road headquarters recently.

The gifts to the city are the result of proceeds from the sale of the building.

Jim Kelly of the Men's Club presented the gifts to the City Council Monday night including $21,500 to offset athletic fees, $21,500 for improvements at Bishop Field and $2,500 for the historic light.

Accounts have been set up for the field and athletic fees and each year interest and part of the principle will be used. Residents can contribute to the accounts to make the gifts even more effective.

Sandy Rounseville In Serious Bid Quincy's Uncle Sam Opens Campaign For National Recognition

By JANE ARENA

Quincy's historic heritage is growing. Not only is the city the birthplace of two United States presidents, but now it can boast it's the home of Uncle Sam.

Sandy Rounseville, 51, of Quincy, was in probate court in Dedham on Friday, Flag Day, where he legally changed his name to Uncle Sam Rounseville.

He stood before the judge in full Uncle Sam attire and explained that he wants to become the real Uncle Sam on a national level. He wants the U.S. government to designate him as America's Uncle Sam.

And he's not kidding.

He plans to go before Congress with his request in the near future.

He's even got political signs posted throughout the city (soon to be all over the country, he says), and he has "campaign headquarters" rented in Quincy, Memphis, Tennessee, Troy New York and other locations.

He's currently collecting signatures in support of his efforts, (he hopes to get 20,000 before going to Congress), and, he notes, you don't have to be 18 years old to sign. The way he sees it, Uncle Sam belongs to all citizens, no matter what their age.

If he has to, he says, he'll hold his own election to become America's Uncle Sam.

Uncle Sam Rounseville ultimately hopes to begin a nation-wide organization of volunteerism and to help out whenever there is a need.

"When there is a crisis in the country," he says, "I could be there to start fundraising or to talk to people...that's what I'm promoting here, volunteerism."

Rounseville first began wearing his Uncle Sam suit as project director of the Hero's Welcome fundraising campaign for troops returning from Operation Desert Storm. The group, which is headed by State Treasurer Joe Malone, has so far raised $600,000 of its goal of $1.7 to give as bonuses to Massachusetts veterans. Much of that money was raised by Rounseville in his Uncle Sam costume.

It was this experience that gave him the idea to become a walking, talking symbol of national pride and to lead volunteer efforts throughout the country.

UNCLE SAM ROUNSEVILLE

Rounseville says he wants to re-create the symbol of Uncle Sam to make it something a bit more friendly than the stern, grinning face we all know from the cartoon figure on armed forces recruiting posters.

"I am the Uncle Sam of the nineties," he says. "I'm clean shaven, I stand for volunteerism and I'm active in civic organizations."

There is at least one person, however, who disagrees with that.

George Ela of Rockland, who portrays Uncle Sam every year in Hingham's Fourth of July parade, was in court with Rounseville protesting the name change.

Ela, 60, is white haired and wears a goatee beard and has taken issue with the fact that Rounseville has no beard, saying it would confuse people.

But Rounseville maintains that the real Uncle Sam had no beard, and he has done his homework on the history of Uncle Sam.

The real Uncle Sam was Samuel Wilson, born in Arlington, Mass. September 13, 1766. He and his brother later moved to Troy, New York where they operated a meat packing business and landed a contract through Elbert Anderson, a government supplier, to supply meat for the U.S. troops during the War of 1812.

The shipments of meat on the dock were packaged in crates labeled "EA-US," (Elbert Anderson-United States), and when someone asked what the letters meant, a dock watchman said they belonged to Uncle Sam Wilson, the man who was feeding the army.

Soon the legend grew and troops began referring to all U.S. property as belonging to Uncle Sam.

It was years later that the cartoon figure, with the beard and the familiar red, white, and blue suit and top hat, was used for recruiting purposes by the American armed forces.

Although in times of war that grave, serious face may have been appropriate, Rounseville says, today's children don't understand that symbol.

Uncle Sam Rounseville wants to become Uncle Sam for a new generation of Americans and for a new century.

"America needs this right now," he says. "America needs some patriotic spirit."

And, apparently, there are already a few Americans who want a new Uncle Sam. Rounseville has received letters delivered to his Quincy home (one from Hawaii), which were sent to the Post Office addressed simply to Uncle Sam, Quincy Ma.

It might not be too far fetched for officials to start thinking about calling Quincy the City of Presidents....and Uncle Sam.

Recreation Dept Offering 14 Summer Camps, Workshops

The Quincy Recreation Department will again sponsor its popular summer sports camps and instructional workshop programs.

This year, there will be 14 camps and workshops that the department will supervise on a self-supporting basis.

One new addition this year is "Tennis Camp." The camp will focus on the fundamental drills of groundstrokes, volleying and service. Players will be grouped into round robins designed to give game experience at each individual's level.

Visuals from the NELTA instructional library will be used.

During the last week of the camp, participants will have an opportunity to travel to the Longwood Tennis Club to view a session of the U.S. Pro Tennis Championship. The camp will be held under the direction of Shirley Laing, women's tennis coach at Eastern Nazarene College and girls' tennis coach at Quincy High School, and Kenneth Rickson from the New England Lawn Tennis Association staff.

Camps implemented by the recreation department in 1982 have become increasingly popular.

Recreation Director Barry Welch said the camps are designed to give Quincy residents a low cost alternative for youngsters who desire specialized instruction which is usually associated with high costing residential camps. The week-long programs are under the direction of highly qualified coaches and staff from the area, and will feature instruction with an approximate ratio of one to ten.

"In previous years these programs have provided many memorable recreation experience without additional tax support," Welch said.

Registration for all 1991 programs is underway and continues weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Recreation Department from the May 1990 totals of 188 permits for $3.96 million.

The May 1991 totals include two permits for single family homes estimated at $135,000.

Council Votes To Keep Keough Only Until Sept. 1

Lance Connolly Elected VP At Saint Anselm's

By STEVE KAVANAGH

A vote to keep Arthur Keough on as a grant writer for programs to help the city's minority population failed at Monday's City Council meeting but Keough will likely be retained.

Keough was appointed to the $47,000 per year Coordinator of Community Education post two years ago. He has secured over $213,000 in grants in the past year for programs to assist Quincy's Asian population.

Some slick procedural maneuvering has probably assured that Keough will keep his job.

A proposal to fund Keough's job for another year with funds from the city's Urban Development Action Grant (UDAG) account was defeated when the council voted 8-0 against it. Council President Ted DeCristoforo is attending the National Conference of Mayors in San Diego with Mayor James Sheets this week and was not present.

During debate on the issue it became apparent that Keough's backers did not have enough votes to pass the appropriation.

Councillor's Michael Cheney, Thomas Nutley, Charles Phelan and Thomas Fabrizio were in favor of hiring Keough back but changed their vote because only a councillor on the winning side of a vote may ask for reconsideration of that vote.

Since DeCristoforo has already stated his support for Keough's position a new vote is virtually assured at the next council meeting.

The council's official action Monday was to retain Keough for two months until September when he can return to his previous job of teaching at Quincy College.

Ward 3 Councillor Lawrence Chretien led the effort to eliminate the job.

"My conclusion is that Arthur Keough is doing a job other city employees in other departments should be doing," Chretien said.

"A member of the Planning Department recently got a $500,000 grant for the city in addition to her regular duties," Councillor-at-Large Tim Cahill said.

"I look at the bottom line," said Phelan. "Arthur Keough has performed and brought in the grants and developed the contacts."

Chretien said that racism might be a factor in the effort to eliminate Keough's job.

"Taxpayer's will look at this and say 'You're spending money on Asians' -- that's the undercurrent out there. They don't know our customs, they don't speak our language, they don't participate in community affairs," Cheney said.

Chretien said Keough's job is important to the city and goes beyond securing grants and includes implementing and managing them as well.

"Who else are we going to get to do this. The grant's we have received will not be implemented," Cheney said.

Cahill and Chretien vehemently denied racism was a factor in their votes. Both said they had not received a single phone call or letter from constituents on the issue.

"I am angry at the suggestion that I look at this $47,000 any differently than any other $47,000 in any budget," Chretien said. "I am consistent on my policy of streamlining and this fits in."

"We have four or five people in the Planning Department alone that can write grants. I think we are really whittling away at that UDAG money," said Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson.

"If others can do the job okay, but I don't see that they are set up to do it," Fabrizio said.

Lance Connolly of Quincy has been elected vice president of the student body at Saint Anselm College, Manchester, N.H.

Connolly, a political science major, will serve as vice-president for a second term. He also served a one-year term as president of the sophomore class and as senator of the freshmen class.

He is the son of Paul Connolly of Weymouth and Linda Connolly of 11 Freeman St., Quincy.

Free Osteoporosis Lecture At Quincy Hospital

Quincy Hospital will sponsor a free lecture about osteoporosis Wednesday, June 19 at 7 p.m. in the hospital's education center.

The program will feature Dr. Max Borten, JD, an obstetrician/gynecologist from the Center for Women's Health in Quincy. Dr. Borten is an expert on hormone replacement as a treatment of the disease.

While osteoporosis

almost exclusively affects women who are postmenopausal, young women should be aware of preventative measures which they can take to avoid this condition as they grow older. The lecture will focus on the potential of preventing osteoporosis, the methods for detection and treatment options.

The lecture is part of the monthly Wellness

Wednesday series sponsored by Quincy Hospital. Each month, physicians and other medical professionals present programs on various health topics and health screenings.

To register, call the hospital's public relations department at 773-6100 ext. 4016.

Urges City Replace All School Fuel Tanks

By STEVE KAVANAGH

A school official told the City Council Monday that the city should replace all 13 underground oil tanks at the city's schools.

The council approved $100,000 for cleanup and replacement of a heating oil tank which was discovered leaking last month at Atlantic Middle School.

Jim Wilson, plant supervisor of the Quincy Public Schools, told the council that all of the tanks are over 30 years old and could break at any time.

"When you exceed 30 years on an underground tank you are living on borrowed time," Wilson said.

Cost to replace a tank is about $25,000, Wilson said.

Five tanks have yet to be tested and results on the tank at Broad Meadows Middle School, which is just one year newer than the Atlantic tank, were inconclusive.

Minor problems were detected in tanks at Montclair and Squantum elementary schools.

"These are like time bombs ticking that could go off at any time," said

Ward 3 City Councillor Lawrence Chretien.

Chretien and other councillors said Mayor James Sheets should initiate replacement of the tanks as soon as possible as the cost of replacing a tank now at $25,000 will save the city money in the long run compared to $100,000 for a cleanup and new tank.

Councillor-at-Large Michael Cheney expressed particular concern about the tank at Broad Meadows which abuts sensitive marsh lands which he said are crucial to the restoration of Quincy Bay.

Meeting June 26 On Rising Sewer-Water Rates

Residents are invited to a meeting Wednesday, June 26, from 1:30-4 p.m. at City Hall to discuss ways to defray the costs of water and sewer bills.

A committee was recently formed following a meeting of city and local state officials to deal with soaring water and sewer rates.

Ward 1 City Councillor

Peter Kolson has spearheaded the formation of the committee.

"We are trying to help the overburdened water and sewer rate payer," Kolson said. "The purpose is to try to find a way to spread the cost of the MWRA's construction projects over the whole state. It is unfair that a small segment of the population is burdened with this tremendous undertaking."

Currently, costs of the MWRA's projects are borne only by its member cities and towns which are located primarily in Eastern Massachusetts.

"We really have to get fighting mad over this," Kolson said.

Kolson is chairman of the committee along with co-chairmen Thomas Nutley, Ward 6 City Councillor, and Ed Nelson.

Quincy's representatives on the MWRA boards and representatives from the mayor's office and city council will attend. Kolson said representative from over 20 communities will also participate.

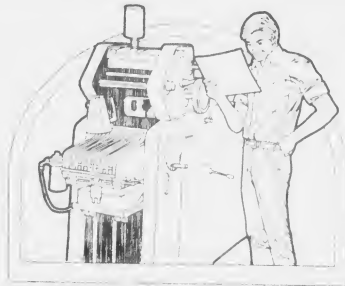

"People just can't afford it. By 1995 we will be paying $1,200 to $1,400 per year," he said.

Chretien Announces Bid For Third 2-Year Term

Ward 3 Councillor Lawrence Chretien announces he is a candidate for a third two-year term.

Chretien said he will continue working hard on what he believes to be the most important issues for Quincy and Ward 3. "In this time of fiscal austerity, we all have to realize that local government is unable to accomplish everything that it has in the past. On the other hand, some services are worth paying for simply because they are essential.

"As a matter of fact," he continued, "in some areas we must do better than ever. This means we have to establish and maintain a true set of priorities. My priorities will continue to be education, environmental protection, public safety, economic revitalization and service to the people of Ward 3."

As chairman of the council's Committee on Education, Chretien has advocated improving public schools and has strongly opposed cuts in the school department. However, as chairman of a special school budget task force, he made several recommendations for making education spending more efficient and more accountable.

He also has worked to maintain adequate funding levels for police and fire departments. "We cannot cut the budgets for these departments any further. Otherwise, the time it takes recycling program. "It has been the experience of other communities that participation drops off a bid during the months from June to September. We cannot afford to let that happen.

"Every ton of paper, glass and plastic we recycle saves Quincy 81 dollars. Together, we can easily save over a half million dollars. But that means every home has to recycle all they can.

"Needless to say, the environmental benefits of recycling are just as important in the summer as they are in the other times of the year," Chretien added.

He said the city should implement an action plan for economic revitalization. "We have to sow the seeds for economic growth, particularly in the downtown area. While the national and state economies are in rough shape, we have to prepare ourselves for the rebound.

"When conditions improve, I want Quincy to be ahead of other communities."

As Ward 3 councillor, Chretien said he understands that he must continue to be responsive to the needs of ward residents. "The people of Ward Three should feel free to contact me with any concern they might have about city government and city services."

He can be reached at 51 North Central Ave., Wollaston, 02170 or by phone, 472-1400.

for a police cruiser or fire engine to respond to an emergency will be dangerously lengthened."

To alleviate the need for cuts in education and public safety, Chretien advocates consolidating and streamlining many of the city's departments. "Ever since Proposition 2 and a half, local government has definitely been more efficient and accountable than either state or federal government. However, there is always room for improvement.

"Given the fiscal problems we have, I think that we have to restructure the city's bureaucracy. It we don't, that our ability to provide the most necessary services will be reduced greatly," he said.

As chairman of the city's recycling committee, Chretien said he hopes to maintain and increase participation in the curbside

By JANE ARENA

Consider this: You're a woman in an abusive marriage. You have small children, no income of your own, are totally dependent on the income of your husband, and don't have an idea of where to turn for help. What do you do?

Consider this: You're an elderly man, living on a fixed income and your wife is suddenly in need of medical care around the clock. You're afraid you may deplete your bank account or even lose your home in order to pay for medical bills or a nursing home. What do you do?

Thanks to several area lawyers and other volunteers who donated their evening time once a month, hundreds of people in situations as seemingly hopeless were able to get help and direction from professional sources for free.

The Norfolk County Bar Association has, for three years, sponsored free Legal Advice Clinics at the Quincy Courthouse on a monthly basis from January to June.

The program will enter its fourth year in January and, according to Adrienne Clarke, Executive Director of the Norfolk County Bar Association, it will be better and more helpful than ever.

This past year, she says, during six evening clinics, over 750 people, (about 70 percent of them women with legal questions about divorce, child support or sexual or mental abuse), were able to speak to lawyers on a one-to-one basis and get referrals for further information and support.

A panel of 25 Association lawyers volunteered their own time and expertise to serve at the clinics. Demand has increased to such an extent, though, that next year Clarke hopes to secure about 50 attorneys.

Besides women's issues, Clarke says, there is an increase in elderly issues, including Medicaid concerns, and legal concerns of handicapped persons.

The program recently secured a contract with the Brookline Community Mental Health Center, Clarke notes and will now be able to refer clients to the center for counseling, mediation or other necessary services.

In addition, Clarke says they hope to be able to implement a process for monitoring cases seen during the clinics and offering more follow-through with individual clients.

The lawyers working at the clinics have expertise in all areas of law, she says, and typically do not specialize in any one category so they will be able to address a wide range of concerns.

In addition, many of the lawyers are members of the Norfolk County Bar Advocates (of which Clarke is also Executive Director), which is a program funded for attorneys to represent clients who cannot afford an attorney.

What they try to do, Clarke says, is "fill in gaps" for that portion of the population who have neither the money nor the information they need to help themselves. It is a way, she explains, to help those who might have fears or misconceptions about the judicial system.

"For a lot of the attorneys that are on the panel, and for myself too, this is a way of putting something back into the system," Clarke says. "The system has been very good to us and this is a way of giving something back...it's sort of the yin and yang of the judicial system."

The clinics are funded by the Massachusetts Bar Foundation and are available to residents of Norfolk County regardless of their social or economic situation, however, Clarke says, the program aims to pay particular attention to those who may not otherwise be able to afford an attorney.

From January through June the clinics are held in the evening once each month and clients are seen on a first come-first served basis. They are paired with lawyers after filling out a brief form explaining their specific legal matter.

And people come in droves, she says, from all over the county. The program grows with each clinic.

"This is a vital need that we're serving in the community," she says. What we're hoping to do is alleviate any intimidation or fears people might have of the legal system and sort of lay everything out in layperson's terms."

Cortez House Blessing June 30

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I am writing this letter, in regards to the tragic house fire that struck the Houghs Neck section of Quincy, Jan. 24, claiming the lives of three, two young children and a young adult.

With my utmost sincere thanks to the many wonderful people, who heard the plea for help Feb. 10 to organize and rebuild the Cortez's home, of 85 Mears Ave.

Overwhelmed with donations of labor, money, company materials, support from city officials, local union, inspector, the fire department cooked for the people, wrote thank-you cards, and established a benefit dance. Workers, from Houghs Neck, Weymouth, Abington, Avon, Rockland and Dorchester, all came together for the same cause. For those who showed moral support, or silently said prayers, as we begin this enormous task...Thank You.

This tragedy touched so many lives, my list is endless.

Twenty weeks ago, we stood with very little hope. In devastation, we found the energy (with God's help, and many caring people), to concentrate on finding a "Brighter Tomorrow," not knowing if one would be there. Some 1250 man hours behind us, (8) 30 yard dumpsters removed, a mile of electrical wire ran, 280 sheets of Blue Board hung,

The Eye of God

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I read last week's column in one of the Boston papers of Dear Abby - which I ordinarily do not do. It concerned an inquiry about a picture on the back of the one dollar bill.

The writer wanted to know the significance of the emblem showing a pyramid with an all-seeing eye at the apex. An expert in such things explained that the eye was the eye of 35 yards of dirt manually dug...What seemed to be so impossible...we succeeded in finding that "Ray-of-Hope."

From this tragedy many good friendships formed. Special thank-you to the "Cellar-Dwellers," and "The Breakfast Club Gang." A day will not go by, that you're not thought of, for your strength, and support.

The obstacles were so many, finding, and piecing together, this broken dream, wasn't an easy task, to do. Looking back, on how carefully we "Rebuilt-A-Rainbow"...we have come a long way.

The reality of this devastating fire, will never be forgotten, and that fate, could be so unjust. But, through the goodness of so many people, we helped pave the way for a new beginning.

With a lot of mixed emotions...that "Brighter Day" has arrived. I am very pleased to announce the Cortez and Wall families wish to extend an open invitation, for all involved to attend a "House Blessing" June 30 at 2 p.m., followed with a cook-out and family get together to show their appreciation.

Again, I can't thank everyone enough, for all your help and support. It was such a difficult project. A project that was done so wonderfully well.

Thank you,
Renee Stone
81 Mears Ave.

God looking over the United States.

My God, doesn't the mint department of the government realize that this hasn't the blessing of our illustrious Quincy School Committee--having God overlooking our nation?

Come on, beloved School Committee, and organize and get rid of this awful picture.

Fighting City Hall

They say you can't fight City Hall, but a group of small Quincy business owners are getting ready to give it their best shot.

The group feels the business community is not being treated fairly when it comes to allocating the share of the municipal tax burden.

"We're a little tired of this sock-it-to-the-business community attitude on the part of the city officials" says Loren Strout.

"We're just not going to take it anymore. "Not without a fight."

Strout, whose family owns the Presidential City Motel and Winfield Gift Emporium is one of the prime movers of the group which is called, for now at least, The Quincy Voice.

It's battle cry: "We're used and abused."

The burr under the group's saddle is tax classification which they feel has been tilted politically in favor of residential property owners at the expense of business.

But in the long run, they say, residents are going to lose out, too, as small businesses are forced to close their door and local jobs dry up.

Not to mention that rising costs and taxes imposed on business sooner or later are passed on to the consumers - the residents and residential taxpayers.

"So nobody really wins," says Strout.

The business community has been bristling since March when the City Council voted 8-1 to approve a change in the tax classification percentage recommended by Mayor James Sheets for fiscal year 1991.

The new rates: $10.72 for residential property, up 54 cents over last year and $24.02 for Commercial, Industrial and Personal Property -- an increase of $1.12.

Residential property owners will pay 60 percent and business 40 percent of the $69.5 million tax levy this year. But individually homeowners fare better than business owners.

The lone opposition came from Councillor Tim Cahill, who as owner of Handshakes Restaurant, is also a businessman and knows how business owners are struggling to stay afloat.

"We just feel like we are being treated as second class citizens and we are a little tired of being referred to as vested interests," says Strout.

He says it has been City Council tradition to line up with residents when it comes to taxes because residents live and vote here.

But, he notes, there are Quincy businesses owned by residents who vote here, too.

Of the 20 small businesses involved in organizing The Quincy Voice, 15 are residents, he notes.

Strout says the plan is to form a coalition of business groups to include the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, the Quincy Center, Wollaston and North Quincy Business and Professional Associations.

The coalition would unite to fight on the tax front and also try to bring their message to the home front.

"The average homeowner has no idea what it is like to be in business," says Strout. "We want the residential community to know we have problems paying our bills just like they do. We are not made of money. We can be hurt quickly and easily by rising costs and increasing taxes."

"We want them to know, for example, that we have to pay for the extras -- snow removal, rubbish collection, etc. etc. "That doesn't come with our tax bills."

Strout says his taxes have increased an average of $5,000 per year for the past five years -- or $25,000.

Business has been declining and since the beginning of 1990 has been off 30 percent.

"And," says he, "the first quarter for 1991 is the worst we have had since 1937."

"The city fails to realize nationally -- and locally - small business is the backbone of the economy. "And as small business goes, so goes the nation and the community."

CHECKING UP

Do you need an annual checkup? If you are over 21 and in good health, the answer is "no." Spiraling health care costs and the need to conserve medical resources mean that the concept of the complete annual physical is outmoded. Adults should have a physical at age 18, and again at 21, to establish a base line against which to measure changes in the future. From ages 30 to 60, a physical exam every five years is sufficient. All patients over 65 should see their physicians annually. Screening for certain diseases such as breast and cervical cancer in women, hypertension, and cardiovascular disease should be more frequent, if there is a family history of the disease or if other risk factors are present. Those already diagnosed with chronic disease should be seen more frequently.

P.S. The way to avoid illness is to maintain good health habits. Eating right and exercising are the "ounce of prevention" we all need.

Of course, your individual medical history and present condition should be the determining factors in when to seek medical care. This column is presented in the interest of better health for all by the offices of COM-PREHENSIVE CARDIAC CARE. If you would like to discuss your need for a physical checkup or any other aspect of your health, please call me. Office hours are by appointment at 101 Adams St., Suite 24, in Quincy. Phone 472-2550. We wish you a safe and happy Fourth of July holiday.

Durkin Wants Community Involvement In Selection Of New Superintendent

School Committeeman Stephen Durkin has called for community involvement, including participation of parents and teachers, in the selection of Quincy's next school superintendent.

In a recent letter to the Citywide Parents' Council, Durkin proposed that parents and teachers be involved throughout the screening and selection process. Citywide had requested that the school committee allow parents a role in choosing a new superintendent.

Current superintendent,

Dr. Robert Ricci, has indicated he will step down by January, 1992.

In his letter, Durkin recalled parents groups were involved "to some degree" when the school committee hired Ricci in 1987. The committee had hired a consulting firm to aid us in the advertising and screening process in its search. The consultants interviewed school committee members, as well as selected parents and staff, "to get a feel for the sort of individual the community was looking for," Durkin said.

Once the field of candidates was reduced to a few finalists, however, community input was very limited and the school committee made the selection following public interviews and on-site visits, he pointed out.

"In light of our experience in 1987, I think it would be very appropriate to involve parents and teachers in the selection process from beginning to end. It may be that we could set up a screening/interviewing process similar to that which we employ for the filling of principal positions and for other administrative jobs," Durkin said.

"Specifically, I believe that a great many people could be involved in the initial stages of the process. Once the field of candidates is reduced, a screening team made up of individuals appointed by Citywide, school committee and Quincy Education Association could be assembled.

"This team could then make a recommendation to the school committee which would by law, of course, make the final decision," he added.

Quincy's Yesterdays

Housing Authority Cleared Of Neglect

City Manager Donald H. Platt and Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa cleared the Quincy Housing Authority of charges that it was neglecting the Westacres Housing Project.

The charges were made by members of the State Housing Board who said after a recent visit that many of the buildings in the development needed paint and repairs.

NOTICE OF CHANGE IN TAX BILLING SYSTEM

On June 3, 1991, the Quincy City Council voted 7 to 2 to accept Massachusetts General Law 59, Section 57c, providing for the establishment of a quarterly tax payment system. This is to be implemented within FY 1992 and must continue for at least three years.

Quarterly billing will work as follows. The City must mail your first quarter tax bill before July 1 and it will be due August 1. The City must mail your second quarter tax bill by October 1 and it is due November 1. (The second quarter bill will show any UNPAID balance from the first quarter.) These two bills will account for 1/2 of your previous year's net total tax. If, for example, your total tax bill last year was $1,800, then your first and second quarter tax bills for this year would each be $450.00.

The City must mail your third quarter tax bill by December 31. This is your actual tax bill showing all taxes, liens and betterments. The payment is due on February 1. You will have thirty (30) days, from the post mark date, to file for an abatement with the Assessor office. You will have three months, from the post mark date, to file for an exemption because of blindness, elderly status, veterans and certain widowers. If the City mails no third quarter bill by December 31 then there will be no third quarter bill. Rather, the City shall mail a final bill on or before April 1st. The fourth quarter or final bill is due on May 1. In the case of delinquency, the City may mail demand notices after May 1st. Delinquent properties can be placed in tax title for non-payment of taxes after June 1.

If your taxes are paid by a bank or other lending institution, forward each quarter's bill directly to that institution. You will receive two copies of your bill as you have in the past. One copy is for your income tax record and the other is to be mailed or delivered with your payment.

If a taxpayer does not receive a bill within one week of the bill mailing, s/he should contact the Assessors' or Collectors' office to avoid penalty and/or collection costs. Bills issued with an incorrect name will be re-assessed and re-issued by the Assessors with the same due date as the original bill.

If there are any questions concerning this procedure, please call 773-1380 between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. and ask for the Collector's Office.

Welcome Home Parade At Marina Bay July 4

Paul Healey of Champagne Yacht Charters, in conjunction with Marina Bay, will host the Operation Welcome Home Boat Parade July 4.

The event will bring together local Desert Storm and Vietnam veterans for a three-hour parade on Boston Harbor. Members of local Massachusetts Bay Yacht Clubs and Marina Bay will make up a cost of more than 300 boats participating in the parade.

Veterans will board at Marina Bay in Squantum at 12:30 p.m. and the parade will kick off at 1 p.m.

Highlights along the route include a cannon salute from Old Ironsides, a water salute from Boston Fire Department marine boat, and a tug and barge displaying the American Flag.

At noon, a Desert Storm flag will be raised at the Marina Bay Vietnam Memorial. Military and veterans color guards and local politicians are invited.

The celebration will conclude with a gathering open to the public at the Tent, Marina Bay. A $500 cash prize, donated by South Shore Savings Bank, will be awarded to the best decorated vessel displaying a patriotic theme in honor of our returning troops.

Organizers hope to bring supporters to the shores of Boston Harbor to greet the troops participating in the parade.

Waterfront properties along the parade route can participate by decorating in red, white and blue.

Additional sponsors and volunteers are needed. Contact Paul Healey at (617) 472-6247.

Quincy College Offering Scholarships To Gulf Vets

The Quincy College Student Government Association will sponsor six $1,500 scholarships for service veterans activated during the Gulf War. Awards will be based upon need as well as academic performance according to college President Dr. O. Clayton Johnson.

Applications will be open to new as well as second year full-time students who were called to active duty, regardless of whether they served in the theatre of operations.

Interested students must file military scholarship and financial aid applications at the admissions office before July 31.

The program will be jointly funded by Quincy College and the college's Student Government Association. For more information, call the admissions office at 984-1700.

'Jailed' For A Good Cause

'PRISONERS' Ted DeCristofaro, second from left, president of the City Council, and Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson, second from right, are sentenced by "Judge" John Gillis, City Clerk, at the American Cancer Society's recent Jail and Bail. At left is Thomas Koch, the mayor's executive secretary, and at right, "Officer" Margaret Madden, past president and present member, board of directors, Mass. Chapter of the ACS. The trophy was awarded to the Center for Technical Education which challenged North Quincy and Quincy High School to raise the most pledge money for ACS. The students had their teachers "arrested." Jail and Bail costumes were provided by Family Kloset of Plymouth.

Our Home Equity Line of Credit is more about saving than spending.

Save on monthly loan payments.

With a Bank of New England Home Equity Line of Credit, you can pay off current auto loan, department store and credit card balances now, and save. Because you'll reduce your monthly credit obligations to a single payment, and could cut your finance charges almost in half.

Save on taxes.

Federal tax laws have completely eliminated deductions on credit card, auto loan and other unsecured loan interest. The Home Equity Line of Credit, however, is the exception to the rule—with interest still 100% deductible in most cases.

Save on major expenses.

The low interest and tax savings that make our

Home Equity Line of Credit a cost-effective way to pay off your debts also make it a smart way to borrow for such expenses as college tuition and home improvement.

Save on closing costs.

At other banks, you'd probably pay closing costs on a new Home Equity Line of Credit. At Bank of New England, we'll save you at least $200 by waiving those costs if you apply by June 30, 1991.

Stop by any Bank of New England office, or call toll-free for more information or an application for a Home Equity Line of Credit today. And start saving.

Bethany Church To Vote On New Pastor Sunday

The candidate for pastor for Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy Center, will be voted on this Sunday following the morning worship service at 10 a.m.

The Search Committee unanimously and enthusiastically is recommending the Rev. Roger Allan Ketcham as its candidate. He will conduct the worship service and preach a sermon entitled "What Keeps You Going?" Scripture reader will be Robert Peoples, chairman of the Search Committee. Music will be provided by a mixed quartet including Brenda Bonoli, soprano; Jean Bettinson, contralto; Winslow Bettinson, tenor; and Thomas Newton, bass. Gregory Flynn, organist, will accompany.

Greeters will be Joanne French and Eleanor Gordon. Hosting the fellowship hour in the Allen Parlor will be Bill and Jean Ann Phinney and Clara MacLean.

A reception will be held in the Allen Parlor Saturday, June 29 at 7:30 p.m. to give members of the Bethany Church family an opportunity to meet the Rev. and Mrs. Ketcham.

Service Of American Hymns At Covenant Congregational Church

Instead of a sermon for the 10:45 a.m. worship service of the Covenant Congregational Church, Whitwell and Granite Sts., the choir and Minister of Music, Richard Smith, will provide a service of American hymns.

Interspersed with the hymns will be readings by Church Chairman Ken Neeson regarding the hymns and their American composers. Materials for the service is gathered by both Ken Nelson and Richard Smith, who will accompany the choir on both organ and piano.

Pastors Kathleen Graves and Kirk Johnson are away on vacation.

During the service, a nursery is available for children age five and younger. Attendant will be Pam Francoeur. Immediately following the service, the congregation will meet to vote on calling a new youth director. Coffee will then be served in the hall downstairs. Volunteers are needed to serve during July.

Activities this week are: field trip on Tuesday and Thursday for Sunday School contest winners; Star Share Days to benefit the Naomi Society Tuesday, June 25 through Thursday, June 27; choir rehearsal at 7 p.m. Thursday, preceded by a picnic; and a council meeting at the church Friday at 7 p.m.

Coming events are: Sea Sunday Festival July 7 at India Point Park in Providence, R.I., sponsored by the New England Seaman's Mission.

For more information about church activities, call 479-5728.

William Reardon To Receive QCA 'Citizen Of Year' Award

William Reardon, 66 Ardell St., North Quincy, will be honored as the Quincy Citizens Association's "Citizen of the Year" at the association's annual dinner dance Saturday, June 29 at 6 p.m. at the George F. Bryan VFW Post, Broad St., Quincy.

Each year, the QCA recognizes an individual for helping to make Quincy a comfortable and safer place in which to live.

A Quincy resident for more than 50 years, Reardon attends city council meetings regularly. He has been a hospital volunteer at the Dana Farber Cancer Institute in Boston for more than 10 years, totalling 1500 hours of service.

Reardon has served as a eucharistic minister at Childrens Hospital in Boston. He volunteers for the Wednesday night supper club at Long Island Shelter. He also helps prepare food at the shelter and serve food on Christmas and Thanksgiving.

Reardon has shown great compassion for all who need help in the city of Quincy or wherever he may be. He is kind and thoughtful man and QCA members said they are proud to have elected him as the association's outstanding "Citizen of the Year for 1991."

Chris Peter Blood Drive July 16

The seventh annual Chris Peter Memorial Blood Drive will be held Tuesday, July 16 from 2 to 8 p.m. at St. Thomas Aquinas Hall, Darrow St., Houghs Neck.

Signs will be posted from Southern Artery and Quincy Shore Drive to help prospective donors find the hall. Appointments can be made by calling 471-9586. Walk-ins are welcome.

The drive has been held every year since Peter's untimely death, at age 22, the innocent victim of a drunk driver. The Peter family remembers Chris' life every July with a memorial blood drive held at the time of his birthday.

With the held of the American Red Cross, the Peter family tries very hard to make this life-giving memorial to Chris a success. Members of the family are at the site all day to greet the donors, and hopefully, make them realize how much they appreciate their participation in the drive.

The Peter family also provides child care for those have young children and home-made goodies to augment the traditional Red Cross snacks.

In the past six years, the memorial drive has collected more than 600 pints of blood at a time when donations are traditionally low.

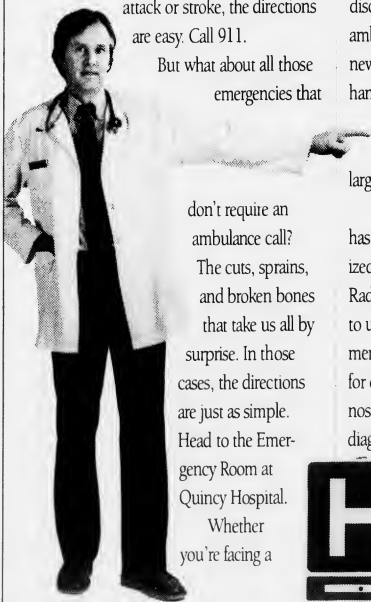

Woodward School Offering Two Scholarships To Minority Students

In an attempt to introduce greater diversity into its student body, the Woodward School will offer two full tuition scholarships for minority students entering grades six or seven.

Interested girls must pass an entrance examination and qualify for financial assistance. Testing for this program will be held today (Thursday) at the Woodward School on Hancock St.,

Quincy Center. For more information or to register for the program, call 773-5610. There are openings for students in grades 9-11 and limited financial aid is available.

In Case Of Emergency, Follow These Simple Directions.

In a serious emergency, such as a heart attack or stroke, the directions are easy. Call 911.

But what about all those emergencies that don't require an ambulance call? The cuts, sprains, and broken bones that take us all by surprise. In those cases, the directions are just as simple. Head to the Emergency Room at Quincy Hospital.

Whether you're facing a life and death situation or just temporary discomfort, whether you're taken here by ambulance or walk in on your own, our new Emergency Room can handle any crisis. Fact is, it's been totally redesigned so that it's four times larger than it used to be.

Our Emergency Room has space for its own specialized services. There's an E.R. Radiology suite so you don't have to wait to use the main hospital x-ray department. As well as specially equipped suites for orthopedics, gynecology, and even ear, nose and throat. This way, you get diagnosed and treated as quickly and as thoroughly as possible. As vital as these facilities are, however, the most important part of any emergency room is the staff. Dr. Dugan Mahoney, formerly at Mass. General Hospital and now our Chief of Emergency

Services, has assembled an exceptional staff including physicians specifically trained in emergency medicine, nurses with certification in emergency care, and physician assistants.

So next time an emergency strikes, remember these simple directions. Take Adams Street to Whitwell and go straight to Quincy Hospital.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

D. Scott Deware

It has been said that a man with his head in the clouds is in no position to watch his step.

When driving in your car, have you ever been irritated and alarmed (and scared, too) by the way in which children, intent on their play, sometimes run suddenly out into the street oblivious of the traffic? If they pay any attention to it at all, they usually only look one way and fail to notice the traffic coming from the opposite direction.

This habit of looking only one way is not only characteristic of children, but can often be seen in older people as well. We all "know" some young people who made a snap judgement to drop out of school after looking only one at the traffic of life. We all know persons who have been equally hasty and ill-advised to starting businesses without adequate preparation.

"Standing on the curb" and looking carefully at dangers and problems coming from all directions might take a little more time, but it is the only way to insure a safe passage across the street.

There is a word for this way of meeting life's problems - Maturity ...

Quincy PAL Benefit Dance Saturday

The Quincy Police Athletic League Organization will hold a "Fifties" Record Hop fundraiser Saturday, June 30 from 8 to 11 p.m. in the main ballroom of the Sheraton Tara, Braintree.

The dance will feature entertainment by The Platters.

Tickets are $15 per person and proceeds will benefit Quincy PAL program.

Parking is accessible in the lower level parking lot which has an entrance into the function room area of the hotel. Dress is casual.

The PAL program focuses on athletic and recreational activities to create and foster the bond between police officers and Quincy youths. Objectives include providing athletic activities for children and youths between the ages of 4 and 18 years, such as establishing athletic leagues and providing equipment and facilities.

PAL also has set as one of its goals the provision of educational activities for youngsters 4-18, such as arts and crafts, remedial reading courses, summer camps, including educational courses as well as providing services and activities for the handicapped and senior citizens.

Officer Bob Hanna, one of the Quincy police officers who volunteers time to coordinate and promote the program, said police hope PAL promotes greater positive communication between the police officer and the youth, promotes good citizenship in youth, cultivates and improves moral and civic standards in youth, fosters greater positive communication between police and the

In another matter, Gallahue will submit a letter to the council concerning a city ordinance her department is working on regarding tanning facilities.

Gallahue said the ordinance will include requiring tanning salons to post warning signs which explain the dangers of ultraviolet radiation.

"Sometimes people have no idea that repeated exposure can be harmful,"

Gallahue said.

Other provisions of the ordinance would be requiring time limits for tanning, protective eyewear, and parental consent for minors.

Prior to the regular council meeting will be meetings of the Ordinance and Finance Committees.

Balladeer At Adams Historic Site July 4

The Adams National Historic Site invites the public to join in celebrating John and Abigail Adams' role in American independence Thursday, July 4.

Two events are scheduled at the Adams National Historic Site, 135 Adams St.

"Independence Forever" will be exhibited at the Carriage House Visitor Center from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The exhibit will include artifacts representing the role of John Adams in the Revolutionary War and events leading to American Independence. Items on display include the seal used by John Adams to seal the Treaty of Paris ending the Revolutionary War with Great Britain, articles of clothing worn by John Adams when he was presented to King George III, and a copy of the Declaration of Independence whose printing was ordered by John Quincy Adams while he was Secretary of State.

At 2 p.m. balladeer Linda Russell of New York will explore the life and times of Abigail Adams as seen through the music of her day. Through political and patriotic broadsides, dance tunes and love songs, will be heard of the events leading up to the Revolutionary War, and the joys and sorrows of those troubled and exciting times.

The music will be interspersed with commentary featuring excerpts from Abigail's letters to her husband, John Adams.

The program will be held on the northeast lawn of the "Old House." Seating is on the lawn and visitors may wish to bring a lawn chair or blanket.

July 4 has been designated as a fee free day at the Adams National Historic Site and admission to the John Adams and John Quincy Adams Birthplaces, "Old House," "Independence Forever" exhibit and the music program is free.

DiCenso's Drum Shop Recent 'Sabian Days' A Success

DiCenso's Drum Shop recently sponsored "Sabian Days" in association with the Sabian Cymbal Company, at its Franklin St. store.

The two-day event featured six drumming clinics with Frank Bellucci, author of the drumming technique book, "Feet First."

Over 200 people attended the clinics during which Bellucci performed drum solos followed by instruction and a question and answer period with the audience.

His instruction focused on stick control and his heel-toe technique for both feet.

In addition to the clinics, Sabian personnel as well as employees of the drum shop were available to answer questions on the Sabian product line and drumming in general.

In addition to the Sabian days event, the drum shop also offered a recent series of master classes, "The Drummer's Role in the Jazz Idiom," featuring jazz drummer Gene Roma.

Roma, whose career

SABIAN DAYS AT DiCenso's Drum Shop was a collaborative effort between Sabian and DiCenso's personnel. From left: Steve Okseuk, Assistant Artist Relations and Customer Service Rep. for Sabian; Andy Zildjian, Artists Relations for Sabian; Sabian endorser and guest clinician, Frank Bellucci; Dick DiCenso, shop owner; Bob Paluccio, shop manager; and Chris Ross, New England Sales Rep. for Sabian.

spans two decades, has performed with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Woody Herman, Scott Hamilton, Zoot Syms and other artists.

Students who attended the classes received a workbook prepared by Roma to illustrate the topics he covered, which included elements of timekeeping, approaching the music, defining the time feel and phrasing.

DiCenso's Drum Shop offers several such education events for the drumming community.

"Our philosophy is simple," owner Dick DiCenso says, "we want to keep education fresh, meaningful and interesting for all our students. We'll continue to give them opportunities to learn and grow through master classes and clinics taught by a variety of talented artists."

Morrisette Widens Lead, Wollaston Bows To Braintree

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Morrisette Legion baseball team added to its Zone 6 lead and improved to 7-1 as it completed the first half of the schedule with a 14-4 victory at Milton Monday night.

Meanwhile, Wollaston dropped to 3-3 when it was blanked by Braintree, 6-0, Monday.

Morrisette will play at Randolph Friday at 6 and will play at Weymouth next Tuesday at 6.

Wollaston will host Holbrook Monday at 8:30 at Adams Field, will be at Holbrook Tuesday at 8 and will be home to Milton next Wednesday at 8:30 at Adams.

Morrisette had its best hitting night of the year at Milton, pounding 19 hits, seven for extra bases.

Gary Rowdon hit a three-run homer in a five-run first inning and Ad-Calvert had a three-run homer in the fifth. Robbie Kane had a three-run triple, Serge Belcastro a two-run triple, Liam Higgins two doubles and two RBI, Tom Balzano four hits including a double, Mark Kelleher was 3-for-4 with an RBI, Belcastro three hits and Mike Baylis, Pat Clifford, Mike Malvesti and Billy Warren a hit each.

Baylis pitched five strong innings, giving up one run, four hits and a walk and struck out three. Warren finished up, giving up one hit but three errors produced three unearned runs. Baylis is 2-0.

Last Friday Morrisette was awarded a forfeit win when Holbrook couldn't muster a full club.

Earlier Morrisette rolled over Quincy, 15-1, breaking the game open in the third inning. Morrisette had 14 hits, combining them with four walks, four errors and three hit batters.

Sean Donovan, who suffered tendonitis in his arm early in the school season and was unable to pitch for North Quincy High, returned to action and pitched four strong innings. He and Mike Patch combined for a five-hitter.

Clifford went 3-for-5 with a triple and four RBI, Kane was 2-for-3 with two RBI and three stolen bases, Kelliher was 2-for-5 with a double, Higgins had two hits, Pat Shea drove in two runs with a pinch hit double, Mike Kenny and Donovan had hits and Balzano drove in a run.

Coach Dave Perdios went to his bench early and used 15 players, several seeing their first Legion action.

"I am a little surprised at our record, as we have our youngest team in a long while with 11 players only 16 years old," said Perdios. "But everyone is contributing. We have received good pitching and have been hitting well."

Wollaston, which had a 3-1 record, dropped its last two with the team being blanked at Braintree Monday. Braintree pulled off three double plays to stop Wollaston threats.

Mark Taylor made his first pitching start and did well, but the offense was stopped. Chris Cunio, Tom Benner and Steve Loud had hits for Wollaston.

Last week Wollaston lost to Weymouth, 5-3, after taking a 3-1 lead. Weymouth scored a run in the fifth and won it with three in the sixth.

Chad McMahon pitched into the fifth and Scott Dunn relieved and was charged with the loss. Bob Fitzpatrick had a two-run homer for Wollaston and Chris Peck, Dave Gamsby and Fred Regan also had hits.

Morrisette, Wollaston Meet N.Y. Saturday

The Morrisette and Wollaston Legion baseball teams will host a touring New York City team Saturday at Adams Field.

Wollaston will play the visitors at 5 o'clock with Morrisette playing the second game at 8.

The New York team is touring New England and will also play at Braintree Friday night and at Weymouth Sunday afternoon.

Triple A Baseball

Mets Shell Dodgers, Tigers Take Pirates

The Mets, scoring seven runs in the second inning and nine in the fifth, defeated the Dodgers, 19-8, in Quincy Triple A Baseball League action.

Justin Bernier was the winning pitcher, giving up four hits, striking out five and walking four, and Jason Snaith struck out four in relief. The losing pitcher was John Parastitides. Matt Allen pitched in relief.

For the Mets Mark Belanger went 4 for 5 including a two-run triple, Steve Esdale was 3-for-3 including a triple, Justin Doty 3-for-5 with a two-run triple, Justin Bernier 4-for-5, Snaith 2-for-2, Mark Hawes 3-for-5, Jason Dunbar 3-for-5 including a triple, John Flibotte 2-for-2 with a double and Mike Mulvey two singles.

Justin Bernier, Belanger and Mulvey stood out on defense.

For the Dodgers, Charlie Doherty went 5-for-5 including a home run, Allen went 4-for-4 and Mike Russo went 3-for-4 with a home run. Chris Ricupo had two singles.

Doherty and Russo stood out defensively.

The Tigers topped the Pirates, 6-3, scoring five runs in the third inning.

Ken O'Connell was the winning pitcher, striking out 13. O'Connell also had a big day at bat with a home run, triple and double. Chris Cohen had a triple and Mike Whalen two singles. Bill Norris played strong defense at shortstop.

Paul Marnikovic pitched his second no-hitter for his third shutout as Foley Chrysler got by Quincy Police, 1-0, in Quincy Junior Baseball League action.

Marnikovic had 15 strikeouts. Foley scored the only run in the first inning on a hit by Brian Beaton, a stolen base and Marnikovic's hard hit through the shortstop.

Brandell Pinckney pitched outstanding ball for the losers, giving up only three hits.

Foley also topped Burgin Platner, 10-3, as Bob Walsh hit a two-run homer and gained his fifth pitching win. Beaton went 4-for-4 and Jim Hasson went 3-for-3.

Rotary defeated Continental Cable, 8-4, with Erik Goodrich the winning pitcher. He allowed six hits and struck out five.

Rotary scored five runs in the third inning. Billy Connolly walked, Goodrich singled, Chris Eler and Kevin Shaw walked, Mike Eddy cleared the bases with a triple and Chris Brundage singled. Mike McLaughlin had two hits.

T.J. Wilson and Brian Shields played well defensively.

Mike Travers, Kevin Walsh and Jonathan Brillo played well for Cable, Chris Regoli pitched well and Mike Powers, Chad Fitzpatrick and Steve Vericco had hits.

Keohane's won three in a row to move into second place in the National League.

Keohane's defeated VFW, 6-2, in its latest game with Dave Keddy the winning pitcher, striking out four. Keddy also had a double and two singles, Ryan Herlihy a double and Pat McGann, Chris Cummings, Shawn Manning, Pat Cummings and Danny Stock singles.

Robbie Winter and McGann turned a double play as Winter caught a fly in left and doubled up the runner at second base.

Chris Moody, Pat and Chris Cummings, Herlihy and Keddy stood out on defense and Ryan Barrett, Pat Coughlin, Ray Sartre, Ryan Deshler and Chris Carthas all played well.

Keohane's topped Burgin Platner, 11-3, with Herlihy the winner, striking out 11. He also had a homerun, double and two singles, Keddy had a homer, triple and two doubles, McGann a double and single and Chris Cummings, Manning and Deshler singles. Herlihy and Chris Cummings played strong defense.

Keohane's also walloped Continental Cable, 14-4, scoring eight runs in the second inning. McGann was the winner, striking out seven, and he also had two doubles and a single.

Manning had a double and single, Herlihy and Sartre two singles apiece and Chris Cummings, Pat Cummings, Stock and Winter a single each.

Chris Cummings, Herlihy, Stock, Sartre, Pat Cummings and McGann played well defensively and Coughlin, Moody, Carthas, Scott Howard, Barrett and Deshler played well.

Junior Farm

Dodgers Win NL Title

The Dodgers won the Junior Farm League's National League title and are playing the American League champion Tigers this week in a best-of-three series for the championship.

The Dodgers finished with the best record, 12-1.

The Dodgers squeezed by the Braves, 5-4, in a playoff game to determine the NL crown, with Paul Wise's grand slam homer in the fourth giving the Dodgers a 5-1 lead.

With two outs and the bases loaded in the top of the sixth, Omar Bhatti hit a long triple to move the Braves to within one.

He tried for an inside the park homer but was cut down at the plate on a throw from third baseman Steve Rochon to catcher Rick Loughmiller.

Chris Walsh pitched all the way and struck out 12. He also made several fine fielding plays. Ryan Piccin pitched well for the Braves.

The Dodgers had defeated the Orioles, 5-1, in their final regular season game with Brian Radell (4-0) the winning pitcher with 13 strikeouts. Frank McNamara pitched well for the Orioles.

The big hit for the Dodgers was a grand slam by Rochon. John Galligan and Sean Garvey played strong defense. Paul Burke scored the lone Oriole run and Tim Slove played well at shortstop.

The Tigers defeated the Orioles, 7-5, to clinch the American League pennant.

Scott Quinn was the winning pitcher. Brian Deshler and Matt Holt had two hits each and Jimmy Parastades, Brendon Bowes and Kris Lundenberg played well defensively.

For the Orioles Andrew Currie had a homerun and pitched well. John Gavin and Steve Suppa played well defensively.

Babe Ruth

Bryan, Golden Win

Bryan VFW Post defeated Poland Springs, 8-3, in Quincy Babe Ruth League Action as Mike Koski pitched a four-hitter.

Catcher Bill Morrissey and infielders George Wirtz and Scott Pye anchored a solid Bryan defense.

Morrissey broke the game open in the bottom of the sixth with a tremendous three-run homer. Sean Skahan and Dan Donahue had doubles and Jeff Breslin, Rich Gorman and Matt McSweeney also had hits. Rob Churchill, Jeremy Nielson, Bob Shaw and Robbie Callow played well for Bryan.

Mike Kenney had two hits, Terry Manning a double and Joe Manton a single for Poland Springs.

Golden Print improved its record to 9-4 with wins over Morrisette and Sons of Italy.

Steve Miller got the win over Morrisette, 14-8, as Tom Bianco had two hits, Dave Reinhart drove in three runs and Jamie Schatzl continued to play outstanding ball behind the plate.

John Riley, Jeff Russell, Brian Morrissey, John Chagnin and Chris Kleir contributed excellent defensive plays.

Reinhart pitched a one-hitter as Golden walloped Sons of Italy, 12-1. His ERA is now an impressive 2.29.

Craig Piniham had three hits and was outstanding at shortstop. Kleir had two hits and David Flaherty, Kevin Ross, Kleir, Bianco, Riley and Reinhart all had RBIs.

Cubs, Mets, Sox Win

The Cubs went 3-0-1 in their last four games in St. John's Little League to improve to 6-1-3.

The Cubs defeated the Dodgers, 2-1; the White Sox, 12-1; the Athletics, 4-0; and tied the Tigers, 2-2.

The offense was paced by home runs by Jeff Russo, Chris Worley, Ryan Graeber and Sean Haidul, with multiple hit games by Matt Regiannini, Ryan Casey, Adam Cully, Matthew Moriarty, Chris Todd and Robbie Mullen.

The Cubs played solid defense with John Dorgan, Jordan Virtue, Andy Booker, Russ Mullen and Moriarty standing out. Todd, Moriarty and the three winning pitchers, Russo, Regiannini and Worley all pitched well.

The Mets defeated the Indians, 5-1, with Bill Robinson the winner, pitching three innings of hitless ball. He also went 2-for-3, drove in a run and stole two bases. Mike Nutley went 2-for-2 with two RBI and Adam DiGiusto went 2-3 with an RBI.

The Mets also topped the Yankees, 6-4, with Nutley going 2-for-2 with an RBI and Frank and Laura Sweeney playing strong defense. For the Yankees, Mark McDonald was 2-for-2 and Jim Bush 2-for-3.

The Red Sox pounded the Padres, 15-1, with Bill Calhoun the winner and Chris Pollini pitching well in relief.

Mike Contrella had a double and triple and scored three runs, Steve Maze a triple, double and single and two runs scored, Chris Pollini and Jim Henwood had home runs and Kevin Ryan walked twice and scored two runs.

The Red Sox blanked the Mets, 5-0, with Bill Calhoun the winner and Pollini again pitching well in relief. Pollini had a double and scored, Maze had a double and RBI and Mike Analoski, Calhoun and Ryan all walked and scored.

The Red Sox also topped the Yankees, 7-3, with Maze the winner. Mike Contrella went 3-for-3 with three triples and scored twice, Henwood had a double and single, Ryan scored twice and Shawn Kemp made a game-saving catch.

The Mets outslugged the Yankees, 17-12, with DiGiusto the winning pitcher. Robinson went 3-for-3 including two doubles and scored four runs, DiGiusto was 2-for-2 with two triples, two RBI and four runs scored and Mark DiBlasi went 4-for-4 including a triple, drove in nine runs and scored four.

Koffman, Carter Tie At Ponkapoag

The Ponkapoag Golf Course Women's Inner Club held a nine-hole odd holes only tournament and Florence Koffman and Edna Carter tied for first place with a net of 20.

Thelma Berman and Ruth McNeil tied for third at 21 and Laura Lynch was fifth at 23.

Sue Raycroft won the clubs' 18-hole "points" tournament with 17 points. Stephanie Rizza was second with 11 and Joan Morton third with 10.

Recreation Department Announces Summer Playground Program

The Quincy Recreation Department will initiate its free summer playground program Monday, July 1. Playgrounds are staffed from 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. daily unless a supervised field trip is conducted.

Recreation Director Barry Welch announces activities will include baseball, softball, frisbee, tennis, soccer, archery, arts and crafts, music and dance activities and other organizational games. Many other special activities and field trips are included in each weekly schedule.

Specialists in arts, crafts and sports also visit playgrounds on a weekly schedule. Specialists schedule will be announced separately or participants can obtain the schedule on their local playground. Specialists will give instruction in various recreational activities.

Recreation will take play at neighborhood playgrounds beginning Monday July 1 from 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Registration for the playgrounds will take place at that location and continue throughout the playground season. Supervised playgrounds with recreational activities include:

Atlantic, Bishop, Mass. Fields, Squantum, Welcome Young, Wollaston, Beechwood Knoll, Chapel, LaBrique, Perkins, Fenno St., Forbes Hill, Fore River, Pollard, Pond St., Kincaide, O'Rourke, Shea Rink, Adams/Bradford, Faxon Park and Russell Park. The supervised play area in Germantown will be relocated to the playground at the rear of Snug Harbor Community School.

150 Attend Stice Fundraising Brunch

More than 150 adults and children turned out for a recent fundraising brunch held by School Committee Candidate Linda Stice and her husband, Kenneth Tarabelli.

The event was held in the garden of their Wollaston home. "We had perfect weather and good food," Stice said.

A fundraising committee of 20 friends organized the brunch for Stice. "They addressed the invitations, made most of the food and even cleaned up after the party," Stice pointed out. Stice says her next task is to go door-to-door around the city. "I love meeting people and hearing their views on education, so for me, going door-to-door is a lot of fun."

Maureen Mellett To Hike Grand Teton National Park

Maureen Mellett of Quincy has been selected by the Student Conservation Association (SCA) as a member of a volunteer trail crew at Grand Teton National Park, Wyoming, this summer.

The crew of eight, under the supervision of two trained SCA leaders, work on a hiking trail rerouting project in the park noted for towering mountains that rise abruptly from famed Jackson Hole. After working for three weeks, the group will spend an additional week hiking in the area.

Mellett, the daughter of Thomas and Carol Mellett, is one of more than 400 high school students taking part in SCA's high school program at national parks, national forests and other areas nationwide this year.

The students were chosen from approximately 1,600 applicants.

SCA provides volunteers with all food and group camping equipment.

CITY OF QUINCY IN COUNCIL

ORDER NO. 373
ORDERED: November 19, 1990

Chapter 9 of the Ordinances of the City of Quincy is hereby amended by striking out said chapter in its entirety and inserting in place thereof the following:

CHAPTER 9

Section 1 - License Required. It shall be unlawful for any solicitor or canvasser as defined in this ordinance to engage in such business within the City without first obtaining a license therefor in compliance with the provisions of this ordinance. The provisions of this ordinance shall not apply to any person exempted under Chapter 101 of the General Laws, or to any person duly licensed under Chapter 101 of the General Laws, or to any person exempted by an other General Law, nor shall this ordinance be construed to prevent route salesmen or other persons having established customers to whom they make periodic deliveries from calling upon such customers to solicit an order for future periodic route deliveries. The provisions of this ordinance shall also not be construed as to apply to any person engaged in the pursuit of soliciting for charitable, benevolent, fraternal, religious or political activities.

Section 2 - Definition. A solicitor or canvasser is defined as any person who, for himself, or for another person, firm or corporation travels by foot, automobile or any other type of conveyance from place to place, from house to house, or from street to street, taking or attempting to take orders for retail sale of goods, wares, merchandise, or services, including without limiting, the selling, distributing, exposing for sale or soliciting orders for magazines, books, periodicals or other articles of a commercial nature, the contracting of all home improvements, or for services to be performed in the future whether or not such individual has, carries or exposes for retail sale a sample of the subject of such sale or whether he is collecting advance payment on such retail sales.

Section 3 - Application. Applicants for a license shall file with the Chief of Police, on a form issued by the Police Department, a written application signed under the penalties of perjury, containing the following information:

- Name of applicant.
- Address of applicant (local and permanent home address).
- Applicant's height, weight, eye and hair color.
- Applicant's social security number.
- The length of time for which the right to do business is desired including the days and hours during which such solicitation is requested to occur.
- A brief description of the nature of the business and the goods to be sold.
- The name and home office address of the applicant's employer. If self-employed, it shall so state.
- A photograph of the applicant which picture shall be submitted by the applicant and be 2" x 2" showing the head and shoulders of the applicant in a clear and distinguishing manner.
- If operating a motor vehicle: the year, make, model, motor number, registration number, State of Registration, vehicle's owner and address.

At the time of filing the application, each applicant shall pay a fee of Fifty ($50.00) Dollars.

Section 4 - Investigation and Issuance.

- Upon receipt of the applicant, the Chief of Police shall investigate the applicant's reputation as to morals and integrity.
- After an investigation of the applicant's morals and integrity, but within 7 business days of the filing of the applicant, the Chief of Police shall endorse on such application his approval or disapproval. Failure of the Police Chief to act on said permit within 7 business days of the applicant's filing shall constitute approval. If disapproved, the applicant shall have the right of appeal to the City Council in writing within 7 days of the denial by the Chief of Police. The City Council must act upon the appeal at one of their next two regularly scheduled meetings. Failure to so act shall be deemed approval.

3. Such license when issued shall contain the signature of the Chief of Police and shall show the name, address, and photograph of said licensee, the date of issuance and the length of time the same shall be operative, as well as the license number. The Police Department shall keep a record of all licenses issued for a period of six (6) years. Solicitors and canvassers when engaged in the business of soliciting or canvassing are required to display an identifying badge issued by the Police Department, by wearing said badge on an outer garment. Each licensee is required to possess an individual license.

Section 5 - Duty of Police to Enforce - Transfer. The police officers of the City shall enforce this ordinance. No license shall be transferred.

Section 6 - Revocation of License. The Chief of Police is hereby vested with jurisdiction over the revoking of licenses. Any person aggrieved by such revocation may appeal to the City Council within 7 business days, and a hearing will be scheduled for one of the next two regularly scheduled meetings of the City Council.

Section 7 - Expiration of License. Each license issued under the provisions of this ordinance shall continue in force from the date of its issue until the thirty-first day of December following, unless sooner revoked.

Section 8 - Renewal of License. A license issued under the provisions of this ordinance may be renewed by the Chief of Police. An applicant requesting a renewal of a license must apply in person for such license renewal, and provide such information as is required to obtain an initial license.

Section 9 - Misrepresentation.

1. No solicitor or canvasser, licensed or exempted from license, may misrepresent, in any manner, the buyer's right to cancel as stipulated by Chapter 93, 93A and 255D of the General Laws.

2. No solicitor or canvasser, licensed or exempted from license, may use any plan, scheme or ruse which misrepresents the true status or mission of the person making the call in order to gain admission to a prospective buyer's home, office, or other establishment with the purpose of making a sale of consumer goods or services.

Section 10 - Trespassing. It shall be unlawful for any canvasser or solicitor to enter the premises of a resident or business who has displayed a "no trespassing" or "no soliciting" sign or poster. Further, it shall be unlawful for canvassers or solicitors to ignore a resident or businessperson's no solicitation directive or remain on private property after its owner has indicated that the canvasser or solicitor is not welcome.

Section 11 - Penalty. Any person violating any provision of this ordinance shall, upon conviction thereof, be punished by a fine not to exceed Fifty ($50.00) Dollars for each and every offense. Any person convicted of a second or subsequent violation, shall forthwith have his license suspended by the Chief of Police.

Hearing Continued

Neighbors Oppose Quincy Ave. Liquor Store

By STEVE KAVANAGH

A proposed liquor store, at the former bicycle shop at 58 Quincy Ave. at Berry Street, met with staunch opposition from neighbors during a hearing at Tuesday's License Board meeting.

The board voted to continue the hearing until its next meeting, Aug. 6, after Fire Chief Thomas Gorman suggested that the neighbors and package store owners meet to try and resolve their differences.

A dozen residents, mostly from Berry Street, spoke in opposition to the proposed store including Ward 2 City Councillor Ted DeCristofaro. Berry Street is a short, dead-end road with 10 houses including five two-family homes.

Licenses Board Chairman John Gillis said he would vote for the package store. Gillis said Quincy Avenue has traffic problems already and will have heavy traffic regardless.

The store would be operated by the Trifone family which owns and operates Trifone's Lire & Wedge Wine & Cheese Shop at 230 Washington St.

"We are not against the Trifone's, but are opposed to the locating of a liquor store at the top of our street," said Richard Hutchinson of 20 Berry St. "We have a quiet street with a lot of small children and we believe our street will become a parking area for the liquor store."

Nicholas Trifone III showed a sketch and plan for the parking lot which would include 16 spaces and a turnaround area.

However, Ann Palmer, of 48 Quincy Ave., questioned how cars would turn around in the parking lot when large beer delivery trucks are parked there.

Several residents spoke in favor of the proposal including Bernie Reisberg, former president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

Arnold Levine of Trifone's and said that "Empty stores hurt the city."

Frank Ferency, of 14 Berry St., "We (the neighborhood) have 100% opposition. No one speaking in favor lives here."

"These are the folks that live there and they have legitimate concerns," DeCristofaro said.

The Christ Church, 12 Quincy Ave., sent a letter of opposition to the board.

Because of the way the building is zoned, Building Inspector Matt Mulvey told residents that another retail store, including 24-hour convenience stores, could set up shop at the location.

"I'm just showing you a 'worst-case scenario'" Mulvey said. "At least with the liquor store the license board would have a measure of control."

However, Mulvey said he would likely vote against the package store if neighbors did not change their minds.
